Marking System In Newton Schools Is Modified

School Committee Gives Explanation Of New System

A meeting was held on Monday night at the hall in the Technical High School at which Superintendent of Schools Julius E. Warren explained to a gathering of about 100 members of Parent-Teacher Associations a new system of marking in the Newton public schools which is a compromise between the marking system formerly used and the no-marking plan adopted by former Supt. of Schools Lund. Following protests made by parents against the "no marking plan" a subcommittee composed of members of the School Committee, in conjunction with Supt. Warren, studied this question. Questionnaires were sent out to all the teachers in the Newton public schools asking for their views on marking and no marking. The teachers replied anonymously.

Under the new plan parents of children in the grades from the fourth through the junior high schools will receive reports four times each school year. Pupils in the lower grades will not get marks, but those in the junior high school grades will. The more desirable features of the reports as used last year are retained. Some of the new features will meet the requests made by those parents who protested against the no marking plan. The new system was explained as follows:

(1) A recognition of the principle that it is desirable that the child be conscious of the degree of improvement that he is making, or failing to make. To this end, plans will be devised which will enable each child to know his progress.

(2) The child should be conscious of the main facts of the report, before it is sent out. This might mean, that in so far as it is possible, the vocabulary of the letter reports shall be understandable to the child.

(3) A plan by which goals of achievement for each subject shall be set up on each grade level.

(4) A plan by which the relative standing of each child on standardized objective tests in the fundamentals of reading and arithmetic shall be made known to the home, as soon as it seems possible to provide funds or means of carrying out such a program.

(5) Preparation of a "vocabulary" of words and terms that will help teachers to describe and explain the rea-

Legion To Hold Installation Of Officers

Newton Post No. 48, American Legion will conduct its annual installation of officers on Thursday evening, November 8, 1934 at the Levi F. Warren Junior High School, Washington street, West Newton.

This will be the seventeenth annual installation of the local post, and a large committee headed by Commander-Elect Arthur McCarthy is endeavoring to make this year's exercises the most impressive in the history of the organization. The incoming officers will receive the oath of office from Past Department Vice-Commander Frank H. Foy of Quincy, who for the sixth successive year will visit the Newton Post with his prize winning Quincy Post Degree Team to perform the ceremonies.

The meeting will be opened at eight o'clock, by Commander Russell I. Viles, and after ceremonies by the Quincy Post Degree Team the affair will be turned over to Past Commander Frank H. Foy, who will install the officers of Newton Post. The new commander of Newton Post No. 48, is well known in the City of Newton, having attended the schools in the city, and is at the present time a member of the Newton Fire Department, being a Past President of the Newton Firemen's Relief and Welfare Association. For four years Commander-Elect McCarthy was the welfare officer of Newton Post, and his work in this capacity was of such meritorious service that he was awarded the Legion Distinguished Service Cross in 1931 and was highly commended by the State and National Departments of the American Legion. Other officers to be installed are: Charles E. Walker first vice-commander, Leon H. Mayer second vice-commander, Theodore H. Morton chaplain, Leon L. White historian, Francis A. Duggan adjutant, Arthur A. Hunt finance officer, J. Sherman Irving sergeant-at-arms, Francis Terry judge advocate, Elmer E. Ellsworth Americanization Officer, John J. Newton Man Wins $75,000 Sweeps Prize

John Holden of Nonantum, Gets Big Fortune

John J. Holden, 39, of 31 Middle st., in the Nonantum section of Newton was the winner of a $75,000 prize in the Irish Hospital sweepstakes as a result of the drawing last Wednesday morning at Dublin. Holden's ticket drew the horse Commander III last Saturday. The horse was a rank outsider, but he was good enough to finish second in the race and win a second prize for Holden. The lucky man has been a life long resident of the section in which he resides, and because of his very short stature is widely known in Newton.

He is a genial, kindly, little man, who despite the fact that he has been a victim of hard luck for years, maintained his good nature. He formerly worked for years in the Saxony Worsted Mills, but for the past five years he had been unable to obtain employment, although he endeavored persistently. He earned the reputation of being an industrious worker while at the worsted mill. He resides with his mother, Mrs. Mary Holden. The other members of the household are his brother, Thomas Holden, and the motherless twin sons of the latter, John and Gerald Holden, 5½ years old. The recipient of the lottery fortune has been devoted to his little nephews, whose mother died shortly after they were born, and he is frequently seen with them. Holden was overwhelmed by his good luck and was besieged by newspaper reporters, photographers, salesmen and others. The government will take about $19,000 of Holden's prize for taxes.

Edward Wildman, Jr., of Summer st., Newton Upper Falls, won $2000 in the Irish sweepstake lottery; Miss Mary Welsh of Elm Court, West Newton, $500; and Robert Ford Reed of Newton, $500.

Fined for Keeping Pigs, Had No Permit

Gaetano Spezzano of 97 Florence st., Newton Centre, is one of the Middlesex County farmers who was awarded a bonus recently by the A.A.A., the Federal Santa Claus for farmers. Gaetano was awarded $468 because he had not as many pigs on his premises as he had kept a year ago. Over a year ago neighbors of Spezzano's complained to the Newton Health Department that he was keeping a large number of pigs on his property without a permit. He was warned to get rid of the pigs. Recently more complaints came from Spezzano's neighbors and Inspector House of the Health Department found that Spezzano still had 18 pigs at his place, and in addition was keeping hens without a permit. He was warned to dispose of the pigs and obtain a permit to keep the hens. He did not heed the warning, so he was arraigned in the Newton court on Wednesday and fined $10 on each of the counts of keeping pigs and fowl without permits. The fines were suspended on condition that Spezzano get the permits by Nov. 7. The Health Department stated that he will not get a permit to keep pigs, but he may get one to keep hens. Notwithstanding that Spezzano had been raising pigs illegally, he had been awarded the bonus by the A.A.A. on his promise to reduce the number of pigs at his farm.

Auburndale Man Accidentally Shoots Self

Arthur F. Chamberlain, Jr., 25, of 59 Maple street, Auburndale, accidentally shot himself shortly before 11 o'clock Monday night while examining a revolver in his automobile. He had been visiting a friend on Day street, Auburndale and had just entered his automobile when the accident occurred. He struggled back into his friend's house and Dr. Henry F. Keever was called. Dr. Keever found that the bullet had passed through the fleshy part of Chamberlain's left shoulder, and ordered him taken to the Newton Hospital. It was stated at the hospital that the wound was not serious. The revolver was a 32 calibre weapon owned by Chamberlain's father. Chamberlain is employed by a firm of Boston brokers. He is a graduate of Boston University where he was prominent in athletics.

More Vandalism On Hallowe'en

The excellent record which has characterized the observance of Hallowe'en by young folks in Newton was not continued this year. Five false alarms were pulled at fire alarm boxes, a large number of street lights were broken, the firemen had to responded to seven telephone calls to extinguish fires set in leaves, a number of street and other signs were broken and carried off, and other types of vandalism on private property perpetrated. The false alarms were pulled from Boxes 56 in Waban, 6412 at Newton Highlands, 818 at Chestnut Hill, 213 in Newtonville and 314 at West Newton. If the number of complaints received by the police was a criterion of good and bad behavior on the part of youthful celebrators, the boys and girls of Nonantum deserve the most praise and Waban had the poorest record.

Melcher to Run For Alderman

James B. Melcher of Garden road will be a candidate for re-election as Ward Alderman from Ward 7. A report has been circulated in certain sections of the Ward that Mr. Melcher is to run as a candidate for Alderman-at-Large. This report is not correct.

To Inform School Pupils Of Chest Aims

In Connection With Community Campaign to Begin Soon

Julius E. Warren, Superintendent of Schools in Newton, has inaugurated a course of instruction in all grades from the kindergarten through the High School, during the week of November 12th. Information regarding the Social Agencies which the Chest supports will be distributed.

A committee of teachers is preparing units of instruction rich in suggestions for teaching the value and purpose of the various agencies. Stories, related materials, readings, songs, poems, recitations and drama will all be used. In the upper grade levels the following questions will be asked:

What is the aim of the agencies?

What are the high spots in its history?

What persons are served by the agencies?

What type of services are undertaken?

What steps must one take to secure service if in need?

What other sources of revenue have these agencies other than the Community Chest fund?

What proportion of the Chest is allocated to the respective agencies?

Suppose one cannot give money is there any way a High School student could help?

In the Junior High Schools and High Schools a Civic period has been arranged to provide for the study of the content of the Newton Community Chest. The object is not in any way to secure subscriptions by or from the students but to spread sound information about the movement both at home and throughout the country: to awaken students to their Civic responsibilities for the future.

The following committees of teachers have been appointed by Mr. Warren to outline and carry out the above program:

Mayor Weeks Favors License In Newton

Mayor Sinclair Weeks today advocated license for Newton on the ground that true temperance can best be attained by regulation of the liquor traffic and strict enforcement through the Board of License Commissioners. A no-license vote in this city, he believes, would bring a return of bootleggers and speakeasies.

The Mayor's statement was issued in response to a letter addressed to him by Mrs. Frank H. Colony of Newton Highlands. His opinion and his stand for a "yes" vote on the License question follows:

October 30, 1934.

Dear Mrs. Colony:

In response to the request contained in yours of the 29th, I am entirely willing to let you have my personal opinion as to the license situation in the City of Newton.

"In 1933, when license was voted in the city, it became my duty to appoint a Board of License Commissioners, and I named the following Commission: Mr. William T. Glidden, Jr., of West Newton, Mr. John V. Spalding of Newton Highlands, and Mr. A. Leslie Moriarty of Auburndale. Under the direction of this Commission a number of licenses in the various classes have been granted.

"Our experience with license in Newton, while not perfect, has been, as I see it, reasonably satisfactory, and the business, which without license would have gone elsewhere, has been conducted within the city limits, thus affording employment for Newton residents and rental of stores and other spaces previously vacant. Provision has also, of course, been made for the sale of beverages at the various clubs located within the city limits.

"My belief as to the desirability of continuing license in this city is based somewhat on my opinion of license generally. Under the operation of the Eighteenth Amendment, I believe it was demonstrated that the liquor traffic continued in operation through the medium of bootleggers and speakeasies, and that the situation from the standpoint of true temperance has and will continue to show improvement as a result of its repeal.

"I personally shall vote to continue license in this city because I believe that under our present Board of License Commissioners and the regulations established, we can control the beverage situation to better advantage by keeping it out in the open than we can by prohibiting its sale and consumption and endeavoring to bring about strict enforcement of such prohibition.

"You have requested permission to make public my response to your letter and I am satisfied to have you make such use of this response as you see fit. I would, however, call to your attention again, that this is merely my personal opinion, based

Incendiary Fire Endangers Many At Chestnut Hill

General Alarm Fire Causes $25,000 Damage

A fire of supposed incendiary origin caused $25,000 damage when it practically destroyed a four story apartment building at 41 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, early Wednesday morning. There were eight apartments in the building, occupied by 31 persons. The fire was discovered by Ernest Miller, janitor of the building, about 1:40 a. m. It was blazing in the basement of the building near the bottom of a dumb elevator shaft, and it rapidly spread up this shaft to the other floors. Miller rushed through the building ringing the bells and pounding on the doors of all the departments. So rapidly did the flames spread, that many of the occupants of the building had to rush to the street without having time to dress. They were given shelter in neighboring homes. Miss Mary Fleming, 65, a cripple who resided in a second floor apartment, was carried to the street by four Boston College students who were lodgers in another apartment in the building. Several small children were carried out of the blazing building.

The first alarm received for the fire was a telephone call and when the first apparatus arrived the entire rear of the building was afire and flames were shooting above the roof. Second and third alarms were quickly sounded and aid called from Brookline and Brighton. The fire departments of Wellesley, Needham, Watertown, Waltham and Belmont sent apparatus to cover Newton stations. Before the blaze started the rope which was in the elevator shaft was cut. This caused the supposition that some person may have done this to keep the elevator at the bottom of the shaft and allow free draft for the flames. Chief Randlett of the Newton Fire Department notified the State Fire Marshal and Inspector Shumway of that office has been investigating the fire.

More Candidates For Aldermen

More and more candidates for Aldermen at the city election next December continue to enter the field. Among the latest to announce their candidacies are John J. Timmons of 19A Beach st., Nonantum, for whom papers are being circulated as a candidate for Ward Alderman from Ward 1, and Paul H. Drake of 56 Pembroke st., Newton, who will run as a candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 7. Drake was a candidate for Mayor at the last city election.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

NEWTON FAILS TO SCORE THREE TIMES AND LOSES TO QUINCY

Completely outrushing Quincy High at the Dickinson Stadium last Saturday the Newton High football eleven failed to capitalize on three chances to sew up the game and went down to a 7 to 6 defeat when quarterback Victor DiGravio converted the all-important point after touchdown in a see-saw battle. Newton showed its best form of the year in piling up yardage but the crucial moments did not have the necessary punch. Chalking up twelve first downs to four for the visitors clearly showed the margin of superiority the orange and black had over the blue and white. But with Quincy stiffening its defense in the shadow of its goal and repulsing the Newton attack it brought the visiting eleven a well-deserved victory.

The Newton touchdown came in the second period shortly after the first goalline staved off a Newton score. Regaining the ball on a kick Newton marched 45 yards to score. Two plays covered most of the distance. A 22-yard pass from Savignano to Byrne and a back-lateral pass play which shook Savignano free for 18 yards bringing the ball to the 4-yard stripe. A Savignano pass to Moore produced the touchdown. Savignano's attempt to place kick failed miserably when McLeod fumbled the pass from centre.

Quincy's touchdown came after the visitors had penetrated into Newton territory on a 57-yard jaunt by Nick Malvesti, star of the Quincy backfield, to the Newton 18-yard line on the play after the kick-off opening the second half. A Malvesti pass to his end Carella was completed for the tying score. DiGravio then place kicked the winning point.

Newton was within three yards of the Quincy goal on two occasions later in the game but Quincy tightened to take the ball on downs. On one occasion Newton had one chance more with four inches to go but the line failed to produce the necessary lift.

First Period

Quincy won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. Captain Castoldi kicked off to DiGravio who ran it back from his 15 to the Quincy 32. Milner stopped Malvesti on a 3-yard gain. Franchuk made a yard. Malvesti kicked from close behind the scrimmage line, the ball going outside at the Newton 18. O'Connell made 7 yards at right tackle. Savignano kicked but Quincy was offside and the ball was brought back giving Newton a first down on the 30. O'Connell and Moore each gained 3 yards at the tackles and Savignano kicked. The ball hit Milner and was downed on the Quincy 38. Malvesti tossed a pass to left end Carella for a 16-yard gain and a first down. Moore nailed Carella as he got the pass, saving a long run. Swig stopped Malvesti at a yard. A Malvesti's pass to DeGravio was incomplete and so was another, to Kapsis, Quincy right end. Malvesti kicked over the Newton goal and the ball was put in play at the 20-yd. stripe. O'Connell and Moore gained 5 yards in two rushes and Savignano kicked. The wind held the ball back and Swig downed Franchuk, who received the punt, on the Newton 38. Wittens got through but lost his grip on Malvesti and instead of a 5-yard loss the Quincy star gained a yard. Malvesti then ran left end for 12 yards and a first down on the Newton 25. Franchuk gained 2 yards. Malvesti's long pass to Carella into the end zone was out of the Quincy end's reach. Malvesti tossed a lateral to Franchuk for a slight gain but Moore stopped the next play, a double lateral at the scrimmage line and Newton took the ball on downs on the Newton 20. Moore gained a yard. Savignano found a hole at tackle and with the prettiest run of the year on the Newton field dodged his way for 37 yards. The Newton back shook off at least a half dozen tacklers by pivoting and side-stepping but Malvesti slowed him up enough to allow other Quincy tacklers to bring him down. O'Connell and Myers gained 5 yards at the tackles in two plays. Savignano made 8 yards more for another first down. Moore carried twice for 6 yards and then Savignano slipped through behind his right tackle for a 19-yard gain and a first down on the Quincy 7-yard stripe. The Newton back was almost in the clear for a touchdown run. Quincy ganged up to stop Savignano for no gain at left tackle as the period ended.

Second Period

O'Connell failed to gain and Moore was tossed for a 2 yard loss as Newton tried to find a hole in the Quincy line. Quincy turned aside Newton's first bid to score taking the ball on downs on their 9 yard line. Malvesti tore off 18 yards and after three more plays had failed to gain ground Malvesti kicked from close behind the scrimmage line. The kick was partially blocked and Bosworth recovered for Newton near the Quincy 40-yard stripe. Bosworth on two rushes and Moore with one made a first down on the Quincy 28. Myers made 4 yards and Savignano twice carried for a two yard gain each play but Bosworth was stopped, Quincy again taking the ball on downs on their 20. Bosworth stopped Malvesti and Wilson held Olivierio to two yards. Malvesti tried to pass but Packard, Newton reserve centre, knocked the ball out of Carella's hands. Malvesti's punt went outside at the Quincy 45. Moore and Savignano ground out a yard in two attempts. Savignano tossed a pass to Bryne for a 22 yard gain. As Bryne caught the ball he was thrown by Malvesti, the ball bounding out of Byrne's grasp. The officials ruled interference and it was Newton's ball on the Quincy 22. A backward pass from DeNapoli, Newton guard, to Savignano was good for 18 yards and a first down on the Quincy 4 yard line. Bosworth cut the distance to 3 yards but neither McLeod or Savignano could gain at the tackles. Savignano then tossed a pass to Moore in the end zone for the Newton touchdown. Captain Castoldi, Newton's place kicker not being in the line-up Savignano made the attempt with McLeod holding the ball. McLeod failed to handle the pass from centre cleanly and Quincy linesmen fell on the ball to prevent the point from being made. Koffman kicked off for Newton with Franchuk being downed by DeNapoli on the Quincy 31. Lemon, Quincy reserve back, reeled off a 6 yard end run with McLeod bringing him to earth to end the half. Newton 6, Quincy 0.

Third Period

Castoldi's kickoff to Malvesti was run back from the 10 to the Quincy 24. Malvesti raced around his right end and was in the clear for a 76-yard run and a touchdown with Moore and Wittens leading the chase. DiGravio took Wittens out of the play but Moore finally caught Malesti, tossing outside at the Newton 18. It was a 57-yard run, the longest on the Newton field this year. Malvesti and Oliverio gained 2 yards in two plays. A Malvesti pass was incomplete. Malvesti then tossed a pass to Carella, almost under the goal posts. Moore strove to deflect the ball but his jump in the air was a mite too soon. DiGravio converted the point after by placekick to give Quincy a 7 to 6 lead. DiGravio kicked off to Castoldi and the Newton captain ran it back to his 36-yard line before DiGravio brought him down. Savignano picked up 4 yards and Moore 11 for a first down. O'Connell and Myers made 7 yards in two attempts before Savignano kicked to the 2-yard line. Wittens missed a clean shot at Malvesti who picked his way back to the Quincy 22. Malvesti and Oliverio gained 3 yards and Malvesti tried to get off another close kick. Almost the whole Newton line was through on the ball which bounded back to the corner of the field. The official ruling gave Newton the ball two feet from the goalline, the ball having gone outside somewhere in the vicinity. To many it looked as though it had crossed the goalline first. Had this been the ruling Newton would have had an automatic safety and two points. O'Connell gained a foot but on the next smash at the line was stopped by Oliverio for no gain. Savignano carried to within 4 inches of the goal where Carella nailed him. O'Connell tried again but his line failed to give him the lift and Quincy took the ball on down again. Malesti punted out to the Quincy 21. A Myers to Savignano pass was incomplete. DiGravio intercepted Savignano's next pass, a toss intended for Castoldi, who downed the Quincy back in his tracks on the Quincy 15-yard stripe. After two plays Malvesti kicked outside at the Quincy 32. On the next play Quincy drew an offside penalty to bring Newton 5 yards nearer the goal but two more plays failed to gain and Myers' pass to Savignano was grounded by DiGravio. Savignano's kick over the goalline gave Quincy the ball at their 20-yard mark. Swig stopped Malvesti for no gain as the period ended.

Fourth Period

Malvesti made a quick kick over McLeod's head and the Newton back was downed on the Newton 34. Newton was penalized 15 yards and the ball was back on the Newton 19. Conley was tossed for a yard loss and then he punted to midfield. Quincy was offside and the ball brought back to the 24 yard line. McLeod raced around his right end on a long jaunt which came to an end 34 yards from the line of scrimmage on the Quincy 41. Two plays gained five yards which was offset by a penalty for taking too much time in putting the ball in play. DeNapoli then tossed a backward pass to McLeod who ran 25 yards for a first down on the Quincy 16. Conley hit the line for 2 yards. A McLeod to Reardon pass was incomplete. McLeod again tried to pass after the back-lateral play from DeNapoli but was smothered before he could get the ball away and Quincy took the ball on downs on their 20-yard line. On the next play Newton drew a 5 yard penalty. Malvesti made a 10-yard gain but fumbled and McLean, Newton reserve end, recovered on the Quincy 36. McLeod, Moore and Treannie gained three yards in three plays and an incomplete Myers to Castoldi pass gave Quincy the ball on their 33. Malvesti's kick from close behind the scrimmage line sailed over Moore's head to the Newton 1-yard line. Moore delayed picking up the ball, thinking it would roll across the line for a touchback. Kapsis nailed the Newton back on the 1-yard line. Savignano kicked out to the Newton 40 where Castoldi downed Malvesti. On third down another close kick was partially blocked going outside at the Newton 29. Savignano and Moore reeled off a first down to the Newton 40. Savignano made 7 yards and a Myers to Moore pass was good for 8 more yards to the Quincy 45. Oliverio knocked down Myers next toss but another from Myers to Moore was good for 5 yards. Myers then tossed a long pass to Castoldi who set out for the goalline but was forced outside by Malvesti three yards from the last white line. Moore hit the line twice but gained but a yard on the final play of the game. Quincy 7, Newton 6.

LEAGUE TITLE AT STAKE AS NEWTON MEETS RINDGE TECH

When Rindge Tech meets Newton High on the football gridiron at the Dickinson Stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock the 1934 Suburban league title will be at stake. With the exception of this game and the Newton-Brookline clash on Thanksgiving Day all league games have been completed. During the past few years with but four teams holding membership in this historic circuit which once was the strongest in eastern Massachusetts and with traditional non-league rivals to meet during the season the league schedule has naturally become irregular. Thus Cambridge Latin completed its three league games last Saturday against Brookline having previously met Newton in the second game of the season and Rindge Tech on Columbus Day morning. Ridge Tech winds up its league season again at Newton tomorrow having met Brookline two weeks ago. Newton having played but one league game, that with the Cantabs, finds itself facing two league rivals in November clashes.

Rindge Tech, with one of its strongest teams in years, vanquished its city rivals, Cambridge Latin, to the tune of 19 to 0 and followed this with a 31 to 0 whitewashing of the Brookline eleven. These two victories place Rindge in the lead both from the point of view of victories and also from the point of view of total points scored. Newton is in second place in the present league standing with its 19 to 6 victory over Cambridge Latin while the Cantabs and Brookline are tied for last place. Last Saturday these two elevens met and wound up in a 7 to 7 when a fourth period forward passing attack brought the Wealthy Towners the tying touchdown.

In tomorrow's meeting at Newtonville a Rindge victory will give the Metivier-coached outfit its first Suburban league title in some years. A Newton victory will put Newton in the lead with the final outcome of the race undecided until the Newton-Brookline game on Thanksgiving Day. A tie game between Newton and Rindge would make the final standing a tie provided Newton should be victorious over Brookline in the final game of the season. In other words, Newton has everything to lose while Rindge has everything to gain and little to lose by the outcome of tomorrow's affair. Incidentally, Newton is striving for its third consecutive Suburban league title, having won the honors in 1932 and 1933.

On the basis of its showing in its six games this season Newton is a slight underdog against Rindge. Although the Rindge eleven has but three victories and two defeats it has shown a potent scoring machine. The two defeats were suffered at the hands of such strong outfits as Haverhill and Waltham. In its three victories the Cambridge eleven has chalked up 84 points, allowing its opponents but 18 tallies. In sharp contrast Newton has been defeated by Quincy, Everett and Arlington, was held to a tie by Lynn English and was fortunate to pull out a 13-12 win over Brockton. Its 19 to 6 victory over Cambridge Latin was its one decisive victory. In six games Newton has totalled 49 points to its opponents' 64. Throughout the year the Newton eleven has repeatedly had scoring chances but failed to make the most of them.

Despite the fact that Newton is the underdog in tomorrow's game the margin is but slight and it should be a stubborn battle. From the spectator's point of view it should be well worth witnessing and a renewal of confidence upon the part of the Newton eleven will bring a deserved victory. There is considerable potential power in Coach Sanborn's orange and black outfit. While it has been rather late in showing itself consistently tomorrow may be the day.

BACON—His Background

Gaspar G. Bacon comes from pioneer stock — seafarers and pioneers of Cape Cod. Nathaniel Bacon, his first immigrant ancestor, came to America in 1635 and helped to establish the town of Barnstable. For five generations the Bacon family lived there. Some were farmers, some were in the tanning trade, and some went to sea. Many Bacons have been active in public service, as selectmen, judges, legislators, a Governor, a Secretary of State, a Congressman, and an Ambassador to France. His father, Robert Bacon, was chosen by President Theodore Roosevelt as his Secretary of State.

All the Bacons have been sincere, courageous, independent and industrious. What is more natural than the advancement of Gaspar Griswold Bacon in the field of public service, a field in which he has a record of accomplishment in the past 10 years.

HON. FREDERIC W. COOK
Secretary of State and Republican Nominee for Re-election

THINK IT OVER—VOTERS !

You have been importuned to believe that you should elect Democratic candidates as an endorsement of national policies. Do you believe that Massachusetts will be discriminated against if Republican officials are elected? It is preposterous! As one of the leading States of the Nation the Federal government must recognize Massachusetts regardless of the occupant of the Governor's office.

Do you want conditions that now exist in the City of Boston to spread throughout the State? Conditions for which no one man bears greater responsibility than the Democratic candidate for Governor? A high tax rate, a huge debt, unsavory rumors of dishonest practices, disclosures like that of the Mohawk Packing Co., and other indications of benefit for a favored few? Mayor Curley could not carry out his plan to absorb suburbs of Boston into a larger Boston. As Governor, with a Democratic Legislature he could accomplish it.

The Only Issue Is
The Protection of the State

The Republican candidates are worthy of your confidence. They have a record of years of public service that bears scrutiny. They are alive to the problems of the day. They will strive to solve these problems for your benefit and not for their own gain.

Throughout the history of the State, traditional policies have been maintained by Republican office holders to place Massachusetts among the leading States in the Nation. Massachusetts is sound financialy. Its credit is good. Would you change it all for glittering promises that can never be fulfilled?

Election campaigns are drawing to a close. The next few days will see the culmination of one of the most stirring political battles in the history of Massachusetts. There is greater interest in the election this year than ever before. An interest centered in the contest for the office of Governor. It is a contest that defies critical analysis or accurate forecast. It is a contest replete with complications that may well be a determining factor in the result.

The Contest for Governor

Since the primaries the gubernatorial contest has developed into a close battle between Lieut. Gov. Gaspar G. Bacon and former Mayor James M. Curley. Nearly everyone appreciates the fact that a vote for any other candidate in this contest is wasted. In reality it would probably be a vote for Curley and this is one of the factors that may mean victory or defeat for either of the two leading candidates. How many votes the remainder of the field will poll is a question no one can answer with any degree of accuracy. In our opinion the total vote for the candidates for Governor, other than those cast for Bacon and Curley, will be the smallest in many years. The issue has become clear in the minds of the people. They have been aroused as indicated by the widespread interest in the Bacon-Curley contest. In the September primaries Curley's overwhelming victory gave him a psychological advantage. It seems to be the common opinion that Curley would have won in a walk if the election had been held a few weeks ago. But a great deal has happened in the past few weeks.

While ex-Mayor Curley has been proclaiming to the voters of Massachusetts that his election is necessary as endorsement of the "New Deal" the Republican forces have been impressing upon the voters the necessity of keeping the former Mayor of Boston out of the State House in order to protect the government of the State. The entire Democratic campaign has been waged upon a psychological basis. The psychology of endorsement of national policies, the psychology of victory carried over from the primary, the psychology of a claim of a million Curley votes, and the psychology of the powers of smooth-tongued oratory. Yet there is not a single point in that psychology that is not possible to prove unsound by logic based upon past performances.

In the primaries seventy per cent of the Democratic votes were cast as against a little less than forty per cent of the Republican vote. This factor gave Mr. Curley a temporary advantage. However, one must stop to realize that the Democratic nominee must receive about three times his September vote in order to be victorious. It is true that Lieut. Gov. Bacon must receive several times the vote he obtained at the primaries but it also must be taken into consideration that there is a far greater potential vote in reserve for the Republican candidate than there is for the Democratic candidate. Here is the place where the question of the endorsement of the "New Deal" comes into the picture.

Despite the insistent claims of Mr. Curley it has been pretty well indicated that the endorsement of President Roosevelt is not the vital issue of the present campaign. If it were it is only logical to assume that Mr. Curley's contention would be supported by many prominent Democrats who have come out in support of Mr. Bacon. Party lines have been broken down as never before in Massachusetts politics. And we say this with full realization of the growing tendency, within the past decade, of the refusal of voters to vote the straight ticket. An important factor in the present campaign is the extent to which Republican voters have been misled into believing that they must vote for Mr. Curley to indicate their support of the President. Without question it was the vote of many Republicans which gave President Roosevelt a plurality in Massachusetts in 1932.

During recent weeks, however, the Republican ticket has clearly demonstrated that there is more to the question than an endorsement of the President. The fundamental question is that of protection of the government of the State. Do the voters want the kind of government that has characterized the City of Boston transferred to the State House? Do the voters want the possibility of the creation of a Greater Boston with the suburbs of the Hub under control of the Mayor of Boston? As Mayor is was not possible for Mr. Curley to carry out this plan which he attempted in 1931. But as Governor of the State and with a Democratic Legislature it could be accomplished. Do the voters want a high tax rate, such as exists in Boston and for which no one man bears greater responsibility than the former Mayor? Do the voters want to put the State in the hands of those who place their own gain above the best interests of the majority? Do the voters want to make it possible to bring about such situations as have been disclosed in the Mohawk Packing Co. case and other indications of unsavory conditions? We do not believe that they do. We believe that the voters want a government such as Lieut. Gov. Bacon typifies. A government by honest men with an honest purpose. A government based upon sound policies, and a government striving to make progress in the interests of all. Massachusetts needs Bacon—it does not want Curley. That fact will be indicated at the polls next Tuesday. And it is the duty of every right-minded citizen to cast his vote—and to see that others do the same.

Other State Offices

We cannot urge too strongly the election of such men as the Hon. John W. Haigis, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, the re-election of Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, the re-election of Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Warner and the other Republican candidates on the State Ticket. It is impossible to discuss each individual candidacy but we do want to add a word as endorsement of Robert M. Washburn, Republican candidate for the United States Senate. Mr. Washburn may not defeat Senator Walsh but he deserves the support of every Republican who believes that the United States Congress should consider its solemn duty to protect the Constitution of the United States. During the past two years progress toward recovery has been handicapped by uncertainty. The uncertainty impelled by fear of the loss of rights guaranteed by the document upon which the Nation was founded. Recovery has been aided, there is no doubt, to some extent by national policies. But it is now time that Congress should swing to the right.

Re-Elect Congressman Luce

The ninth Congressional District has in Robert Luce a Congressman who is of national reputation. He is one of the ranking minority members of the House of Representatives. He is able and wields a great deal of influence among his colleagues. It has been stated by an unbiased author that he is one of the three outstanding members of Congress. His opponent is running upon a platform of "support the President". As Congressman Luce has pointed out in various rallies this position might prove embarrassing as the Congressman might well have to vote against the interests of his constituents. Congressman Luce does his own thinking, votes against the administration if he feels it in the best interests of his district and the State and votes with the administration on occasions when members of the President's own party do not.

The Governor's Council

Frank W. Brooks, former Chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Parole, and a keen student of criminology and penology, is the Republican candidate for the Governor's Council from the third district. He is opposed by a Brookline resident, William J. Coughlan, who is without experience as a public official. We are proud of a friendship with Mr. Brooks, a friendship which goes beyond the realm of political views. Mr. Brooks deserves the vote of every Republican voter in the district and there is every indication that he will get a substantial vote from members of the opposite party. Mr. Brooks will represent the district conscientiously, ably and courageously.

County Officers

Middlesex County is a Republican county. To administer its affairs as the majority of its residents want them administered it is of importance to elect the Republican candidates. District Attorney Warren L. Bishop and every Republican candidate down the ballot to Joseph L. McElroy, Republican candidate for Sheriff of Middlesex County has our unqualified endorsement and support.

Referenda

We reiterate our views of a previous editorial on the referenda to be voted upon at the State election. Although it is not clear as to the effect of the vote, whether it be "yes" or "no" on the anti-steel trap question we believe that a "no" vote should prevail. In this way, and in this way only, can we protect our fur-bearing animals from cruelty and unwarranted destruction. A "yes" vote will transfer control of the situation to each city or town. The matter being of state-wide importance we believe the change undesirable. Should a "no" vote eventually mean a repeal of the anti-steel trap laws it would be a far easier matter to enact new laws than it would be to change the local option provision which would otherwise be in effect.

As to liquor licenses in Newton we do not agree with the views of Mayor Weeks and others that license will mean control of the liquor situation in Newton. It is rather a sad commentary upon the abilities of our law enforcement officers if they cannot enforce local restrictions. We make this statement in full recognition that under state and nation-wide prohibition such enforcement is a far more difficult and practically impossible task. As we see it "no-license" will go a long way toward preventing abuse of liquors and confine it to private usage and not to public consumption.

We do not hesitate to re-iterate our stand upon legalized pari-mutuel betting. Regardless of the fact that Massachusetts is now losing some revenue going to neighboring states it is our belief that "two wrongs never made a right" and that fundamentally it is an undesirable way to raise revenue by fostering the human instinct to gamble.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edward H. Powers

Don't forget to cast a vote for Frank M. Brooks, Republican candidate for Governor's Council. This is an important office and now more than ever men of experience and character are needed in the executive council.

We agree thoroughly with the views expressed by Mayor Weeks on the matter of granting liquor licenses in Newton. It is true that the number of arrests for drunkenness in Newton increased largely last year. This condition also obtained throughout Massachusetts and the country in general. With the repeal of prohibition it was inevitable. We have been informed, however, by James P. Gallagher, clerk of the Newton district court, that the increase in drunkenness was mostly in the few months following the repeal of the 18th Amendment, and that in later months of this year, the number of arrests for drunkenness has appreciably decreased.

The writer is temperate, but not a total abstainer. We believe we know more persons in Newton who have been arrested for drunkenness than do the well intentioned men and women who advocate no license in this city. We know what these unfortunates do to satisfy their thirst for liquor. We have opportunities to observe how the sale of liquor has been conducted in Newton during the past year. We have been told by acquaintances how the sale of liquor has been conducted and is being conducted in some nearby cities. We know that conditions in Newton are far superior. If Newton should vote "No" on the license question, what will happen? Residents of Newton who have been patronizing licensed dispensers of beer and ale in this city will travel to adjoining cities where they will drink alcoholic beverages in surroundings less desirable than those in Newton restaurants. Or they will drink alcohol or bootleg booze of higher alcoholic content than ale, and more drunkenness will result. Comparatively little drunkenness has been caused by beer or ale drinking. It is alcohol and the alleged whisky now sold that cause most of the drunkenness. We voted "Yes" on the matter of legalizing the sale of wine and beer in Newton last year and intend to so vote again this year.

We commend Mayor Weeks for the moral courage he shows in stating his position on the matter of granting liquor licenses in Newton. Some practical politicians would have "pussy footed" on this matter, and thus avoided giving offence to persons who differ on this question, and who are not broad enough to be fair with a person who does not agree with them.

Do you want this country to become embroiled in the rotten European mess? Do you want to have the youth of this country sacrificed in European wars which seem imminent? Do you want the people of the United States further burdened with billions of dollars which would result from participation in the centuries old hatreds and machinations of European countries? If you do, vote in favor of this country joining the League of Nations.

The writer was with the A. E. F. at the time of the Armistice in 1918. He had first hand knowledge of the ingratitude of our so called allies, of their grovelling to this nation when its help was needed to win the war, and their contempt for us when the war was won. We all know how our "allies" have welched on the payment of the billions loaned to them by the people of this country. We have troubles enough of our own. Vote against the League of Nations referendum.

Fate, which had been unkind to John Holden of Middle st., surely was lavish to him last Wednesday, when he won $75,000 on the Irish lottery. We hope that John will put his newly acquired wealth in a trust fund, where it will be safe from the wiles of high pressure salesmen who will try to extract it from him, and from fair weather friends who would be all too willing to help him spend it. Holden has been an honest, law-abiding man, was willing to work when he could obtain emlpoyment, and all who know him are glad of his good luck.

It wasn't the fault of whoever pulled a false alarm at the Box 171, corner of Boyd and Jewett sts., Newton, at 1.36 Wednesday morning that several persons were not burned to death. Several pieces of fire apparatus answered this false alarm when they were badly needed a few minutes later at the apartment house fire in Chestnut Hill.

License Fosters Respect For Law

UNDER prohibition, respect for Law reached a low ebb in Newton and bootleggers plied their illicit trade throughout the land. "Speakeasies" spotted the map of every state. Since then regulation and control of Liquor Licenses has to some extent changed all that and now, under the Alcoholic Beverage Commission of the State and the Newton License Board in this community, there has been created in less than a year respect for the law that has not existed in the last decade. There is much more improvement to be made but it cannot be done in "No-License Communities" where regulation is removed.

Help to Stamp Out Bootleggers and Speakeasies

AT the same time you will be continuing employment for 160 men and women which license in Newton has made possible; you will help real estate owners who have rented 41 pieces of vacant property at rental amounting to nearly $50,000 a year; you will be helping to keep trade in Newton and you will help to keep taxes down since license fees amounting to $43,261 have been paid to the City of Newton since the organization of the License Board by Mayor Sinclair Weeks.

Politics With Color

A Bi-Weekly Series of Political Articles of Local Interest Written Exclusively for the Graphic by P. W. C.

Review of thee Campaign and Forecast of the Election

In the words of Dick Grant, the Walter Winchell of Massachusetts politics in this hectic campaign, I shall "call my shots as I see them." Grant, whom the Transcript relieved from his duties some months ago, after the Boston city campaign had been concluded, has now gone berserk, as they say on the street, and has publicly crucified, via the radio, some of Boston's and Newton's most respected citizens. This list includes Leverett Saltonstall (for no good reason that anyone with intelligence can see), Senator Henry Parkman, Henry L. Shattuck, Treasurer of Harvard University, Philip Stockton, President of the First National Bank, Alexander Whiteside, and various prominent candidates for State-wide office. He has endeavored to hang politically a long list of distinguished men, but the only noose he has tied successfully has been around his own neck. So much for Grant. Mud is mud, whether it be in South Boston or the Back Bay.

What will happen on Tuesday, November 6? Will the voters elect Gaspar G. Bacon or James Michael Curley? Until a week ago it would have been Curley without any question. Then the tide turned. It is always hard to tell what causes the psychological break in a heated political campaign, but it would seem that this one came about the time that young precocious Jimmy Roosevelt, who labors under the delusion that he controls Massachusetts politics, announced loudly at Springfield that the national administration needed and wanted Curley as well as Walsh. Since that time the Curley tide has been steadily ebbing and the Bacon current has been running strongly. Whether Bacon's substantial gains and Curley's equally substantial losses have completely closed the gap between the two, remains to be seen, but as Bacon stated Wednesday night in Newtonville, the betting odds have apparently shifted, with the G. O. P. candidate on the long end of a 10 to 8 bet. Why has this happened?

In the first place, Curley has been hammered so relentlessly on State issues and on his own public record (as he should be), that he has been forced for the moment to step down from his artificial New Deal platform and to make answer to Bacon. He has not answered Bacon's specific charges, and I ask you to note that fact, but he has adduced certain testimony of a general character which bolsters up his waning candidacy. Also he has very cleverly thrown up a smoke screen by citing certain G. O. P. misdemeanors of a national character, such as the Teapot Dome fiasco.

By the way, a close friend and associate of Governor Ely informed me the other day of a highly satisfactory answer to Curley's charge that Bacon was on the Morgan "preferred list." This man saw an item in a Boston newspaper about a fortnight ago, relative to a delightful visit which Mr. J. P. Morgan, the head of the much maligned house of Morgan, made at the White House as the guest of President Roosevelt, who desired to discuss affairs of state with him. Under these circumstances, it seems to me that there is nothing essentially wicked about Gaspar Bacon's rather indirect connection with the Morgan firm.

Other reasons for Curley's declining candidacy are the numerous desertions of prominent Democrats and the practical bolting of his candidacy by Governor Ely, General Cole, and other bigwigs in his own party. Somehow, I do not seem to recall that our own Joseph W. Bartlett's voice has been lifted even to a whisper in behalf of James Michael Curley. With reference to the Democratic bolters, it is interesting to know that Professor Taussig of Harvard declared that the former Mayor "represents the worst side of political life . . . I hope he will be repudiated. He is trying to get in on a wave of approval for the national administration." The Boston Transcript, in listing ten prominent Harvard professors who were bolting Curley, said: "From the broad and tolerant Americanism of Bliss Perry, concerned chiefly with human values in literature, to the incisive mind of Zechariah Chafee, always ready to tilt a legal lance for justice, whether to rich man or poor man, Puritan or immigrant, this group of signers represents that type of leadership which thinks only as truth guides, and then votes as it thinks."

With reference to Governor Ely's continued silence, it is difficult to tell whether this is due primarily to appeals made to his loyalty to the Democratic party, or whether it is due to the fact that his significant silence is practically as helpful to Bacon's cause as an open declaration for him might be. Furthermore, we must not forget that a public declaration for Bacon by the Governor would so arouse the Curley camp that the benefit to Bacon might well be offset, especially if Curley posed as a martyr. As a staunch Bacon supporter, I am entirely satisfied to let matters stand as they are, and I rather hope that the Governor will say nothing until after the election.

Another argument against Curley which has come to the fore in recent days was stressed by Senator Arthur W. Hollis at the Newtonville rally. This deals with a bill which Curley filed in January, 1931 in the Legislature for the formation of a municipal corporation to be known as Greater Boston. Fliers have been distributed throughout the Metropolitan district for the purpose of awakening the voters to the menace of such a possibility, with the significant words: "Don't let Tammany trick you!" This is always a sure-fire argument in places like Newton, Brookline, Milton, etc., where the standards of municipal government are miles higher than in Boston.

After all, however, the main issue is just what the Worcester Gazette said it was, last Monday. It is the fundamental question of capacity and integrity in the handling of the public business. That is all. Unfortunately, however, thousands and thousands of votes will be cast next Tuesday on the basis of emotion, prejudice, and support of the New Deal. Without question, thousands of Republicans are going to vote for Curley in the same general spirit that thousands of thousands throughout the country voted for Roosevelt as against Hoover in 1932. They seem to want a change, and God knows they will get it if they go as far as to elect James Michael Curley Governor of Massachusetts. On the other hand, we have thousands of lifelong Democrats who are obviously going to place the welfare of the State, its financial credit, and its reputation throughout the land, above party considerations. In view of the relatively equal enrollment in the two major parties, it is obvious, therefore, that the great mass of independent voters will decide between Bacon and Curley. I see no reason for believing that this group will fail Massachusetts in the present emergency.

Coming now to the Congressional situation, we find that Congressman Robert Luce has been steadily gaining ground, as he has driven home, night after night, his arguments with reference to rubber stamps and the preservation of liberty. To be sure, Mayor Russell created a laugh when he stated that Mr. Luce would become a cancelled stamp after election, but it is difficult to secure election to Congress on the basis of a wisecrack. Luce's courage, independence, marked ability, and long experience are going to stand him in good stead, and the Ninth District is going to think twice before it repudiates one of its finest public servants, and a man who will be practically the ranking minority member when the next Congress convenes.

The Senatorial contest has been most unusual. Senator Walsh has steered clear of ex-Mayor Curley, whenever possible, and has run his own campaign, as usual. He is very definitely slipping, regardless of whether he wins a substantial victory or not. Washburn has very wisely confined himself to a radio campaign, and has made relatively few appearances on the platform. The trouble with his personal appearances has been that he has staged such a good show that many voters have refused to take him seriously. Readers of the Boston Post may wonder why a cartoon appeared on the front page last Wednesday, entitled "Man Overboard." This pictured Washburn being thrown off a ship by Messrs. Bacon, Richardson and Tarbell. As usual, the Post was so anxiously striving for effect, that it overlooked the facts in the case, for it was only last week that I quoted a letter from Bacon offering unqualified support to Mr. Washburn. As I see it, the excuse for the cartoon was the movement which was started in behalf of Bacon a week ago, which endeavored to persuade Democrats to vote for Bacon and Walsh. This would greatly strengthen Bacon and at the same time enable Democrats to salve their conscience. It was about on a par with a movement started by the opposition to form an alliance between Curley and Haigis. How much progress either movement will make is problematical, but the point is that both movements are harmful to Robert M. Washburn. I still feel, however, that he will cause Walsh infinitely more trouble than William M. Butler and B. Loring Young did.

Space will not permit any discussion of the contest for other offices. The present outlook is that Acting Sheriff Joseph M. McElroy will defeat Ralph W. Robart, the Democratic Republican candidate, by a substantial margin. Victor F. Jewett of Lowell should have an easy time with his Democratic and Socialistic opponents, and Frank A. Brooks, former Chairman of the State Board of Parole for seventeen years, should very properly make William J. Coughlan look like a very thin Canadian dime. No one knows the latter better than the reputable leaders of his own party, and if they cannot stomach him, I see no reason why the Republicans should. State Senator Hollis will, of course, be returned over his Democratic opponent, William L. Dalton, of Marlboro, who went sound asleep and found it necessary at the last minute to run on stickers in order to get on the ballot. Hollis will win in a walk.

In closing, may I urge the importance of voting from top to bottom on the ballot. In 1932, 44,987 voters failed to register their choice for Governor, and 110,805 declined to vote for Attorney General. Even in our own Ninth Congressional District, 6,006 failed to vote for either Congressman Luce or his opponent, and of this number, 1,603 were Newton voters. In this very critical election, it is of vital importance that every Republican go to the polls, vote for Gaspar G. Bacon for Governor above all, but follow through and vote the Republican ticket 100 per cent.

McElroy Discredited Robart Will Win

Newton Voters Strong For Robart

58,000 Republicans indicated by their vote in the primary that they were desirous of a change in the administration of the Sheriff's office. As the present campaign progresses there is every indication that Ralph Robart has successfully contradicted the representations of Mr. McElroy that he has given his life to penology and criminology. The facts are that Mr. Robart procured the position of prison guard for Mr. McElroy seven years ago. Mr. Frederick Peabody, Chief Deputy Sheriff of Middlesex County, and a friend of Ralph Robart recommended Mr. McElroy for keeper of the House of Correction. Mr. McElroy later was appointed Special Sheriff and Mr. Peabody was demoted.

It is indicated by a series of events that Mr. McElroy thinks only of himself and therefore is not the proper man to be administrator of a responsible position. Mr. Robart, on the contrary has demonstrated in many public and civic capacities that he is fitted by training, experience, qualification and fairness to administer the office of Sheriff, to which he will be elected on November 6th, efficiently and fairly.

Grades III and IV — Miss Wilson. sons for unsatisfactory work, and to relate achievement to capacity to achieve.

(6) Provisions for enabling teachers to determine more objectively the extent to which a pupil is using his capacities.

(7) Modification of the plan of reporting pupil difficulties, so that it may be less time consuming and more positive in operation. It is possible that a special printed form letter should be devised for advising the home at any time that a child is failing to make proper school adjustment in any subject-matter field. Such a form letter should include a space for individual comment by the teachers, and should always aim to bring about a conference between the home and the school.

(8) A presentation of the best plans devised last year by teachers for keeping their own class records. Each teacher will, thereby, have the best practice available.

(9) The provisions for at least four home reporting dates for all children from Grades IV and above, in place of the present two dates. The dates for these reporting periods should come sometime in November, January, April, and June.

(10) The provision for definite ratings in subject-matter and effort for junior high school pupils.

(11) Continued emphasis upon the "whole" child.

The January and June progress reports used last year will continue this year in the grades from kindergarten through Grade 3.

A report which is a modification of the letter progress report sent out last year will be used in Grades 4, 5 and 6. Parts of this report will consist of printed statements to be completed by the teacher. This portion of the report will deal with subject-matter achievement, work habits, and social attitudes. The remainder of the report will consist of written comments by the teacher concerning all other aspects of the child. There will be a slight variation in the form used for each period. This report will be sent to the home of each child in November, January, March and June. The November report will be limited largely to the information contained in the printed report form.

The report to be sent home in January will contain information concerning the subject-matter progress of the child in the printed portion of the report. At this time greater emphasis will be placed, however, upon the other phases of the individual, the teacher providing that kind of information which was furnished by the letter reports of last year.

The March report will be practically the same as the November report. The June report will contain a statement of the academic progress of the pupil and his or her placement for the next year.

Three changes will affect the progress reports on the Junior High School level. The first is the increasing of the number of reporting periods from twice yearly to four times yearly. The second is the elimination of a composite letter report written by the home-room teacher and the substitution of a collection of individual comments of subject teachers clipped together. The third is the addition of ratings for the subject-matter achievement and effort.

In place of the composite letter, which was made up from the subject teacher's comments there will be sent into the home of each Junior High School child a report which will consist of a collection of comments and ratings. There will be one sheet for each subject, containing ratings in subject-matter and effort, and such written comments as the subject teacher feels are necessary. These comments will either explain the rating in achievement and effort or give information concerning other phases of the child.

It is obvious that comments will increase in number and nature as the year progresses, since the teachers will gradually know more and more about their pupils. In June, the report will merely state the accomplishment for the year in subject-matter and the placement of the pupil for the next year. There may also be recommendations for summer study.

The ratings in subject-matter will consist of four: "Outstanding," indicating achievement above the grade standing; "Average," indicating achievement at or near the grade standard; "Poor," indicating achievement below the grade standard. A fourth rating, "Acceptable," will be given. This will indicate achievement which may be less than the grade standard, but satisfactory for the individual. Paralleling these achievement ratings there will be three ratings in effort ":Outstanding," "Average," and "Poor."

In order to make the reporting of pupil difficulties more positive, a slightly different procedure will be instituted this year. Parents will be advised through the use of a printed form whenever any difficulty or lack of adjustment to school exists. The form used will have room for comments if they are necessary and also make provision for the arrangement of a conference with the parent if it is needed.

Guzzi Gaining For Alderman

Alfred R. Guzzi of 8 Mague place, West Newton, is constantly gaining support in his quest for election as Ward Alderman from Ward 3. Although he has been defeated a few times in attempts to be elected as an Alderman, Guzzi did not become discouraged. Neither did he lose interest in civic affairs. Instead, he redoubled his efforts to obtain improvements for his district. The result is —that many Ward 3 residents who heretofore did not support Guzzi, are going to vote for him this year. They realize that he has been instrumental in promoting the welfare of West Newton, that he is well qualified to represent the Ward, and that his persistency gets things done. Among the improvements for which Guzzi worked during the past year, and which have been accomplished are—the placing of seats at the little park at Washington and Putnam sts.; the installing of a drinking fountain there; grading a nd improving of the old city hall site as a park; laying of a drain in the yard of the Franklin School, thus eliminating the presence of pools of water there. Guzzi has attended meetings of the Board of Aldermen for years and is quite familiar with the proceedings of that body.

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

The boys and girls of Nonantum deserve praise for their good conduct on Hallowe'en. Those boys and girls of Waban who caused a number of complaints to be received by the police from that section deserve the reverse of praise.

Rev. William J. Dwyer, pastor of St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, who died yesterday, following an illness of three years, was a humble, sincere Christian gentleman. For a long time he knew that he was walking in the valley of the shadow of death, but he continued his priestly duties zealously and with a calm courage.

It would be more in accord with the fitness of things if residents of certain wards in Newton would allow residents of other wards select their own candidates for Aldermen. And this applies to some residents of Ward 7 who have been choosing prospective Aldermen for Ward 1.

In a Boston newspaper on Tuesday was the information that two former bank officials had been sentenced to serve one year in a Massachusetts jail for "misapplying" $131,000 on a straw note. They had been tried before a Federal judge. They will be eligible for parole after four months. The two were heads of two closed banks. The closing of these banks caused severe hardships to many who had their savings deposited in them.

In the adjoining column of this Boston newspaper on Tuesday was an item telling that another Federal judge had sentenced a man to serve 5 years in a Federal penitentiary for forging four postal money orders to the amount of $100. Thus do the scales of justice tilt—in favor of those who are dishonest on a big scale. And conservative folks wonder why there is a rapid trend towards radicalism.

It is amusing to read the fervent pleas of those who want the steel trap law abolished on the allegations that they are concerned over the destruction of song birds by animals which these "tender hearted" sportsmen designate as "vermin". These men claim that the birds are being decimated by foxes, mink, skunks and other animals which they claim are on the increase because of the prohibition of steel traps. To refute such contentions is the statement issued by Judge Robert Walcott and Winthrop Packard, president and secretary of the Massachusetts Audubon Society. They say that Commissioner of Conservation York did not consult them before allowing the use of steel traps in State Forests. They also say that for over 20 years no traps have been allowed in the sanctuary of the Audubon Society at Sharon and bird life has constantly increased there, and they contend that trapping will be a harm rather than a help to song bird life.

The sportsmen who want steel traps allowed, so that animals will be killed, don't want the animals to catch pheasants and other game birds. They want to kill these birds themselves.

Whether it is a sunny day or a stormy day next Tuesday, do your duty, go to the polls and vote. If you don't want to walk, or if the weather is bad, transportation will be provided free.

Most of the victims of automobiles who are killed each week in Massachusetts, 28 three weeks ago, 27 two weeks ago, 25 last week, were not killed by drunken drivers. They were murdered by those dastards who speed automobiles on our highways, who drive recklessly in their sober senses, because they have no consideration for the lives and safety of their fellow men. Because the State police are not patrolling our highways to the same degree that this force did in its earlier years, when the number of State Police was much smaller. Because police forces in cities are not being used primarily to preserve human life by apprehending and arresting speeders, reckless drivers and violators of other automobile laws. Because the police have been discouraged in this activity by pernicious influence of one kind or another to fix cases of those who were apprehended or arrested for violations of automobile laws. Because law enforcement officers, including some district attorneys and judges do not prosecute and sentence properly those autoists who kill and maim on our highways.

Following a conference with Town officials of Winchester, individuals and companies retailing milk in that community agreed not to deliver milk before 6 a. m. This action was taken following protests from Winchester residents that their sleep had been disturbed by noise of milk wagons and milkmen delivering milk in the wee hours of mornings. Similar action could well be taken in Newton. It is true that some of the larger milk companies which deliver milk in Newton have equipped their wagons with rubber tires. It is true that the milkmen do not make much noise. But one evil we have noticed for years. This the practice of drivers of milk wagons in shifting cases of milk bottles in thickly settled neighborhoods, in close proximity to dwellings. And when cases of milk bottles are lifted out off wagons, piled on sidewalk curbs and then replaced in wagons, light sleepers nearby are bound to be awakened. Even though milk deliveries in Newton are not restricted to after 6 a. m., the practice we refer to here should be stopped and the shifting and rearranging of cases and bottles restricted to places remote from dwellings.

Jail Sentence of One Year for Local Taxi Driver

Arthur Beck, 31, of 14 Pearl court, Newton, who for some years has been employed as a taxi driver at Newton Corner, was sentenced by Judge Weston in the Newton court last Friday to serve one year in the Middlesex County prison. Beck was found guilty of using without authority an automobile owned by Patrick Sweeney of Washington street, a Newton taxi man. Beck appealed, and was held in $1000 bonds. Sweeney testified that on September 17th Beck told him that he had obtained as a customer a certain Mr. Simonds of Beacon street, Newton Centre, who desired to hire a taxi to travel on long trips. Sweeney gave Beck his best car for this service and subsequently advanced Beck $75 for expenses. When Beck did not return the car and no money was received by the owner for its use, the police were notified. On the night of October 25th, Boston police arrested Beck at Jamaica Plain as he was driving the taxi.

Beck testified that he had driven the supposed Mr. Simonds to New York and other distant places and the latter was to have sent a check to Sweeney. He said that the woman who was with him in the taxi when he was arrested at Jamaica Plain was Mrs. Simonds. Sergeant Burke of the Newton police testified that no person named Simonds could be found at the address on Beacon street given by Beck.

On Saturday a warrant was issued against Beck charging him with the larceny of the $75 that Sweeney testified he gave him for the alleged expense accounts. Beck was arraigned on this charge on Saturday and the case was continued until October 31.

Auburndale Cars Crash in Waltham

Cars driven by Frederick E. Paul of 76 Freeman street, Auburndale, and Maurice Lyons of 263 Webster street, Auburndale, collided at Newton and River streets, Waltham at 1:15 Tuesday morning. Lyons' car was overturned and badly damaged and he received a bad gash on his left leg. Peter Hart of 162 Melrose street, Auburndale, received a cut on the right side of his face and Herbert Ferrick of Melrose street, Auburndale received a bad gash on his head which took 17 stitches to close. The three were taken to the Waltham Hospital. Paul was arrested charged with drunkenness and he was arraigned in the Waltham court on Tuesday and his case was continued until November 2. Police Chief Currin told Judge Cunniff that he would also charge Paul with driving a car while under the influence of liquor. Complaints were also issued against Lyons on similar charges.

Can You Loan a Sewing Machine?

The local ERA is seeking the loan of fifteen sewing machines for use in making clothing for the unemployed and appeals to the housewives of Newton for machines which they are not now using or which they have stored away. Kindly telephone to H. F. Young local ERA Administrator at Centre Newton 3850, if you have such machines available.

League of Nations

The purposes of the League of Nations are "to promote international cooperation and to achieve international peace and security."

It tries to accomplish them by (1) providing the machinery for the peaceful settlement of disputes, (2) increasing the habit of peaceful cooperation and (3) eliminating the causes of war.

The League of Nations has sixty members, representing nine-tenths of the world's population. For the moment, the United States and Brazil are the only major nations outside. Germany and Japan gave notice of withdrawal, but their notice has not yet taken effect.

What has the United States to gain from membership?

Security Against War. It is silly to say that the United States is not concerned with quarrels in Europe or Asia. In 1914 an assassination in southern Europe started the World War. Three years later the United States was drawn into the war because of its world interests. Today our interests are greater than in 1917. Who can guarantee that we would not be involved in another war?

The United States does not belong to the League of Nations; a few senators kept this country isolated. The fact that Congress has just voted a billion dollar navy bill demonstrates that isolation has not given the American people a sense of security. Which is better, to seek security through the old methods which brought war in 1914; or to remove the causes off war and increase security for all through an organized world community?

No one can guarantee that the League of Nations will be able to preserve peace. But the old system of preparedness and isolation failed. The League is the only alternative. Why not try the only way that remains, before we resign ourselves to the last world war? Surely the "risks of peace" are to be preferred to the certainty of war.

Greater World Confidence Will Hasten the Return of Prosperity. The present economic depression is the result of the last war, fear of another war, and lack of cooperation among the nations. The price of our farm products, the value of our money and the rise or fall of our world trade are dependent on world conditions. The League of Nations was organized to eliminate the fear of war and provide machinery for world cooperation. The entrance of the United States into the League would go far to bring back the world confidence necessary for real economic recovery.

By Joining the League of Nations the United States Will Have an Opportunity to Make Its Influence Felt in the Future Pattern of World Organization. If sixty nations have organized a community which is rapidly determining the future pattern of international life, any American should wish that his country might be a member; might know what is going on; might protect its interest; might make its contribution to the pattern.

The annual dues of the United States to the League of Nations would not be more than $600,000 or one-thousandth of our annual military budget. In recent years over seventy cents of every dollar of income tax has gone for the payment of the debts of past wars and preparation for future wars. Why not invest a few thousand dollars in the development of the institutions of peace?

What Are the Objections? Cynics say that the League moves too slowly. But the building of a community among individuals or nations is a slow process. The war system has dominated our lives a thousand years. Fifteen years is too short a time to develop a community that can totally eliminate the war system. We must be patient.

One of the silliest objections to American entrance into the League is the statement that the League is a superstate that could order the American army to fight in some war in which we had no interest. This is simply not so. The League is not a superstate. It is a federation in which practically all decisions must be made unanimously. If the United States belonged to the League, it would have a vote in the Council and the Assembly, the two governing bodies, and nothing could be voted which it did not want. The League has never sent an army anywhere and there is no way by which it can order a single American soldier anywhere against our wishes.

It is frequently asserted that the United States should remain isolated, "should mind its own business." The wealthiest nation can no more isolate itself than we can avoid associating with other individuals in our community, and taking responsibility for decent citizenship, law and order. The policy of isolation is a policy of drift, which means too often that the United States drifts into a situation for which others are responsible, as in 1917. The policy of cooperation is the policy of anticipating difficulties and of avoiding them by joint action. The League way is the American way.

Village Players to Present Play By Local Author

The Village Players, of Newton Center, will open their present season next Tuesday, Nov. 6, at the Unitarian Parish Playhouse, Newton Center. This first meeting will combine the social and the dramatic. Two one-act plays will be offered.

"Gardella," by Douglas Sloane, will be given by a cast of Village Players members. "The Workhouse Ward," by Lady Gregory, will be put on by the Garrick Players, also of Newton, as guest performers.

Mr. William M. Blatt, who has won a large following in Newton on matters of dramatic craft, will give a talk—"Stage Tricks."

Following the dramatics a social hour, with refreshments, in charge of Mrs. Fred D. Bond, will give an opportunity for renewal of old friendships and the making of new.

Mr. Sloane, the author of "Gardella," is a well known resident of Newton.

He has already done successful work in drama. His play "T.N.T." was successful when it was given in aid of the Mayor's Unemployment Relief fund recently. The Village Players have already presented "Bud," a one-acter from his pen, and a large audience is expected to greet his new play.

The cast of these plays is as follows:

"Gardella": Mrs. John Foster Holmes, Miss Mollie Draper, Mrs. Allen Hubbard, Miss Marion D. Wheeler, Mrs. F. W. Swindells, Mrs. Hugo P. Geisler, Jr.

"The Workhouse Ward": Robert Reed, Robert Currier, Muriel Tempest Pearce.

LASELL JUNIOR COLLEGE

On Tuesday Mrs. Hugh Perrin spoke to the students on "Garden Design." At the Friday assembly Pauline Chellis and members of her dance group will demonstrate modern dances.

Virginia White of Middleburgh, N. Y., has been elected president of the Missionary Society and Villa Magune of Worcester, president of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The Seniors will be at home to the Faculty, students and other friends at the senior houses on Thursday afternoon. ONE THING.... ....AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

Get ready to answer the question, "How did the election suit you?"

Oddments

A noted psychiatrist praises Massachusetts people for their mental resiliency. He says they kept their heads during the depression. Will they do the same next Tuesday?

She fluttered about the office of a Newton professional man, making the rest of the group in the reception room uneasy. They were waiting patiently their turn and couldn't understand why this woman was so more important, according to her own opinion. Finally, she sat down to read one of the venerable magazines that lay on the reading table. Soon she was laughing merrily to herself. The young woman attendant entered, presumably drawn by the unusual levity. "By the way," said the other, "I wonder if I may borrow this magazine for a day or two. There are some good jokes in it I want my husband to see." She was permitted to carry it off.

California as a State seldom neglects to call attention to its superior qualities as compared with the rest of the Union. However, it hasn't as yet pointed with pride to the political agitation now in progress there.

Leaves and Laws

If only Autumn leaves inspired me to poetry this space would be occupied by as dainty a collection of jingles and rhymes as my sympathetic but faltering fountain pen could produce. The accumulation of detached foliage on streets, gutters and sidewalks has started me off on another track and I am unable to express my feelings in anything as mild as verse. I need strong language — the kind that poets and dreamers would scorn to employ—in order to make myself clear in the matter of Autumn leaves.

Long ago I started an agitation against bicycle riding on the sidewalks. Both are still going on, especially the agitation. The former is general and the latter confined to me and possibly a few who share my views. What came perilously near a climax, and would have been had I not been on my way to Boston, occurred one day this week. I saw a boy on his bicycle riding over the sidewalk, compelling what few pedestrians there were to step aside. He was enjoying the ride and also the noise made by the contact of the rubber tires with the leaves.

Suddenly around the corner appeared a police officer in full uniform. "Ah, ha!" I exclaimed to myself, "here's where that fresh youth gets his." Imagine my astonishment when the policeman not only made no effort to stop the cyclist but actually paused in order that the other might pass him without collision. A friendly cop, indeed! Giving the violator of a city ordinance all the opportunity he desired to go the limit. I would have had a few words with the officer had not my car appeared. I don't know what I would have said but probably, "I hope he hits you the next time, officer." And what would have happened to me?

To return to the leaves. There is a statute which says we may not set any kind of a fire in the open without permission of the Chief of the Fire Department except during December, January and February. If that law isn't busted regularly in Newton many times a day I'll be glad to eat a diet of leaves. But I won't have to. As a matter of fact if I could get a dollar for every local instance of law's violation in this regard I could spend the winter in foreign travel.

Warning to Voters

You must wake and get up early,
Get up early, do you hear?
For the job you've got next Tuesday
Is the biggest of the year.

When you've snatched a bite of breakfast
To the polls then make your way,
Where with ballot and with pencil
You may have your little say.

'Twon't take long to mark your choices,
Once you find yourself inside;
Keep your mind on what you're doing,
Let your conscience be your guide.

Book Larnin' and Broadcastin'

Newton's part in the broadcasts of the Charles River Library Club should send us all to the loud-speaker with attentive ears. The entire program, for that matter, is tip-top. Perhaps you have been listening-in for the past two Monday afternoons from 4.30 to 4.45 on WEEI. There are six more to go and next Monday's you'll be especially interested in as Miriam Putnam of the Boys and Girls Library in Newton, assisted by two boys, is to talk on "Hobbies to Ride, and How the Public Library Can Help Them." Then the following week Mr. John J. Cronan, Newton story teller, is to tell stories over the air.

The club's broadcast Nov. 19 will find Newton represented by two other well known citizens—James B. Melcher, banker, and Librarian Julius Lucht. The subject of their talk will be, "The Business Man Takes Stock of His Public Library." Both men, as we of Newton well know, are interesting speakers.

The Charles River Library Club was originally the Newton Group of Libraries. When it was extended to include neighboring places a new name was sought. The present one which is most appropriate, was suggested by Mr. Lucht who pointed out that the communities belonging to the organization were situated on the banks of the Charles River. The list includes, in addition to our own city, Watertown, Waltham, Wellesley, Weston, Wayland, Needham, Natick, Framingham, Dover and Holliston.

Rotary Club

Dan Aldrich, of the Providence Rotary Club and governor for this Rotary district, was the guest of the Newton Rotary Club at Monday's meeting. In speaking to the club and guests after the luncheon, he asked, "Why are we in Rotary?" In the first place, he said, Rotary offers a fellowship that no other organization gives. The fellowship committee is therefore of great importance in seeing that guests are made to feel at home. Secondly, there is the service which the club renders the community. The outsider looks upon our organization with critical eyes and judges it by its deeds. The 152,000 and more Rotarians throughout the world can do an enormous amount of good through their clubs. Then, in the third place, there is the all important service which Rotary can render in creating a better international understanding. Serious international problems are studied by Rotary's international committees. Individually, too, much can be done. In this connection, the speaker referred to the letters of good will which G. Wilbur Thompson, Newton member, writes to new clubs in other lands. On the other hand, however, Mr. Aldrich feared that our friends across the seas too frequently outdo us in international courtesy. He told a number of amusing anecdotes illustrating his points. The address gave the members much encouragement in their work as club members.

NEWTON FREE LIBRARY

The Art Department at the Main Library has recently added the following books:

"The Art of Japanese Flower Arrangement," by Alfred Koehn. This handbook for beginners with two hundred and twenty-six illustrations in black and white is a most comprehensive treatise on Japanese flower arrangement. Many different arrangements under the "Yo-Shin" method are carefully explained and the various chapters deal with the subject anywhere from the history and philosophy of flower arrangement to the flower fasteners and containers to be used.

"Making Pottery," by Walter A. De Sager. This is the seventh in the "How to do it" series. The first chapter is an interesting exposition of the history of pottery. Succeeding chapters give careful instructions as to the handling of the clay, the tools to be used, relief ornaments and decoration, principal glazes, drying and mending pottery, and kilns and their equipment. The book is generously illustrated with cuts in black and white.

"Masters of English Painting," by R. H. Wilenski. The title speaks for itself. The author has not spared himself to discuss at length the most worthwhile artists of English painting. While the book is not elementary in character, it is not too technical for interesting reading. The period covered is from 1066 to the time of Blake. There are appendices for five of the chapters. Of the two hundred and two illustrations the majority are ones not ordinarily given in books on the different Schools of Painting.

"A History of Chinese Art," by George Soulie de Morant. The translation by Gerald C. Wheeler of Mr. Soulie de Morant's History of Chinese Art should prove invaluable to students of this subject. Chapter 1 goes back in time to the Stone Age, and the following chapters take up the different phases of art which developed under the various dynasties up to the present time. The book is fully illustrated with black and white cuts, and at the end of the text an interesting bibliography is supplied.

"The Mechanical Investigations of Leonardo da Vinci," by Ivor B. Hart opens up quite thoroughly another side of this great genius. Mr. Hart gives the reader the full setting for da Vinci's work along scientific lines and in considering him the pioneer of aviation, gives over the entire last half of the book to Leonardo's Manuscript on the Flight of Birds.

Crawford and Gable Are Co-Stars at Paramount

In "Chained," Joan Crawford and Clark Gable are co-starred in a story written especially for them by Edgar Selwyn, noted writer, director and producer, which opens next Sunday for four days at the Paramount Theatre.

They are cast in the kind of roles which each has made famous—Joan as a vivid young lady of Manhattan, and Clark as a young American rancher in Buenos Aires.

With Otto Kruger as the "other man," a rich, gentlemanly, middle-aged New Yorker, also in love with Joan, the story takes on dramatic power.

On the same program will be co-featured Richard Cromwell and Arline Judge in "Name the Woman."

For the last half beginning Thursday will be featured the latest musical success, "One Night of Love." Grace Moore, new, vibrant screen personality who sang for the Metropolitan Opera for three years and scored successive triumphs on the concert stages of every important city in the world will be seen in the starring role of this picture.

Tullio Carminati, international star last seen with Constance Bennett in "Moulin Rouge," has the main male lead with a strong supporting cast including Lyle Talbot, Mona Barrie, Jessie Ralph, Andres De Segurola and Luis Alberni. Victor Schertzinger directed.

On the same program will be Randolph Scott and Gail Patrick in "Wagon Wheels."

Central Club to Hear Rev. Crawford O. Smith

Central Club, the Men's Organization of Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, has announced its program for the regular monthly meeting on next Monday evening in the social rooms of the Church on Walnut street. The club opened its season last month with more than one hundred and twenty men at the dinner and a large number present for the after dinner program. Another big affair is scheduled for Monday, next.

The program committee, of which Dudley Hovey is the chairman, announces that the speaker of the evening will be Rev. Crawford O. Smith of Brookline. Mr. Smith was born in Scotland but came to this country for his education where he attended Mt. Hermon School for Boys, Boston University and the Andover-Newton Theological School. He served as chaplain in the United States Navy both before and during the World War and he is now active in American Legion circles. He has traveled extensively abroad and speaks most effectively on the subject he has chosen for Central Club—"The Harvest of Dictators." Recently Mr. Smith gave this address before the Rotary Club of Boston and the members were most enthusiastic over the presentation.

A cheery musical program is to be offered during the evening by the Blue Ridge Mountaineers, a band of four young radio artists who major on hill billies and catchy musical numbers both vocal and instrumental.

Dinner will be served at six-thirty. The music and address will follow dinner and men of the community who cannot attend the former are invited cordially to the meeting.

To Inform School Pupils Of Chest Aims

Chairman; Miss Anne Fahy, Miss Batchelder, Miss Jewett.

Kindergarten, Grades I and II—Miss Rafter, Chairman; Miss Tucker, Miss Swartz, Miss Wyman.

It is believed that this is a most constructive and forward looking undertaking and it has received the enthusiastic welcome and support of the faculties in all the schools.

Another matter of interest in connection with the approaching Third Annual Campaign of the Newton Community Chest is the extensive broadcasting program which has been undertaken this year to assist in informing citizens of the necessity for and purposes of the Chest. The expense of these programs is negligible compared with the commercial value set upon talent and other factors involved today in broadcasting.

However, hundreds of Newton merchants have been asked to underwrite this unusual broadcasting program. Many of them have already responded with gifts in varying amounts. These gifts are entirely apart from any regular gift to the Chest. It is hoped that the entire cost of the broadcasting and printed materials connected therewith, amounting to approximately $1500 or less, can be contributed in this manner. It is felt that one natural result of the broadcasting will be a better community spirit, a deeper desire to support businesses located in Newton and a desire on the part of non-residents to look into the advantages of living in Newton. Because, of course, these broadcasts will be picked up by people living in Eastern New England and through the facilities of the short wave Station WXAL, the programs will be available throughout the entire United States and Canada.

Complimentary tickets to the Radio Programs broadcast from the High School Auditorium over Station WMEX, Nov. 7th to 13th, inclusive, may be obtained by applying to the Village Chairmen or Majors, whose names were announced last week.

Out of Jail And Rearrested

Arthur Tierney, 19, of 1340 Commonwealth ave., Allston, was released from Dedham jail on Monday after serving three months for driving a car after his license had been suspended. He did not enjoy freedom, because he was at once taken into custody by Newton police on the charge of stealing an automobile. Arraigned before Judge Bacon in the Newton court the stealing charge was dropped and a charge of using an automobile without authority substituted. The case was continued to Oct. 30. On July 31st, Tierney and another youth stole a car in Newton and were apprehended in Foxboro.

Seventy five adult members of the Newton Girl Scouts, including members of the council, committees and captains attended the National Girl Scout convention which was held at the Hotel Statler, Boston, on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of last week.

Scouts Sing—Many Meet Mrs. Hoover

Forty-five senior members of Newton Girl Scout Troops sang Folk Songs for the entertainment of several hundred guests from all over the country at the Convention banquet held at the Statler in Boston on October 26th. The girls, their uniforms brightened with scarlet ties, sat in the balcony and listened eagerly to the words of Mrs. Frederick Edey, National Girl Scout President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover. Both Mrs. Edey and Mrs. Hoover addressed the girls during the course of their speeches, and both remarked on the fine quality of the music provided by the chorus. Mrs. Hoover predicted that these girls would be hostesses and delegates to the National Convention in 1950, which she laughingly predicted would return to Boston at that date.

At the close of the banquet, many of the girls had a chance to speak and shake hands with Mrs. Hoover, who again complimented them on their fine singing.

Members of the chorus were. Vyrling Rawson, Margaret Wilson, and Ruth Jenks of Newton; Jane Hesslein, Betty Wright, Diana Cumner, Mary Sheehan and Katherine Burke of Newton Centre; Phyllis Sweetser, Marjorie and Rita Ernst, Evelyn and Helen Hoffman, Catherine Stone, Sheila Skelton, Virginia Squiers, and Ruth Hilliard of Newton Highlands; Helen Oldfield, Grace Nichols, and Betty Egan of Newton Upper Falls; Eleanor Bartlett, Cynthia Steitz, Antoinette Meyer, Clara Schwab, Marjorie Brown, Katherine Dempsey, Barbara Collins, Katherine Hayes, Virginia Young, and Helen Hayden of Newtonville.

Also Marie Bailey, Betty and Margaret Bartram of Waban, Carolyn Hayden, Ruth Filbin and Marguerite Pratt of West Newton, Evelyn Karol, Eleanor Sampson, Harriet Bunker, Ruth Thivierge, Lloyd Edson, and Nancy Parks of Auburndale, and Barbara Phinney of Wellesley.

The chorus was trained by Mrs. Windsor Sampson of Auburndale and Miss Margaret E. Adams, Newton Field Captain.

This is Girl Scout week and the Newton Girl Scouts are commemorating Juliette Lowe's birthday, Oct. 31. in many different ways. One troop has taken flowers to shut-ins. Seventy-two Girl Scouts attended the services last Sunday at Saint Philip Neri Church in Waban. Troop and National flags were displayed and the Girl Scout Promise and Hymn were included in the service.

Another troop furnished flowers for the chancel and decorated the Congregational Church in Auburndale on Girl Scout Sunday as a demonstration of gratitude for the use of the Parish House in which troop meetings are held.

Other troops have held special meetings, and all are thinking of their founder, Juliette Lowe, who gave so much to them.

A Cast of Real Indians To Play "Pocahontas"

The stage of the Repertory Theatre will be transformed into a seventeenth-century Indian village on Saturday, Nov. 10th, when the Children's Theatre of New York presents "Pocahontas," under the auspices of the Boston University Women's Council.

Not only will the settings for the play and the costumes of the actors be Indian, but the actors themselves, with the exception of the two who play the parts of Rolph and Captain John Smith, and a few others, are real American Indians. Heading the cast will be Lone Bear, whose Indian name is Kuruks Pahitu, great-grandson of the famous Pawnee chief, White Eagle.

Children's Theatre audiences who saw Lone Bear in "Rip Van Winkle" last year will look forward with pleasure to his appearance in a new role. The dances, ceremonials and songs of the Indians of Virginia will be interpreted by Lone Bear and his supporting cast with the same beauty and authenticity which have made him the official interpreter of Pawnee ceremonies, approved by the United States Department of the Interior. His lyric tenor voice, trained by Madame Marcella Sembrich, contributes much to the effectiveness of the ceremonial scenes. As Powhatan, greatest of eastern chieftains, Lone Bear displays all the inherited dignity which is his as a descendant of chiefs and future head of his tribe.

Lone Bear is a graduate of Denison College, where he was voted by a national magazine to be one of the six outstanding college men of his year; he has also attended Ohio State University, and was selected to pose for the statue "Mound Builders" in the Ohio State Museum. He has made many professional appearances on the stage, and, like him, the other Indians of the cast are all trained and experienced actors, whose work in "Pocahontas" is finished as well as realistic.

The second of Six Plays for Children sponsored by Boston University Women's Council Saturday, Nov. 10th, 10:30 a. m., and 2:15 p.m Tickets 50 cents up. Box Office, Herrick's, Jordan's, Filene's and Woman's Building. Telephone Circle 6826.—Advertisement.

SCOUT NEWS
BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Scouts to Take Part in Chest Drive

The Newton Packs and Troops of Norumbega Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, are taking an active part in co-operating with the Newton Community Chest, Inc., in preparation for the 1934 campaign.

The first job they have is that if giving out radio program announcement cards to every home in the city on November 6th. Cubmasters and Scoutmasters are co-operating whole-heartedly in this community service, for it means extra work, time and meetings on the part of all these volunteers, Packs of Cubs: 6, Newtonville; 7, West Newton; 10, Waban, and 20, Centre; are planning to have their members cover small areas in this distribution plan on the afternoon of November 6th, with the Den Mothers and Den Chiefs, who are Scouts, in direct supervision.

Scout Commissioner Carlton S. Redmond has requested every Troop in the city to hold its meeting next week on November 6th, with a preliminary meeting of the Patrol Leaders and Troop officers to lay out the areas to be covered. Leaders are gladly helping, though to the inconvenience of many by reason of having to change the day, time and place of Troop meetings.

On Tuesday night, all of the 600 Scouts of the city will be at their regular or special meeting places, with Scoutmasters, Assistant Scoutmasters and Troop Committeemen on hand with cars. The cards to be delivered will be distributed among the Patrols and then the Scouts will start out to cover all of the 17,000 homes in the city in areas not covered beforehand by the Cubs. There will be a Scouter with each group, so that men will be right on hand to work with the Scouts on that evening.

On Thursday, Nov. 8, Scouts and some Scouters will take a part in the broadcast from the Newton High School in the program of "Newton on Parade" that evening.

Since the Campaign of last year the Newton Section of the Council has had an increase of approximately 12 percent, so that depression times, so-called, have stimulated the desire among boys to become Cubs, Scouts, Seascouts and Rovers.

Claflin Club Plans Interesting Year

The Claflin Club of the Newtonville M. E. Church has announced its program for the monthly meetings from November through May. The first meeting of the season was held recently with F. Alexander Magoun, Professor of Humanics at M. I. T. as the guest speaker. The next meeting of the club will be on Friday, November 16th when "Show Night" will be observed. Mr. George W. Taylor is chairman of "Show Night", plans for which are rapidly being completed.

At the December 14 meeting Ralph W. Sockman, Minister of Christ Church of New York City will speak on "Managers of Tomorrow." On January 25 Howard Thurman of Howard University, Washington, D. C., will speak on "The Ultimate Basis of Self-Respect." The February meeting on the 15th will be the annual sons' banquet. Frank E. Norris is chairman in charge. Ladies' night will be held on March 15th with Ernest W. Butterfield, State Commissioner of Education for Connecticut as the guest speaker. His subject will be "Massachusetts Transplanted." On April 8 a combined meeting will be held with the Central Club of the Central Congregational Church at which Dr. D. Brewer Eddy will speak on "Europe Today." The closing meeting of the season will come on May 17 with Prof. Osbert W. Warmingham of Boston University speaking on "Beauty and Duty."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 4.

The Golden Text is: "Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him" (Proverbs 26:27).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure" (Philippians 2:12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Evil is self-assertive. It says: 'I am a real entity, overmastering good.' This falsehood should strip evil of all pretensions. The only power of evil is to destroy itself. It can never destroy one iota of good. Every attempt of evil to destroy good is a failure, and only aids in peremptorily punishing the evil-doer" (p. 186).

The first in a series of Press Talks, arranged by Miss Grace Parker, Press and Publicity director of the State Federation, will be held Monday, November 5th. It will be given in the Auditorium of the Herald-Traveler Building, at 2 o'clock, by members of the editorial staff of these newspapers, with Mrs. Frances Blanchard, editor of the Women's Club department, in charge of the program. Club presidents, officers, and friends, the chairmen of departments, and all members of press and publicity departments in the Federated club are invited. An opportunity will be given for the guests to make a tour of the building to see how a newspaper is printed. The Press Talks will continue each succeeding Monday through November, but the others will be held at Federation Headquarters, 115 Newbury street, Boston. On November 12th, Miss Helen J. Lang, editor of the Women's Club Department of the Boston Transcript, will be the guest speaker; on November 19th, Miss May F. Pillsbury, of the Somerville Journal; and on November 26th, Miss Grace Des Champs, of the Worcester Telegram.

Health Institute November 5th

Dr. Louise M. Leverone, chairman of the division of Public Health of the State Federation, in conjunction with the president of the Pilgrim Woman's Club, Mrs. Warren E. Kennedy, has arranged for a Health Institute to be held in the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Dorchester, on November 5th. This will take the place of the regular meeting of the Club, and will be conducted by Dr. Leverone. Among the speakers will be Dr. William Hanson, Medical director of Bridgewater State Hospital. The outstanding work that will be stressed again this year, by Dr. Leverone, will be that of Cancer, on which subject she will speak at every Conference and Institute she attends, with the hope of educating the public, through the Federated clubs, of measures that can be taken to prevent the spread of this dread disease.

Appeal for Gifts For Veterans

It is none too soon to appeal to the clubs, through the State Federation division of Co-operation with Disabled War Veterans, Mrs. T. Gordon Burckes, chairman, to assist in dispensing Christmas cheer to the many veterans in our State Hospitals. Afghans, shoulderettes, caps and socks are in great demand and are much appreciated by the veterans. Any club or club member willing to make or contribute any of these articles will be doing a worthy deed of kindness. Mrs. N. F. Knott is Recreational director of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, at Rutland Heights, Mass., and Miss Evelyn Davis, Recreational director of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, at Bedford, Mass.

Legislative Meeting and Tea Nov. 5th

The State department of Legislation, Mrs. Arthur C. Sennert, chairman, will hold a meeting and tea on Monday, November 5th, at 1:30 o'clock, at the Salada Tea building, Stuart and Berkley streets, Boston. All legislative chairmen are invited to attend and discuss ideas on how to get legislation before their clubs, and how to make it more interesting. Hold Interesting Conference On The Drama

The Literature and Drama Conference to be held on Wednesday, November 7th, at 10:30 a. m., at Massachusetts State Federation Headquarters, 115 Newbury street, Boston, will be in charge of Miss Marie Ware Laughton, who is an authority along dramatic lines. The Conference, which is sponsored by Mrs. Charles Thompson, department chairman, has been arranged especially for Drama chairmen seeking direction, information, and assistance; but all chairmen interested are invited. The speakers and subjects follow: Mrs. Isabella Taylor, "How to Proceed in Coaching a Play"; Mrs. David A. Wilcox, "Selection of a Play"; and Harold Lindegren, "Color and Emotion." Presentation of International Topic Open to All

The International Dinner will be held at the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Wednesday evening, November 7th, at 6:45 p. m. All men and women of the Newtons and elsewhere are cordially invited to attend. As many significant things have happened during the summer in the world of international affairs, the subject which has been chosen for the discussion is "New Elements in a Changing World." Russia has joined the League of Nations. Phases of this fact will be enlarged upon by Mr. Clark M. Eichelberger, the National director of the League of Nations Association. Mr. Eichelberger speaks from a background of vast knowledge as he has attended every session of the League Assembly, and he has intimate contacts with statesmen abroad. The deadlock in Soviet-Japanese negotiations over the Chinese Eastern Railroad has been broken, and Japan has arranged to buy this railroad. The significance of this event will be explained by Merle Fainsod, P.H.D., instructor in Government at Harvard Prof. Fainsod spent 1932-33 in Russia studying the foreign policy of that country and his talk will be illuminating. Tickets at $1.10 for the dinner may be secured from Mrs. Esmond Rowley. Admission for the speaking at 8:15 o'clock will be free for Club members but a fee of fifty cents will be charged, $.50 for others.

On Wednesday, November 7th, at 1:30 p. m. the American Home committee will sponsor a Trek to C. J. Connick's stained glass studio, 9 Harcourt street, Boston. On Friday, November 9th, the committee will hold a Luncheon-Bridge in the Foodcraft Shop, 711 Boylston street, Boston. Tickets at fifty cents each may be had by applying to Mrs. Brendan R. Dunn, Cen. New. 4322, by November 7th.

On Thursday, November 8th, at 10 a. m., Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor will return to the Club for the first of a series of five lectures. Non-members will be welcome to attend on payment of the usual fee of fifty cents.

Concert and Educational Program

Following the Fall Reception and the Hallowe'en Bazaar, the Newtonville Woman's Club will observe its first Club day on November 6th, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Clubhouse, when Madame Araxy Odabashian will present a concert program of songs, including a musical lecture of Armenian Folk Songs in their native costume of the Eighteenth Century. Her accompanist will be Madame Navelle. Madame Odabashian is considered to possess a beautiful soprano voice and to have remarkable interpretive ability, which should assure her audience of a pleasurable program.

The first of the series of Conferences on Education which is being offered by the Education committee will be held on Wednesday, November 7th, at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Cecil W. Clark, 363 Walnut street. These Conferences have been planned to give parents a clearer and better knowledge of the aims of the present-day educational life of their children and they are for Club members. Principals and teachers of the Newton Schools will be the guest speakers at these meetings. Mr. Paul E. Elicker, principal of the Newton High School, will speak on "Our Schools of Today" at the first meeting.

Social Science Club Meets Wed.

The first meeting of the Social Science Club will be held in Channing Church Parlor on Wednesday, November 7th. Mrs. Nathan P. Cutler will talk on her trip to "The Land of Our Southern Neighbors." The hostesses will be Mrs. Arthur W. Blakemore and Mrs. Hayward P. Rolfe.

Illustrated Lecture On Russia and Russian Icons

Mrs. Bertha Ashley Searle will speak on "Russia and Russian Icons" at the regular meeting of the Newton Community Club, Thursday, November 8th, at 2:30 p. m., in the Underwood School Hall. Mrs. Searle's slides have been made from unusual sources and rare collections, and those in color have won high praise from critics familiar with reproductions of the originals.

The soloist for the afternoon will be Miss Mildred Jenkins, Coloratura Soprano, who will sing negro spirituals. She is a daughter of Rev. J. B. Jenkins of Charleston, S. C., a protege of Roland Hayes, and is studying with Gertrude Tingley, celebrated teacher of Boston.

Open Meeting on Question Of Handicapped

The meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club to be held on Friday, November 9th, at 2:30 p. m., at Odd Fellows Hall, North Gate park, West Newton, will be the first of the "Open Meetings," and will be in the form of a conference. It will also be the first of the Federation Days, of this Club, and the program will be presented by the Department of the Handicapped, of which Mrs. Frederick A. Cole and Mrs. Albert E. Herrington are the leaders.

Mrs. Mabel E. Adams, principal of the Horace Mann School in Boston, will speak on "The Deaf Child in Our Midst." Mrs. John F. Capron, Twelfth District director, will preside, and Mrs. Earl J. Smith, chairman of the division of the Physically Handicapped of the State Federation, will be one of the speakers. There will be an interesting demonstration by a group of children from the Horace Mann School. A program of music will be included in the afternoon's entertainment, followed by refreshments served in the Tea Room by the Hospitality committee.

State Chairman Of International Relations to Speak

Clubwomen who are interested to join the new club, Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Club of Boston, will find the announcement of interest that Mrs. William O. B. Little, chairman of International Relations of the Massachusetts State Federation, will be the speaker before this Club on Tuesday, November 6th, at 2 o'clock, at the meeting at the Boston Y. W. C. A., 140 Clarendon street, Boston. Her subject will be "A Picture of the World News."

WOMEN'S CLUBS

A social hour, during which tea will be served, will follow a varied musical program, including violin and 'cello solos, given by a trio of The Twentieth Century Ensemble, with Anita Malkin, violinist, Dorothy Lutz, cellist, and Gladys Troupin, pianist.

Well-Rounded Program Given at Community Club

An exceptionally fine program was presented at the meeting of the Newton Community Club last Thursday, October 25th, at 2:30 p. m.

Many of the Club members who have enjoyed hearing the ERA Chorus over the radio found an added pleasure in seeing, as well as hearing, these singers in the concert which opened the meeting. The three groups of songs given included "The Triumphal March" from Aida, "Sweet and Low," "Funiculli Funiculla," Mrs. Gulesian's "The House by the Side of the Road," "Invictus," "Sanctus," "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," "The Galway Piper," and for encore, "The Lost Chord." This fine chorus, conducted by Mr. Frederick Lamb, has been organized only about five months. William Ellis Weston and Mildren Vinton Drew were accompanists.

Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor in her very interesting lecture on Current Events told about the assassination of King Alexander and the deep regret felt therefor in France. She followed this with a vivid description of the situation now existing in Europe, and ended her talk with the relating of several humorous incidents which occurred during her stay in Geneva. Mrs. Taylor won the hearts of her listeners by her poise and charm of manner.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Henry P. Curtiss, a former president; Mrs. Clarence V. Moore, and Mrs. Royal C. Warring.

During the business meeting several notices were given. Mrs. Sterling N. Loveland announced the change in date to November 13th, for the trip to the First National Stores Warehouse. Miss Florence Bacon asked that members wishing to attend the Art Lectures at the Museum notify her in advance. Mrs. David Black, chairman of the Community Service committee, announced that at the Fall Meeting of the Newton Federation, to be held at the Newton Centre Women's Club House on November 16th, there will be a two-hour conference on "Better Moving Pictures." On the same committee, Mrs. George W. Wyman asked for books for disabled veterans; Mrs. Kenneth B. Backman for knitted articles, either ready-made or to be made by Club members; and Mrs. Frank Dennison asked for playing cards.

Newton Juniors Hear About The Ideal Girl

The first meeting of the Newton Junior Community Club was held in Channing Church parlor on October 16th, at 3 p. m. The speaker for the afternoon was John Shade Franklin, of West Newton, whose subject was "The Ideal Girl." The discussions which followed Mr. Franklin's lecture were most stimulating.

Refreshments were provided by the new officers.

All girls fourteen years of age or over are eligible to join the Junior Club.

Delightful Program For President's Day

On Friday, October 26th, members and guests of the West Newton Women's Educational Club were offered a delightful program for the observance of Presidents' Day. A reception preceded the regular meeting, with Mrs. Edgar P. Hay, president of the Club, heading the receiving line. More than eighty guests were present, including some of the officers of the Federation and presidents and secretaries of many of the neighboring women's clubs. After the reception the members and guests adjourned to the large hall of the Club House, which was beautifully decorated with evergreens, brilliant autumn foliage, and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Hay welcomed her guests, then introduced the guests of honor, Mrs. John Kimball, vice-president of the State Federation; Mrs. John F. Capron, Twelfth District director; and Mrs. Charles C. Willson, president of the Newton Federation, all of whom complimented the Club upon its many splendid philanthropies and stimulated the members to a desire to accomplish even greater things as time goes on.

After a short intermission the president introduced Mr. Sylvester Carter, who sang a number of classical songs with much artistry. He was accompanied at the piano by Mr. Elwyn Barrow. Mr. Carter introduced Miss Grace Walker, a teacher at Tuskegee Institute, and an expert on Negro folk lore, about which she has been studying extensively in London. She read a number of poems, and then explained in a most interesting fashion the origin of Negro folk songs and the importance of their own particular rhythm, which makes the Negro music so characteristic. After her descriptions, Mr. Carter sang and interpreted a number of typical songs with much understanding. The program was received with enthusiasm by the audience, which was most appreciative.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the members and guests of the Club adjourned to the Tea Room where refreshments were served by the Hospitality committee. Mrs. D. Earle Brackett, Mrs. Fred M. Blanchard, Mrs. Raymond O. Little, and Mrs. Joseph A. Otis presided at the tea table which was decorated attractively with autumn flowers and tall yellow candles.

N. C. W. Club announces evening painting class, men and women over 16 years; Mr. W. B. Hazelton of Vesper George Art School, instructor; 10 lessons, $10.00. Call Mrs. R. G. Hudson, C. N. 3345W, before Nov. 18.—Advertisement.

Sentence Boy Who Sent Threat Notes To Lyman School

Alfred Martin, 14, of 21 Columbus place, West Newton, was found guilty in the Newton court last Friday of sending threat notes to residents of Webster street, West Newton, including an 80 year old woman. Judge Weston sentenced young Martin to the Lyman School at Westboro. Answering a request by the boy's father that he suspend the sentence, the judge stated that the prevalence of extortion and kidnapping in the country, necessitate severe treatment of offenders. The boy's father took an appeal. The Martin boy stated in court that a school girl about his own age wrote some of the notes. Judge Weston instructed Sergeant Bannon, of the Newton police to investigate this statement of Martin's. He commented that if it were found to be true, a complaint might be issued against the girl.

Abraham Ginsberg of 2295 Washington st. testified that Yaskel formerly worked at the gasoline station, had been in the habit of entering it through the window, and had told him he was only going into the station to sleep. Newton Teachers Give Reception to Supt. Warren

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, the Newton High School Women Teachers' Club welcomed Mr. Julius E. Warren, the new superintendent of Newton schools, and his wife at a reception and dinner held at Wayside Inn, Sudbury, Mass.

After the dinner, Miss Ruth Twist, president of the club, welcomed all the new teachers and then introduced Dr. Payson Smith, State Commissioner of Education in Massachusetts. He said he was glad to talk to "teachers who were now enjoying the restored scripture." Dr. Smith laughingly said that he understood Newton teachers had been allowed to read from Matthew, Luke, and John, but not from Mark. From now on, Mark would be resumed. As he had watched the group, the Commissioner said that he wondered what he could say to a group who had not really begun to live, inasmuch as "Life Begins at Forty," according to Walter Pitkins. He recommended "Choosing a Career," by the same author, to be read by high school women teachers.

Dr. Smith paid a tribute to Newton schools in saying that they were conscious of the change going on in the high schools everywhere. In Newton, he feels that educational progress has been made to meet problems which have arisen through groups of boys and girls who would not ordinarily have remained in school.

He also paid tribute to Mr. Warren by saying: "It would be fine not to have—superintendents but since we have to have them, I'm glad Mr. Warren was born to be one." Dr. Smith said that he knew Mr. Warren's philosophy of administration and education and felt that Newton was fortunate in having a man whose father before him was a person of fine influence in the department of education in this state. He re-welcomed Mr. Warren to Massachusetts and to a background in which, as he said, he knew Mr. Warren would be happy. As he turned toward the new superintendent of schools, he added, "The State of Massachusetts welcomes you, and if we can be of any help to you, please consider us your right hand."

After Miss Ruth Twist had welcomed Mr. Warren in behalf of the teachers, Mr. Warren spoke informally. He said that Mrs. Warren and he had never experienced a more cordial welcome than he had received that night. He spoke of the Wayside Inn as a beautiful and historical spot in which he had been interested since boyhood days. Then he added in his quiet but very sincere way, "I hope as we work together in the years to come and as we face problems together, there will be something of pleasure and beauty in the memory of this party."

He expressed his pleasure and appreciation to the committee for asking Dr. and Mrs. Payson Smith to be there. "There is no one in an official position in the U. S. whose presence would have meant more to me."

Mr. Warren read selections from Walter Hard's book "The Salt of Vermont" and interpreted Aline Kilmer's "The Armor Maker" with great feeling and understanding. His soft but powerful voice, graciousness and charm won the approval of the entire force of high school women teachers.

Dr. Joy was hopeful and confident that as soon as the different nations became acquainted the existing fear and hatred would be supplanted with love, sympathy and brotherly understanding, and the whole world would feel the influence for good.

Broadcasting Programs For Community Chest Attract Much Interest

Annual Drive Gets Under Way Next Thursday—Mayor Weeks Opens WMEX Broadcast From High School

Last evening Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton fired the opening gun in the approaching Newton Community Chest Campaign when he delivered a stirring address of welcome to the citizens of Newton at the first "Newton on Parade" program broadcast from the auditorium of the Newton High School. Mayor Weeks emphasized the two simple factors: Community and Chest. In a word the value of a united community spirit and the tremendous need at this time for a Chest to support the numerous private welfare agencies of the city.

A colorful radio program of music, entertainment and speaking featured the entire program under the direction of E. S. Whitten, Radio Director of the two weeks' radio and publicity campaign sponsored by the Newton Community Chest, Inc.

The ERA Orchestra furnished the marching theme music and rendered two stirring selections. Mr. Harry R. Rogers, tenor, accompanied by Mrs. A. J. Snyder, followed Mayor Weeks on the program. Mr. J. Avery Dunn, Dr. Cecil Clark and Harold Bond provided entertainment with piano and patter numbers. A trio from the All Newton Music School played a beautiful rendering of "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" set by Quilter. The trio was composed of Anna Kovitz, violin; Norma Olson, cello; Dorothy Kovitz, piano. The Woman's Club of Newton Highlands Chorus sang two short numbers which were enthusiastically received under the leadership of Mrs. Florence H. Ginn.

A most interesting portion of the program, all of which was dedicated to West Newton in honor of Mayor Weeks, was the West Newton Round Table. Mr. Edward E. Whiting, Mrs. Maynard Hutchinson, Mr. Leon Rogers, President of the Newton Community Chest, and Mr. Benjamin Bowen described many of the interesting highlights of West Newton in playful and serious vein. All through the entire program the theme music recurred carrying along the background of marching feet and Newton on Parade.

Mr. Roy V. Collins, President of the Newton Board of Aldermen, described the organization and various functions of the different parts of the City government. Before the close of the program, Mr. Donald D. McKay, Campaign Director, spoke briefly on the purposes of these "On Parade" programs and the importance of the approaching drive for funds on the part of over 1800 loyal citizens.

"Newton on Parade" will be broadcast each night from the Newton High School auditorium through Tuesday, the 13th, 7:30 to 8:30 each evening.

On Thursday evening's program the Hon. Edwin O. Childs, former Mayor of Newton, delivered the address of welcome. In addition to the ERA Orchestra music was furnished by the Elsie Janis Drum and Bugle Corp. A trio from the All-Newton Music School featuring Norma Olson, 'cello; John McCarthy, clarinet; and Evelyn Karol, piano rendered a pleasing selection.

An outstanding highlight of the program was the baritone solo by Mr. A. Ralph Tailby, who sang "The House by the Side of the Road." He was accompanied by the talented Mrs. M. H. Gulesian, well-known musician, author and composer. Mrs. Gulesian is the composer of the music to which this famous poem is set. Other numbers included a round table from Newton Corner composed of Elliott B. Church, Philip Nichols, Clarence C. Colby and Mrs. Stephen B. Wilson.

A group of top ranked boy scouts of Newton took a prominent part in the program and Mr. Richard H. Ellis, director of Public Works spoke on the organization and operation of the many City Departments. Mr. Donald D. McKay, Campaign Director closed the meeting with a few remarks regarding the approaching campaign.

Highlights on the "Newton on Parade" program for this evening, include High School Orchestra; Mr. Joseph W. Bartlett, former City Solicitor; Mrs. James Gridley, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Snyder; the Highland Glee Club under the leadership of D. Ralph McLean; Michael T. Hughes, Chief of Police; Clarence W. Randlett, Chief of Fire Department; Dean Ernst Hermann, Superintendent of Playgrounds; Julius Lucht, City Li-

"Sherlock Holmes" To Be Staged by N. H. S. Faculty

Annual Play to be Presented On Nov. 16 and 17

On Friday and Saturday, November 16 and 17, the Newton High faculty will present as its annual play, "Sherlock Holmes," favorite theatrical piece of the late William Gillette, with Raymond A. Green, assistant to the principal, and Paul E. Elicker, headmaster, in the title role and as Professor Moriarty, arch-criminal, respectively.

The proceeds of the performances will be used, as in previous years, to facilitate the work of theguidance committee of the school in providing medical services, clothes, and financial assistance to needy pupils. In the past this work has been carried on with a minimum of fan-fare but with great effectiveness and a list of actual services rendered compares favorably with the activities of any welfare agency.

Mrs. Blanche Bemis, who has coached the faculty productions for the past six years, has again assembled a competent cast, headed by veterans. Because so many past performances have been costume plays and comedies or historical romances, it was felt that the selection of "Sherlock Holmes" answered the demand for a more modern production, complete with the trappings of the detective story.

Although the plot centers about Miss Faulkner, played by Gladys Cunningham, the principals are, as in "Treasure Island," men. Mr. Green has previously played the part of a romantic hero as D'Artagnan in "The School Positions Open for Residents Of Newton

The Newton School Department through the medium of ERA funds plans to conduct three nursery schools for young children under the regular age for admission to kindergartens. Such centres were conducted last year at the Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls and at the Bowen School in Newton Centre. In addition to these two, it is hoped to start a third at the Stearns School in Nonantum. The primary purpose for the starting of these centres for children of preschool age was to give work and income to teachers and nurses who have been unable to find employment.

Between 15 and 20 women applied for the twelve positions in these nursery schools and filled out questionnaires as to their financial condition. These were submitted to ERA State headquarters at Boston, and only four qualified from the standpoint of financial need. These four are now employed at the nursery centre which is being conducted at the Emerson School. Kindergartners, trained nurses and dietitians are needed. Trained dietitians are not required. Good cooks with requisite common sense can qualify. Supt. of Schools Warren states that the School Department can fill the eight vacancies with non-residents, but it is desired to give the positions to Newton residents if they can qualify.

Newton Gives Large Majorities To Almost All G. O. P. Candidates

Favor License By 4700, Horse Racing By 4900, But Turn Down Dog-Racing—Walsh, Buckley, Russell Lead Democrats

The Democratic avalanche which buried the Republican Party in Massachusetts did not submerge the G. O. P. in Newton. This city was a conspicuous exception in its steadfast loyalty to the defeated organization. Large majorities were given to all the Republican candidates except Robert Washburn and Alonzo Cook, and these also had substantial leads in Newton over their Democratic opponents. Of the 30,004 registered voters in the city, 28,825 or 88% went to the polls despite the stormy weather. The votes on the various referenda went as votes on referenda usually go, a majority voting "Yes" on all but one of the questions submitted, with a large percentage of the voters failing to vote at all. The sole referendum to lose out was that on legalizing pari-mutuel betting on dog races.

The size of the majorities for licensing the sale of liquor in Newton was a surprise. The majority in favor of the sale of all alcoholic beverages increased from 1021 at the city election last December to 4614. The only precincts to vote against this referendum were Precincts 3 of Ward 4 in Auburndale, and Precinct 2 of Ward 5 at Newton Highlands. Every precinct in the city gave a majority on the question of granting licenses for the sale of beer and wine. As usual at heavy elections in recent years the returns were quite slow in coming in from many of the precincts, and it was 5 o'clock Wednesday morning before City Clerk Grant received the ballots from some of the polling places.

Gaspar G. Bacon received a flattering vote in Newton. His majority over Curley was nearly 10,000. He received 18,722 to Curley's 8962. Goodwin received only 676 votes in this city. In 1932 Youngman polled 17,248 for Governor, and Ely 11,975. For Lieutenant Governor the vote for Haigis was 18,873, and for Hurley, 9098. In 1932 for this office Bacon polled 19,776 and Swift, 9342. Newton did not give Congressman Luce the same support it accorded to the other leading Republican candidates. He received 16,663 votes in this city and Russell received 11,057. In 1932 Luce polled 18,331 votes in Newton and Deitrick, 9923. Luce lost out in his home city of Waltham. There he received 5867 votes and Russell, 8023. Russell's majority in the 9th District was 4718. The outcome of this contest was in doubt until late Wednesday morning due to the delay of Ward 22, the Brighton district of Boston, in returning its results. Luce came into this strong Democratic ward with the slim majority of 1464, but Brighton gave Russell 8939 votes to the 1857 it cast for Luce. The total vote in the 9th District was— Russell, 58,681; Luce, 53,963. Even had Newton cast as large a vote for Luce as it did for Bacon, Russell would still have had a slight lead. When this contest was in doubt on Wednesday morning an order was received at Newton City Hall from Russell demanding that the Newton votes be impounded. But, when the vote from Ward 22 was received about 11 o'clock, Russell countermanded this notification.

Haigis received a slightly larger number of votes in Newton than did Bacon. His total was 18,873 and he led Hurley by a majority of 9775. Frederic Cook for State Secretary led the ticket with 19,125 votes; his opponent, Santosuosso, polled 8450. Hurley, for State Treasurer, ran ahead of his fellow Democratic candidates on the ticket. He received 10,154 to Dionne's 16,772. Alonzo Cook for Auditor had only a majority of 2169 over Buckley in Newton. For Attorney General the vote for Warner was 18,575 and for Dever 8865. Senator David I. Walsh led the Democratic ticket in Newton with 12,501 votes. Washburn received 15,083.

Two candidates who fared poorly in the Republican primaries in Newton received the solid support of the city on Tuesday. Frank Brooks for the Governor's Council polled 18,077 votes to Coughlan's 8825. McElroy for Sheriff received 17,381 votes and Robart 8730. For District Attorney the vote for Bishop was 18,822; Bruin, Democratic candidate, 7765. McCabe, who made an active campaign as an independent, received only 769 votes in Newton. McElroy's total vote in Middlesex County was 169,944 and Robarts' 155,280. Bishop's plurality over Bruin was about 30,000.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

RINDGE TOPS LOCAL ELEVEN TO WIN LEAGUE TITLE 13-7

Rindge Tech trampled the Newton High School football eleven underfoot last Saturday at Dickinson Stadium, Newtonville, to clinch the championship of the Suburban League, 13 to 7. The visiting eleven showed a clear margin of superiority over Newton running up fifteen first downs to but a single one for Newton. The orange and black took an early lead when Ernie Savignano intercepted a Rindge pass and raced 75 yards, the longest run on the Newton field this season, for a touchdown. The flash came midway of the first session and halted a long Rindge march which seemed destined to culminate in a score. Picking the ball out of the air a few yards before it would have settled into the Rindge receiver's arms Savignano tore down the left sideline with two other Newton players. No Rindge player had a chance to nail the fleet Newton youth. Captain Castoldi place-kicked the point giving Newton a 7 to 0 margin.

Rindge came right back and with Watson and Matthews featuring the assault continually threatened. Early in the second period Newton took the ball on downs on their 18-yard line to stop one advance but a Newton fumble gave the ball back to the visitors. On this occasion Newton again stiffened and took the ball on the 11-yard line. After a Newton punt Maloney romped through the Newton line to bring Rindge in the shadow of the Newton goal for the third time within the period. Continual plugging at the Newton line by Watson and Matthews finally carried the latter over for a touchdown from the 1-yard line. Rogers tried a place-kick but an offside Newton line blocked the ball. Given another opportunity to try for the point from the 1-yard line a Watson forward pass was knocked down by the Newton secondary and Newton led, 7 to 6.

Rindge marched down the field shortly after the kickoff opening the second half but Stewart, Newton's reserve centre, intercepted a pass to halt the attack near the Newton 30. Newton kicked into Rindge territory. On the second play Watson tore off 21 yards and Rindge was on another march. With a 16-yard gain on a forward pass as the feature Rindge reached the Newton 21-yard line. From this point Watson found a hole in the left side of the Newton line and ran 21-yards for the winning touchdown. Maloney carried through the same spot for the point after giving Rindge its 13-7 victory and the Suburban league title.

Community Chest Program to Begin brarian; and a round table group from Ward 5, including Julius E. Warren, Mrs. Theron B. Walker, Mr. Frank L. Richardson and Mr. Charles C. Dasey.

Tomorrow evening, General Daniel A. Needham is the first speaker; the High School Band renders some stirring music; the ERA Orchestra furnishes the usual marching theme music throughout the program; Miss Bertha Allen, Superintendent of Hospital with a corp of nurses in attendance on stage, will deliver a talk on the needs of the Sick and Aged in Newton. Dr. Cecil Clark will introduce one of his nit-wit dialogues.

The fact that the High School Band, band cheer leaders and Miss Jean Budding, leader of the High School Band, will give a student atmosphere to the occasion, is balanced by a splendid dialogue between Mr. Walter R. Amesbury, Chairman of the School Committee and Mr. Julius E. Warren, the new Superintendent of the Newton Schools.

The Sunday evening program is of an entirely different nature and the audience is by invitation. The program is of a concert type of program, suitable to Armistice Day.

The principal speakers will be Father Russell T. Haley and Dr. Edward T. Sullivan. The meeting will close with the Star Spangled Banner sung by Madame Rose Zulalian, famous for her rendition of same at the Democratic Convention in Chicago. Commander Arthur McCarthy of American Legion Post No. 48; Commander George E. McNamee, Veteran of Foreign Wars; and Chaplain Theodore Morton of American Legion Post No. 48 will also speak briefly. In addition, there are outstanding operatic vocal numbers by Camille Jirouard and William Bilodeau. Mrs. Vincent V. Hubbard of Newtonville will accompany these artists, who have been supplied through the courtesy of the Hubbard Vocal Studios.

On Sunday afternoon there will also be a one hour program at 2:00 p. m. from WBSO. Mr. Edwin C. Johnson and Dr. Miriam Skirball will be the principal speakers.

Entertainment will be provided by Mrs. Mary Barr Snyder playing first movement for Greek Concerto in A minor, accompanied by Ralph McLean at second piano. A trio from the All-Newton Music School composed of Anna Kovitz, violin; Norma Olson, 'cello; Dorothy Kovitz, piano will render a beautiful number entitled "Gysy Rondo" by Haydn.

"Newton on Parade" moves into remote control studio in the High School Building on Wednesday, the 14th, at the same hour. Beginning the 15th the Newton Community Chest is sponsoring a series of two hour programs 7:30 to 9:30 from this same remote control studio with 79 different speakers and different musical organizations each evening and all devoted to explaining in an interesting manner the work accomplished in Newton by the 14 individual agencies which comprise the Newton Community Chest, Inc. A large audience composed chiefly of all officers and directors of the Chest Campaign, executive committee, village chairmen, village majors, captains and workers, was present.

Complimentary tickets have been distributed to the villagers through campaign workers for the programs of November 9, 10, 12 and 13. These tickets are good up to 7 p. m., at which time the public without tickets will be admitted. Doors close at 7:10 to permit the radio director to give final instructions to the audience and participants.

Mr. Leon B. Rogers, President of the Newton Community Chest, Inc., believes that these programs, including as they do between 200 and 300 participants in the programs themselves and several thousand in attendance together with the listening Newton audience, will do much to further good community spirit and bring to the attention of the entire city its present needs,—and the necessity as well as the opportunity for supporting the private welfare agencies of the city. He further emphasizes the fact that this year's publicity, radio, and campaign expense is less than 3½% of the total fund to be raised and that this compares favorably with the general average of 8% for the vast majority of Community Chests.

SPORT NOTES

Johnson and Houghton Teammates

Teddy Johnson and Charlie Houghton, former Newton high school athletes, are teammates on the Morristown, New Jersey, Prep School football team. Houghton, who played tackle and end, has been playing a backfield position most of the season, along with Johnson. The latter has been playing an inspired game. In the game with Pingree school Houghton played at tackle in order to favor an injured leg while Johnson was easily the outstanding Morristown player. Johnson's kicking enabled Morristown to hold Pingree to a scoreless tie. He also made the longest run of the game, a jaunt of 31 yards.

Huston Scores for Gymnast

Brown University won its first football game in four starts last Saturday upsetting Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, 13 to 7. Capt. Karaban of Brown tallied the Bears' two touchdowns although Perry Elrod, former Newton star, gave him valuable assistance with his ball-carrying. Warren Huston, another former Newton luminary, was brilliant for the Indians. He reeled off a 25-yard jaunt and a few plays later a 36-yard run for Springfield's touchdown. A 35-yard runback of a kickoff was another of his contributions while his punting was the most brilliant seen on Brown field in a long time. Bob Chapin, a Newton Centre youth, played as a reserve guard for Brown.

Newton Post A. L. Ball On Nov. 12th

The annual Armistice Day ball of Newton Post, American Legion, will be held on Monday night, Nov. 12th, at the State Armory, West Newton. There will be a concert by the orchestra from 8 to 9 and dancing from 9 to 12. The grand march will be lead by Mayor Weeks. At 11 o'clock a patriotic tableau will be presented. The committee in charge of the affair is headed by Vice Commander Charles E. Walker of Newton Post.

Cunningham Made Patrolman

James L. Cunningham of 118 River st., West Newton, was appointed a member of the Newton police department last Friday to succeed Patrolman Michael Mooney who resigned. Cunningham, who is 31 years of age, was appointed a member of the reserve force on Oct. 4, 1930. He was assigned to do relief duty nights.

80th Birthday of Claflin Guard Veteran

Richard Cunningham, chairman of the Wellesley Board of Assessors, will celebrate his 80th birthday on Nov. 11th by holding a reception in the Unitarian Parish House, Wellesley Hills, from 4 to 6 p. m. Mr. Cunningham is well known in the Newtons. He was a member of the Claflin Guard, old Company C of the 5th Massachusetts Infantry, 60 years ago, under Captain Walworth. He cooperated with Mayor John W. Weeks in the development of Newton and Wellesley through the building of the old Boston & Worcester Street Railway. Mr. Cunningham will be glad to have his Newton friends call and greet him at his birthday celebration.

NEWTON RESERVES TO SEE ACTION IN GAME WITH MANCHESTER

Tomorrow afternoon the Newton High School football team takes its first trip in many years outside of Massachusetts to meet Manchester (N. H.) Central High at the latter's gridiron. With several of the squad suffering from injuries and several others nursing minor hurts and bruises Coach Sanborn will be forced to use many of the reserves in the game. During the past three weeks three regular guards have been lost for various reasons although the starting guards, Gale Wisbach and Sam Miller are still rated as regulars. These two lads will start at the guard berths tomorrow.

Caruso, Koffman, and DeNapoli, three youths who have pressed the two starters all season are the three guards who have been lost to the squad. Caruso and Koffman are lost for the season while the status of DeNapoli is not yet definite. Whether or not he will play in the Waltham or Brookline games will have to await further developments.

In the backfield Sargent Moore is nursing a knee which may keep him out of action tomorrow. Ernest Savignano, who was removed from the Rindge game with an injured thumb, will probably see some action but he is handicapped in handling the ball which may force him to the sidelines. Captain Gus Castoldi aggravated an old injury against Rindge and while he also will probably start against Manchester he will have plenty of relief service from the reserve ends.

Coach Sanborn will probably start his regular line with Castoldi and Byrne at the ends, Grown and Milner as tackles, Miller and Wisbach as guards, and Melvin Swig at centre. Savignano, Paul Treannie, Ernie McLeod and Reardon are tentative backfield starters. "Tommy" Thompson, a brother of Charley Thompson, 1933 captain, is slated for plenty of action in the backfield. Another lad likely to get Coach Sanborn's nod early in the game is Guido Castoldi, younger brother of Captain Gus. This youth is coming along well and with another year ahead of him may fit into the holes which will be left by graduation. Pete Morrison is shaping up as a reserve centre as a relief for Milner or Grow. Weinstein, who was injured in the Quincy game about the same time as Koffman, is still unavailable.

Alan Wilson, reserve tackle who earned a regular berth in the last two games, is the only player who will become ineligible next Monday when the local scholastic eligibility rules become effective.

That Coach Sanborn is thinking of next year's season is revealed in the fact that a large number of the reserves have one or two years more to play football. A few of the regulars will also be on hand next year. This latter group includes Howard Milner, tackle, and Ernie Savignano, Sargent Moore, Ernie McLeod, and others in the backfield. Linemen who have seen considerable action who will be back again include Wilson, at tackle, Wittens and Allen, ends, Koffman and DeNapoli, guards, and Packard, centre, giving the Newton coaches an excellent seasoned group to work with.

Getting back to tomorrow's game it is interesting to note that Manchester was the first team to upset Everett, winning last Saturday 21 tó 6. Manchester packs an offence which is largely built around "Iron Bull" Dubuis, who was a star performer in the game at Newton last year. While the Manchester offence depends largely upon end runs it has a good line attack as well. Newton should be due for another defeat unless the orange and black plays an inspired game. Manchester can be stopped by a good, fast-charging line, but on the basis of the season to date it does not look as though Newton were equal to the task.

Kiwanians Elect Thompson As President

At the annual election of officers held Tuesday, November 6th, the Newton Kiwanis Club unanimously elected Rupert C. Thompson, Jr., President. The club year starts January first and a busy and important term is anticipated.

Kiwanis in New England is comprised of one hundred clubs with a total membership of five thousand business and professional men. The Governor-Elect of the New England District, James P. Gallagher, is a member of the Newton Club and a predecessor of President-Elect Thompson. This will mean the Newton Club will be expected to show exceptional leadership during 1935 and with Mr. Thompson at the helm it is confidently felt this will be a reality.

His education and business experience fit him especially well for the task ahead. He is associated with the Newton Trust Company in the office of Assistant Treasurer in charge of its Newton Centre office. During the past several years he has been identified with many of Newton's civic affairs and among other activities has served as Secretary of the Dartmouth College Club of Newton.

He will succeed James Forbes, Principal of the Newton Trade School, who is now terminating a successful year as head of the club. Mr. Thompson will be ably supported by Vice Presidents-Elect John J. Carver and J. Ernest Gibson.

James P. Gallagher, clerk of the Newton District Court and Governor of the New England Kiwanis district, attended the annual session of the Kiwanis International Council at Chicago on November 1st, 2nd and 3rd. The council is composed of 29 Governors-Elect, International Board of Trustees and the International officers. The business of the council is to formulate plans to assure the attainment each year of the objectives of the Kiwanis organization.

The Lieutenant Governors training school and conference for the New England district will be held at Boston on November 17 and 18 under the direction of Governor-Elect Gallagher. The mid-winter conference at which district officers will be installed is scheduled for the week of January 6th. It will be held in Boston.

"Sherlock Holmes" School Play

Three Musketeers" and Mr. Elicker will long be remembered as John Silver in the highly successful presentation of "Treasure Island." Mr. Carl Swan who has recently starred in comic parts takes the part of Larrabee, the blackmailer, ably abetted by Mrs. Edith E. Newcomb. Mr. Swan starred as Tony Lumpkin in "She Stoops to Conquer" and Mrs. Newcomb nearly stole the show in 1933 as Milady in "The Three Musketeers."

The same villainous crew that made "Treasure Island" so exciting a production should combine, in the parts of underlings to Prof. Moriarty, to make the performances thrilling enough. The parts of Craigin, Leary, McTague, Bassick, and Forman are taken by Messrs. Thurber, Enoch, Consodine, Hussey and Cutting. Especially should their performances please the junior high school audience for whom a special Saturday morning performance has been arranged.

Other parts will be taken by George Rohrbough, as Dr. Watson, and Lester Davis '35 as office assistant to the great detective.

The production committee, headed by Miss A. Hortense Church, has subdivided its energies so that every member of the faculty has some connection with the play, which is annually undertaken not only to provide funds for carrying on student welfare work but with the hope of further centering community interest in the schools. To that end a special effort in being made by the committee to make the performances, particularly that of Saturday evening, community affairs.

Charles Ward Post, 62 G.A.R., Installs Officers

On Saturday, Nov. 3, Charles Ward Post, 62, G. A. R., held their annual installation in the Memorial Building at City Hall. Joseph Rossiter was the installing officer. Officers installed were: Commander, Leonard Boyd; Sr. Vice-Com., Joseph Rossiter; Jr. Vice-Com., Comrade Ayles; Adit., Mrs. Osborne; Surgeon, Otis Gray; Chaplain, Mrs. Beckwith; Officer of the Day, Otis Gray; Q. M. Sergt., Curtiss Abbott; Q. M., Mrs. Kidder. Commander Boyd spoke interestingly of his years as a member of Post 62. Pres. Agnes Sheridan also spoke briefly.

Post 62 has lost four members the past year. Five of the six remaining members of the post attended the installation. They were Comrades Boyd, Ayles, Rossiter, Gray and Abbott.

Members of the post voted to present $100 to the Gov. John A. Andrews Home and at the close of the meeting drove there to present the check for that sum. Members of Tent 2, D. V., presented Comrade Curtiss Abbott with a beautiful birthday cake, it being his 94th birthday.

Want Traffic Restrictions On Austin St.

A hearing was held before the Board of Aldermen on Monday night on a petition that Austin st., Newtonville, between Walnut st. and Lowell ave., be restricted to one hour parking. Carl G. Miller of 21 Austin st. protested that he had entered a petition asking that Austin st. be made a one-way street between Walnut st. and Lowell ave., and that parking be limited to one side. He wanted to know why the City Clerk had not included the one-way restriction in the notice of the hearing. Alderman Grebenstein, chairman of the Traffic Committee of the Aldermen, informed Mr. Miller that the hearing was being held on a different petition.

Miller stated that Austin st. is narrow, used by many large trucks and that despite the fact that parking is supposed to be restricted on one side for a distance from Walnut st., this restriction is not enforced and cars park all day long on both sides. He said four signs had been placed along the street several years ago calling attention to the restriction, but for a long time only one of these signs has remained standing. He complained that cars park all day long in front of his house and his neighbors' houses and impede other cars passing. He stated that some of the all-day parkers are persons who commute to Boston. One is a young man who works in a nearby bank, and another is an employee of the library department. He said he had remonstrated with some of those who park their cars all day and had been told to "Mind your own business." He said that cars are parked on Austin st. at night without parking lights, and that this law is being violated on all streets in this city. He stated that the Newton Welfare Bureau has 5 or 6 cars parked on Austin st. most of the day.

Dr. John Barker of 16 Austin st. objected to a one hour parking restriction. He said it would cause him inconvenience. Harriet Parsons, executive secretary of the Welfare Bureau, said the bureau has 5 cars, three of which are on call at all hours to go to various parts of the city. She said the bureau has meetings four times each month and the members want to park within reasonable distance. She asked that the Welfare Bureau be excluded from the parking restrictions. Paul R. Knight of 34 Austin st. said he favors Austin st. being made one-way between Walnut st. and Lowell ave., but he does not favor the one hour parking restriction. He does object to cars parking in front of his driveway and front door. The matter was referred to the Committee on Street Traffic.

Central Women's Ass'n. Has Interesting Meeting

Wednesday, November 7th, the Woman's Association of Central Church, Newtonville, enjoyed a remarkable program.

Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, the president was in the chair. Mrs. Merrill sang two selections. After the skilful and rapid disposal of reports and other items of business, including change in the constitution and full information about the Friendly circles to be at once initiated, the assembly turned to the theme of the day, Cenral Church, its activities, aims and aspirations. The variety and charm of the revelation, began with Mrs. Andress's showing of the work for kindergartners in the church school, and closed with Mr. Merrill's dream of what Central Church might, —with more room, a larger membership, and earnest spirit—do for the whole parish community. Mrs. Andress explained the first method with the Kindergartners. Mrs. Franklin Field, superintendent of the primary school, explained her way of meeting the need of child life, in lessons of kindness, reverence, respect for belongings of others,—"positive doings, not many don'ts." Miss Benson in pre-junior department, meets the active age of pupils when "we do things,"—when "we are at work in God's world." Mrs. Woodward's lantern pictures and her talk, made more poetry out of the Song of Creation in the Bible, showing a fire mist and a planet, and life stages from green scum to dinosaur, caveman and Adam. Mr. Kuebler gave an account of the Young Peoples' organizations and meetings. It was a long program but it held the audience to the last. Mrs. Carver, secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference of Woman's work brought a message of gracious appreciation for the work of Central Church.

Many Friends Honor Mrs. Soden on 90th Birthday

Nearly three hundred invited guests attended the evening reception in honor of Madame Mary E. Soden on her 90th birthday, Wednesday, Nov. 7th.

The beautiful and spacious rooms in Madame Soden's home were tastefully decorated with roses, chrysanthemums and palms.

It was indeed a beautiful setting for the lovely lady who had grown old so gracefully. A number of relatives and out of town friends came long distances to be present. Among the many distinguished guests were: President and Mrs. Daniel Marsh of Boston University, Dean Harvard Le Sourd of the graduate school of B. U.; also Dean Carl Ell, vice president of Northeastern University.

A splendid musical program was rendered by the Elsie Foss trio: Irene Forte, violinist; Ruth Masters, cellist; and Elsie Foss, pianist.

Fire Endangers Family at Newtonville

A fire which started in the living room at the home of Thomas Halloran, 11 Craft street, Newtonville, about 6:30 Tuesday morning, filled the house with dense smoke and necessitated Halloran's wife and children making a hasty exit from the house. The smoke awakened the two children of the family and their cries aroused the parents. Halloran started to fight the fire after telephoning to the fire department and succeeded in confining it to the living room until the firemen arrived. Mrs. Halloran rushed from the house with her four year old son. When she returned to carry out her three year old boy, she found he had left his crib, and she was unable to locate him in the thick smoke. Joseph Morrisey who resides in the other half of the house, found the Halloran child in a room on the second floor and carried him to the street. The damage to the house and furnishings was estimated at about $500.

THE VOTERS HAVE SPOKEN

The voters of Massachusetts have spoken. They have chosen those who are to bear the responsibilities of the government of the State for the next two years. The election proved many things. In the first place it placed an indelible stamp of approval upon the national administration in its efforts to lead the way to economic recovery. It also proved that the Republican candidates for major offices had no chance to be elected. It was an occurrence in which individuals did not count in the slightest. Furthermore it proved beyond any shadow of doubt that the Republican party must develop a constructive and progressive program in order to regain its place in the State, as well as in the Nation. This program must of course be based upon sound governmental practices but it must also contain definite programs for the benefit of individuals. The task is far from hopeless despite the overwhelming setback of Tuesday. And there is no time like the present to begin.

NEWTON—THERE SHE STANDS

Newton—there she stands. Like a towering tree midst a forest which has been largely stripped by the woodsmen Newton stands out in the state as the rock-bound Republican stronghold. Every Republican candidate was given a large majority here in Tuesday's election. It is to be regretted, however, that Newton did not stand behind Congressman Luce as it had been wont to do. Although Mayor Russell of Cambridge cut into the veteran Congressman's strength here it is significant to note that had Newton given the latter the same majority that it gave other Republican candidates the ultimate outcome would have been no different. Newton also gave substantial majorities to all but one of the various referenda. With a large number of voters registering their opinion on these matters there is little doubt as to the wishes of Newton residents.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO SHARE

Next week Thursday the annual Community Chest Campaign gets under way. This week a broadcasting program was begun which is intended to inform you as to various facts connected with the coming drive. In this campaign every one of us has an opportunity to share in a worthwhile cause. The various welfare and character-building agencies have had a difficult time in making both ends meet during recent years and the year ahead will be fully as difficult as those just past. The work of the agencies of the Chest is vital. It aims at the very fundamentals of citizenship. It not only is your duty to share in this work but it is an opportunity to help build for the future of Newton.

HENRY A. WENTWORTH

By F. F. MEYER

Born: on Beacon Hill, Boston, Mass. Feb. 22, 1884. Parents: Father, James H.—Mother: Alice C. (Keith).

Prepared: Lynn Classical High School, 1901. B. S. Mass. Institute of Technology, 1905.

Married: Edith Z. Ellis, Graduate of Smith College, 1906.

Family: 3 children, Nathan 23, (Resident of France), Vincent 19 (Dartmouth), Gordon, 16 (Newton High School).

Mr. Wentworth believes that a College Education sprinkles our perspective with the lure of Star-dust rather than Gold-dust. "The College does not supply you with a definite plan of life in its curriculum. But as for equipping you to savor life, to appreciate to the full the best that offers—no matter how far short you yourself fall in the attainment—nothing, he still believes, can take the place of those undergraduate years."

His life reveals the enduring quality of that influence. Mr. Wentworth was one year assistant at M. I. T.; several years in mining machinery business and in examination work in mining and metallurgy as a consulting engineer; technical director, then vice-president of the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Company for ten years; again consulting engineer and mining operator; now president Farrington Manufacturing Company of Jamaica Plain, manufacturer of eye glass cases, safety razor b oxes, jewelry boxes, and the Charg-a-Plate used by department stores; executor and trustee.

Auburndale Co-operative Bank—director and chairman of finance committee.

Newton National Bank—director and member of executive committee.

Warren Brothers Company—director.

Braeburn Country Club—director.

Hobby—golf—was secretary-treasurer of Massachusetts Golf Association for three years, now vice-president of New England Golf Association. Moved to Auburndale in 1908 and has lived there ever since. Member of University Club, Boston (life); Engineers' Club, New York; Algonquin Club, Boston; Braeburn Country Club; Plymouth Country Club; Scott Fish and Game Club, Quebec; Mining & Metallurgical Society of America; American Institute of Mining & Metallurgy.

Mr. Wentworth's home is in Auburndale, 15 miles out of Boston, Mass., he has been able, to the less confined life in the country, to keep in shape and not grow too old.

Mr. Wentworth's business address, 55 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

Edwards May Run in Ward 5

Roy S. Edwards of the Basley Lumber Company stated yesterday that reports had reached him from various sources that he is to be a candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5. He said it is true that he has been approached by several groups of citizens who asked him to run for this office, but because of his business and other activities he has been unable to commit himself definitely on this matter. He added that at a future date he will give his friends a definite answer as to his candidacy.

Object To Gravel Pit At Oak Hill

A periodical visit of Oak Hill residents to city hall was made on Monday night. The cause was another petition from George S. Wilbur for a renewal of the permit to use buildings and operate machinery at the gravel pit of the Highland Sand & Gravel Company near Wiswall road, Oak Hill. There was so much opposition to the gravel pit when Mr. Wilbur applied for an extension of his permit last May, that the renewal was limited to six months. Mr. Wilbur said that he desires to continue operating the pit under the same conditions as he has the past six months. He stated that he has filled in a pond at the property during this period, using 10,000 cubic yards of fill.

Louis E. Smith of 325 Brookline street, Oak Hill, again led the opponents of the gravel pit. He said that the pit machinery is just as noisy as it was six months ago, can be heard ¾ of a mile, and in addition the noise of the big truck traveling to and from the pit annoys residents. He said that the development of large areas of land is retarded, much tax revenue thereby lost, and the interests of the city adversely affected. He stated that the city obtains little tax revenue from the gravel pit property. Mr. Smith argued that the time has come to stop gravel pits in Newton. He said he understands the Oak Hill pit is the only one now operating, and that gravel has been excavated not only from the property owned by Wilbur, but from the Estes property adjoining. He asked the aldermen not to renew the permit.

Carl C. Mullen of 269 Brookline street claimed that the conditions under which the last permit to operate the gravel pit was granted, have not been complied with. He did not state in what way the conditions were broken. Henry S. Cummings of 33 Oak Hill street said that the many gravel trucks rumbling over the streets destroy real estate values. He said that in recent years the assessments on land at Oak Hill have been largely increased and the values decreased because of the gravel pit. He contended that the city ought to buy the gravel pit property. Phillip Drinker said he recently moved from Brookline to a new street at Oak Hill expecting to find the quiet of a countryside, and instead he has to listen to the noise of the gravel pit. Sumner Roberts of 74 Oak Hill street said that the digging at the pit should be confined to the land owned by Wilbur.

Alderman Temperley asked Mr. Wilbur as to the area of the pond he had filled in. Wilbur said he did not know the area, but estimated it at about an acre. He told Temperley that the gravel pit property contains 71 acres and that 5000 cubic yards of fill will cover an acre to a depth of 3 feet. He said that the pond he had filled was used as a storage basin for water used in washing the gravel, but youths kept using it as a swimming place, and for this reason he filled it with clay and sand.

No action was taken Monday night on the petition.

Local Florist Gives Talk at Rotary Club

Mathew F. Ruane, popular Newtonville florist and known to his fellow Rotarians as "Mattie," gave an interesting talk at the Monday meeting this week on various phases of the florist business. "Plants are like human beings, they need sufficient nourishment but as in the case of people, there is danger in too much. Plants, like humans, must get rid of waste material, hence the little hole at the botton of the flower pot," he said. When as frequently happens, some one calls Mr. Ruane on the phone as to how much water to give a fern, he says he replies, "Use common sense."

We must remember that few plants are successful the year around. It takes 15 months for the cyclamen from the planting of the seed to the first bloom. We cannot expect it to last after that more than a short time, especially in the dry and warm air of a modern house. But people will complain that they have wasted a dollar and a half on such a plant although they spend an equal amount on the movies without batting an eye.

Interesting is the story of bulbs, of which the speaker handles yearly some 100,000. Until 1916, when Quarantine Act No. 16 became a law, bulbs were imported from Holland; now we grow them in Virginia, Texas, on Long Island and in the Puget Sound region. Those raised in the far Northwest are the only ones that are superior to the Holland variety. Dutch growers of bulbs, anticipating the law of 1916 against them, came over here five years earlier to experiment with bulbs in this country. Mr. Ruane is of the opinion that as far as the danger from insect pests is concerned the Quarantine Act of 1916 was unnecessary.

The excellent organization of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association, now worldwide in its membership, grew out of a meeting of 52 florists in New York in 1912. The penalties for members who are not honest in fulfilling telegraph and cable orders is so severe that seldom has any one dared to digress. The association issues a monthly publication. The business transacted reached its peak in 1928 when over eight millions of dollars worth of flowers were ordered in this way; then for a few years there was a decline; since 1932 an upward swing has taken place, and the association is again approaching the 1928 figure. The speaker answered several questions at the close of his valuable talk.

Two new members were taken into the fellowship of the club: George Winthrop Brainerd, principal of the Claflin, Adams and Horace Mann schools, and George Wrye, insurance agent. As the club already has three Georges, these new members will, no doubt, be called George IV and George V.

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

The sweeping victory of James M. Curley and the Democratic ticket in Massachusetts on Tuesday revealed to many thousands of persons in this State that the old order is rapidly changing. There are many who still delude themselves that conditions will return to what was considered normal before 1929. Other changes, politically and economically, which will occur in the near future, may disillusion these ultra conservatives. Not only political, but so called moral viewpoints have been drastically changed. When the great majority of Massachusetts citizens, including those of Newton, will vote in favor of liquor licenses, and also gambling on horse races and dog races, times have changed, and how. As Senator Borah, Speaker Saltonstall and other Republican leaders assert, if the Republican Party is to continue as a vital force in this Nation, it must be rebuilt. Ideas and doctrines which were sound and logical in the past, are now obsolete.

The triumph of James M. Curley is a result of the dogged determination, the marvelous vitality of the man, plus his knowledge of political science and susceptibility of people. Mr. Curley has had his ups and downs in his life-long occupation in the field of politics. But, unlike most other men, when he went down, he had no intention of remaining down—and he hasn't. Two years ago Mr. Curley received one of the worst defeats in his career. The only prominent Democrat in Massachusetts to support the candidacy of Roosevelt for president, he was badly beaten by the popularity of Al Smith in this State. In fact, he was so decisively defeated, that Franklin D. Roosevelt when he was elected president, apparently sidetracked the man who had been his leading supporter in this State. Did Mr. Curley become downhearted? Did he retire to innocuous desuetude? No! Positively No! James Michael Curley isn't built that way. He bided his time, and the rapidly changing course of events worked to his advantage. The deflection of Al Smith to the plutocrats and the controversy that former idol of the Democrats became engaged in with Father Coughlin, redounded to the tremendous advantage of Mr. Curley. And the latter didn't fail to take advantage of his opportunity. President Roosevelt may have deserted Mr. Curley, but James Michael didn't sulk. He astutely hitched his wagon to the Roosevelt star, and the results of his fight in the State primary election and the election on Tuesday proved that he knew what he was doing. With a Legislature as strongly Democratic as the incoming Massachusetts Legislature will be, Mr. Curley is sitting pretty. If he lives until the term of Marcus Coolidge expires, and he is quite husky, it is probable that the expert politician from Jamaica Plain may oppose the colorless gentleman from Fitchburg—and defeat him for the nomination.

The Republican party of California endorsed the Townsend Plan, to offset Sinclair's "Epic" program. But, believe it or not, there are millions of persons of old American ancestry in this country who are favoring some plan similar to the seemingly ridiculous scheme proposed by Dr. Townsend. Such a large percentage of the people of the U. S. A. are receiving salaries, pensions, doles, payments for alleged disability and other types of largess from the Federal, State and local governments that those who are not are gradually being reduced to a condition where they, too, must be added to the rapidly growing list of recipients of Government aid or extravagance.

The "Yes" vote on nearly all of the referenda proved the contention that most people are "Yes" men and women. It is a safe bet that a large percentage of those who voted on these matters did not understand what they were doing. They fell for the propaganda on the nullification of the law prohibiting steel traps. Despite the fact that officers of the Massachusetts Audubon Society and such lovers of birds as Thornton Burgess urged the defeat of this referendum. A majority of Newton voters favored the League of Nations despite the opposition of leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties to this country becoming further entangled in the troubles of those European nations which refuse to pay their just debts to us; despite the fact that we have troubles aplenty of our own; despite the fact that much of the unemployment here is caused by the flooding of this country with products made by European and Asiatic workers who labor at wages so low that our workers could not exist under the American standard of living if they had to depend on such wages. And a majority of Newton voters favored gambling on horse races—the most alluring and constant way in which easy marks can be separated from their cash. Especially when there are so many who have so much cash to spare as they have today.

90th Birthday of West Newton Man

Albert L. Knox of 50 Wauwinet rd., West Newton, was tendered a surprise on Sunday when about 100 of his neighbors, fraternal and former business associates visited him at his residence in observance of his 90th birthday. One of the many remembrances was a 90-candle birthday cake delivered by a delegation from Dorchester Lodge of Masons. Prior to his retirement on November 7, 1930, Mr. Knox was superintendent of employee buildings at the Edison plant on Massachusetts ave., Roxbury. On Monday he was a guest of honor at the Edison restaurant there. Despite his years, Mr. Knox is exceedingly active. He has three sons — Russell of Boston, Harry of Marlboro, New Hampshire, and George, with whom he resides.

Reception Tendered Rev. Eugene A. Twomey

On Tuesday evening, November 6, approximately four hundred parishioners and friends met in the auditorium of St. Philip Neri's Church, Waban, to tender a reception to Rev. Eugene A. Twomey, first pastor of the new parish of St. Philip Neri.

His Excellency, Bishop Francis J. Spellman of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Newton Centre, was an honored guest. Other clergymen who attended were Rev. John J. Flynn of Newton Centre and Rev. J. J. Flood of Newton Lower Falls.

Mr. Wilfred Owen of Waban acted as Master of Ceremonies and after welcoming Fr. Twomey to Waban introduced him to the parishioners. Fr. Twomey addressed the gathering, explaining his ambitions and aims as pastor. One of these is to become better acquainted in order to serve well the people of Waban and another is to build a priest's residence before the end of the current year.

He expressed his appreciation to His Eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell, for the trust imposed in him by the assignment to the pastorate of St. Philip Neri and to Bishop Spellman and Rev. Dennis H. Donovan of Newton Upper Falls, for their kindness and co-operation since his arrival in Waban.

Miss Margaret Reeves, pianist, contributed several selections to the great enjoyment of all present.

His Excellency, The Bishop, welcomed Fr. Twomey and offered the assistance of his church.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge headed by Mrs. James Willing who was assisted by Mesdames John E. Bailey, E. W. Bartram, James Malley, Earle Dempsey and Orville Forte.

Neil O'Hara gave one of his inimitable talks which was warmly applauded.

SHEEHAN—HARRINGTON

Miss Lucy Warren Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Harrington of West Newton and Mr. John Richard Sheehan of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Sheehan of West Newton, were married on November seventh at the Unitarian Church in West Newton. Their marriage was solemnized on the fortieth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

The bride wore ashes-of-roses velvet and carried a bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses and African daisies. Miss Mary Elizabeth Harrington was her sister's only attendant. Her gown was of velvet in a wood-violet shade and she wore a corsage of talisman roses. Mr. Stanley Rose of New York served as best man, and Mr. Philip Sheehan, brother of the groom, and Mr. James Elwell of Northampton, a cousin of the bride, were the ushers.

A small reception was held in the bride's home following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Sheehan will make their home in Jackson Heights, Long Island.

MEDAGLIA—FRANGO

A very pretty fall wedding was held at the Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church on Saturday morning, November third, at 10 o'clock, when Miss Mary Frango, of 108 Oak st., Newton Upper Falls and Mr. Anthony Joseph Medaglia of 43 Oak ave., West Newton, were married with a double ring service, followed by a nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Daniel F. Dunn, assistant pastor of the church. The bride was given in marriage by her step father, Mr. John Guido.

Carnations and palms decorated the altar and a lighted candle was at each pew in the church.

The bride's gown was of ivory transparent velvet with tulle veil and cap-trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley with a double orchid center.

The bride's attendants were Miss Antoinette Guido, sister of the bride, wearing a gown of petunia transparent velvet with harmonizing hat and silver accessories and a bouquet of talisman roses.

The four bridesmaids were the Misses Julia Sherman, Fannie Cardella, Anna and Theresa Medaglia who were dressed in blue transparent velvet with silver accessories and matching hats and carried arm bouquets of butterfly roses.

The flower girls were Genevieve and Nancy Tocci, nieces of the bride. They were dressed in cerese and salmon pink transparent velvet with chapeaux to match. They had shoulder bouquets of talisman roses and carried baskets of mixed flower petals.

Little Robert Rissa was ring bearer. He wore a suit of white satin and carried the rings on a tiny satin pillow.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Salvatore Medaglia of West Newton.

The ushers were Francis Frango, John Savagnano, Nick Leeber, and Luigi Mingace.

Nuptial music was rendered by the church organist, Mrs. Flood.

A wedding reception and breakfast attended by one hundred relatives and friends followed at the home of the bride.

A larger reception to their many friends followed at the West Newton Catholic Club where the mother of the bride and groom assisted the wedding party in receiving.

Mr. John Saviago, a nephew of the bride, was musical director of the larger reception.

Following a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Medaglia will reside at 18 Indiana terrace which was recently purchased by the bridegroom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Guido of Upper Falls and is a graduate of the Newton High School. The groom is the son of Mrs. Victoria Medaglia of West Newton.

WOMEN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

Fall Meeting of Newton Federation

The Annual Fall Meeting of the Newton Federation will be held at the Newton Centre Woman's Club, on Thursday, November 15th. Round Table Conferences, discussing departmental work, will open the session at 10 a. m. The Motion Pictures committee and the committee on International Affairs are planning on a big morning. Arrangements have been made to present several speakers who can give worthwhile information on this great public problem; among them representatives from the Arlington Motion Picture Council, and W. Leslie Vendslev, of the Wellesley Community Theatre, who will tell of the situation as it applies to the Independent theatre.

The Public Health chairman is proud to present for this Round Table Dr. Luise Diez, well known authority on her subject, who will conduct a discussion on General Health Topics. Such a profitable opportunity for general discussion with Dr. Diez is sure to appeal to many interested in this phase of daily life.

The important work of Press will have the State leader, Miss Grace Parker, the new chairman of Publicity for the State Federation. Officers of clubs and members of Federation committees should be present to benefit by these morning discussions.

At 12:30 o'clock, a fifty-cent luncheon will be served under the direction of Mrs. Benjamin D. Miller. Positively no reservations for the luncheon can be made after November 12th. Miss Helen Sandstrom, social worker of Stearns School Centre, will be the luncheon speaker.

The business meeting will be called at 2 o'clock, and will be followed by community singing.

Mrs. Victor P. Ratzburg, chairman of the Program committee, has arranged a very interesting program for the afternoon. Julius E. Warren, Superintendent of the Newton Schools, and Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of Motor Vehicles, will give the addresses, after which there will be a question period.

Bazaar Oriental Offers Attractions

Oh, East is East, and West is West,
But soon the twain shall meet,
When at the Bazaar Oriental,
Our friends and neighbors we greet.

Rugs from Persia, gay prints from India, and costumes from many Eastern lands will furnish color and background for the Bazaar Oriental to be given by the Auburndale Woman's Club, on Tuesday, November 13th, from 2 till 9 p. m., in the Auburndale Club House. Each committee of the Club is to have its share in the activities of the day.

At the Art Table, in charge of Mrs. Ray Lamb, will be found the articles which are always so much in demand for prizes, and for gifts during the coming holidays, while Mrs. Rufus Estabrook, chairman of Christmas Seals, will show attractive paper and ribbons for wrapping parcels, as well as greeting cards.

At the American Home Table, of which Mrs. Lyscomb Bruce, Jr., is chairman, the housekeeper will find aprons, towels, luncheon sets, and many other articles useful, yet harmonizing with her color schemes, and at the Conservation Table nearby, she may stock upon marmalades, jellies, and pickles, as well as canned goods, from Mrs. Ralph Phipps and her committee.

Home-cooked delicacies always appeal to the busy woman of today, and at the International Relations Table, where Mrs. Joseph Otis will be in charge, she will have a varied assortment from which to choose, and she may also buy home-made candy, as well as nuts from the Community Service Table, where Mrs. Strabo Claggett will be assisted by her committee.

Dolls and books are always in demand during the holidays, and Mrs. Joseph McCarron and her Emergency Relief committee will have dolls which will delight the heart of little girls, and the pocket books of their mothers. Mrs. John Wheelock, who heads the Education committee, will have books for all ages.

The Garden Club, with Mrs. Ralph Keyes as chairman, is awakening considerable interest in flower culture and arrangement, and at this table will be found bulbs, plants, and winter bouquets, as well as many useful helps to the home gardener.

The Old Well, in charge of the Legislative committee, Mrs. Arthur Desoe, chairman, will be filled with toys suitable for boys and girls, as well as mystery packages for their elders, while the always popular "Five and Ten Cent" Table will be run by the Visiting committee, with Mrs. Roy Miller in charge. There will also be a "White Elephant" Table conducted by the custodian, Mrs. Raymond Perkins, and to learn what the future has in store, one should visit the Fortune Teller's Booth which is in charge of the chairman of the Literature committee, Mrs. Arthur Furbish.

An afternoon of Bridge may be enjoyed by visiting the Woman's Club Room where the Public Health committee, headed by Mrs. Herbert Althens, will be hostess, and refreshments may be obtained during the afternoon and evening in the Lounge where the Hospitality committee, under Mrs. Ralph Balch, and the Doorkeepers, Mrs. Stuart Southgate, chairman, will serve tea, sandwiches, and ice cream.

Two Shows, one at 4 and the other at 8 o'clock, will be staged by the Drama committee, in charge of its chairman, Mrs. Edward Gray. The ten-cent admission to the Bazaar will include these two shows.

Mrs. George Follett, first vice-president of the Club, has had the planning of the details for this activity of the Club, with Mrs. Bradley Hill, Press chairman, tending to publicity. Miss Anne Bunker, the treasurer, will sell tickets at the door, and the president, Mrs. Ernest F. Drew, will be in charge of the "Chances" to be offered, assisted by her two secretaries, Mrs. Edwin Nash and Mrs. Joseph Appelt, and her Program chairman, Mrs. John Heibeck. The music furnished will be in the hands of the Motion Picture adviser, Mrs. E. L. Johnson, assisted by Mrs. Grace Fiske.

Interesting Events At Newtonville

The activities of the Newtonville Woman's Club for the coming week offer to members and their friends a diversity of programs. On the 13th, at 8 p. m., the Drama committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roger Wheeler, will present an exceptional cast in the reading of a popular modern and very entertaining play. This is the first of the Play Readings to be offered this season and the committee has spared no effort to assure a delightful evening. After the entertainment, refreshments will be served in the Gallery where Mrs. Carl G. Cutler, chairman, and her Art committee, consisting of Mrs. Charles J. Connick, Mrs. Francis G. Ingraham, and Mrs. Orin E. Skinner, will show watercolors and black and white work of Mr. Warren Berry, a young artist of Newtonville, whose work has received much favorable criticism.

On November 14th, the American Home committee will hold its first Open Meeting for members and their friends at 2:15 o'clock. Dr. Charles E. North representing a prominent creamery, will speak on "Vitamin 'D' Milk." Mr. William Carver, representing a well-known company which produces canned goods, will relate "The Romance of Canning." Both these speakers will illustrate their talks with pictures, and light refreshments will be served. There is no admission fee.

The Hospital committee will meet with Mrs. Howard M. Waybright for the monthly Sewing Day at the hospital on November 15th.

The third in the series of eight lectures on World Affairs by Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor will also be on the 15th. Admission is by course ticket or a single admission may be purchased for each separate lecture.

Having in mind the financing of their Outdoor Christmas Eve Program, the Christmas Community Singing committee will sponsor a Lucky Number Bridge on the afternoon of Nov. 16th at 2 o'clock. Tea will be served, and there will be an attractive souvenir provided for each table. At the close of the party the player holding the "lucky number" card will be awarded the beautiful dish which was displayed at the reception last month. Tickets may be procured from members of the committee. This committee, Mrs. Percy E. Woodward, chairman, hopes to present a Christmas Pageant and to reproduce famous paintings as part of the festivities when the Community Tree is featured on the park in front of the Club House.

The Christmas Party committee urgently asks all who can to contribute used or new toys to the toy division of their committee work. The kindly firemen who are willing to assist must have the toys in time to repair and to paint them. Also the committee must know how to apportion the funds at their disposal. The larger the number of toys contributed (which the firemen will make like new) the further Christmas joy can be spread among the little ones of the city who are the guests of the Club at their Annual Christmas Party. Always more children want to come than Miss Marion Drew Bassett can possibly include in her invitations. Mrs. J. Walter Allen will be glad to call for any contributions.

Fiction of the Year November 12th

On November 12th the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Francis A. Rugg, of Woodcliff road. Mrs. Robert E. Clark will review Significant Books of Fiction of the year, and Miss Adelaide R. Webster and Mrs. Chester W. Tudbury will present Current Events.

Members To Give Book Reviews

A meeting of the Christian Era Study Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward Edmands, 153 Hancock street, on November 12th. A paper, "Invincible Louisa," will be given by Mrs. Ernest F. Drew, and another, "Windows on Henry Street," will be given by Mrs. Harry Perkins.

Miss Waldo Of Dana Hall To Speak

On Tuesday, November 13th, the Educational committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will present Miss Waldo, associate principal of the Dana Hall School, in a talk, which will be conducted as an Open Forum. Members will be admitted free, and guests for a fee of 25 cents.

On Saturday, November 17th, at 10:30 a. m., the second of the series of five Entertainments for Children will be held at the Club House. Ed. Payne, artist and originator of "Billy the Boy Artist," will give an illustrated talk on "How Comic Pictures Are Made."

Annual Tea of Social Science Club

The Annual Tea of the Social Science Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry I. Harriman on Wednesday, November 14th, from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock.

Newton Juniors Invite Guests

The Newton Junior Community Club meeting and tea will be held at the Hunnewell Club on Tuesday afternoon, November 13th. All girls of High School age are cordially invited to be present.

Art Treasures To Be Topic

The Juniors of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands will hold their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, at 7:45 o'clock, in the Workshop. A most attractive program is featured. Miss Amanda F. Sylvester, whose Art Shop at Newton Centre offers so many pleasing gifts, will speak, and Miss Ruthena Warren, who has travelled extensively through Italy recently, also will speak, on "Art Treasures of Florence."

Events at Newton Hlds.

Madame Olga d'Allaz, a direct descendant of Stonewall Jackson, and the wife of a former member of the United States Diplomatic Service to the Balkan States, presented a most colorful and fascinating concert on Tuesday afternoon, November 6th, before the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands, ably assisted by Mr. Leo Litwin, piano accompanist. Stories and songs of the peasants and their occupations, as well as of gipsies and their campfires, carried the audience off and away to Roumania, Poland, Turkey, and Yugoslavia, as Madame d'Allaz donned one costume after another, each one of which she had bargained for from off some peasant's back. The favorite among her selections were the following: of Roumania, the cuckoo song by the girl who comes to the well for a jug of water, the spinning song, the Carpathian mountain flirt, rhythmic dances of the market place at Krakow; and of other countries, Turkish jazz; the woman of Bosnia; Yugoslavia, Bessarabian gipsy love song, and old woman of Bucharest selling brass trinkets from a bag. "The Byzantine Princess," dated about 500 A. D., a song written for the artist by Queen Marie of Roumania, concluded the program.

Today, November 9th, at 2 p. m., the Drama Reading at the Workshop, planned by Mrs. Henry H. Skelton, is open to all.

Tuesday, November 13th, at 10 a. m., the Workshop has been reserved for a review of "English Journey" by Priestley, as the second number in the series by Dr. Miriam Franc Skirball.

Friday, November 16th, at 2:30 p. m., there will be completed the series of Lecture-Recitals at the Workshop on the Wagner-Ring Operas, given by Mrs. Lucy Simonds, a Club member. All club members and guests are welcome.

On Monday, November 19th, after 9 o'clock, the Red Cross Sewing Day will start, and the need for help is very urgent, indeed. The Workshop is the place of meeting as in former years.

Federation Offerings

Mrs. Herbert Stephens, State chairman of Art, announces that the first Class in simple Handicrafts will start on Monday, November 12th, to be held at Federation Headquarters, 115 Newbury street, Boston, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Miss Helen J. Lang, editor of the Women's Clubs section of the Boston Transcript, will be the speaker.

On the Radio program tomorrow, the 10th, over Station WBZ, in the half-hour 11:30 to 12 noon, Mrs. Clyde Swan, chairman of Conservation, will speak; also Mrs. Charles C. Willson, chairman of Junior Membership, who will be of special interest to Newton clubwomen who know her as their president of the Newton Federation. Adell Holden will be the soloist.

Announcements made recently in the State Magazine, Federation Topics, include one by Mrs. Charles R. Hawkins, State chairman of Mothercraft, and one by Mrs. Swan, for a Conservation and Garden Conference for chairmen of such committees of federated clubs, to be held at Horticultural Hall, Boston, on November 14th.

Noted Soprano At Sunday Evening Service

Clara Shear, American Soprano, will sing at the Community Sunday Evening Service at the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church, corner of Centre and Wesley streets, Rev. Harry Belmont Hill, Minister, Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Shea entered the musical world, from the studio of Weldon Hunt in Boston, in a highly successful debut as "Lakme" with the Boston Society of Singers, followed by further successes as "Lucia" and other roles.

She went to Italy where advanced study was acquired under famous masters. Then came her operatic debut in "La Boheme" at the Teatro Carcano, Milan, where she won enthusiastic acclaim.

Upon her return to America she appeared with the San Carlo Opera Company, which success culminated in a contract with the Chicago Civic Opera Company. She has attained an enviable place among the artists of the world and critics and public have united in acclaiming her one of America's most gifted singers. The Chicago Daily News says, "Miss Shear is the most gifted of our younger sopranos."

Rev. Ray A. Eusden, Eliot Congregational Church, will preach.

Newton Library To Observe Book Week

The sixteenth National Book Week will be observed in the Newton Free Library, Nov. 13 to 17.

The outstanding books of the year for young people will be on display at the Boys' and Girls Library, Vernon street, Newton Corner. Other exhibits of books, old and new, which appeal to the interest of children at various ages will be held at all Branch Libraries.

In addition to these exhibits, it seems especially appropriate that the Hobby Book Exhibits suggested by the 1934 Book Week Slogan "Ride the Book Trail to Knowledge and Adventure" should be the co-operative effort of the Public School and the Public Library.

The boys and girls of the Junior High Schools in the city have been invited to lend examples of their hobbies and handicraft for exhibit at the Boys' and Girls' Library during Book Week. It is earnestly hoped that this co-operative exhibit will demonstrate to the people of Newton what the school and library are doing for their boys and girls.

The principal exhibit for the city as a whole can be seen at the new Library, Vernon street, Newton Corner. In addition the following exhibits will be shown at the local branches:

Auburndale, Hobbies; Centre, Old Favorites; Highlands, Mother Goose; Lower Falls, Old Favorites; Newtonville (window displays), Newbery Medal Award Books and also Books for the Nursery Age; Nonantum (window display), Stories of American Life; Upper Falls, Inexpensive Editions of Children's Books; Waban, Stories of Other Lands; West Newton, Books About Children's Literature.

The Boys' and Girls' Library is open from 9 to 6 o'clock, daily except Sunday.

More Money For ERA In Newton

The ERA allotment for Newton this month was increased from $30,000 to $32,000. This enabled Harold Young, local administrator, to place about 50 more to work. One project which Mr. Young intends to use to give white collar men employment is a real estate survey. In addition to making a survey of property, those engaged in this work will make inquiries of home owners as to necessary repairs needed on property. About 30 men and 4 women clerks will be employed on this project.

ONE THING.... ....AND ANOTHER

Oddments

The sentimental feelings an alumnus has for his "prep" school filled the heart of a good friend of mine and led him to accept an invitation to speak before the undergraduates. His career has been interesting and the head-master knew it and that anything this celebrated graduate would have to say was bound to hold the attention of his listeners. Nevertheless, the speaker was a trifle reluctant to appear as a former prize pupil. That's the kind of a fellow he is. Much to his delight he was cheered and applauded tumultuously. It so gratified him that he said to the headmaster afterwards, "What a wonderful reception the boys gave me! Weren't you surprised?" The other merely replied, "Not a bit; I practically told them if they didn't I would break their necks."

It isn't difficult to recall, although it may stir up unpleasant thoughts, the time when the arrival of a registered letter brought smiles to the face of the recipient. Happy days for everybody, including the letter carrier, who was usually greeted as a mascot and welcomed and thanked with enthusiasm. I saw a letter carrier with a registered letter walk into the office of a friend of mine. To an old fogy like myself it meant money or a slice of good fortune in some form. Presuming on a long friendship, I said to my friend, "That must give you a thrill." His curt reply was, "You mean a chill. That was a notice there would be no dividends this quarter. They use the registered mail for the sad tidings just the same as they did for good news before the depression. Don't kid yourself."

When You Need Nerve

There are various tests to determine the condition of one's nerves and although not familiar with them or their efficacy I should like to discuss another which no doubt has been overlooked. I refer to the placing of incandescent bulbs in the ceiling of a public assembly room. You are familiar with those clusters of bulbs that illuminate scrolls and were highly popular with a previous generation of architects. Well, the lights have to be changed like all others.

Incandescent bulbs are so important that every citizen, be he owner, tenant or paid guest, has had something to do with them. Last August, when the rush was on to load the electric light company with as many dead bulbs as we could lay our hands on in exchange for fresh ones—then, I repeat, we knew what it was to remove them from their sockets. No test of the nerves there, of course, but let's go into the assembly hall to which I referred.

The electrician is provided with one of those contrivances which remind me for all the world of an apple-picker. He stands on a giant stepladder and he proceeds to lift the pole until the business end comes in contact with the old bulb. It has to be done gently but firmly and once the bulb is properly gripped it can be unscrewed. Then the entire operation has to be repeated in order to place the new bulb in the socket. I suspect the latter is a bit more difficult.

As one of a group I watched a man, who stood half-way up a 20-foot stepladder, while he manipulated a 30-foot pole to remove and replace bulbs in a ceiling of a 45-foot (high) room. You might think idle folks could find something more profitable to engage their attention. I beg to differ. There was something fascinating in watching the pole sway and the patience and persistence of the electrician.

It required nearly five minutes the first time and when he finally completed the single exchange of bulbs the crowd applauded. It may be comforting to those who have gone through equally exacting tasks to learn that after all the struggle it was found the bulb was unfit for use. He had to remove it and stick up another. The second time it took him only two minutes.

I marveled at the electrician's skill and complimented him. He only shrugged his shoulders; denied that it tired his arms or required anything but practice. In fact he laughed when I suggested that it would be a good way to test one's nerves and declared he had never thought of it in that way. To him it was just part of his regular job.

Real Indians In Cast of "Pocahontas"

The second of the series of Six Plays for Children, "Pocahontas," sponsored by Boston University Women's Council, will be presented Saturday, November 10th, at the Repertory Theatre in Boston. There are two performances, at 10:30 a. m. and 2:15 p. m. The stage will be transformed into a seventeenth century Indian village and there are nine Indians of four tribes in the cast. Elaine Skidmore of Brookline, who spent her childhood on the Cherokee Indian Reservation, which was then at Fort Marion, Florida, plays the Indian maid Pocahontas.

Newton women serving with Mrs. Harriman on the executive committee are Mrs. Metcalf W. Melcher and Mrs. Leroy M. S. Miner. Serving on special committees are Mrs. Ernest Railsback, Mrs. F. Marsena Butts, Mrs. J. Fern Hollis, Mrs. Henry W. Dunning, Mrs. Howard C. Thomas and Mrs. Herbert F. Jordan.

John H. O'Neil Appointed Judge By Gov. Ely

John H. O'Neil, a former resident of this city, was named by Governor Ely last Friday as his appointee for Associate Justice of the Nantucket District Court to succeed the late Judge FitzHugh Randolph. O'Neil formerly resided on Neshobe rd., Waban, and 578 Centre st., Newton. He practiced extensively for several years at the Newton District court and in 1927 ran against Hon. Edwin O. Childs for the office of Mayor. He moved from Newton about two years ago to Beacon st. in the Chestnut Hill section. The appointment is subject to confirmation by the Executive Council.

Guzzi Trying To Get Lights On Webster Street

A petition was presented on Tuesday to Street Commissioner Mahoney signed by 38 residents in the vicinity of Webster street, West Newton, who ask that four additional electric lights be placed on Webster street near the coal yard. They contend that because of the darkness of this part of Webster street, women and children are afraid to pass there nights. The petition was circulated by Alfred R. Guzzi who is a candidate for Ward Alderman and who has been responsible for a number of improvements at West Newton during the past few years.

Chestnut Hill Bandit Gets 6 Years in Prison

Robbed Aged Woman in Her Home Last June

Aaron Elowitz of New York City was sentenced in the Superior Court at Cambridge yesterday by Judge Boudreau to serve 6 years in the Concord Reformatory. On the night of June 20, Elowitz entered the home of Mrs. Louisa Richardson at 382 Hammond st., Chestnut Hill. He bound her hands with one of her stockings, tied her other stocking across her mouth and took $34 in cash which he found in the room. Mrs. Richardson, who is 74 years of age, is the mother of John Richardson, formerly Republican national committeeman from this State. Elowitz then started to enter the home of George H. Kelly at 132 Hammond st. by means of a ladder raised to a second story window. A neighbor noticed him and Newton police rushing to the scene, in cruising cars, captured him. Five days before pulling the jobs at Chestnut Hill, Elowitz had been paroled from Sing Sing Prison in New York.

Add 6 Months To Sentence Of Taxi Driver

Arthur J. Beck of 14 Pearl court, Newton was arraigned in the Newton court yesterday charged with larceny of $75 from Patrick Sweeney, a Newton taxi owner. He was found guilty and sentenced to serve 6 months in Middlesex County prison. This sentence is in addition to a year's sentence imposed on Beck about two weeks ago. He appealed. Beck told Sweeney he had a customer who desired to engage the use of a taxi for long trips. Sweeney allowed Beck to take his best taxi and the latter kept it for about a month, on the allegation that the customer, whom the police contend was mythical, was using it. During this period Sweeney advanced Beck $75 for expenses.

Warning Against Bogus Collectors

A. Leslie Moriarty, President of the Federation of State, City and Town Employees warns residents of Newton and business people against bogus solicitors who have been representing themselves as collectors and advertising solicitors for the Federation. He says the only persons authorized to represent the Federation are advertising solicitors who have credentials.

Public Hearing On Change Of Ward Lines

Next Wednesday night, Nov. 21, at 7:45, a public hearing will be held at Newton City Hall before the special committee of the Board of Aldermen on the changing of Ward lines in this city. It is proposed to change the existing city ordinances so that new Ward lines will be established. The plans of the proposed new Wards are on file at the office of the City Clerk, at the Newton Free Library, Centre st., Newton, and at the branch libraries at Nonantum, Newtonville, West Newton, Auburndale, Waban, Newton Highlands and Newton Centre. There will be seven Wards as at present. The changes would take effect at the State Primaries election in 1936. All persons interested in this matter will have an opportunity to be heard at the hearing, according to the notice issued by the City Clerk. It was supposed by citizens that hearings on this matter would be held in the various villages of the city, as was done when the matter of the site for the new City Hall was being discussed. If any degree of interest is taken on this extremely important matter, one hearing will not give opportunity to all who want to express opinions on the proposed plans, neither will the Aldermanic Chamber at City Hall be large enough to hold those who may want to attend the hearing.

The proposed Ward lines are bounded as follows:

Ward 1—On the North by the Charles River and Watertown lines; on the East by the Brighton lines; on the South by Washington st., Boston & Albany Railroad and Crafts st.; on the West by Albemarle rd.

Ward 2—On the North and East by the Waltham line, Charles River, Albemarle rd., Crafts st., Boston & Albany Railroad to Parkview ave., Blake st., and Cedar st.; on the South by Commonwealth ave.; on the West by Valentine st., Bigelow rd., Forest ave., Mount Vernon st., Cross st., Watertown st., Randlett park and Waltham st.

Ward 3—On the North by the Waltham line; on the East by Waltham st., Randlett park, Watertown st., Cross st., Mount Vernon st., Forest ave., Bigelow rd. and Valentine st.; on the South and West by Commonwealth ave., Rowe st., Auburndale ave., River st. and Rumford ave.

Ward 4—On the North and East by the Waltham line, Rumford ave., River st., Auburndale ave., Rowe st., Commonwealth ave. and Chestnut st.; on the South and West by Boylston st., the Charles River, the Wellesley line and the Weston line.

Ward 5—On the North by Commonwealth ave.; on the East by Walnut st., Lakewood rd., Rogers st., Allerton rd., Cushing st., Clark, Parker and Dedham sts.; on the South and West by the West Roxbury line, Charles River, Needham line, Boylston st. and Chestnut st.

Ward 6—On the North by Commonwealth ave., Hobart rd. and Beacon st.; on the East by the Brookline boundary; on the South and West by the West Roxbury line, Dedham, Parker, Clark and Cushing sts., Allerton rd., Rogers st., Lakewood rd. and Walnut st.

Ward 7—On the North by the Boston & Albany Railroad, and Washington st.; on the East by the Brighton line; on the South by Beacon st., Hobart rd. and Commonwealth ave.; on the West by Cedar st., Blake st., Parkview ave. and Boston & Albany R. R.

Albert M. Lyon A Candidate For Alderman, Wd. 2

Will Run At Large—Hill Withdraws—Seeks Re-election

Following a conference this week between Alderman Donald M. Hill and Albert M. Lyon of Newtonville, Mr. Hill announced his withdrawal as a candidate for Alderman-at-large from Ward 2 in favor of Mr. Lyon. Mr. Lyon, who is a former member of the Newton School Committee and present chairman of the Newton Planning Board, will be a candidate for the seat now held by Alderman Roy V. Collins. Mr. Hill, who became a candidate for this office when Alderman Collins, president of the Board, recently indicated his retirement, states that he will be a candidate for re-election as Ward Alderman, the office he has held for the past three years. In making this statement he added that at the time of announcing his candidacy for Aldermen-at-large it was not known that Mr. Lyon was available for the office. In recognition of Mr. Lyon's ability and qualifications for a position on the Board, Mr. Hill expressed his pleasure in withdrawing in Mr. Lyon's favor.

Albert M. Lyon was born in Peru, Vermont, August 12, 1872. He was educated in the district school at Peru, the Burr and Burton Seminary at Manchester, Vermont, and graduated from Dartmouth in 1894. He graduated from Boston University Law School in 1896 and since that time has practiced law in Boston. He served as a member of the Newton School Committee for 8 years, beginning in 1911, and for two years was chairman of that committee. He also has served as a member of the Newton Planning Board for some years and is the present chairman. He is a member of the Brae Burn Club, Boston City Club and Congregational Club. During the war he was a member of the Newton Constabulary. He married Miss Alice M. Elkins and they have one son, Stanley H. Lyon, and a daughter, Mrs. Sherman Baldwin of Worcester. The Lyon's residence is at 567 Walnut st., Newtonville.

ERA Survey Of Newton Buildings

Beginning next Monday, a group of men will start out from City Hall on an ERA project to survey the type, age and condition of all buildings in the city. This project is primarily for the benefit of the United States Housing Administration, and the facts gathered will be used in an endeavor to secure further employment for our citizens.

Property owners and tenants in the city are respectfully requested to assist these men in every way possible. Each man will have cards provided by the Administration, which will serve to identify him to be entitled to ask the information desired.

Many Candidates For Seats on Board Of Aldermen

In striking contrast to past years when candidates for the Newton Board of Aldermen were few in number, is the abundance of candidates this year. There will be contests in every Ward and for practically every office to be filled. Several members of the present Board are to retire and the 1935 Board of Aldermen will be largely composed either of new members or men who have had limited experience as Aldermen.

In Ward 1 all three present Aldermen will not run for re-election. Alderman Gallagher who has served as Alderman-at-Large since 1924, and who is vice president of the Board will not be a candidate. He was appointed Medical Examiner for the district including Newton, Waltham, Watertown and Weston. One of the candidates to succeed Dr. Gallagher is his personal friend, John E. Barwise of 457 Washington st. The latter has been a member of the Ward 1 Republican Committee for several years. He is employed by the New England Telephone Company. John W. Blakeney, Jr., of 5 Washburn st., Newton, is also a candidate for this office. Mr. Blakeney, a lawyer by profession, has been a candidate in previous years. He contends that the Nonantum section is entitled to representation. Alderman-at-Large Arthur J. Mansfield will also not be a candidate. Mr. Mansfield was elected in 1929 to serve in the 1930 Board. He resigned in 1930 after serving several months because of his removal to Melrose. Last year, having returned to Newton to reside, he was chosen by the Aldermen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alderman Howlett. Candidates for his place are Major Frank T. McCabe of 3 Lewis st., Newton, and Richard H. Lee of 15 Weldon rd., Newton. Major McCabe retired from the United States Army this year after 33 years service. He has been a resident of Newton since 1923. Mr. Lee, a lawyer by profession, has resided in Newton for four years.

William A. Sproat of 14 Thornton street, who has served as Ward Alderman from Ward 1 for the past 3 years will not run again for that office. He has been of the opinion that the Nonantum district is entitled to a representative should it want one. It was expected that he would run for Alderman-at-Large, but the intrusion of partisan politics into the supposed non-partisan city elections in Newton militates against Mr. Sproat, who is a Democrat in national and State politics. As candidates for his place are James P. Akins of 439 Washington Street, a lawyer; John A. Tim-

Third Annual Chest Campaign Off to Big Start

Radio Programs Have Created Much Interest By Citizens

Donald D. McKay, speaking over Station WMEX opened the Newton Community Chest Drive last evening at 7:30, by addressing directly the 2000 leaders and workers, all of whom were under instructions to listen to his address over the air. This unique way of launching the campaign initiated the second week of broadcasting by the Chest.

The first week's programs which were described in detail in our last week's issue were called "Newton On Parade" and were enthusiastically received by thousands of Newton citizens, who not only were royally entertained but learned much about their city they did not know before. The following paragraphs give you the participants in the final "On Parade" programs of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, as well as the first four days of the Educational programs, regarding various agencies scheduled for the evenings of November 15th to 21st over Station WMEX and short wave station WIXAL; also over station WBSO, 2 to 3:00 P. M. Sunday, November 18th. Introduction and writing in announcing of these programs have been under the direction of Mr. E. S. Whitte of Waban, who has been ably assisted by the following committee: Mr. Robert Burlen, Mr. Donald Charlton, Mr. W. S. Clapp, Mr. Raymond A. Green, Mr. Ellery Manley, Miss Estelle Marsh, Mr. Charles W. Peterson, Mr. Alden W. Read and Dr. Thompson Stone.

"Newton on Parade" Monday, November 12th, was dedicated to Auburndale and all of Ward 4. Mr. Charles B. Floyd gave the address of welcome. The well-known columnist and humorist, Neal O'Hara, asked all Newton citizens to drag up a chair and listen to odd historical bits about Newton. The Irene Forte string quartet composed of Miss Irene Forte, Miss Mary Pucciarelli, Miss Anna Kovitz and Miss Ruth Masters rendered splendid selections. All are teachers at the All Newton Music School and Miss Elizabeth Fyffe deserves great credit for her co-operation in supplying musical talent for the "On Parade" programs. Mr. Kelsey of the Andover Newton Theological School sang negro spirituals, accompanied by Mr. Ford of the same school. Mr. George W. Pratt, Chairman of Mayor's Relief Committee, spoke on behalf of the various Newton Welfare

Kiwanis Honors Gov. Gallagher

Wednesday evening, Nov. 14, 1934, witnessed one of the most outstanding events in the history of Kiwanis in New England. In the Robbins Memorial Town Hall in Abington were gathered over six hundred New England Kiwanians, their wives, and friends, to do honor to the newly elected governor of Kiwanis in N. E., James P. Gallagher of Newton.

Allan E. Cowie, president of the Arlington Kiwanis Club, presided, presenting Franklin P. Hawkes who pronounced the invocation and a little later Oscar Huntting of the Boston Kiwanis Club who led community singing. Mr. Cowie then presented Albert W. Wunderly of the Arlington Club and present Lieut. Gov. of the 5th division of Kiwanis International, who took charge of the affair as toastmaster. Mr. Wunderly introduced Leonard P. Collins, chairman, Arlington Board of Selectmen, and E. Wesley Enman of the St. Johnsbury Club present governor of Kiwanis in New England. Each of these men addressed the gathering briefly with well chosen and highly interesting thoughts. The toastmaster then presented Dr. F. H. Paul of the Newton Club who delivered an excellent presentation of a token to Mr. Gallagher as a memento of the gala occasion. The choice of Dr. Paul for this task was a happy and appropriate one for it is to him that Kiwanis must look with sincere appreciation for its newly elected governor. Dr. Paul it was who first and last convinced the organization that it should choose Mr. Gallagher and convinced Jim that he should accept the responsible office.

Mr. Wunderly, who all through the evening had so completely won the guests with his easy, informal manner and superb wit, then introduced the honored guest of the evening.

Mr. Gallagher delivered an excellent address, giving the guests a glimpse of his conception of the duties and responsibilities that are ahead of him in 1935. Nor were his remarks without the characteristic wit. Following Mr. Gallagher's address dancing was enjoyed for two hours, old friends met again and new friendships were made. At 12 o'clock a most happy and successful evening was terminated.

Excellent Programs At Paramount Theatre

Newton folks will get a great treat at the Paramount Theatre at Newton Corner next week starting Sunday for four days. A program for the first half which is decidedly English in nature is headed by "Barretts of Wimpole Street," and co-featured by "Charlie Chan in London."

In Norma Shearer's new picture, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," three winners of the annual Motion Picture Academy Award appear together. They are Miss Shearer, who stars as Elizabeth in the famous tale of poetic love; Fredric March, who plays opposite as the ardent Robert Browning, and Charles Laughton, most recent winner of the award, who shines as the diabolical father. The performance of each is so finished, so smooth and rich that comparison is impossible. Never was there a more tender Elizabeth, a more poetic Browning, or a more demoniac elder Barrett than these three present.

On the same program will be seen by far the most entertaining of the entire series of "Chan" thrillers, "Charlie Chan in London." Warner Oland, whose name has become synonymous with the character of Charlie throughout the series, again portrays the role of the bland Chinese detective. Advance reports indicate that Oland's portrayal in this film is his most notable to date.

ANNUAL GRID GAME AT WALTHAM TO DRAW LOCAL FANS

Tomorrow afternoon at the Waltham athletic field the Newton and Waltham high school football teams will engage in their annual gridiron battle. As usual the game will attract many local fans and a close score is predicted. Despite the fact that Waltham has met but one defeat in an otherwise highly successful season and will naturally be a pregame favorite over the orange and black, the Newton lads are expected to arise to the occasion in traditional fashion. The Waltham-Newton series has proven many times that season's records mean but little once the teams line up on the field together. This year should be no exception.

The Newton eleven has played a rather consistently strong defensive game although eight opponents have tallied a total of 95 points for an average of 16 points per game. The Newton offense, however, has been extremely spotty. In the second half of the Everett game the orange and black surged toward the Everett goal-line a number of times but each time failed to capitalize. In the Brockton game two or three assaults upon the Shoe City goal were successful and these two turned the tide in Newton's favor. In the Quincy contest Coach Sanborn's outfit waltzed down the field repeatedly but failed to come through in the last ditch and wound up on the short end of a 7 to 6 score. Against Rindge the Newton attack was hopeless with but one first down being made. Last Saturday Newton came to life again at Mancheseter and showed in many respects the best offense in any game this season. It is this fact that gives the local fans hope that the orange and black will come through tomorrow. Newton has the defensive strength to hold off the Watch City attack unless the Watch City outfit gets a number of the "breaks" which often decide a football game. Waltham has scored a total of 112 points in 7 games for an average of a little better than 16 points each contest indicating that Newton will not face a stronger opponent than it has already met this fall. On the other hand Waltham has held its seven opponents to the small total of 32 points or a little better than 7 per game.

During the games played thus far Newton unquestionably has met stronger opposition than Waltham. In fact there has not been a set-up on the local schedule from the first game with Arlington down through those with Cambridge Latin, Lynn English, Everett, Brockton, Quincy, Rindge Tech and Manchester. The Watch City outfit, however, has had one or two breathers. Opening with Rindge the Leary-coached outfit has since met Maynard, Revere, Haverhill, Lynn English, Watertown and Medford. A mid-October game with Somerville was postponed because of heavy rain until Nov. 24th. In its seven games Waltham has been victorious in all except that with Medford by various scores including a 34 to 0 win over Maynard, a 34 to 14 win over Watertown and a 15 to 0 margin over Lynn English. Medford upset the Waltham team's aspirations for the mythical State championship by a 12 to 6 score. Newton may catch the Watch City team before it has recovered from the effects of the Medford game. On the other hand Newton may catch Waltham on the rebound and find itself up against an aroused eleven.

Coach Sanborn will start the same line that took the field against Manchester, namely Captain Gus Castoldi and Joe Byrne at the ends, Howar Milner and Ben Grow at the tackles, Sam Miller and Gale Wisbach at the guards and Melvin Swig at centre. Early replacement will be Warren Wittens and McLean as ends, Hale and Clevenger, tackles, Joyce and Morrison, guards, and Packard or Stuart at centre. The starting backfield will probably be Ernest Savignano at quarterback, Ernie McLeod and Paul Treannie, halfbacks and Reardon at fullback. There is a possibility that Sargent Moore who was kept on the sidelines at Manchester with an ankle injury, may be in shape to take over the fullback berth. "Bud" Connolly is the only other backfield player who is not in shape. He received a knee injury that will keep him out indefinitely although it is possible it may round into shape in time for the Thanksgiving Day game with Brookline. Woodward and Myers are due to see plenty of action in the backfield if the regulars need replacement. This pair shone in the closing period of the Manchester game when Newton marched deep into enemy territory before having to give up the ball.

Waltham also has a few players who are not in the best of shape. Halfback Krol, one of Coach Leary's best offensive players, is suffering from a shoulder injury which may prove to be a dislocated shoulder although no definite proof of this has been available. Captain Anderson has had a "charley-horse" which has handicapped him considerably while another lineman is also suffering from a similar ailment.

A glimpse into the past meetings between the two close rivals is not amiss. Tomorrow's game will be the 28th meeting between the two with Waltham having the slight edge of 12 wins to 9 for Newton with 6 ties thrown in for good measure. In the twenty-seven games Waltham has scored 259 points against 180 for the orange and black. The series began in 1904 and ran for fourteen years before interrupted by the year of the World War. Resuming in 1919 the series ran for seven years before the now famous "break" in relations because of alleged sideline coaching. In 1928 the two schools patched up their troubles and have met continuously since that time. Newton had to wait fourteen years before annexing its first victory in 1917 although three ties preceded that game and one other tie occurred way back in 1905. Newton, however, has won nine of the past fourteen games with four going to Waltham and a scoreless tie being played in 1932. Last year Newton won a 6 to 0 victory in a nip and tuck hard-fought battle. Incidentally if the old adage that "history repeats itself" has any bearing upon tomorrow's game Newton should come through. Since Newton won its first game in 1917 there never has been a time when the orange and black has failed to win two games in a row as a glance at the following summary of scores will show:

1905—Waltham 0, Newton 0.
1906—Waltham 6, Newton 0.
1907—Waltham 11, Newton 5.
1908—Waltham 12, Newton 0.
1909—Waltham 41, Newton 0.

Pledged At Penn State

John Waters and Tom Fitzgerald, Newton athletes at Penn State College, have been pledged to fraternities there. Both accepted invitations of Phi Kappa, a prominent national fraternity. Waters is enrolled in the School of Physical Education and Fitzgerald in Journalism. Waters was a star in baseball at Newton High although he also won letters in football and hockey. Fitzgerald starred in track and for three years was State outdoor mile champion.

NEWTON PUTS UP GAME BATTLE BUT MANCHESTER WINS

Playing one of the best games it has shown this year, the Newton High school football team put up a game battle last Saturday against a strong Manchester High outfit in which the Granite Staters triumphed, 18 to 6. The orange and black put a drive into their game which had been lacking in many of its previous games and carried the fight right into the Little Green's territory throughout the first half. In the closing minutes of the first half, Manchester, led by its two flashy stars, "Iron Bull" Dubisz and halfback Beaudet, chalked up its initial touchdown after a 40-yard march. Early in the second half a Dubisz punt set Newton back to its goal line and following Savignano's punt the home team staged a 30-yard drive for its second score. Newton came right back to march into Manchester's territory at the close of the third session. On the first play of the final period, Ernie Savignano, who had been a constant threat to Manchester all afternoon, found a hole at tackle, cut off to his right and swept into the clear for a 30-yard run and Newton's only score. Manchester's final tally came near the close of the game after a 45-yard drive.

Through the brilliant work of its driving backs, Manchester ran up twelve first downs against six for Newton, one of which came with a 15-yard penalty against Manchester for slugging. Incidentally, the Newton team had to take plenty of punishment during the game. Two punts by Dubisz were the plays which actually turned the tables on the Newton eleven, however. In the second period Dubisz kicked over Savignano's head to the 10-yard line to put Newton in a hole. Savignano's ensuing punt only carried to the Newton 40 where Manchester began its march. Again in the third period Dubisz directed a low driving punt just out of Savignano's reach and McLeod properly played it safe instead of taking the ball on the run with a chance of fumbling. The ball bounded crazily out of McLeod's reach and Savignano had to chase it back to the five-yard line. He got back as far as his 10-yard stripe but was downed there. His kick from the goal line then gave Manchester the ball on the Newton 30, and a chance to drive for its second score.

First Period

Castoldi kicked off with Slovak, Manchester right end, running the ball back 20 yards to the Manchester 45. On the first play Manchester fumbled and Newton recovered on the Manchester 40. Reardon was thrown for a seven-yard loss and Savignano for five more by the fast charging Little Green line. Savignano kicked and when the Manchester receiver fumbled on the home team's 20-yard stripe, Howie Milner, Newton right tackle, recovered the ball to give Newton a break. In two tries at the line, Treannie picked up but two yards. A pass was incomplete and when Savignano failed to gain, Manchester took the ball on downs. Dubisz immediately kicked to midfield. McLeod started around right end but found his way blocked, deserting his interference he reversed his field and raced around left end for a three-yard gain. Savignano failed to gain and then kicked to the corner of the field on the five-yard line. Dubisz kicked out and McLeod ran the ball back 10 yards to the Manchester 40. Treannie fought his way through guard for seven yards and Savignano hit the line for five more and a first down. Reardon picked up two yards and after a Manchester offside penalty and Treannie's two-yard gain, the latter tried again, made the yardage and Newton had another first down on the Manchester 20. Again the Newton advance petered out against the savage assaults of the Manchester line with the home team taking the ball on down again on their own 30-yard stripe. Beaudet raced around left end for the first of several brilliant efforts. He was brought down on the Newton forty-three after gaining 27 yards. Milner then held Beaudet to a three-yard gain on the final play of the session.

Second Period

Dubisz' pass to fullback Jones was good for 14 yards and a first down on the Newton 26. Three plays later Melvin Swig, Newton centre, intercepted a Manchester pass to give Newton the ball on its 15. Savignano's high kick landed near midfield and bounded back towards the Newton goal, Manchester getting the ball on the Newton 43. Swig spilled an end run for a two-yard loss. A long forward pass was almost complete with Neidwicki dropping the oval after getting his fingers on it. A short pass was good but Milner dropped the received in his tracks for no gain and Dubisz kicked to the Newton 19 yard line. On second down Savignano reeled off 10 yards after shaking off three or four tacklers. Three plays later he was forced to kick and although the punt was partially blocked and Newton recovered at midfield, Manchester took possession of the ball there. Joyce at guard stopped a spinner for a yard loss and after an incomplete pass, Dubisz kicked to the Newton 10 yard stripe. Bosworth failed to gain and Savignano punted to the Newton 40. Here Manchester started. Beaudet and Dubisz each reeled off 8 yards for a first down on the 24. The same players gained 6 each for a first down on the 12. Three line smashes by Dubisz carried it to the shadow of the Newton goal and then Dubisz went over. His try at the point by placekick was wide and low. Savignano ran the Manchester kickoff back 25 yards to the Newton 32. Two plays later the half ended with Manchester leading, 6 to 0.

Third Period

Castoldi kicked off and Byrne nailed Neidwicki on the Manchester 35. Castoldi threw Dubisz for a 3-yard loss and the latter punted to McLeod who was away on a 15-yard runback before being run outside. On third down Savignano kicked outside at the Manchester 25. Beaudet gained 8 yards and Zadjel made it a first down but the Manchester attack flopped and Dubisz punted out of Savignano's reach. He chased the ball back and was downed on the Newton 10-yard stripe. Savignano's kick carried only to the Newton 30 and Manchester drove forward again. Beaudet almost got away but was stopped with a 9-yard gain by the Newton secondary. Dubisz made it a first down on the 15-yard line. Swig nailed Beaudet two yards behind the line of scrimmage. A pass to Dubisz gained 4 yards. Another pass fell incompleted and then Dubisz's pass to Jones was good for the touchdown. Swig crashed through to block the placekick try for point. Castoldi ran the ensuing kickoff back 15 yards to the Newton 43. McLeod tossed a pass to for an 8-yard gain and then Savignano side-stepped through the Manchester line for 10 yards and a first down on the Manchester 39. Two incompleted passes with a Manchester offside penalty sandwiched between them preceded Treannie's plunge through the line for a first down on the 29-yard line as the period ended. Manchester 12, Newton 0.

Fourth Period

Savignano found a big hole at tackle and got through into the Manchester secondary. Cutting to his right he staged a great bit of broken field running to race for a touchdown in the corner of the field. Kaleviano, Manchester centre, broke through to block Castoldi's try for the point by a placekick. Castoldi kicked off with Jones bringing the ball back to his 32. Dubisz and Beaudet reeled off a first down just beyond midfield. Newton stopped the march and Dubisz kicked to the Newton 25. Failing to gain Newton kicked back to near midfield. Dubisz and Beaudet again collaborated and in three plays brought the ball to the Newton 28. Dubisz swept around right end for 18 yards more to the Newton 10. Beaudet next raced around left end for an apparent score but both teams were offside and the ball brought back. Dubisz crashed his way through the line to within a yard from the goal and on the next play went over for the final score of the game. Again his try for point was in vain. Manchester kicked off and after a Myers to Woodward pass was good for 9 yards following the latter's gain of 4 yards for a first down near midfield a 15 yard penalty against Manchester carried Newton to the home team's 35. Newton's attack floundered and Manchester took the ball on downs on their 36. Dubisz reeled off 25 yards in three plays and Beaudet 17 in three more to bring Manchester to the Newton 30. Here an offside penalty set them back five yards but Beaudet came through with 11 yards in two more thrusts. The game ended with Manchester on the Newton 19-yard line after a 45-yard advance. Manchester 18, Newton 6.

On Sunday afternoon, November 11, the second of a series of "Sunday Sings" was held at the "Y" under the direction of Mr. Andrew. A group of twenty-five boys gathered and after the singing of hymns and old favorite songs they were addressed by Rev. Clarence G. Strippy of the Beth Eden Baptist Church of Waltham. Refreshments served by Mrs. J. A. Stackhouse and Mrs. R. Y. Furman, both members of the Newton Auxiliary were enjoyed.

Monday morning, November 12, found forty members of the Boys Department leaving the "Y" for a hike to Prospect Hill, Waltham. The group left in charge of Thomas Sundborg and was joined later by Mr. Andrew who took charge of the program in the afternoon. After cooking their dinners at the fireplaces in the camp sites there, teams were chosen for "Capture the Flag." Ambrose Flanagan and Bill Goodale, both of Newton, were the Captains. Flanagan's team won four games, capturing their opponent's flag each time. Following this, the group returned to the "Y" for a swim.

Newton Hi-Y Club

At the regular Tuesday meeting of the Hi-Y Club the members seriously considered the meaning of Armistice Day in the life of young men today. Junior Vice-Commander, Leon Mayer, of Post No. 48, American Legion, gave a very inspiring address on what Armistice meant to him in 1918 and what it should mean to boys in high school in 1934.

Commander Mayer urged that we keep alive the spirit of Americanism, work untiringly and bend every effort toward making this a peaceful and God loving nation. Particularly he spoke of having peace among nations and peace among fellowmen, that America may lead the world in this effort.

Following this discussion, a short business meeting and reports of business were given and accepted by Gilbert Myers, President of the club.

The first party of the Hi-Y social season will take place at the Charles River Boat Club on Friday, November 23, for the Hi-Y members and their guests. The Harvard Inter-Fraternity Orchestra has been secured and many novel and special numbers have been arranged.

A delegation from this club will go to the Two-State Conference held in Springfield on December 7, 8 and 9.

Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Ben H. Badenoch of West Newton and her Sponsoring Committee have arranged for a small dinner in honor of Mrs. May Lamberton Becker, "Reader's Guide" of the New York Herald Tribune, Nov. 16th, in the Pioneer dining room of the Boston Y. W. C. A.

Annual Red Cross Roll-Call Opened Armistice Day

The annual roll-call of the American Red Cross opened on Armistice Day and will be continued until Thanksgiving Day. The quota of the Newton Chapter of 6,000 members was met last year by 6028 members placing Newton twenty-first in Massachusetts with 9.19 per cent of its population.

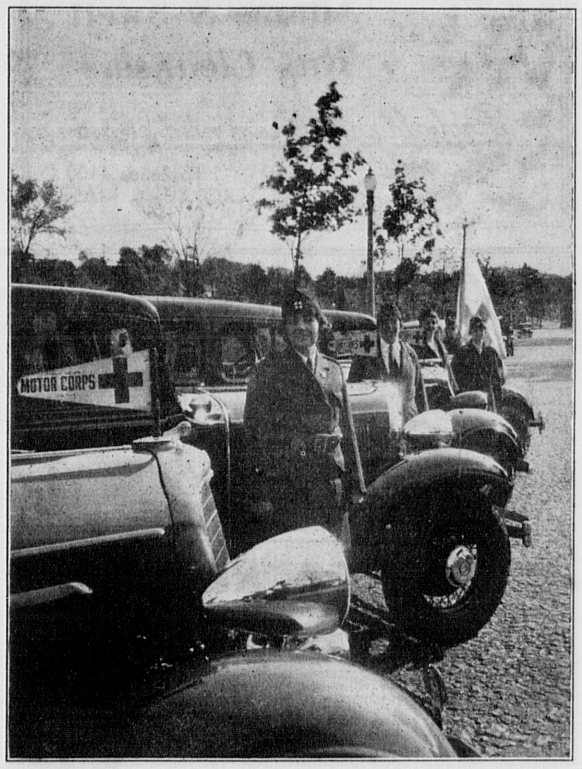
During 1933-1934 all branches of Chapter activities have been represented. The first duty of all Red Cross organization—

HOME SERVICE—assistance to veterans or families of veterans. 48 families of which 21 were given 344 interviews; 82 letters were received in connection with the cases, 135 letters were written. This service consists more in aiding in regard to hospitalization and legal matters, especially of guardianship rather than financial assistance. To men in actual service to the country 108 Christmas Bags were sent—the contents the same—sewing kits, writing materials, diary, tooth brush and cream, handkerchief, knife—all wrapped in gay papers and beautifully done by the Girl Scouts. 80 books, 16 packs of cards, 11 jigsaw puzzles were sent to the Navy Yard to go to hospitals.

MOTOR CORPS—a very active service carried on by receiving calls from Welfare Agencies to transport the physically incapacitated to hospitals and clinics. 312 volunteer drivers (an average of 26 per month) drove 15,911 miles, 1634 hours, carried 1634 patients and in addition 384 who accompanied them to take care of them. Where patients were able to go physically, but not financially carfares assisted. For instance, a girl who had suffered four years from eye trouble was given $4.40 in carfares, enabling her to go to the Eye and Ear Infirmary for treatments and in a little over two months was cured.

HOME HYGIENE AND CARE OF THE SICK classes, by the Chapter Instructor, represented 10 classes. 170 began the work, 138 received certificates. Girl and Boy Scouts, Community Centres, club women took the course.

GIRL SCOUT, NANCY OSBORN, PINNING RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP BUTTON ON MAYOR SINCLAIR WEEKS



RED CROSS MOTOR CORPS—MRS. J. L. BARNES, CAPTAIN; MRS. E. MELVILLE HILL, LIEUT.; MRS. A. H. WHITNEY, MRS. F. A. HOLLOWAY

FIRST AID — reached about the same type of groups as Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, but perhaps more classes among the public and parochial schools. Here, too, 190 began, 128 received certificates. In addition 86 Health Talks were given to members of Americanization classes.

NUTRITION a consultation service for Health and Welfare Agencies—Newton Hospital, District Nursing Ass'n, Welfare Bureau, Dept. of Public Welfare, School Dept., Community Centers. 97 clinics at Newton Hospital reached 340 patients (this represents visits but the same patient of course for numerous visits). 252 visits in the homes were made by the Chapter Nutritionist, Miss Charlotte Raymond. Nutrition and Health Education classes for Americanization groups, Mothers' Meetings, Girls' Clubs, nurses, etc., made a total of 38 groups. Exhibits and talks of "Foreign Food Habits and Customs" were given.

PRODUCTION enrolled practically the city of Newton sewing in churches, clubs, and social groups making up 4080 garments. 590 individuals knit sweaters, caps and mittens — a total of 4670 articles. A small group of ladies, with the help of an electric cutter prepared all the garments for the sewing and of material which had come through National Headquarters who in turn received it from the Government. Red Cross members distributed 10,673 garments in a room at City Hall to recipients of cards from Welfare agencies, thus insuring investigation by a trained worker of all cases. 6000 garments were ready-made, received from Headquarters through application in the same manner as was the cloth. Included in the total were 346 blankets, 104 puffs, 49 complete layettes, additional, were given at the Chapter Office to Welfare Agencies.

LIFE SAVING which also included teaching people to swim, carried on at the City's bathing beach at Crystal enrolled 47 as qualified Junior Life Savers, 38 as Seniors, 296 who passed the Beginners' Test, 121 who passed the Swimmers' Test, 294 instructed in swimming, 330 enrolled in Recreational Swimming—the latter service intended to retain the interest in the work of a group who knew how to swim but who were below the age required for Junior Life Saving instruction. The Playground Dept. co-operates yearly with the Red Cross in the swimming program inasmuch as their Life Guards are always Red Cross Examiners and their women guards instruct girls and the Chapter Instructor, E. M. Westgate instructs boys only. The Playground Dept. has an annual swimming meet, in which the Red Cross participates.

BRAILLE or writing for the blind was transcribed by one Chapter member. Richard Halliburton's book "The Flying Carpet," 352 pages of ordinary printed matter, became 561 pages of Braille and 6 volumes when complete.

JUNIOR RED CROSS really means all school children, for the schools are 100% Junior members. A contribution of any size enrolls a child and this money goes to many services. Free milk for undernourished children in the schools, carried on for the most part through the sale of Christmas Seals by the Tuberculosis League, during the depression could not do its usual amount of work, so the Junior Red Cross, which had always supplemented, took on the work, furnishing milk lunches in 12 different schools. $50 of Junior money was sent direct to the National Children's Fund; $44 provided toothbrushes for school children; 308 Red Cross magazines for Juniors were subscribed for. 43 children needing attention for eye trouble received examinations and glasses, one child was financed for a necessary tonsil and adenoid operation. Sewing classes in Junior and Senior High Schools made 138 dresses, cutting them themselves; in addition they hemmed 135 diapers.

GRAY LADIES—3 trained by the requisite course served 241 hours at the U. S. Veterans Hospital at Bedford, entertaining the men by games, reading to them and last Christmas time going to the woods with them collecting greens for decorations. This wreath making work, a fairly new idea at Bedford, proved of interest to men whom it had hitherto been impossible to reach. Gray Ladies are also the go-betweens of Chapter and Hospital, carrying knitted and sewed garments pledged to National Headquarters for this institution; also seeing that the room at Bedford, called the Newton Room, equipped by Newton Chapter, is in good condition.

Rotary Club

Nearly two hundred members and guests of the Newton, Watertown, Concord and Waltham Rotary Clubs gathered Wednesday noon in a joint meeting at the Lutheran Church of Waltham at a Rotary meeting sponsored by the Waltham Rotary Club. President Harry Starr of the Waltham Club presided and introduced Dr. Charles E. Barker of Grand Rapids, Michigan, well-known inspirational Rotary speaker. Dr. Barker, whose talks to young people and adults, have attracted large audiences wherever he speaks, addressed two other meetings in Waltham in the afternoon at the South Junior High School and in the evening at the Hovey Institute.

Dr. Barker chose for his talk at the Rotary Club meeting the topic "Rotary and Its By-Products." With bits of humor and psychology, intermingled with a vein of seriousness of purpose Dr. Barker lived up to his reputation as an exceptionally impressive speaker. A Rotarian for many years, he expressed his belief that the main purpose of Rotary, as founded in 1905 by a group of four men in Chicago, was to develop friendship among men. He characterized it as a great enough motive to adhere to always. Illustrating his point he related Thomas Edison's reply to a reporter in an interview at the time of the observance a few years ago of the anniversary of the development of the incandescent light. The reporter asked Mr. Edison what his greatest single achievement had been and the famous inventor replied that it was in the "making of a few honest-to-God friends." Friendship, Dr. Barker added is a thing which cannot be taken away by a depression.

Rotary, however, has accomplished many other things which were not thought of at the time of its organization. Among the most important of these has been a noticeable decrease in religious and political bigotry and intolerance. No other organization in the world, with the exception of other service clubs, has done more. This has been brought about through the fact that but three qualifications are necessary for a member of a service club. He must be morally clean, a square-shooter in business, and measurably successful in his profession. Continued association of men with these qualifications has swept aside much of the religious intolerance that existed not long ago.

Another important by-product of Rotary is the realization that the making of money is not the most important thing in life. Money is not permanent. Permanent joy is obtained through the development of the spirit of helping others. The more one gives to others the richer one becomes. Dr. Barker cited a number of instances where such help has brought happiness which can never be taken away and closed his talk with reference to the teachings of Jesus in this respect.

Waban Garden Club To Hear of Foreign Gardens

The Waban Community Garden Club is holding its November meeting in the Library basement on Monday evening the 19th. A supper will be served on December 5 from 5:30 to 7:00 and at 8:00 o'clock the Senior Choir will sing carols.

One of the biggest attractions on December 6 is a popular Marionette Show, given by Mr. Curtis Beach of Harvard University. This will be of interest to both children and adults. A good lunch will be served before the show at the Tea Room and ice cream and cake during the evening.

LUCY JACKSON CHAPTER, D. A. R.

The regular meeting of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., met at the Chapter House on Washington st., Newton Lower Falls, Monday, Nov. 12th. The meeting was called to order at 2:30 p. m. by the Regent, Mrs. Edward B. Parker. The Chaplain, Mrs. Ames Wells, opened the meeting with appropriate readings and led in the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, "Salute to the Flag" and the "American's Creed."

The Chapter stood in silent tribute to the "boys" of the World War. This was followed by the singing of two verses of "America," with Mrs. Emma Prescott at the piano.

After the business meeting a most interesting program was given on "Ellis Island."

The large part the D. A. R. Chapters play in bringing comfort and pleasure to the aliens there was shown on the screen by colored lantern slides. These illustrated the paper "Ellis Island" written by past President General Mrs. Brosseau and read by Mrs. Frank M. Sherman. The Chapters send material to be made into dresses, yarn for sweaters, material for embroidering, crochet cotton and material for rugs. There is great demand for these things to help fill the long hours of waiting at Ellis Island, and the D. A. R. Chapters are the only organization filling this especial need.

A beautifully appointed "tea" was served at the close of the program in the fine old dining room of the Chapter House, Mrs. William Safford pouring and Mrs. Walter E. Holden, Chairman of Hostesses.

NATHAN FULLER CHAPTER, D. R.

The November meeting of the Nathan Fuller Chapter D. R., was held on the 13th at the Boys' and Girls' Library in Newton. After the salute to the flag, led by the Regent, the report of the Secretary was read and accepted. Miss Eleanor Gibbs reported that 10 knitted caps had been sent to the Veterans at Rutland. It was voted to give $3 to the John Andrews Home for Thanksgiving. The Xmas work for Newton War Veterans is to be continued this year and $10 was voted to be given to the Peabody Home, to be used at the discretion of the Americanization chairman, Mrs. Thomas Walters. A motion was made that the Regent write a letter to the State Regent D. R. to the effect that the Nathan Fuller Chapter is unanimously opposed to the use of the $10,000 Pulpit Fund at Valley Forge for the beautification of the old D. R. monument and recommending that the monument be turned over to the care of the State Park.

First on the program is a one-act play from the pen of F. Sladen-Smith, English author, called "The Confutation of Wisdom." This play, which deals with a very familiar theme, in a very subtle and humorous way, is another "first time in America" production for the Parish Players. The cast for this play will be announced at a later date.

Bernard Shaw's "The Man of Destiny" with a cast headed by Mr. and Mrs. Emery Leonard is the other play of the evening. It is a costume play and deals with a little known episode in the career of the great Napoleon.

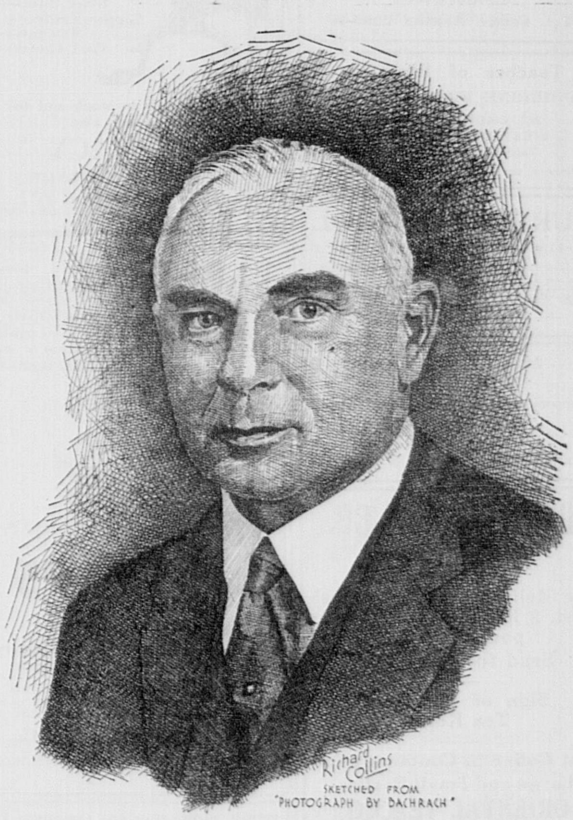
Newton People You Should Know

No. 3



Richard Collins
SKETCHED FROM "PHOTOGRAPH BY BACHRACH"

CHARLES F. RITTENHOUSE

By F. F. MEYER

Biography gets its value not so much because it is a historical record as from the fact that each personal history is a human document, a story of human achievement. Such narratives are interesting because each individual can relate himself to the experiences of which he reads; but more than that, the story of every successful career furnishes inspiration to the ambitious youth who reads it and encourages him to strive for the attainment of a worthwhile goal.

I know the readers of the NEWTON GRAPHIC will be interested in knowing Mr. Rittenhouse is a direct descendant of David Rittenhouse of Philadelphia, noted astrologer and mathematician, first treasurer of the state of Pennsylvania, and first director of the United States Mint. William Rittenhouse, one of his ancestors, also built the first paper mill in America near Philadelphia.

Born in Ohio, October 3rd, 1880. Received his early education, both preparatory school and college, in that state. Following graduation from college spent fifteen years as a teacher, first in private schools, later as an associate professor in Accounting in Simmons College, and for five years Head of the Accounting Department of the College of Business Administration of Boston University.

While engaged in educational work was the author or co-author of ten textbooks on bookkeeping and accounting, most of which are still widely used in schools and colleges giving courses in these subjects.

Was granted his certificate by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to practice as a Certified Public Accountant in 1915. Opened his own office in 1919 and since that time has been actively engaged in the practice of his profession. His practice has grown steadily during that period and is now conducted as a partnership under the name of Charles F. Rittenhouse & Company, the firm beside himself consisting of Herbert E. Tucker and Philip Saunders, Jr. Thirteen members of the staff are certified public accountants of Massachusetts. The clientele is centered largely in New England and consists of a representative list of industries and institutions embracing all phases of accounting work. Mr. Rittenhouse's time is largely taken up with consultation and advisory work on business and financial problems and policies.

Has been a member of the Board of Registration of Certified Public Accountants for ten years and for about half of this time as chairman. Past president of both the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants and the National Association of Cost Accountants and at present a member of the Executive Committee of the American Institute of Accountants. Director and trustee of several corporations and institutions.

Mr. Rittenhouse is a staunch Republican in politics and takes a marked interest in the political problems, although never holding office, economic progress of his own city is of vital and sustained moment to him at all times. Member of the Charles River Country Club, Exchange Club, Boston City Club, Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Married Lucy Bates, a native of Northampton, Mass. Has one daughter who was a member of the 1934 graduating class of Smith College.

(Church) Unitarian.

Mr. Rittenhouse's business is located at 1 Federal street; residence, 707 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, Mass.

Members Open Homes For Card Party

The Card Party which is to be held by the Community Service Club of West Newton, at seven different homes, next Monday, November 19th, offers much pleasure to the many persons who are engaging tables for the event. There are a few tables still available, and anyone desiring reservations can telephone to Mrs. William I. Butcher, who has charge of the arrangements (W. N. 1523), before Saturday evening.

The Ticket committee consists of Mrs. Butcher, Mrs. Walter C. Beckjord, Mrs. William E. Crosby, Miss Dorothy Gray, Miss Eleanore Hall, Mrs. Francis F. Holloway, Mrs. C. H. Lutton, Mrs. Walter S. Redfield, Mrs. W. C. Worth, Mrs. Leon W. Stetson, and Mrs. Kenneth C. Tiffin.

Mrs. Edward W. Pride has charge of the Tea hour. The members of her committee are Mrs. William M. Wise, Mrs. William F. Chase, Mrs. William T. Glidden, Jr., Mrs. Elmore I. MacPhie, Mrs. Roy R. Merchant, Mrs. W. A. Gallup, Mrs. Carl E. Pickhardt, and Mrs. Robert A. Whidden, who will act as assisting hostesses at the homes which are being opened for the occasion by Mrs. Harry S. Baldwin, Mrs. Paul F. Bauder, Mrs. Holcombe J. Brown, Mrs. G. F. Earnshaw, Mrs. George W. Eddy and Mrs. W. M. Morgan.

A treat is in store for the members of the West Newton Community Service Club and their guests at the meeting of Wednesday, November 21st, at 2:30 o'clock, in the Parish House of the Second Church, when Cornelia James Cannon will speak on "Creative Writing." Mrs. Cannon, whose home is in Cambridge, needs no introduction, as she formerly lived in West Newton. She is the author of "Red Dust" and is a constant contributor to magazines. A Food Sale will be held before the meeting, in charge of Mrs. E. W. Whorf. Tea will be served by Mrs. W. P. Helms and her committee.

Educators Will Speak In Waban

At the regular meeting of the Waban Woman's Club to be held at the Neighborhood Club House, on Monday afternoon, November 19th, Mr. M. Hustin Lillard, headmaster of Tabor Academy, and Mr. Robert D. Leigh, president of Bennington College, will speak on the subject "Changes in Education." Both of these men represent education in its broadest sense, one representing a well-known secondary school for boys, and the other one of the newest colleges for women.

At the social hour which follows, the Tea will be in charge of Mrs. Lloyd Freeman and her committee.

Secrecy Surrounds Home Talent Day

Absolute secrecy is being maintained over the many interesting offerings for the Home Talent Day program of the Auburndale Woman's Club to be featured on Tuesday afternoon, the 20th, following the business meeting which opens at 2:30 o'clock, at the Club House. Mrs. Bernard Malaney is chairman of the Day and has the arrangement of these surprises in hand. Following the program Tea will be served.

Adele Hoes Lee In "Paris Bound"

Adele Hoes Lee, well-known interpreter of plays, and director of the Bishop-Lee School of Dramatic Arts, will give "Paris Bound," for the program of the Newton Community Club, at the Underwood School Hall, on November 22nd, at 2:30 p. m. This new play, by Philip Barry, deals with the intricate problems of a young married couple. Critics have stated that Mrs. Lee possesses every dramatic attribute, namely, a splendid voice, dramatic intelligence, and infuses her characters with color and warmth. She has given recitals at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, and at the Boston Musical Guild; and she has appeared before many women's clubs. Club members are sure to enjoy this program.

The Trio of musicians who will furnish the music for the afternoon are Norma Olson, 'cellist; Anna Kovitz, Violinist; and Dorothy Kovitz, Pianist. These young people are the product of the All-Newton Music School. It will be recalled that Anna and Dorothy Kovitz gave a splendid program at one of the Club meetings last year.

Among the members of the Social committee who will assist with refreshments are Mrs. P. Edward Eden, Mrs. Roswell Furman, Mrs. Charles Glueck, Mrs. Edgar G. Lehmann, and Mrs. Charles W. Smith.

Announcement is made, also, that the Club's Rummage Sale will be held on the 23rd and 24th of November, under the management of Mrs. Daniel M. Goodridge.

Open Meeting At Newtonville

Through the courtesy of the Newton Trust Company, one of the outstanding speakers of recent years, Mr. Robert Lincoln O'Brien, will address the Newtonville Woman's Club on "The Nation's Outlook" at an OPEN MEETING at the Club House on November 20th, at 2:30 p. m. Mr. O'Brien, formerly prominent through his connections with Boston newspapers, is at present chairman of the United States Tariff Commission. He is a world-wide traveler and lecturer, and combines his fund of information with a sense of humor and a forceful personality.

Miss Mary Barr Snyder will be heard in piano solos on the same program.

This is an Open Meeting and the residents of Newtonville are cordially invited to be guests of the Trust Company and of the Club on that afternoon.

After the lecture, Tea will be served.

Mrs. Howard M. Waybright, and her Hospital committee, are asking that the annual contributions from members of jellies and old cotton and linen for the Newton Hospital be brought to this meeting. From the date of the formation of the Club, affiliation with the Newton Hospital has been one of its activities, and it may be of interest to recall that in October, 1889, the Club made its first request for cotton and linen for this purpose. The report of the success of a trial collection of jellies was incorporated in the minutes of the Board meeting of November 17, 1899. Mrs. Waybright hopes that this year the Club's offering may indicate the continued enthusiastic interest of the present members in the work originated by the founders and by early members of the Club.

The second meeting in the series of Educational Conferences offered to Club members and their guests will be held on Thursday, November 22nd, at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Cecil W. Clark, 363 Walnut street. At this time Miss Charlotte M. Simon of the Newton High School faculty will speak on the health and hygiene program for girls that is being carried on in the High School. There will be a question and discussion period at the close of the talk. This meeting should be of special interest to those who have daughters in the High School. Members of the Physical Training staff of the High School faculty also will be the guests of the Education committee on that afternoon.

The fourth in the series of eight lectures on History in the Making, by Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor, will be on November 22nd. Admission is by course ticket or by payment of a fee for single lecture.

Restrict Parking On Streets In Newtonville

The committee on Street Traffic of the Newton Board of Aldermen is to submit to the Board for its approval amendments to the traffic ordinances which will cause parking to be prohibited on one side of a number of streets in Newtonville. This action is taken because of many complaints received from obstruction to travel on these streets. It is claimed that with automobiles parked on both sides of the streets affected, it is not possible for motor vehicles to pass. The streets where it is planned to prohibit parking on the North side of each are—Bowers st., Newtonville and Madison aves., Washington park, Park place, Cabot, Austin and Otis sts., and Highland ave. On the South side of each of these streets parking would be limited to one hour. The one-way rule on Bowers st. and Newtonville ave. would be abolished.

The Annual Teachers' Visitation will begin Sunday afternoon and continue through Wednesday evening. Each home represented in the Sunday School will be called on by a teacher in order to better acquaint the parents with the church school plans. Wednesday evening, Nov. 21, at 7:45, the teachers and officers gather at the church and report on the visitation and have departmental conferences.

Lincoln Park Church To Present Colorful Pageant

In a colorful pageant called "The Chest of Joash" members of the Lincoln Park Baptist Church congregation in West Newton this Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock will climax a great November Building Fund campaign to reduce a mortgage incurred some four years ago.

The ancient story of King Joash and the Hebrew temple makes a most appropriate setting for the endeavor now being made by the West Newton church since the indebtedness which is to be reduced came as the result of an extensive program of repairs and improvement undertaken in 1930. In spite of the difficult depression years the original expenditure of $18,000.00 has largely been paid, only $8,825.00 remaining in the mortgage.

The pageant cast of twenty-three persons, directed by Mrs. Duncan M. Staniford, will be assisted by the Community Chorus Choir and Miss Mabel Adams Bennett, organist. The part of King Joash will be presented by Albert Brooks, that of the High Priest, Jehoiada, by John Shade Franklin. Other parts will be taken by Arthur C. Thomas, Charles E. A. Peck, Lloyd and Gordon MacNeill, Clayton Foster, Duncan M. Staniford, Roy Dyer, Robert Yuill, Russell Carle, Margaret House, Margaret and Elizabeth Cameron, Leola Davis, Doris Sheridan, Dorothy Roberts, Louise Orleans, Edna Judge, Edith Armstrong, Barbara Carle, William Ross and Floyd Hayes.

At the morning hour in Lincoln Park Church the Rev. John Shade Franklin will take for his sermon topic, "David's True Kingdom."

LASELL JUNIOR COLLEGE

The first of the informal dances of the year will be held in The Barn on Saturday evening. The party is sponsored by the Executive Council of which Mary Jane Selby of Simsbury, Conn., is president. The patronesses are Mrs. Winslow, Miss Lewis and Miss Lichliter.

Rev. Carl Heath Kopf of the Mt. Vernon Street Church will be the speaker at the Campfire on Sunday evening. Mr. Frank Grebe, Director of Religious Education at the Second Church, West Newton, will speak at the Christian Endeavor meeting on Thursday evening.

A Textile Exhibit and Tea, sponsored by the Home Economics Club, on the afternoon of Monday, November 19, will show many kinds of American handiwork from the early days to the present.

W. C. T. U.

The regular business meeting of the West Newton W. C. T. U. will be held November 19 at 7:45 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Hattie Eagles, 682 Boylston st., Newton Centre. Mrs. Gertrude Braman will be second hostess. The subject will be "Reports from the State Convention."

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY

Have you realized that there are but thirty-one more shopping days before Christmas? It has been estimated that during the past year some seven and a half million persons have accumulated in Christmas Club accounts a total of three hundred and seventy millions of dollars. This amount will be distributed within the next few weeks with the average per member in the neighborhood of fifty dollars. The total is slightly higher than that of a year ago (about 6%) while the amount per member has increased ten per cent. A questionnaire sent to a number of individual members of Christmas Clubs reveals the fact that about forty per cent of the total amount accumulated will be spent for Christmas purchases. Another twenty-five per cent will be used for permanent savings while the remainder will be largely used toward the payment of taxes, mortgage interest, insurance premiums, education, travel and charity. Massachusetts alone will distribute nearly twenty-eight millions of dollars. With such a start it looks as though Santa Claus might be headed for a good year. Do your Christmas shopping early. And do it with your local merchants.

FILLING VACANCIES

Governor Ely has every prerogative and right to make whatever appointments to State positions that he desires before leaving office early next year. The people are more interested in the calibre of the appointees than they are in the personal wrangles between the Governor and the Governor-elect. The Governor's Council has the powers of confirmation of such appointments and regardless of party, political influence, gratitude or personal friendship there is the obligation of selecting proper officials. There is little doubt that some of Governor Ely's appointments will meet with opposition. There is the possibility that some of these appointments will receive confirmation regardless of such opposition. In such cases, where the good of the State is concerned, there often remains the opportunity for removal. If necessary, it should be exercised.

THE TWO YEARS AHEAD

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away we can look ahead and estimate what the next two years will bring in the way of governmental policies. We refer particularly to the State. With Governor Curley as the Chief Executive, a Republican Council with a slim Republican majority, a State Senate practically in a deadlock, and a House with a Republican majority tremendously depleted there is every indication that the next two years will be exceedingly interesting. There is plenty of hard work and responsibility in store for those who are ready to bear their share of the burden. The people of Massachusetts still desire sound government—but they want a sound government with a practical program of social legislation.

ALL FOR A DOLLAR

Have you answered the annual Roll-Call of the American Red Cross which opened Armistice Day and will continue until Thanksgiving Day? The quota for the Newton Chapter is 6,000 members and Newton is expected to go over the top. Will you do your part? There is little need to make a detailed explanation of the work of the Red Cross. It is a merciful work. It ministers to those in need in many ways. Membership dues are one dollar. Join the Red Cross now.

Aldermen Hold Special Meeting

The Newton Board of Aldermen held a special meeting on Wednesday night. The primary purpose was to certify the results of the recent State election. Among other business transacted was the passing of several appropriations. These included the paying of several more claims for damages from blasting caused by the construction of the high level sewer at Newton nearly two years ago. Eventually the total of these many claims will amount to a large sum. The claims for which money was appropriated Wednesday were—Estelle Aiken, 698 Centre st., $300; Gertrude Williams, 62 Bellevue st., $75; Mary Waters, 4 Marlboro st., $75; Ernest Shaw, 75 Lombard st., $300. The Welfare Department received appropriation of $5000 for poor outside the city home. To extend the fire alarm system to Dudley rd. $200 were appropriated and as additional payment to Antonia Karlonis for land taken in 1929 near Pettee st., Newton Upper Falls, $1665. About 32,000 square feet of back land was taken to increase the size of the playground at the Emerson School. City Solicitor Bartlett at that time awarded $1535 to Mrs. Karlonis.

The whole of the land owned by Mrs. Karlonis was assessed for $2700 and the award was made on the basis of this value, in addition to the fact that the land taken was back land and not developed. Mrs. Karlonis entered suit against the city and the case was to come up in court last Tuesday, so at the meeting Monday night the City Solicitor recommended the additional payment. Alderman Temperley objected to the additional payment. He said it would be at the rate of about 10 cents per square foot, a value much higher than the assessed value of the land.

The Aldermen voted to name the playground at the site of the former dump on Warren street, Newton Centre the "Edwin S. Webster Playground" in honor of the donor of this land. A license to operate 2 pool tables at 193 Adams street was granted to Edward Veduccio of Riverdale avenue, Nonantum. A $50,000 bond issue was authorized to finance the construction of sewers and drains.

By Edward H. Powers

The practice of double parking automobiles on streets is one of the worst traffic nuisances today, and one that has rapidly increased. It is difficult for police to curb it when they bring offenders into court only to have some judges place such cases on file or find the offenders not guilty.

We have been asked by elderly residents of this city to call attention to the manner in which some boys and girls attending Newton High School walk along the sidewalks on Walnut street, Newtonville. Our informants have told us that these students, certainly old enough to know better, walk three and four abreast, show no respect for age, and jostle elderly men and women whom they meet on the sidewalks.

Politics With Color

A Bi-Weekly Series of Political Articles of Local Interest
Written Exclusively for the Graphic by P. W. C.

The Political Cyclone

A Democratic friend delivered himself of this remark on November 7, 1934: "The Republican party was dead in the fall of 1932, but didn't know it. In the fall of 1934, the Republican party is dead, and knows it!" The political tornado which swept over the United States on November 6, took a heavy toll in Massachusetts. The Republican party lost every State office save that of Secretary of State, yielded two seats on the Governor's Council, which now stands 5 to 4 in favor of the G. O. P., saw a substantial working majority in the State Senate developed into a deadlock at 20 to 20, and a majority of over 50 in the lower House dwindled to such a small figure as to make it practically negligible. There are some faint-hearted Republicans who even suggest that it might be good strategy to allow the Democrats to organize both branches of the Legislature, and place full responsibility on Governor-Elect Curley's shoulders. This, however, will probably not be done. Sixteen of the 20 Republican Senators have already been in conference, and the chances are they will endeavor to work out a plan to reelect Erland F. Fish, President. The Republican party lost two Congressmen, Robert Luce in the Ninth District, and Frank H. Foss of Fitchburg, in the Third. Luce's defeat was no surprise to anyone who had followed the campaign closely. To many, however, Foss's defeat was a real shock. The Congressional delegation from Massachusetts now stands 8 Republicans, 7 Democrats—almost a tragedy in itself. Worst of all, however, from the standpoint of the old-fashioned die-hard Republican was the apparent crumbling of various County rings.

In Middlesex County, Victor F. Jewett was defeated by the Democrat, Brennan of Medford in Essex County, Commissioner Trefry was eased out of the picture, and I believe that a Democrat was victorious in the Worcester District. Incidentally, it has been very difficult to secure accurate information regarding the detailed vote. It was at least three days before the Boston papers carried the total vote for even the major State offices. Nowhere have I seen any figures concerning the minor parties' candidates. The Socialist party figures may be very interesting this year, on account of the increased number of candidates from that party.

Although the Democrats did not seem to understand that County officers are sacred to the Republicans and must not be tampered with under any circumstances, they did not understand very definitely what they were doing when they reelected David I Walsh to the U. S. Senate by a plurality of 304,000 over Robert M. Washburn. This figure exceeded Gov.-Elect Curley's total by over 100,000 votes. It puts a crimp in Mr. Curley's aspirations to be the undisputed leader of Massachusetts Democracy. However, the former Mayor won plenty of glory on Nov. 6. He was elected Governor by a splendid vote, in view of the knifing he doubtless received from some of the more rabid Walsh supporters; and he had the satisfaction—if he can derive any satisfaction from such an accomplishment—of defeating one of the finest men, and one of the most capable and deserving Republican candidates ever nominated for Governor. Unfortunately for Bacon, he was running at the worst possible time for him within the memory of most of us. In normal times he would probably have defeated Curley almost as easily as Fuller did in 1924 (160,000 votes),—but these are not normal times.

One of the prominent Republican candidates on the State ticket went so far as to say to me that it looked as though the political day of the Bacons, Saltonstalls, Richardsons, Herters, and Weeks, had definitely passed. This, however, presents a gloomier picture than circumstances warrant. If I really believed that from now on, a man of Bacon's background, education and qualifications for public service, was to be shunted one side and told he was not wanted in public life, I should be terribly depressed. But, having heard Governor Ely speaking at the Harvard Club, in a more personal vein than is possible when he is talking for publication, I feel confident that the exact opposite is true, namely, that men of education and ideals, and an aptitude and an urge for public service, will be increasingly needed if American Democracy is to succeed: Yes, if it is even to live. In these days of stress and emotion, principles and ideals are lost in the shuffle, and the average man in public life is interested too much in pleasing a majority of the voters, regardless of his own convictions, and quite regardless of the eventual public welfare. Circumstances and not men make the issue, and catch phrases, if plausible and euphonious, win thousands of voters. Does any sane man doubt that Gaspar G. Bacon, for example, is less concerned with work and wages than James M. Curley? Yes, you say, but Curley rose from the great middle class, whereas Bacon is an aristocrat, and therefore less in tune with the unemployed and the suffering. Let's grant that, for the sake of argument. Then let's turn to our beloved and distinguished President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, to whom all Democratic candidates, high and low, made unseemly haste to pay homage,—some sincerely and others with gross insincerity. Is not he an aristocrat? Is it not true that he was born to wealth, and that he spends some of his leisure hours with men like Vincent Astor? If the trappings of wealth and society are quite in keeping with the office of President of the United States, how does it come that they constitute the biggest argument advanced by some of the greatest spellbinders against Gaspar G. Bacon? Oh, consistency! Thy name is not known to the species politicus.

A brief glance, now, at the balance of the Republican ticket. John W. Haigis, whom many likened to Calvin Coolidge when they saw him at a distance, went down to unexpected defeat. He conducted a very unselfish campaign, spending most of his time in praise of Bacon. His defeat by over 70,000 votes by Mayor Joseph Hurley of Fall River was a distinct shock, as it was felt in many quarters that he would be elected, regardless of what happened to the rest of the ticket. Frederic W. Cook, next to Haigis, was considered the best Republican vote-getter, but he would never have survived the landslide had he not been pitted against the weakest Democrat of the entire lot. It is a curious coincidence that both parties seem to have played their racial strategy the same way. Dr. Santosuosso, the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, a prominent representative of the Italian race, was contending against the man who proved to be the most popular Republican in Massachusetts at the moment. On the Republican side, we find Oscar U. Dionne, the extremely popular representative of the French constituency, stacked up against the strongest Democratic vote-getter, State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley. What I am getting at is that neither party shows a disposition to hand out an honor unless it represents a forlorn hope. It was, however, somewhat amazing that Dionne did not carry his own city of New Bedford.

Alonzo B. Cook, the perpetual thorn in the side of the G. O. P., actually outran Dionne, who had the full party support. This is Cook's third straight defeat. In defeating him, Thomas H. Buckley rolled up the biggest plurality of anyone save Charles F. Hurley, who was reelected Treasurer, and, of course, Senator Walsh. It is a good guess that the supporters of Mrs. Pidgeon, who lost the nomination in the Republican primary, contributed to Buckley's victory. Joseph E. Warner made the best showing of any of the Republicans on the State ticket except F. W. Cook. He was defeated by less than 40,000 votes. His success over the period of the last decade or so appears to be due to ex-Governor Fuller, who made a political martyr out of him in Warner's earlier days, and also to his cleverness and versatility in making strategic appointments in his office. He has invariably covered every important racial group.

Robert M. Washburn made a very definite contribution to the political campaign. He was the most colorful figure of the entire lot. He was at all times himself. Of how many political candidates can that be said? It was a pity that he could not have succeeded in unseating Senator Walsh, for he is the one man who could have handled Huey Long to the queen's taste. Washburn started in as a forlorn hope—almost a joke. Had it not been for the political boner which Judson Hannigan pulled, he would probably never have made the run. He offered himself to the party when no other Republican of prominence and ability had the courage and the unselfishness to either seek or accept the nomination. After the extent of his defeat was known, Washburn made the following statement: "I was licked from the start by a strong candidate and the New Deal. I was licked badly because the first and pretty much the only thought of the Republicans in Massachusetts was to lick Mr. Curley. I was left to crawl up on the beach, if I could. I have no kick."

Robert Luce is outmoded politically. He is the elder statesman type who had no more chance against Mayor Russell than an old Model T has against a 1934 Ford. Luce couldn't even carry his home city of Waltham, and he ran 2,000 votes behind Bacon in Newton in spite of the clever manipulation of the liquor interests in that city. Unfortunately for the Congressman, he has no personal magnetism. He lacks flexibility. He is not an appealing candidate in any sense of the word, and it was utterly impossible for him to overcome the strong resentment to his candidacy,—not merely among the wets, but also among the more rabid supporters of Mayor Weeks. There is no use blinking the fact that Luce was supposed to have stepped aside this Fall in favor of our Mayor. It would seem as though he has now paid the price. Let us hope that he will not persist in his ambition to make the race for the Senate in 1936. Bacon and possibly Washburn or Mayor Weeks would appear to have the right of way—at least so far as Luce is concerned.

In conclusion, let us remember that the Republican party is founded on principles and not on men — that these principles are still alive and that there is no cause for taking too seriously the mock funeral oration which our good friend, Will Rogers, delivered over the radio last Sunday night.

ONE THING.... ....AND ANOTHER

It's All in Appearances

If there is any subject concerning which I possess an open and judicial mind it is that of skilfull automobile driving. The reason is that I never touch the wheel of a car, which, on the basis of the average expert testimony, should make me an oracle. Not that I am a back-seat driver in the common or uncommon acceptance of that phrase. Possibly I am too modest in that I decline to offer what might or might not be highly valuable advice. My generous nature leads me to assume without hesitation that, whoever the person driving may be, he or she knows the job and that it is no business of mine to interfere.

There are, I find, those who do not share my views. These very people, upon receiving an invitation to ride, are inclined to and frequently do pause and ask, "Have you driven long?" Or, if they doubt the driver's experience and do not wish to so state, they hedge with, "You're sure you don't mind driving in traffic or over a road that's new to you?" It is not difficult to imagine what the driver is thinking when such questions are put.

My all-abiding faith in human nature is so simple that I never hesitate when asked to ride but hop in, confident that I am in the hands of a proficient person. Thus far I have had no reason to repent. If I ever do the circumstances may prove to be such that I have nothing to retract for the very reason that I shall have forfeited forever all powers of writing and talking and possibly breathing.

Important as this matter is I cannot give it extended space, although I must say that if I were driving and wished to inspire confidence I should wear a chauffeur's uniform. There is something impressive in semi-military rig and cap. You know yourself you never mistrust the driving ability of one who wears a uniform. It is taken for granted he must be careful and even dexterous, in short, a professional. But should the best driver in the world decide to dress like a tramp you would promptly assert that he must be unreliable. All of which goes to show that toggery is everything.

Crashing the Gate

The feverish desire on the part of some people to obtain free of charge tickets of admission to this or that affair is not a new trait of character among members of the human race. The name given it these days is "chiseling" and that appears to me as expressive as any. What it really indicates is greed to possess that for which nothing is paid. Personally, I have no objection to distribution of "passes" to those who otherwise would not be able to attend. I do object, however, to the conduct of men and women who specialize in "grafting" that for which they could well afford to pay. If it is an entertainment for the benefit of a worthy cause, people should not only be willing but eager to buy tickets. There are some who can't be made to see that.

For my part I am inclined to share the view of a friend who absolutely refuses a "deadhead." His philosophy is, "When I go to any kind of show or entertainment I insist upon paying my way. It gives me the right to criticize." Although not especially critical myself I must agree that I would rather have the privilege of expressing my views.

All this leads to an incident which it gives me pleasure to relate. One of those borish individuals who somehow manages to "crash the gate," on all occasions, was making the most of his experience and laughing and applauding the antics of the performers at a charity show. He was indeed most conspicuous. Finally, a man who knew him well, and also the circumstances of his presence, walked over and touched him on the shoulder, saying, "Don't be so noisy. You're acting like a cash customer."

Take Your Choice

We've read a lot lately about rugged individualism. How about the smooth sort? The latter seem to work consistently along towards the goal of success. Is one to be admired more than the other? Is rough assertiveness more effective than polished ambition? I confess I can't answer. However, here is an example of the glossy brand and if you have the time and inclination you possibly may figure out for yourself which you prefer.

At a recent party attended by young people at one of those attractive dance halls which dot our countryside (meaning Newton and environs) a snappily-dressed young man remarked. "Too bad the orchestra doesn't play 'The Continental'." Now that appears to be the name of the newest dance, in case you're not among the initiated, and naturally it caused some talk. Word was passed around, even as far as the musicians' gallery. Soon one of the committee on arrangements appeared at the young man's side, saying, "The orchestra will play 'The Continental' if you'll give us an exhibition dance." It was plainly putting the boastful one on the spot, but he was game—individualistic, to be exact. He consented and to the strains of the music went through the movements, producing a combination of steps reminiscent of Fred Astaire and "Bill" (Bojangles) Robinson.

The 100 or more dancers who watched the young man were most enthusiastic and applauded loudly. He bowed gracefully in acknowledgment. Some time later, when he could get away from the congratulatory throng he made for the refreshment room to join his girl friend. "Darling, you were wonderful!" she exclaimed. "Where did you learn 'The Continental'?"

"Shush," he whispered in her shell-like ear, "I don't know that dance any more than anybody here. Don't ever ask me to dance 'The Continental' again until I learn how to do it."

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

The recent election tended to show once more the correctness of those who contend that a large percentage of the electorate is unfit for self government. They will vote for any candidate who bears the label of the party to which they blindly adhere, regardless of his lack of qualifications. They make no effort to learn anything about the candidates's character, or lack of it. Thus, in the last election many citizens of Newton voted for a candidate who is not a bona-fide resident of the district in which he sought high office; who is not a member of the profession to which he has purported to belong; and whose record in general is such that most of those who voted for him would not have done so if they knew more about him. But, Republicans and Democrats both continue to stupidly and servilely "vote the straight ticket."

Newton, since its inception nearly three centuries ago, has developed on a village basis. This type of development is responsible for the fact that this city became one of the outstanding communities of this country. Ignoring this historical past of Newton and its happy results, the committee of the Board of Aldermen appointed to revise the Ward lines of the city, proposes to split some of the larger villages of the city into different political units instead of continuing them as in the past—each larger village included in a Ward by itself. Our public school system, our churches and social activities have nearly all been organized on a village basis. The proposed changes planned by the Aldermen would disrupt this. For instance—Ward 1—starting at the Faneuil-Brighton line — would extend along the North side of the Boston & Albany tracks through Nonantum to the Newtonville-West Newton line at Albemarle rd. It would include in one Ward persons who never have ordinary opportunities to meet each other, whose interests, so far as city activities are concerned, are widely divergent. And instead of holding hearings on this extremely important matter in each village, as was done some years ago on the matter of selecting the city hall site, only one public hearing is announced, that at City Hall next Wednesday night. We trust that popular indignation against the present plan and the failure to afford citizens proper opportunities to publicly discuss it will cause the Aldermen to arrange for village hearings and more deliberation by Newton citizens on this vital change in the political make-up of this city.

Nero fiddled (according to legend) while Rome burned. And the little humans here in Massachusetts 1900 years later with considerable of the complex which characterized Nero, vote to legalize betting on two of the biggest "sucker" rackets yet devised—horse and dog racing. They go and bet nearly three-quarters of a million dollars in a few hours at a nearby race track. And lose 10% of it legally. Most of those who have been patronizing the race tracks are included in the masses more or less adversely affected by the depression. Many of them can't meet their ordinary expenses but they fatuously seek to bolster up their meagre resources by gambling on the horses—and losing. The profits made by race track promoters are so great that it isn't strange certain politicians in this State and their associates want to get in on the race track gravy in Massachusetts. Of course the commission appointed by the irreproachable Governor Ely will see to it that race track franchises in Massachusetts will be granted with strict consideration given to the highest ethical aspects of this matter, and only to men of lofty character who can be depended upon to keep the racing-gambling activities on a very honest plane.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 18.

The Golden Text is: "The creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God" (Romans 8:21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God" (Luke 13:11, 12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus never asked if disease were acute or chronic, and he never recommended attention to laws of health, never gave drugs, never prayed to know if God were willing that a man should live. He understood man, whose Life is God, to be immortal, and knew that man has not two lives, one to be destroyed and the other to be made indestructible" (p. 369).

Hospital Report For Three Months Is Interesting

There is much local interest in the following report of the executive committee of the Newton Hospital for the quarterly period ending on Sept. 30th. The report was given to the trustees of the hospital by the chairman of the executive committee, Herbert M. Cole.

"The outstanding item of interest is the improvement and enlargement of the out-patient quarters recently completed. We have doubled the floor space available for this hitherto greatly crowded department, at a cost of something over $7,500. This department is for the patients of slender income who cannot afford a private physician.

"Another rather large capital item was the $3,230 expended for a new metal washer for the laundry to replace an old worn-out wooden affair. Bear in mind that almost 100,000 pieces a month are handled in our laundry. The new machine has already demonstrated its economy.

We have also replaced the old and dangerous wooden steps leading from Washington st. to the out-patient department, with new concrete steps and platform, together with an iron rail, at a cost of around $500. This was a greatly needed bit of replacement work.

"President Frost with Miss Allen and the Chairman of the Committee, were recently called before the Budget Committee of the Community Chest for the purpose of presenting and explaining our 1935 budget. At that time we informed the Chest Committee that so far as it was possible for us to estimate income and outgo for the year 1935—obviously a very difficult matter—we figured on a deficit of $58,850. This was after crediting $21,000 from endowment income and $9,000 estimated to be received from Wellesley. We must reckon with a large increase in food and fuel costs as well as many supply items. We are also confronted with a material increase in what appears on our reports as 'medical and surgical salaries.' This represents the salaries which we are paying our graduate nurses as compared with the free service of student nurses. Newton patients demand the very highest quality of service. During the current year we have added 28 graduates in order to improve our nursing service to the highest standard possible. Highly desirable as we believe this to be, we must face the fact that this involves an added annual expense over 1933 of between $15,000 and $20,000.

"For some weeks the Executive Committee has had under consideration the matter of an increase in our ward rate to Newton patients from $2.50 as at present, to either $3.00 or $3.50 per day. We consulted with the superintendents of seven nearby and comparable institutions as to their rates. It was ascertained that two were charging $3.00 and five were charging $3.50. We believe that we would be justified in raising the rate to $3.50, a figure which is, of course, very much under cost to us, but in view of general business conditions, the committee has raised the rate only to $3.00. At the same time, we have lifted our flat charge of $40.00 for two weeks' ward maternity cases to $50. This figure includes laboratory and delivery room charges.

"We hope you have noted the absence of automobiles on the driveway leading to and in front of the main entrance. A special officer has been employed between the hours of 2 and 8 p. m., to enforce observance of the new "No Parking" signs which have been placed along the drive. The new rules are working to a charm. Such is the fear of and respect for a police uniform.

"October 16th was a memorable day for us. About thirty surgeons from all parts of the country attending the Boston convention of the American College of Surgeons, were invited by our staff to visit the Newton Hospital. During the entire morning, members of our active staff performed a series of major and minor operations in our operating rooms, which were witnessed with great interest by our guests. In the afternoon dry clinics were held in Thayer Hall. Our own Dr. Keever was Chairman of the Newton Hospital Committee and Dr. Leonard was the Newton member of the Boston Arrangements Committee. Following a social hour, a luncheon was served. Many were the words of praise by the visiting surgeons for the hospital itself, for the hospitality extended and for the arrangements made for our visitors' convenient transportation from and back to Boston. We are indebted to our staff for this worthwhile courtesy extended to the surgical fraternity.

"The Newton Chapter of the Red Cross has requested us, together with the Newton Welfare Bureau and the District Nursing Association, to bear a share of the $2,000 annual expense of the so-called nutrition worker who is doing splendid service throughout the city. Dr. Keever advises us that the diabetic work in our out-patient clinic is practically without value unless a skilled nutrition expert follows up this work by visits to the home of the patient. We have consented to share one-fourth, or $500 of this expense.

"You have been informed of our financial status. For the first nine months of this year, the average number of patients treated, exclusive of course of the out-patient department, was 164.05 per day, which compares with 152.52 for the same period a year ago, an increase of almost 8 per cent. Our operating income shows an increase for this period of $15,000, but due to the large amount of improvement and replacement work, our expenses are up $32,000, so that our operating loss has increased $17,000.

"It would appear that for the immediate future, we are not faced with large capital expenditures and we have reason to believe that with the funds allocated to us by the Chest, we should come pretty near to balancing our budget for the current year."

Recent Deaths

EDWARD C. WYATT

Edward C. Wyatt of 234 Upland rd., Newtonville, died on Nov. 11th, in his 66th year. He was born in Somerville and had been a resident of this city for 36 years. Following his graduation from the Charlestown High School at the age of 16, he entered the employ of the John Hancock Life Insurance Company and became assistant secretary of this company. Shortly before his death he received a commendatory letter from President Crocker of that company on the completion of his 50 years of service with it.

Mr. Wyatt was a Past Master of Dalhousie Lodge of Masons, a charter member of Norumbega Lodge of Newtonville and a former deacon of Central Congregational Church of Newtonville. During the war he served as a member of Newton Constabulary. He was for several years physical instructor at the Newton Y. M. C. A. His funeral service was held on Tuesday noon at Central Congregational Church. Rev. Randolph Merrill officiated. Burial was in Newton Cemetery. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Amy (Wheeler) Wyatt; two sons, Guy E. Wyatt of New York and Clarence W. Wyatt of Newtonville; and four grandchildren.

The letter sent to Mr. Wyatt by President Walton of the John Hancock Company read in part:

"Tomorrow, I am informed, will mark the completion of your 50th year of continuous service with the Company. This is worthy of remark. I recall as if it were yesterday my early meeting with you and my reverence for your muscular Christianity, which soon took on the tinge of admiration for a high and steadfast character, a quiet strength, a steady industry backed by good intelligence and a trustworthiness which time has amply tested.

"You occupy a high place in our esteem, a place well earned and fittingly borne. You have made a place for yourself in the Company of honor and trust. You have good health and I am sure a good conscience. It is my pleasure to recall these things at this time as an old friend and associate, and a valued coadjutor. I regret that the circumstances have prevented some more elaborate and formal observance of the event.

Dr. Daniel L. March Is Guest Speaker at Highlands

At the monthly meeting of the Men's Club of Newton Highlands on November 7 Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University delivered a unique and unusually interesting speech on "Walking Sticks."

His large collection of walking sticks gathered from the four corners of the world was used as the theme of an informal but eloquent narrative of his experiences in Africa, Asia, Europe and South America. Sidelights on persons of international renown, educators, statesmen and others in more humble walks of life brought touches of humor or emphasized references to history, religion, politics and science.

The first broadcast of the Community Chest over WMEX was brought to the meeting by radio amplifiers.

mons of 19a Beech street, Nonantum, a chauffeur; and Harold A. Murray of 181 Pearl street, an accountant. The latter has been a candidate in previous years. All three are life-long residents of the city. Thus, all three Aldermen from Ward 1 next year will be men without previous experience in the Board.

In Ward 2 Roy V. Collins who has been a member of the Board for 13 years and its President for the past 5 years, will not run again. Two candidates have already entered the field to succeed him. They are Albert M. Lyon of 567 Walnut street and Edward J. Dooley of 15 Minot place. Mr. Lyon, a lawyer, was a member of the Newton School Committee for 8 years and has served as a member of the Newton Planning Board. Mr. Dooley is the owner of the pharmacy at 867 Washington street, corner of Walnut street. He is a life-long resident of Newtonville, a graduate of Newton High School and the Mass. College of Pharmacy. Donald M. Hill, Ward Alderman for the past 3 years will again be a candidate for this office. He announced last week that he would run for Alderman-at- Large, but with the entrance of Mr. Lyon's candidacy for that office, Mr. Hill is to run for re-election to the office he now holds.

In Ward 3 Maynard Hutchinson will be a candidate for re-election to the office he now holds—Alderman-at-Large. Bernard D. Farrell, Jr., who has been Ward Alderman for the past 3 years will not seek re-election to this office. Instead, Mr. Farrell will be a candidate for School Committee from Ward 3, opposing George H. Fernald, Jr., the present member on the School Committee from West Newton. Four candidates for Ward Alderman are already in the field. They are Alfred V. Guzzi of Mague place, John J. Keeffe of Wiswall street, Algernon W. McCarthy of 68 Margin street, and Thomas McEnaney of 12 Highland street. Mr. Guzzi is a janitor at the Warren junior high school. He has been unusually interested in Newton politics for several years and has been instrumental in obtaining a number of public improvements in Ward 3. He has run for alderman during the last three years. Mr. Keeffe, a life-long resident of West Newton, is a mason by occupation. He is Past Commander of Eugene Daley Post, V. F. W. of Newton. Mr. McCarthy has been prominent in fraternal and social activities in this city for many years. He is employed as a secretary by the Boston & Albany railroad.

In Ward 4 Alderman-at-Large Charles B. Floyd will be a candidate for re-election. So will Ward Alderman Dennis M. Cronin. The latter will have an opponent in the person of Wilbur P. Richardson of 71 Neshobe road, Waban whose candidacy was announced in last week's GRAPHIC.

In Ward 5 Donald D. McKay, Alderman-at-Large will be a candidate for re-election. Roy S. Edwards of 25 Orchard avenue, Waban, stated last week that he is undecided as to whether or not he will oppose Mr. McKay. Clifford H. Walker of 711 Chestnut street, Waban, who was recently chosen to fill the vacancy of Ward Alderman from Ward 5, caused by the resignation of James R. Chandler, will be a candidate for this office. He will be opposed by Wilson P. Harris of 35 Fenwick road, Waban and Robert A. Quint of 1589 Centre street, Newton Highlands. Mr. Harris is a chemist; Mr. Quint is a lawyer.

In Ward 6 Alderman Paul M. Goddard will be a candidate for reelection. He will be opposed by Philip R. Kneeland of 70 Bowen st., Newton Centre. Mr. Kneeland was a candidate for this office last year and ran second to Mr. Goddard in a field of five. Ronald W. Cordingley of Chestnut Hill, who has been an Alderman-at-Large from Ward 6 for the past two years, has not announced whether or not he will run.

In Ward 7, as in Ward 1, three Aldermen must be elected. Philip S. Jamieson, who has been an Alderman-at-Large from the Ward for the past six years, would make no definite statement when asked if he is to be a candidate again. Clarence C. Colby of 31 Farlow rd. has announced that he will be a candidate for Alderman from Ward 7. While Mr. Colby, a lawyer, did not specify whether he will run for Alderman-at-Large or Ward Alderman, the indications are that he will be a candidate for the first-named office. James M. Manning of 12 Pearl court, Newton, will be a candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 7. Mr. Manning ran for this office last year. Paul H. Drake of 56 Pembroke st. is another candidate for the office. He was a candidate for Mayor at the election last December. George E. Rawson of 22 Marlboro st., who was chosen recently by the Board of Aldermen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of former Alderman Joseph J. Murray, will be a candidate to fill the unexpired term of one year as Alderman-at-Large.

James B. Melcher, Ward Alderman from Ward 7, is a candidate for re-election. He will be opposed by Ellis Sutcliffe of 112 Charlesbank rd., Newton, who was a candidate for this office last year, and by David Black of 62 Grasmere st.

Charge Wellesley Youths With Stealing Signs

Three Wellesley youths, apparently trying to make a hit with some Wellesley college students, were arrested Monday night by Wellesley police charged with making a disturbance in front of one of the college dormitories and with having removed part of a fence in front of the building. Two traffic signs were found in the automobile in which the swains had been riding and two more signs were recovered from rooms occupied by the students. The trio admitted having taken the signs from the grounds of the Newton-Andover Theological School at Newton Centre. Complaints were issued against the three by the Newton police. They identified themselves as Ernest Grant, Pine Tree rd.; Melvin Stone, Tappan rd.; James Ames, Manor ave., all of Wellesley.

Girl Convicted Of Stealing Nurses Clothes

The clothing was the property of two nurses at the hospital. Some of the articles taken were recovered at the home of the defendant by Special Officer Feeley. The judge ordered her to make restitution to the amount of $5 to pay for other articles. She was given a suspended jail sentence of 30 days.

Girl Scouts Hold League Of Nations' Party

Troop VI of Nonantum Girl Scouts held a League of Nations party Tuesday evening, Nov. 13th. All the girls who participated in this event represented various countries and were very colorful in their original and gay costumes.

There were folk dances of the various countries and songs and games given by the girls.

Added entertainment was given by Miss Purcell and Miss Lacroix, two well known and talented tap dancers.

Among the guests for the evening were the local director Captain Freeman, Mrs. Frank A. Day of Newton and the Misses Lovett of West Newton.

The entire party was under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Horgaard, captain of the troop, who was assisted by her lieutenants.

Woman Ignored 'Stop' Sign Fined $5

Mrs. Rena B. Carney of 121 Parker ave., Newton Highlands, was fined $5 in the Newton court on Wednesday for not stopping her car before entering a through street. Patrolman Joe Smith testified that when he stopped Mrs. Carney's car at Woodcliff rd. and Boylston st., because she did not obey the STOP sign, that she told him she was a taxpayer and did not stop before entering through streets. He also stated that Mrs. Carney commented that he would be better engaged in apprehending those who speed 60 and 70 miles an hour on the turnpike.

In court the same day Rose Volante of 391 Dedham st. was found not guilty of driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. Patrolman Smith was the complainant. Some months ago a car driven by Miss Volante collided with a police car, but the case did not come up until Wednesday. The judge ruled that the evidence did not prove that the defendant had been negligent.

Kilmain gave Mrs. Mogul one of the new "no-fixing" tags which the usual recipient takes to the Clerk of Court and pays $3. Mrs. Mogul chose to take the case to court and was fortunate in appearing before Judge Lynch of Milford who was sitting at the session. He was very lenient and placed the case on file.

Philip Rivers of Brookyn, N. Y., was fined the top price in the Newton court on Wednesday for driving a car while under the influence of liquor. Weeks Jr. High

On Thursday, November 8, after the close of school, an entertainment was given in the auditorium by Mr. Bertram E. Adams, National President of the Society of Magicians. For a solid hour he baffled a most responsive audience with his tricks of magic.

The Home Room Soccer Leagues closed their schedules last week when the grade championships were determined. Room 104 won the title in the ninth grade against 319C by a score of 1-0; Room 304 defeated 209 to the tune of 4-2 in the eighth grade battle; and in an exciting two-overtime-period game, Room 309 won the seventh grade laurels over Room 311 by the close score of 1-0. Room 309 has won the seventh grade soccer championship every year.

In two closely contested games against Bigelow last week, the Varsity soccer team was tied 1-1 and the Junior Varsity was tied 2-2.

On Tuesday evening, November 13, the first meeting of the year of the Weeks Parent-Teacher Association was held in the auditorium. Following the usual business meeting, presided over by Dr. Karl Bowman, Principal Frank F. Carr extended a cordial welcome to the group. Mr. Carr, in turn, presented Superintendent of Schools, Julius E. Warren who gave a thought-provoking talk on "Some Problems of Education in 1934-1935."

At the assembly on Wednesday, November 14, Ruth Randolph presented Mr. Talbot, Educational Field Agent of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, who presented a most interesting illustrated talk on birds. Mr. Talbot emphasized the birds that are particularly common to Newton, making a plea for their protection in showing the value of birds to our community.

For the past few days, a drive has been under way in the school to obtain old, discarded Victor phonograph records. The Radio Corporation of America is making a special offer to schools whereby they may obtain a combination R. C. A. Victor phonograph and radio in exchange for old Victor records. In order to procure the best set, 4600 records are needed. At the present time about half of that number have been brought in by the pupils. All contributions will be gratefully received.

Celebration of Armistice Day was observed in the assembly program on Wednesday, November 7, Herbert Boyle, presiding. Earle Vaughan read the selection Christ in the Andes, and from the Bible, Micah 4:1-3, following which he led in giving the Lord's Prayer. The chairman then led in the Salute to the Flag while David Birtwell played the Call to Colors. Lucius Carpenter, taking the part of a blind French soldier, and Fred Guterman, the part of the son, presented a short skit laid in France in 1918 entitled The Americans Come. A musical accompaniment to the skit was played by Mr. Coleman. The following, in scout uniforms, took parts of American soldiers: John Wilkins, Charles Nightingale, James Townsend, Richard Johnson, Kendall Fisher, John Ryther, David Birtwell, Alfred Lowe, and Allan McKinnon. The next number, America the Beautiful, was sung by the entire assembly. The chairman introduced the Hon. Edwin O. Childs, former Mayor of Newton, who delivered an Armistice Day address. In his talk, Mr. Childs gave a review of the first Armistice Day in 1918 and concluded with a plea for universal peace. No speaker who comes to the school is more enthusiastically received by the students, or listened to with greater attention, than Mr. Childs. His talks are a great inspiration to his audience.

Day Jr. High School

New books, attractive posters made by members of the Library Club, and "hobby" collections are being displayed in the school library in observance of Book Week. Pupils have been urged to visit and to browse.

The Library Club further observed Book Week by taking a field trip to the Boys' and Girls' Library at Newton Corner where there is a special room for Junior High pupils and an exhibit of "hobbies".

At the November 14th assembly, Mr. R. V. Burkhard, principal of the school, spoke briefly on control and heroism. He urged all pupils to try for greater control in all that they do. The remainder of the period was devoted to the singing by the entire school of football songs.

There are ten pupils in the school who are studying lip-reading with Miss Ena G. Macnutt and who are receiving tremendous benefit from the lessons. Anthony DelGizzi, who had not had a lip-reading lesson since last May, gave a splendid exhibition at the West Newton Women's Club on November 9th, without missing a single thing said to him.

On the All-Newton program broadcast from station WMEX on Wednesday night, a skit, "Just Around the Corner," was presented by a group of high school pupils who last year were members of the Day Broadcasting Club. The skit was written by Bernard Erickson. Ruth Nally was the announcer. The cast included Janet Mattson, Marcelia Rennard, Ralph Hinckley, Arthur Henderson, Bernard Erickson, Miss Helen Lee of the high school and Mr. Alden Read of the Day Junior High were the directors.

The same skit was given by members of the present Radio Club in their regular Friday morning broadcast. The program was devoted to a discussion of the Newton Community Chest Drive, what it is and what it hopes to accomplish. Nancy Flagg presented the summary. Members of the cast for the skit were Joan Cox, Betty King, Dean Lewis, Walter Crane, and George Hutchings. The announcer was Alice LeBaron.

If weather permits, the finals of the boys' tennis tournament will be played off this week. Albert Everts and Ernest Johnson, both eighth graders, will be the contestants.

The school paper will again be in charge of a club, the "Daytonian" Club. Mr. Addison Cowles will act as faculty adviser to the staff of about twenty-five members. Winifred Batty has been appointed Editor-in-Chief with Emery St. George as assistant editor, Doris Mergendahl as news editor, Frank Scheel as general business manager, Donald Lawrence as circulation manager, Donata Cellucci as publicity manager, Albert Everts as sports editor, Daphne Kenway as literary editor, Margaret Clayton as humor editor, Ruth Howe as exchange editor, Betty Burrows as alumni editor. Other staff members are Weston Haskell, Ralph Thomas, Bertram Silva, Peter Cutelis, Edna Gunn, Walter Crane, Marcia Hunnefield, Paul Buliung, Erminia Mancini, Joan Cox, Janet Burns, Paul Elicker, Jr., and Donald Keoughan. The club will take over the entire responsibility for the publication of the paper starting with the November issue.

A Good Lamp Bulb

by its surface

Elmer Hostapple, twenty years a farmer, knows hens . . . but even Elmer can't tell a good egg by the shell alone.

Surface appearances are sometimes deceiving . . . bad eggs have a strong resemblance to good ones — on the outside. Similarly — cheap lamp bulbs often look as good to the naked eye as lamps of reliable quality.

How tell the difference? How can you be sure you're getting lamp bulbs of good quality? The answer is — look for the trade-mark of the manufacturer. If the name on the lamp is one you know, there is your guarantee of quality. Such lamps may cost a trifle more at first, but they cost less in the end — they give you all the light that you pay for.

You can buy American-made lamps of guaranteed quality at all Edison Shops and at many reliable dealers

Warren Jr. High

The Alumnae and Warren Varsity played soccer on Friday, Nov. 2, with a scoreless tie resulting. The blue color team was victorious over the green color team in the game played on Nov. 5.

Members of the Indian Beadwork Club are preparing an exhibit of the club and school project work to be shown at the Newton Library next week.

Thirty-four members of Junior III Civics Class went through the office of the Boston Traveler, Thursday, October 25, and saw the evening edition being set up and printed. Miss Dudley and Mr. Giles were in charge of the trip.

Room 11 has a library containing volumes which have been loaned by the various home room members. These books will be read whenever pupils have a free period.

The Assembly on Wednesday, Nov. 7, was directed by the Warren school officers. After the opening exercises, Mr. Greer of the American Legion, spoke on the significance of Armistice Day. Mr. Greer told the Warren student body of his recent trip to Paris and his visitation to many of the historical points and battle grounds of the world war. He stressed the peace time responsibilities of citizens to carry on their civic duties as the world war veterans carried on the war time burdens of 1917 and stated that "Youth" is the hope of the world.

The rest of the assembly consisted of a report of activities sponsored by the Junior Red Cross and a roll call of home room representatives showed every room in Warren Junior High School 100% in membership. The council then presented a short skit relating to Red Cross service. The following made up the cast: Dorothy Russell, Beatrice Clark, George Dunkly, Henry Chandonait, Bob Blakeslee, and Charles Bannon.

On Monday, Nov. 5, nine members of the Daniel Boone Club went to Clinton for an outing under the direction of Mr. Butler and Mr. Giles. The following boys made the trip. Philip Shute, Potter Trainer, Robert Myers, John Lane, William Young, Dougald MacDonald, John Hay and Thomas Hayden.

Bigelow Junior H. S.

Seven of the eleven home rooms in the Bigelow have one hundred per cent membership in the Junior Red Cross.

The Red Cross Club has the following members in the cast of its assembly program presented Wednesday, Nov. 7th: Phillip Reiman, Theodore Trumble, Elizabeth Hall, Margaret Foley, Anne Kendrick, Ernest Sullivan, Stanley Smith, Thomas Whelan, Albert Tashjian, Margaret Moorhead, Anne Murphy, Jean Viles, Ruth Hall, Barnaby Smith, John Eusden, Robert Gallant, Elizabeth Feola, Marion Quirk, Annette Yanco, Virginia Connolly, Natalie Cummings, Betty Swig, Ethel Robinson, Ethel Dewey, and Winfred Bender.

man, and Suzzanne Brinckley, better known to her Club members as Mrs. Charles Hector.

After the entertainment, the Hospitality committee, headed by Mrs. Ralph Balch, served Tea, and an opportunity was given for the guests to meet the artists. The president, Mrs. Ernest F. Drew, assisted in receiving the guests, and the two vice-presidents, Mrs. George Follett and Mrs. Edward Gray, were hostesses at the tea table.

Business and Professional Group, Auburndale Woman's Club

Miss Rosa Allen and Miss Alice Gilpatric were hostesses for the meeting of the Business and Professional Group of the Auburndale Woman's Club when they met at the Club House on Tuesday evening, the 6th.

A quilt composed of blocks made by each member was pieced last year, and at this meeting the final quilting was done. The quilt was on exhibition at the Bazaar Oriental which the Woman's Club held last Tuesday, and at that time an opportunity was afforded to purchase chances on it, the money so realized to go towards the work which this group does each year for the Canton Home for Crippled Children. The evening closed with refreshments.

Waban Woman's Club

The first meeting of the Waban Woman's Club was held at the Neighborhood Club House on Monday afternoon, the 5th, with an attendance that taxed the capacity of the auditorium, with the president, Mrs. B. Alden Thresher, presiding. Announcement was made of the appointment of a committee on International Relations, and Mrs. Harold Cheney, chairman of the Drama committee, reported the proceeds from the Revue and Minstrel Show given for the benefit of Club Philanthropies.

Dorothy Thompson (Mrs. Sinclair Lewis), with first hand information, presented in a most interesting way, a picture of present conditions in Germany. She said it was not a class struggle which was going on there, but the revolution of a whole generation, those thirty years old or under, whose earliest memories are of the war, and who during their whole lives have known no social, economic, or political security.

The Tea which followed was served by Mrs. W. F. Uhl and the committee.

Newton Centre Junior Woman's Club

The Newton Centre Junior Woman's Club met for a regular business meeting on Tuesday evening, November 6th. Miss Dorothy Perrin, president, outlined plans for charity projects, and Miss Jean Stowell was appointed chairman for the Food Sale, to be held in the foyer at the next regular meeting of the Senior Club, November 23rd. Miss Ruth Lothrop, of Quincy, and Junior delegate to the General Federation meeting at Arkansas last May was a guest, and gave a short and interesting resume of Junior activities throughout the country. A beautifully-illustrated lecture, "Trail Riding Through Montana", was given delightfully by Mrs. Robert B. Parmenter, clerk of the State Federation and former State chairman of Conservation. She is a true admirer of the natural wonders of the great outdoors and she also has such faith in the Juniors all over the State, that she gives much inspiration wherever she goes.

The Grenfell Mission is the Juniors' project for November. Miss Martha Wight, who recently dined with Sir Wilfred and Lady Grenfell, told of the great need not only for warm clothing, but for any article, as everything is used in one way or another. Any donations may be left at the Woman's Club House, or will be called for by Dorothy Perrin, tel. Cen. New. 3059, if she is notified.

Newtonville Woman's Club

At the regular meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Club held on Tuesday, the 6th, at 2:30 o'clock, the president, Mrs. Edwin P. Crawe welcomed the new members to the Club, and thanked Mrs. Frank E. Morris and her committee who carried through the Hallowe'en Bazaar so successfully. Mrs. Morris read a financial report, compiled by Mrs. Chester Merrill, the Bazaar treasurer, showing a substantial sum for the treasury.

Mrs. Ernest Nichols, Music chairman, then introduced the soloist, Madame Araxy Odabashian, a Lyric Soprano, who, dressed in a native costume owned by her grandmother, and such as was worn by the nobility in the eighteenth century, rendered her first group of Armenian Folk songs, sung in the native tongue, and interpreted beforehand in a most effective manner. Of these, one called "Bajengo," was decidedly captivating. An English group also was received with great appreciation by the audience. One, the music of which was composed by Mrs. Moses H. Gulesian, of Newton, was rendered a second time to please the demands of the listeners. "Hollyhocks," also composed by Mrs. Gulesian, was sung as an encore. The last number, a Spanish-Californian Folk Song, called the "Old Maid Song," left a pleasing memory of the afternoon's entertainment. Accompanist, Madame Flore Naville, added much to the rendition of the songs, and showed herself an artist of note in a piano solo between the two groups.

For the second time, the Newtonville Woman's Club held a very successful two-day Bazaar in the Club House, on October 30th and 31st, from 10:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m., on each day. This year the decorations were in the colors and spirit of Hallowe'en and the several booths in the Social Hall presented a most brilliant appearance with their variety of trimmings. The addition of a Country Store proved a great success. Plants and flowers were an attractive background for the platform, on which tea was served on each afternoon. Two excellent luncheons were served to about five hundred people, many of them from out of town.

A real Spelling-Bee, limited to the pupils of the F. A. Day Junior High School, furnished the entertainment on the first evening. This was arranged by Miss Marion D. Bassett and conducted by Mr. Samuel Thurber, who chose his words for spelling most wisely. The first and second cash prizes were won by Daphne Kenway and Elizabeth Burrows. Cornet solos were rendered by Gladys Watt.

On the second evening, the entertainment was under the leadership of Mr. George Kimball, with members of the Central Club and of the Claflin Club assisting him. Their showing of "Robots" was very clever, with the following men taking part: Mr. Payson Allen, Winslow Auryansen, James Brickett, Arthur Brickett, Percy Stiles and E. L. Tenney, with Harold Billings as the black boy assistant to oil and regulate the Robots. Robert Allison and Frederic Drew gave a Barnacle Bill sketch. Mrs. R. S. Merrill at the piano accompanied the various numbers.

Mrs. James M. Bowman gave entertaining stories and a character sketch of Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde which was very interesting.

Leslie Moriarty gave a very good talk on Newton's large force of City employees, and the Chest labor conditions in Newton. Mr. McKay took occasion to thank the various participants in the entire series of "Newton on Parade" programs and announced that the following evening's "on parade" program would be broadcast from a special remote control studio in the Technical High School.

Specially effective at the close of these programs was the presentation to all women participants in the program of lovely bouquets of flowers donated by several well-known Newton florists, viz.: Harry Quint Greenhouses, Newton Rose Conservatories, James B. Riggs, Matthew Ruane, Boston Gardening Company and Newton Flower Shop.

The Wednesday evening program from remote control studio still going over WMEX and short wave station WIXAL was opened by an address on the Community Chest by the Honorable Sinclair W. Weeks, Mayor of Newton, followed by Leon B. Rogers, president of the Chest. Mrs. Charles Wilson, president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, brought to the listeners the story of the splendid cooperation always given by the Women's Clubs of Newton to the Community Chest, as well as the urge to give this year. Mrs. W. S. Railsbach, well-known, talented dramatic reader, read a story which was in sympathy and understanding of the needs of our people. The ERA Orchestra furnished theme music and several interesting concert numbers. Not the least entertaining was the specially written skit called "Just Around the Corner" presented by the sophomores in the broadcasting division of the High School Radio Club under the direction of Mr. Lee. Bernard Ericson was the author of the script and a member of the cast. The announcing and preliminary description was by Ruth Nally. These young people are graduates of the radio club of the F. A. Day Junior High School where they got a wonderful start in this field under Mr. Alden W. Reed, who is conducting one of the outstanding Junior School Radio Clubs in the country. Mr. Leon B. Rogers, president of the Chest, closed the meeting with an appeal to all workers to listen-in on Thursday evening to the instruction talk by Mr. McKay over the radio. It is believed that these programs are doing much not only for Newton and its Community Chest but for the Welfare of the surrounding communities, and fan mail has been received from as far west as Chicago, as far south as Tennessee and North Carolina and scores of in between locations.

The plan back of these radio programs is far more than simply entertainment and general information regarding Newton, as the second week's series of two-hour programs testifies. These two-hour programs are broadcast over the same stations from 7:30 to 9:30, November 17th, 19th and 20th; on the 21st the program will run from 7:30 to 8:30 and on Sunday, November 18th there will be as on Sunday, November the 11th, a special one-hour program over WBSO. The speakers will be the Rev. Boynton Merrill of Second Congregational Church, West Newton and Rev. Herbert Hitchen of Unitarian Church, West Newton. Excellent music is to be furnished on this program by Gertrude Froh, contralto; Sylvia Church Pettys, soprano; Mrs. Watson F. Baker, 'cello; and Florence Carter Allen, accompanist.

On the evening of Sunday, November 18th from the remote control studio in the Technical High School another outstanding program is scheduled over WMEX on which Rev. Randolph S. Merrill of Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, the Rev. Newton A. Merritt, Jr. of the Baptist Church, Newton Corner, will address the radio audience of Newton and afar on the Newton Community Chest. A musical program of high character will feature Margaret M. Merrill, soprano; Franklin Field, baritone; with Helen Ross at piano.

The following is an outline of the participants in the two-hour programs Thursday evening and Friday evening and Saturday evening, November 15, 16, and 17.

Thursday, Mrs. Edward A. Estaver, violin, Mrs. Kirtley F. Mather, pianist, Miss Alice King Osgood, soprano; and the following speakers: Mrs. W. S. Redfield, Girl Scouts; Mr. John Bierer, Boy Scouts; Mr. Harry Bascom, Y. M. C. A.; Mrs. Arthur Lane, Newton Welfare; Mrs. Connolly, Newton Catholic Welfare; Mrs. Louis Arnold, Newton District Nursing Association; Mr. Herbert Cole, Newton Hospital. Other speakers on general chest topics are Edwin T. Crawe and Mr. Austin L. Baker, Jr.

On tonight's program are Miss Anna Kovitz, violin; Sylvia Church Pettys, soprano; and Mary Barr Snyder, piano. The speakers on general Chest topics are Mrs. John F. Holmes and W. H. Roope.

The speakers for the Chest agencies include: Mrs. Theron Walker, Girl Scouts; General Daniel Needham, Boy Scouts; Rev. Raymond Lang, Newton Welfare; Newton District Nursing Association; Mr. Fred A. Hawkins, Y. M. C. A.; Mr. George W. Pratt, Mayor's Relief Committee; Atty. John C. Madden, Newton Catholic Welfare; and Newton Hospital.

On tomorrow night, Saturday, November 17th, the music will feature the Maurice Keough Orchestra; Jane Haden trumpet and bugle solo, accompanied by Mrs. W. S. Redfield; Rebecca MacDowell Reed, contralto; Lillian Mudgett, accompanist; Dr. Anton R. Fried, violin and Lillian J. West, accompanist. The speakers in behalf of the Chest campaign will include Fred M. Blanchard and Edgar Swail and in behalf of the agencies of the Chest: Mr. William M. Cahill, Newton Welfare Association; Mrs. Paul Elicker, Stearns School Centre; Newton Hospital Aid Assoc., Mrs. Francis Williams; Mr. Maxwell P. Gaddis, Boy Scouts; Miss Bertha Allen, Newton Hospital; Mr. Metcalf Melcher, Stone Institute; Rev. Herbert Hitchen, All-Newton Music School; Newton Catholic Welfare; Mayor's Relief Committee, and Newton Y. M. C. A.

Miss Estelle Marsh of the radio committee has in charge the scheduling and announcing of the music on the second series of programs, November 15th to 21st, including the program at WBSO, Sunday afternoon November 18. Her experience in radio and organizing ability have been of invaluable assistance. Mr. E. S. Whitten general director of the radio programs, on behalf of the Community Chest campaign is dividing the announcements, credits and introduction of speakers with his able assistant Mr. W. S. Clapp.

Mr. Donald D. McKay, Campaign Director, is confident that although the need is greater than ever that the City of Newton is awake to its duty and the necessity of giving a far wider and more generous support this year. The goal of 192,022 dollars carefully built upon the carefully scrutinized budgets of the 14 agencies, represents not the maximum amount which these agencies could rightfully use in our present economic situation,—it represents the amount needed to survive the winter and spring ahead, not to mention the balance of 1935. Every worker has been urged to secure contributions from every member of every family in Newton. This principle in Community Chest giving is not only sound but an assurance of our future; for only through the willing gifts of every citizen within his means,—let the gift be ever so small,—can we accomplish the good and relieve the distress in a truly community manner. Each citizen no matter how young should learn the lesson that he receives daily much from his city, which he can never repay through taxes or otherwise, except through direct contribution or organized private charity.

Newton Community Chest Enters Final Stretch Of Colorful Campaign

Officials Make Stirring Appeals To Everyone To Do Their Part Toward Success

Returns indicate the Community Chest campaign is making normal progress in the face of the most difficult winter which has yet confronted the sick and needy of Newton. But as was said in the final radio program on November 21, by Mr. Donald D. McKay, Director of the drive: "If every worker will work, and if every citizen will give,—as if it were his family, his child or his parent that was facing an operation without funds, the loss of home or of employment, or of the veriest necessities of life—then this fund of $192,002 will be raised and the human needs of our city will be met—at least on a minimum basis for one more year."

Mr. Leon B. Rogers, President of the Newton Community Chest emphasized in closing the final radio program: "These radio meetings have done much to increase the community spirit of the people of Newton, as well as to spread the facts of the 14 agencies of the chest. The more everyone knows about the work done by the member agencies of the chest the more certain I am that they will contribute generously and eagerly. But I am forced to repeat, a fact well known, not only to the Community Chest but also to our very neighbors, that there are those who make Newton their place of residence, have done so for years, enjoy our low tax rate, good schools, and the reputation of living in one of Boston's finest suburbs,—and yet refuse to give anything but the merest pittance compared with their means and their position in the community. I say this not in a spirit of condemnation but in the hope that these citizens, not yet realizing how much Newton, as a city, depends upon the member agencies of the chest, will see the light and give materially this year."

One important point about the method of publicity used this year is the number of Newton citizens who participated in the radio programs from Nov. 7th to 21st inclusive. The broadcasts through Saturday, the 17th, have already been summarized.

On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18th, the radio program at WBSO from 2 to 3 p. m. was featured by beautiful music by Mrs. Gertrude Fish, contralto; Mrs. Sylvia Church Pettys, soprano; Mrs. Walter F. Baker, cello; Florence Carter Allen, accompanist. The speakers of the occasion were the Rev. Boynton Merrill of the Second Church of Newton, West Newton; and the Rev. Herbert Hitchen, of the First Unitarian Church in West Newton. To quote from the Rev. Boynton Merrill's address: "There have been, we are ashamed to confess it, in other years some who could help and have refused, even in Newton—but they are few and far between. They have automatically taken themselves out of the company of decent citizens. I predict that there will be fewer of these than ever before."

And now quoting from the speech of the Rev. Herbert Hitchens: "The ones who are suffering are not wastrels—they are self-respecting men and women — your neighbors and mine, with the abilities equal to ours. If you have not tried to project yourself into such a situation you have neglected part of your human duty—the duty that bids us understand and appreciate what many of our fellows are going through. It is startling to realize that of the 65,000 or more of our city's population there were only 8,200 contributors to the Community Chest last year, yet in the same year we had 25,000 registered automobiles!"

The evening program over WMEX on Sunday, November 18th, included splendid concert and appropriate church music by Margaret W. Merrill, soprano; Mr. Franklin Field, baritone; and Mrs. Helen Ross, piano. The principal addresses of the evening were delivered by the Rev. Newton A. Merritt, Jr., of the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Newton and the Rev. Randolph Merrill of the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville. Quoting from the speech of the Rev. Newton A. Merrill, Jr.: "But it will be many a generation before a man that is a human being can escape the responsibilities that are inherently his, by virtue of his place in the human family and his share in the community life. To the man with the card say how much you will give, never that you cannot or will not give at all." And to quote from the address of the Rev. Randolph Merrill: "Private agencies avoid these dangers. Because their funds are limited, they cannot encourage continued dependence. There are no political involvements. Political pull, political threats, influencing of votes, and all the rest of the elements of the political game have no place in the administering of private relief."

On Monday evening's radio program music was by the Kenway Trio of the All-Newton Music School: Jean Kenway, violin; Eleanor Lord, cello; Virginia Kenway, piano. The Village Maids, directed by Mrs. Florence Wood Russell, provided several professional and entertaining vocal trios. The Misses Cotton and Florence Carter Allen rendered two six-hand piano concert numbers of high quality. The speakers of the evening included: Mrs. Harold C. Marvin, Newton District Nursing; Mr. William V. M. Fawcett, Boy Scouts; Mr. Charles C. Dasey, Newton Catholic Welfare; Mr. W. J.

Mr. Cordingley, who has been Alderman from the Chestnut Hill section for the past two years will not run for re-election because of pressure of other duties. Mr. Inches was born in Boston, October 16, 1885. He graduated from Noble & Greenough School and from Harvard in 1908. He assisted in recruiting Battery D, 102nd Field Artillery in 1917 and was commissioned its First Lieutenant on May 25th, 1917. He was promoted to Captain on September 13, 1917. He served in France with the 26th Division, was wounded on June 16, 1918 and promoted to Major on June 30, 1918. Mr. Inches retired from active business last year. State Police second.

In the individual competition in Class 1B the first prize was won by Patrolman David Dalton of the Newton police, and second prize by Patrolman Joe Smith of the Newton police. The Newton team was coached by Richard Dwyer of the Newton Buick Company.

City Treasurer's Office To Be Fortified

At the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen a recommendation will be received from Mayor Weeks asking that $800 be appropriated to install grill work and bullet-proof glass at the office of the City Treasurer in Newton City Hall. This amount will provide for an extension of the present grill work to the ceiling of the office and the placing of bullet proof glass behind this grill work. Since the hold-up at Brockton City Hall a Newton policeman armed with a shotgun has been stationed every working day in the corridor outside the office. The installation of the additional grill work and bullet proof glass will allow the presence of the policeman to be dispensed with.

Woman Injured in Pedestrian Crash With Boy Dies

Miss Katherine Lyons of 46 Auburn street, West Newton, died on November 18 at the Newton Hospital of injuries received on the morning of November 8th. She had alighted on that morning from a Middlesex & Boston bus on Walnut street at Kirkstall road, Newtonville, on her way to work at the home of James L. Richards where she was employed. As she reached the sidewalk one of three boys, students at Newton High School, who were walking abreast on the sidewalk, collided with her and she was thrown to the ground. The boys lifted Miss Lyons, seated her on a stone wall nearby and summoned assistance. A police cruising car came and took the woman to her home. Dr. Halloran was called and found that Miss Lyons' pelvis had been fractured. He ordered her taken to the Newton Hospital. She was born in County Donegal, Ireland, 63 years ago and had resided in this city about 50 years. She is survived by one sister, Miss Sarah Lyons. Her funeral service was held on Wednesday morning at St. Bernard's Church. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Countrywide Property Survey Reaches Newton

If a young man calls at your house to ask you such questions as "When was your house built? How many bath rooms have you? Do you use gas or electricity for cooking?" You will know that the real property inventory is being taken in Newton under the ERA project No. F-2-U-2 authorized by Mr. Harold Young, the ERA Administrator for the City of Newton.

These young men are enumerators working under the ERA. They are provided with certificates of identification containing a signed statement that all information received by the enumerator will be kept strictly confidential.

This inventory has been taken in sixty-five cities throughout the country. It concerns dwelling houses primarily and calls for answers to thirty-five questions, many of which will be answered by the enumerator from his own observation; there are others, such as the age of the house, extra families, rent, fuel, which will have to depend on the answers you give him.

The data collected by the property inventory will be used as a basis for alloting money by the federal government under a recently passed national housing act, as well as for recovery projects directed locally.

Co-operation with these representatives will redound to the benefit to every resident of the city. In Cleveland where the first inventory was taken in 1933 it was considered to have more effect on the recovery programs of that city than any other single endeavor.

Aged Woman Alone and Ill

Mrs. Margaret O'Dea, 60, was found in an exhausted condition from lack of food in a tenement at 296 Washington street, Newton, last Saturday. She had been residing with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray V. Earle in the apartment block at 41 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. The family then moved to the tenement in Cole Block at 296 Washington street. A relative of Earle's went to the place last Saturday and discovered the elderly woman alone and in a serious condition. Earle and his wife had gone away the preceding Wednesday. The Newton police were notified and Dr. Cummings called. He ordered Mrs. O'Dea taken to the Newton Hospital.

New. Ctr. Woman Opposes Mather For School Co[illegible]

Miss Katherine C. Coveney, 48 Oxford road, Ward 6, has announced her candidacy for the School Committee. Previous to her residence in Newton Miss Coveney was for four years a member of the Somerville School Committee. She has had a wide teaching and executive experience in the schools of Boston; was a pioneer in the training of backward children; and has given courses on educational methods at Harvard, Boston University, Boston College and Boston Teachers College. For four years Miss Coveney was President of the Boston Teacher's Club, an organization of 2000 members. She first registered as a voter in Newton in 1928.

Kinchla To Run For Alderman In Ward 1

Roland T. Kinchla of 80 Dalby street, Nonantum, has announced his candidacy for Ward Alderman in Ward 1. He was born in Watertown 35 years ago and has resided in Newton for 34 years. He is married and employed by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. He contends that Nonantum should have one of the three Aldermen from Ward 1.

Hundreds At Hearing In City Hall Protest Proposed Ward Changes

Citizens From Waban and Other Sections Object to Splitting of Villages

The Aldermanic Chamber at City Hall was filled to overflowing and scores of citizens could not gain admittance on Wednesday night at the public hearing held by the special committee of the Newton Board of Aldermen on the matter of changing the boundaries of the seven Wards in this city. Between 300 and 400 persons were present. The hearing was opened at 8:07 by Alderman Benjamin Bowen of Ward 3, West Newton, chairman of the special committee which had charge of this matter. The other members of the committee are: Aldermen Gallagher, Ward 1; Collins, Ward 2; Cronin, Ward 4; Walker, Ward 5; Cordingley, Ward 6; Jamieson, Ward 7. Alderman Walker was only recently made a member of the committee to succeed former Alderman Chandler who resigned from the Board a couple of months ago. Of the other members — Gallagher, Collins, Cordingley and Jamieson are retiring from the Board of Aldermen this year.

Alderman Bowen spoke at considerable length in explaining the reasons for the proposed changes in Ward lines. He said this matter is not a new thing; it has been discussed for 10 years. He said that Mayor Weeks had referred to it in his first inaugural address on January 1, 1930, and again at his inaugural address the first of this year. Bowen read figures showing the total number of voters in each Ward on Dec. 1, 1933, which proved that some of the Wards contain twice as many voters as other Wards. The average number of voters to a Ward is 4765. Some Wards should have voters added and other Wards should have voters deducted. Mr. Bowen quoted from Chapter 54 of the Massachusetts Statutes which provided for the realignment of Wards in cities in 1924 and every ten years following. The changes will go into effect at the State Primary election in 1936.

Mr. Bowen stated that the city has grown rapidly and there is a discrepancy in representation. He said he had heard suggestions to make an extra Ward, but to do this the City Charter would have to be changed, and this cannot be done this year. He commented that he had given little study to the matter of creating an extra Ward, but he thought it would cause more difficulties than changing the lines of seven Wards. Mr. Bowen said that changing Ward lines will necessitate citizens in the [illegible] Wards making new friends, [illegible] that while it will affect political activities, it will not affect schools or libraries. He admitted the matter is a major problem, the most important which has faced the Aldermen since the zoning of the city in 1922, and that the committee realizes that some persons will be hurt. He stated that the committee had conferred some months ago with the Board of Assessors, and that meetings had been held in every section of the city to consider the question. As a result much important information had been received and considered. He said the plan submitted by the Assessors last April was faulty because it caused the Ward lines to be divided at community centres, and that the plan adopted by the committee had gotten away from this objection. He said the plan is not final, the committee ordered the hearing to hear the major objections to it, and as many would like to speak, he requested that all be brief in their remarks. He said he would proceed to call the Wards in their numerical order.

Ex-Alderman William E. Earle was the first speaker from Ward 1. He said that insufficient publicity had been given to this matter and that he had just been informed by members of the committee that no further hearing would be held on it. He asserted that village hearings ought to be held so that the various communities might have proper opportunities to discuss the question. He stated that each Ward ought to select two of the aldermen from that Ward instead of having them voted for all over the city. He favored the creation of an eighth Ward to include Waban.

Joseph P. Dargon of 19 Howard st., Newton, objected to the splitting of Ward 1, the oldest part of the city. He said old-time residents in this Ward are opposed on sentiment to the breaking up of this Ward. He stated he had not been acquainted with the proposed changes although he is chairman of the Democratic City Committee. He said the committee should hold more hearings in the various villages. He was informed by Alderman Bowen that other hearings will not be held.

Edward H. Powers of 215 Pearl st. identified himself as another former Alderman from Ward 1. He said the proposed change of Ward lines is the first in 60 years, and the only other change was made in 1874, one year after Newton became a city. He said that when the zoning ordinance was

The pupils of the Day School have been learning something about the Newton Community Chest and its purpose. In every home room there have been special programs, telling the story of each organization that is a part of the Community Chest. A tree with fourteen branches has been drawn on the blackboard of each room. The trunk represents the Community Chest, and each branch has been named for one agency.

At the Wednesday morning assembly fourteen boys and girls told something about the Community Chest groups. Harry Bond was the chairman. The speakers were Jane Hill, Winifred Mergendahl, Claire Rangnow, James Corcoran, Frank Scheehl, Robert Caswell, Daphne Kenway, Shirley Reid, Gene Wilson, William Murphy, Donald Blackey, Mavise Hayden, Jane St. George, Marjorie Miner. Daphne Kenway, a member of the All-Newton Music School, played a 'cello solo.

Part of the assembly program was devoted to publicity for the "Daytonian," the school paper. The editor-in-chief, Winifred Batty, and the publicity manager, Donata Cellucci urged the pupils to subscribe to the paper. Other members of the "Daytonian" staff participated in a drill with the letters of the word, "Daytonian."

The boys' varsity soccer teams both came out on top of the Junior High School League of the city. Neither team lost a single game.

Pupils have been bringing to school small jelly jars. These will be filled with jelly made by the cooking classes and will be the school's special Thanksgiving contribution to World War veterans in hospitals.

A Junior High School Reading Council is being organized at the Newton Public Library. Its purpose is to acquaint all boys and girls with the facilities of the Boys' and Girls' Library at Newton Corner. One boy and one girl from each grade and one reporter from the "Daytonian" will represent the school at the Council. They are Joan Cox, Nancy Flagg, Wallace Allen, Edmund Miller, Roberta Ward, Phillip Scanlon, Jewel Nichols.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

WALTHAM WINS 6-0 BY BLOCKED PUNT IN LAST PERIOD

Waltham High squeezed out a 6 to 0 victory over Newton high last Saturday at Waltham in the annual gridiron battle between the two rivals before a crowd of more than six thousand spectators. A blocked punt midway of the final period was the medium by which the Watch City scored its first victory over a Newton eleven since 1929 and its first points against Newton in three years.

Ernest Schwotzer, star guard, was the Waltham hero who got through on Savignano to block the punt and Phil Barry, Waltham end, scooped up the ball and raced 40 yards for the winning tally. The try for point by placement was blocked by Ben Grow and the score stood 6 to 0.

Until the blocked punt Waltham had not once had possession of the ball inside the Newton 40-yard stripe so tight was the Newton defense. With but three minutes to play in the last period Waltham recovered Savignano's fumble of a punt on the Newton 8 yard line but again the Newton line withstood the test. After Newton took the ball on downs on this occasion Gaziano got through the Newton line on third down and nailed Savignano as he attempted to pass from the goalline. Savignano landed inside by a foot, averting a safety by a narrow margin. Newton pulled out of that hole and the game ended a few plays later near the Newton 35 yard stripe.

Several questionable interpretations of the rules were made by the officials in contrast to that of Newton's other games this season. Four instances stood out which gave the spectators amusement a well as the opportunity to criticise. The first came midway of the first period when Savignano scooped up McMullen's fumble on a tackle thrust and raced 25 yards to the Waltham goal. This of course is illegal as the defense cannot advance a recovered fumble. The referee at first started to have the two teams line up for the try after touchdown but with the error pointed out to him the ball was brought back to the Waltham 25 and given to Newton. On the next to the last play of the half Myers tossed a pass down the middle. Being rushed Myers had to throw the ball inaccurately and it went straight into the arms of an ineligible player and bounded out again. Newton was penalized 15 yards although the correct interpretation of the rule should have been the loss of the ball at the spot of the previous down. Coach Sanborn went out on the field to inform the official that the ball should go to Waltham but without success. A third "boner" on the part of the officials worked a distinct hardship against the orange and black. Early in the fourth period Schwotzer dropped out of the Waltham line to throw a pass with Castoldi and Wittens, Newton ends, rushing him. Castoldi batted the ball out of his hands, snatched it on the rebound and ran the 25 yards to the Waltham goal. The ball was brought back, however, as the run was illegal. The officials ruled the play an incompleted forward pass and gave it back to Waltham at the spot where it had been put in play. It seemed to many that the ball had been knocked out of Schwotzer's hands before he had thrown it and the play might well have been ruled a Waltham fumble and the ball given to Newton at the point where Castoldi recovered it. Five plays later came the blocked Newton punt and the Waltham touchdown. The fourth weird ruling by the officials came on the third from the last play of the game. Myers was attempting to pass and while trying to find an unguarded receiver ran with the ball up to the line of scrimmage before tossing it. Newton was penalized five yards for throwing the pass less than five yards back of the scrimmage line. The penalty for such a violation of the rules is merely the loss of a down with no loss of yards.

Savignano was outstanding in the Newton backfield carrying the ball on 21 rushes for a total gain of 47 yards. Treannie had a slightly better average carrying nine times for a total gain of 33 yards. MacLeod carried three times for 11 yards gain while Tommy Thompson, the fourth starting back, carried four times for four yards. Connolly was Waltham's leading backfield gainer with 14 yards in ten rushes. That Newton had possession of the ball the greater part of the time is indicated in the figures showing that Newton rushed 43 times for a total gain of 93 yards and Waltham carried but 24 times for a total of 27 yards. Newton had a six to three margin in first downs. Connolly of Waltham had a slight margin in his punting duel with Savignano. Waltham punted 9 times for 277 yards as against 12 kicks for Newton totaling 348 yards. However, Savignano's kicking was the most brilliant. On several occasions the ball traveled well over 40 yards but on two or three occasions he was rushed and in order to get the kick away had to kick it high in the air. One of these times the ball landed fifteen yards beyond the line of scrimmage only to bounce backwards until Savignano finally fell on it himself a yard back of the point where it had been put in play. The blocked punt, of course, also helped to bring down Savignano's average. Newton's forward passing was woefully weak with thirteen passes attempted, but one of which was completed, and one intercepted. Waltham tried eleven passes completed but two and had three intercepted. Waltham's two completed passes were for 19 and 13 yards each while Newton's one completion was for only five yards.

In Newton's line Melvin Swig loomed up. He made two of the interceptions of Waltham passes at crucial times and his clean hard tackling brought the Waltham carriers down before they had made any sizable gains. Captain Castoldi, Ben Grow and Sam Miller also made several timely tackles. Warren Wittens at end played a consistently good game. Tommy Thompson, sophomore fullback who started his first game for Newton will be a valuable backfield performer in the two years ahead of him.

PLAY BY PLAY STORY OF GAME

Captain Gus Castoldi won the toss for Newton and chose to defend the west goal. Waltham elected to kick and Gaziano's kickoff went to Thompson on the Newton 20. He got back to the 33 before being downed. Savignano and McLeod each made 4 yards at the tackles and Sav punted to Lando on the Waltham 19. The Watch City quarterback was downed by the Newton ends on the Waltham 25. From a fake kick formation McMullen gained but 2 yards. Connolly punted outside at the Newton 44. McLeod's long pass to Sav was out of the latter's reach. The Newton quarterback picked up 3 yards at tackle and then punted, the ball going over the Waltham goal and being put in play at the 20. Two plays from kick formation with Connolly taking the ball netted six yards. Connolly kicked but Newton was offside on the play, the ball was brought back and Newton penalized 5 yards, giving the Watch City a first down on their own 31. Lando hit the line for a slight gain. On the next play McMullen fumbled, Sav scooped up the ball and ran for an illegal touchdown. The ball was brought back and given to Newton on the Waltham 25. Thompson's one-yard gain was offset by the loss of similar distance as Sav carried. Sav's toss to Castoldi was incomplete. A second pass was intercepted by McMullen on the Waltham 10-yard line. He ran it back to his 27 before Swig brought him down. Connolly was tossed for the loss of a yard and on the next play Newton was offside to draw a 5-yard penalty. Krol hit right tackle for 2 yards. Connolly punted to McLeod on the Newton 40. As the Newton halfback was about to be tackled he tossed a backlateral to Sav who dodged his way to midfield. Thompson was thrown for a loss of 4 yards, Sav failed to gain and punted to the Waltham 36. Connolly and McMullen tried three times to dent the Newton line but made 8 yards as Swig stopped the latter for a yard gain on the third attempt. Connolly punted but Waltham was offside and had to do it over again after the 5 yard penalty had been imposed. The second kick hit a Waltham linesman on the Newton 25 and although Waltham recovered the oval it was given to Newton at that point. Treannie gained but 2 yards and Sav punted to Lando who was downed by Swig after a 14 yard runback to midfield. Swig intercepted Connolly's pass down the middle and fought his way back 3 yards to the Newton 46. Sav was tossed for the loss of a yard. The pass from centre hit Thompson in the face and Waltham recovered on Newton's 43 as the period ended.

Second Period

McMullen gained nothing. Connolly's pass down the middle was grounded by Swig. Connolly fumbled and Wittens recovered for Newton on the Newton 45. Treannie bucked centre for no gain. McLeod gained six yards and was almost free on a jaunt through tackle. Treannie drove into the line and carried the Waltham forwards six yards for a first down. He gained three more before DeFina got through to nail Sav for a yard loss. Sav's pass was grounded and he had to kick to Lando on the Waltham 5 where Wittens and Hale collaborated to spill the Waltham safety in his tracks. Connolly punted out from behind his goal to the Waltham 36. A Newton backward pass went wrong but no damage was done as both lines were offside. Sav punted and the ball bounded backwards to the Waltham 40 where Sav fell on it. Connolly fumbled the pass from centre but picked it up and got off a long toss to Barry who completed the pass for a 19-yard gain. Swig was on Barry before he could take a step. It was Waltham's second first down. Bosworth backed up the Newton line to hold Krol to a yard. Connolly tossed another pass down the middle and Swig leaped into the air to make a pretty interception. He ran it back four yards before being dropped at the Newton 31. Reardon lost a yard and Sav gained two before Sav punted outside at the Waltham 21. Two plays gained but a yard and Connolly punted to the Waltham 46. Sav gained five

NEWTON TEAM AIMS FOR THIRD WIN OVER BROOKLINE ELEVEN

The Newton High School football team is aiming for its third straight victory over Brookline High when the two elevens meet in the annual gridiron clash on Thanksgiving Day which takes places this year at the Dickinson Stadium. Hostilities will start at 10:30. With the Suburban League title already having been won by Rindge Tech there will be nothing at stake except the honor and glory of victory. However a Newton win means second place in the league standing while a Brookline victory would tumble Newton into the cellar as Brookline now has a tie and a loss in its two league contests. A tie between the two rivals would keep Newton in second place and would enable the Wealthy Towners to climb into third, above Cambridge Latin.

Newton is a heavy favorite to win with the margin being anywhere from one touchdown to several. Brookline has shown flashes of an offense which may be productive of a score against Newton and its defense may rise to the occasion and hold Newton off. On the basis of comparative records Newton has a clear margin having scored 62 points in nine games as against 27 for Brookline in seven games. The nine opponents of the orange and black have tallied 102 points for an average of nearly twelve points each and the seven Brookline opponents have totaled 86 points for an average of a little better than twelve points each. Defensively neither team has little on the other although the calibre of Newton's opponents has been harder than those of Brookline. While Newton has been facing Brockton, Manchester, Everett and Waltham the Wealthy Towners have met such teams as Fitchburg, B. C. High and Winthrop. In only one of these three, the game with B. C. High, was Brookline victorious in a 6 to 0 game while Newton's only win against this quartet of opponents was the 13 to 12 thriller over Brockton.

The two teams have met four common opponents, Cambridge Latin, Rindge Tech, Quincy and Arlington. These four games give a truer picture of the relative abilities of the two outfits. Newton tallied 39 points as against 44 for these four teams while Brookline could garner only 14 while allowing a total of 66. Quincy narrowly defeated Newton in a 7 to 6 game after Newton had carried the Granite City eleven all over the lot, failing, however, to cross the opposing goal line on several occasions. Brookline was defeated by Quincy in a 9 to 0 game. Rindge triumphed over Brookline by a 19 to 0 score and then walked all over Newton but at the end of the game only held a 13 to 7 margin. Newton triumphed over Cambridge Latin by a 19 to 6 count while the Cantabs and Brookline fought a 7 to 7 deadlock. Arlington pounded Newton into submission in the opening game of the season in an 18 to 7 game and then snowed Brookline under last Saturday by a score of 31 to 7. Brookline battled Winthrop to a 7 to 7 tie early in the season while Newton and Lynn English fought a scoreless deadlock in the third Newton game. In addition to the Lynn English scoreless tie Newton has failed to cross the opposing goalline in only one other game, that with Waltham last Saturday. Brookline has been blanked three times, by Quincy, Rindge Tech, and Fitchburg.

In an effort to develop further offensive strength, Coach Sanborn has been experimenting this week. He has brought Melvin Swig and Howard Milner out of the line and put them in backfield positions. Swig, through several opportunities to carry the ball on pass interceptions in previous games, has showed considerable promise as a ball-carrier. Milner, also, has the earmarks of being both a good blocking back and ball-carrier. Swig can throw forward passes creditably and is a punter of fair ability. Milner is also a fair punter but needs considerable more practice in timing his kicks. With Savignano and Treannie in the backfield with Swig and Milner, the Newton mentor feels that considerable has been added to the offensive strength. Much had also been added to strengthen the forward passing defence which at times has been none too certain. The transfer of the two linesmen to the backfield gives the Newton squad at least three backs for each of the four berths. At quarterback, Coach Sanborn can replace Savignano with Woodward or Myers. At fullback, Milner can be relieved by Thompson, Reardon or Moore and at the halfback berths, Treannie and Swig can be replaced by MacLeod, Bosworth, O'Connell, Guido, Castoidi, Herlihy or Myers. Of these fourteen backs, nine will be available next year with Savignano, Moore, Thompson, McLeod and Milner the leading quintet.

Swig's place at centre will be filled by Packard who has shown up well when given the opportunity in previous games. Milner's place at tackle will be filled by Clevenger or Hale. The former has been at the position this week as Hale has been bothered by minor bumps and bruises received in the Waltham tussle. Incidentally, no serious injuries occurred in the Waltham game. Sargent Moore, who has seen little action since receiving an ankle injury against Rindge, is expected to be in shape for the Brookline game. Tommy Thompson received a shoulder bruise in the Waltham game but is fast rounding into shape again. The other line positions will be held down by the regulars with Grow at the other tackle berth, Miller and Wisbach at the guard positions, Captain Gus Castoldi at one end and either Jimmy Byrne or Warren Wittens at the opposite wing. Should this line not be able to withstand the Brookline attack or show the lift needed to send the Newton backs on their way, Coach Sanborn will probably send Swig and Milner back to their former berths. The football rules permit the use of linesmen as backs but if the player starts at end and goes back into the backfield he cannot then return to the line during the game. If the player starts as a back he can be shifted to the line and back again to the backfield. Once being shifted from the line to the backfield, however, he is done as a linesman. Thus by starting Swig and Milner in the backfield the Newton coach will have the two players available most of the time.

Warren Jr. High

The bulletin boards on the first floor of the school are giving a picture of the interests of the members of the Warren School Community this week.

The Social Studies board is displaying maps, photographs, and newspaper pictures. Miss Aurelio and some of her pupils have prepared a French lace and stamp exhibit for the French board.

The English classes will give an exhibition of pictures and drawings from Junior 1 while the Art department with the poster, "What Is Going on in Art Classes," will show pupils' work during the fall in art.

William Johnston is leaving Mr. Ackers' practical arts class to go to the trade school. He is going to make cabinets in the wood-working department.

The green soccer team defeated the yellow soccer team in the girls' color league on Nov. 14. The blues are the only undefeated team to date.

The boys' varsity and junior varsity basketball teams started practice on Nov. 21, under the supervision of Mr. Converse and Mr. Regan.

Warren home rooms have been featuring programs this week relating to the Community Chest drive. The purpose of this program is to let people know about what others are doing for Newton's Welfare and to get the help of all in having enough funds to carry on the work.

On Monday, Nov. 19, Miss Winchester's aviation club had a guest speaker, Mr. Robert Gerry, from the New England school of aviation. Mr. Gerry is an alumnus of Warren Jr. High School of the class of 1927.

The assembly program on Nov. 14 for Junior I, II, and III consisted of a program relating to the Community Chest activity of this week at Warren. The ERA Orchestra of Newton played a medley of old Southern songs, a Minuet by Mozart, and the "Star Spangled Banner."

At the Assembly of Junior II and III, the Boy and Girl Scouts gave a skit under the direction of Mr. Canfield. Two members of the All Newton Music School, Dorothy Kovitz at the piano, and Aida Pucciarelli on the violin, gave a musical program to complete the assembly program.

Weeks Jr. High

The final games of the soccer season were played on the Weeks' grounds last Wednesday, November 14, when the visitors defeated both the Varsity and the Junior Varsity. In an overtime period in the varsity game, Day won 1-0, and the score of the other game was Day 3, Weeks 2.

The ninth grade election was held last Friday, following an active campaign among four parties, the Varsity Four, The Four Aces, The Big Four, and The S. O. S. Party. The latter comprised last year's officers who were running for re-election. The final count showed the presidential and vice-presidential candidates of the Varsity Four and the secretarial and treasurer candidates from the S. O. S. Party were the victors. The class officers for the school year are as follows: President, William Johnson; vice-president, Paul Robey; secretary, Beverly Booth; and treasurer, Donald Bail.

The school is now the proud possessor of an R. C. A.-Victor Duo Radio, which was demonstrated before the assembly on November 21. This radio was procured from the R. C. A.-Victor Company in exchange for 4600 old Victor records brought into the school by the students.

John Conquest presided at the assembly and introduced the speaker, Mr. George Elias. He related some of his personal experiences as a shepherd boy in Mesopotamia.

Bigelow Junior H. S.

On Thursday, November 15, the Bigelow Varsity Soccer team finished up its season by defeating Warren 2 to 1 on the Warren field. Goals were made for Bigelow by Williams, Holmes and Captain Charles Munson.

The same afternoon the Bigelow Junior Varsity team also met the Warren Junior Varsity. This was a hard-fought battle which ended in a 1 to 1 tie, despite the two extra periods. Murray Bernstein made the Bigelow goal.

Photographs of both soccer teams were taken this week by Mr. Baker. This is an annual custom which Mr. Baker started about five years ago.

A Boy and Girl Scout program featured the eighth grade assembly on the morning of Wednesday, November 14. This was in the interest of the Newton Community Chest Drive. It consisted of First Aid demonstrations, a typical scout meeting, vocal solos by Mary Louise Shadman, and selections by the eighth grade chorus.

Local Delegate Reports on W. C. T. U. Convention

Mrs. John A. Groves of Parker street, Newton Centre, has returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where she attended the 60th Anniversary Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, as a delegate from Middlesex County. She reports the convention as remarkable for its crowded sessions and the spirit of optimism and new determination climaxed by the enthusiastic launching of a 5 year, 5 point, 5 hundred dollar program to culminate in the centenary of the birth of Francis Willard which is to embrace a nation wide plan of education for youths and adults alike, and also an unwavering championship of legislation, looking steadily toward the goal of national abolition of the drink traffic.

The key-note address of the president, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, was a review of the results of the first year of the re-established law protecting liquor traffic in the United States, pointing out that every promise made by Repealists had been completely shattered during the past eleven months and that the new regime of legal liquor was already affording the means and opportunity for not only the return of liquor control in Federal, State and city politics but that in its wake were now in rapid development the twin out-grown evils of other days—legalized gambling and lotteries, and white slavery and prostitution under political protection.

Recalling that repeal was won in 1933 by a wet vote aggregating barely one-fifth of the voting citizens of the 39 states involved and referring to the elections of 1934, Mrs. Smith said, "The widely heralded victories of the wets last week in several states mean only one of two things, namely, either, that in the present continued economic stress the traffic's revenue bait still misled many, or the voters, themselves, had not yet seen clearly the steadily growing menace of repeal results.

A steadily increasing and widely distributed advance in membership of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, amounting to more than seven hundred new members per week for the entire year was recorded by the national secretary.

An outstanding message of the convention was given by Arthur Barnhart, whom the local newspapers described as a wealthy young attorney, founder of a unique dry organization among society youths. He said that if the term a "Noble Experiment" was an accurate designation of the 18th amendment to the constitution, then the 21st amendment, in the light of the past 11 months of repeal might well be termed the "Ignoble Experiment."

Troop 10 of Newtonville entertained Troop 14 of Waban on Tuesday, November 20th, at the Cabot School in Newtonville. The Newtonville troop is working on Dancer and Star Finder Merit Badges this fall, and Troop 14 participated in the two courses. The whole group was instructed by Miss Alice Louise Jenks in an English Folk dance, and then listened to an interesting discussion conducted by Mr. Tower of Levi Junior High School on the "Stars and Their Magnitudes." Refreshments were served and after an impressive closing ceremony, the meeting broke up but not until Troop 10 had challenged Troop 14 to a basketball game and the challenge had been accepted.

Troop 29 of Newton is making little turkey placecards for the Thanksgiving dinner at Stone Institute. Troop 3 of Newton Centre devoted this week's troop meeting to arts and crafts. Troop 14 of Waban is planning to give a play. The Headquarters Senior Troop had an evening meeting on Thursday, November 22, to which parents were invited and badges earned by the girls were given out.

Stearns School Ctr. Provides Activities for Boys and Girls

The regular monthly meeting of the Stearns School Centre was held at the home of Miss Cobb on Franklin st. in Newton on Monday morning, November 19th. Mrs. Cecil Clark, president, presided.

Plans were discussed for the Christmas parties and committees formed to carry on the work.

Miss Sandstrom reported that through the E. R. A. two efficient young men had been provided to work with the boys. The Newon Athletic Association had contributed a room for the "Cub Scouts." Mr. Bascom of the Newton Y. W. C. A. had made possible the use of the gymnasium and swimming pool for two groups of boys. A game room is being equipped at the school with ping-pong table, shuffle-board, and other games, so that the boys may have evening occupation.

The girls' group are fortunate in having student volunteer workers from the Newton-Andover Theological School, the Wheelock Training School, Lasell Junior College, and the Emerson School of Oratory.

W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the West Newton W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Hattie Eagles, 682 Boylston st., Newton Centre, last Monday evening.

After the business, the president Mrs. M. Millie Beardsley gave a most interesting report of the State Convention held recently in Boston. This was followed by a description of the National Convention which Dr. N. Louise Rand attended last week in Cleveland, Ohio.

Two new members, making five who have joined this union since last month, were among the large number present. A social hour was enjoyed with refreshments. Mrs. Gertrude Braman was the assisting hostess. On Tuesday evening Mrs. M. Millie Beardsley. Dr. N. Louise Rand and Helen Morse attended the first anniversary of the Young People's Branch held in Westford. There was a supper followed by a very enjoyable entertainment by the young people. Miss Morse added to this by giving some well received readings. As Dr. Rand was the one who formed this branch, she was presented with a beautiful bouquet in appreciation of her services.

Glee Club In Concert At Quincy

Last Monday evening, the Highland Glee Club, in conjunction with the Wollaston Glee Club of Wollaston and the Amphion Club of Melrose, gave a concert in the Quincy High School before an enthusiastic audience numbering more than a thousand people. James R. Houghton, conductor of the Amphion Club, was guest soloist. Reginald Boardman of Boston was the accompanist.

The three glee clubs together had 225 singing members and a most interesting program was rendered. All three of these clubs are members of the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs.

This is the first of three joint concerts to be held this Fall. The second concert will be in Melrose on December 6th. The Highland Glee Club and the Wollaston Glee Club will join with the Amphion Club in presenting a varied program.

On December 18th the Highland Glee Club will give its annual Fall Concert augmented by the Wollaston Glee Club and the Amphion Club, assisted by Elizabeth Travis-Behnke, noted pianist, who has appeared twice with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and who is most favorably known to Newton music lovers. D. Ralph Maclean, of the Highland Glee Club, will conduct this joint concert.

Newton Show of The Air Over WBSO Saturdays

The Newton Show of the Air presents a serial sketch every Saturday from one to one-thirty, featuring two prominent Newton women — Sylvia Church Pettys and Mary Barr Snyder, who are represented as studying music in Paris.

The girls are homesick and find consolation and comfort in the pages of the Newton GRAPHIC, which they read and reread from cover to cover nightly before retiring.

These programs are being sponsored by representative Newton merchants —who have many surprises in store for the listeners.

This presentation is under the personal direction of Estelle G. Marsh of Newtonville, who has successfully produced many radio and dramatic performances.

Reserved Seats Now At Needham Theatre

Reserved seats for all evening performances, except on Sundays, are now available at the Needham Paramount theatre. This convenience, which was long a mark of distinction for the Needham playhouse, has been restored in response to widespread demand.

Thanks to the overwhelmingly favorable vote of the people in the recent election the Needham Paramount now also has Sunday performances running continuous from 3:15 with the last complete show starting at 7:45. Outstanding attractions are Mae West in "Belle of the Nineties," Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 25, 26 and 27; and Mr. George Arliss in "Last Gentleman," Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29, 30 and December 1.

Kiddee Show at Loew's Watertown Theatre

Another of the popular Kiddee Shows will be presented at Loew's Watertown theatre on Saturday morning, Dec. 1st, at ten thirty. Heading the bill is Shirley Temple in her latest full length comedy, "Managed Monkey." There will also be three cartoons, "Mickey Mouse," "Jingle Bells" and "Flip to Frog" as well as a western picture, "Mystery Ranch" with Tom Tyler. There will be free gifts of dolls, games, toys and so forth.

ONE THING.... ....AND ANOTHER

The Good Old Ways

Getting up on a cold morning isn't what it used to be. Automatic heating devices have robbed it of all terror. To tumble out of bed and find the house amply heated is a privilege, we are told. Should we be grateful or have we become mollycoddles? Are we victims of a comfort-loving age and would it not be better were we to cling to the less modern facilities that compel us to face the icy blasts and numbly stumble downstairs to wrestle with shovel, coal, poker and ashes?

If it is a luxury to find a generous warmth pervading the house, what about the joy of not getting up when everything is cold? Frigidity is beautiful when you don't have to face it. What is more glorious than, after sniffing near-zero air, to draw up the bedclothes about you for another snooze?

When the thermostat has done its duty there is no longer any excuse for remaining serene on one's downy couch, smothered with blankets. Luxury, indeed! Nothing has been invented and never will be to equal the delight of lying abed when the rest of the house, and the world, too, is freezing.

No Use Rushing Things

As far as most of the popular magazines go Christmas is over. By the time we have actually started using our 1935 calendars they will be treating us to a parade of Easter fashions and appropriate Lenten dishes. I use "we" in a strictly editorial sense for I shall never again allow myself, if I can help it, to get so woozy on the seasons that I can't tell what time of year it is. And that's exactly where I stand today because I was weak enough to be dazzled by pretty pictures—mostly of lovely girls. With Thanksgiving not yet here I find myself learning how to trim a Christmas tree and all because I got steamed up over a dainty maiden on a step-ladder in the act of draping tinsel rope, etc., among pine branches.

I maintain that this undue haste is unnecessary and unfair to those of us with susceptible and romantic natures. The passage of time is forced, which is a wicked thing to do, and we become artificial as well as confused. It may be laid at the door of magazine editors who are so keenly competitive that they can't let well enough alone and cause us to lose all track of the days.

It is my good fortune to have been invited out to dinner Thanksgiving Day. Such a realization would ordinarily make me very happy. Instead I am scared stiff for fear I shall commit an awful break and when the turkey is brought on shout, "Merry Christmas." That indeed would be a solecism, which, I understand is something no physician can cure.

I hereby warn these magazine editors and illustrators and authors—the whole caboodle of them—that I can be as smart as they are. Although it is November I am ready to announce my New Year (1935) resolutions and these include a firm intention to celebrate holidays according to the almanac and they may call me an old farmer or anything else if it does them any good.

Ready and Unafraid

State troopers, assigned to the back hills and more remote sections of Massachusetts, are often required to rush out at any hour, day or night, to intercept fleeing robbers and other wild drivers. Frequently they are sent off to tame drink-crazed or otherwise mentally unbalanced persons and prevent crime or hunt offenders where some outrage has been committed.

One of these husky fellows told me quite simply, while I shuddered at his tale, of having been ordered to an isolated farmhouse to apprehend a man who was threatening the lives of all about him. The trooper approached the house when suddenly the man appeared from around the corner of an outbuilding and, thrusting his shotgun in the trooper's face, demanded, "What do you want?"

Convinced that his end had come the trooper stood his ground. As he gazed into the muzzle of the weapon he did some fast thinking. Without arousing the man's suspicions he replied that he was looking for a farmer who lived some miles away. "Well, he ain't here and you can get out," said the maniac. With that he turned and started for the house. With a panther-like leap the trooper was on his back and both fell to the ground. The struggle was onesided for the trooper knew his business and soon had a manacled prisoner on the way to jail.

Brightening the Trolleys

The man who does not drive back and forth daily to Boston has his preference of train or trolley. One of Newton's best known citizens, who for years has honored me with his friendship, tells me he prefers the electrics because it gives him more time to read the newspapers. But there is the proverbial fly in the ointment—the Elevated does not keep its cars clean. Frequently there is an accumulation on the floor and infrequently are the windows clean. Some cars are equipped with window shades and others are not. As for raising the windows it is often impossible. Strikes me that it should be a plain business proposition—the greater the comfort the greater the patronage. So put your fare in the box and hope for improvement.

Parish Players to Open Season Next Week

On Monday and Tuesday evenings next week, Nov. 26th and 27th, the Parish Players will open their season in St. Paul's Parish House, Newton Highlands.

The entertainment will consist of two plays both of a comedy nature with a cast of well known local players. "The Confutation of Wisdom" by F. Sladen Smith is the first play, which includes in the cast, Mrs. Virginia Gilbert, Mrs. Martha Benson, Miss Marian Stratton, Mr. John L. Allen, Dan Smith, Gardner Reynolds and Alan Small.

It is of interest to playgoers that the author of this play, F. Sladen Smith, an Englishman, has written to one of the players, expressing his gratitude for the manner in which his play "Spring on Wyn Hill" was presented last year. The author's new play, through the courtesy of Walter H. Baker Co., is another "First Time in America" production for the Parish Players. Miss Dorothy Goddard is directing.

Bernard Shaw's "The Man of Destiny" a play dealing with an incident in the life of the great Napoleon, will also be presented with an all-star cast including Mr. and Mrs. Emery Leonard, Robert Allingham and Lyman Banker. This play is being directed by Mrs. Winnifred Douglas, who is at present appearing with a professional group in Boston. The evening promises to be a very entertaining one, stage sets are being designed and built by Mal Cummings and Herbert Odell with Sumner Smith assisting.

Christmas Seal Sale To Start After Nov. 29th

Immediately after Thanksgiving Day the annual sale of Christmas Seals will be started. Letters will be sent to residents telling of the great need for the income from the sale of these seals and the use of the proceeds in aiding the work of prevention of tuberculosis. All of the proceeds of the sale of seals in the city is used to meet the needs of Newton people, especially children.

All are urged to read the letters carefully and purchase the seals generously. For some time work has been going on in preparation for the campaign under the direction of a committee from the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs and the Newton Welfare Bureau. Women in all parts of the city have given much time in checking the files of former contributors and adding the names of new residents and prospective contributors. Posters, seals, health bonds, letter heads, and other materials have been prepared and distributed to chairmen of village committees. These committees are completing the work of getting the letters and seals ready for the mail, sorting the letters by streets as requested by the postoffices. Posters will shortly be distributed to further publicize the campaign.

The Christmas Seal Sale Committee urges everyone to remember that in budgeting for other demands the Christmas Seals Sale is not an agency of the Community Chest.

WOMEN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

Interesting Offering At Newtonville

The Newtonville Woman's Club offers several attractive opportunities this week to members and others.

The enrolment in the Class for Platform Art leaves one or two vacancies possible for the series. This Class meets for the first time today, November 23rd, and will be conducted by Hortense Creede Railsback at the home of Mrs. Percy E. Woodward, 125 Highland avenue, from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m., for ten consecutive Fridays, the next to be on November 30th. The course is open to others than Club members and is given under the direction of Mrs. Roger Wheeler, chairman of the Drama committee.

Those interested in Poetry will have the opportunity to spend a delightful afternoon on November 26th, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Richardson, of 17 Claflin place, when Mr. T. Jerome Cutting of the English department of the Newton High School, will talk on the various phases of that subject and will also read some original poems. The Education committee will welcome all Club members to these literary afternoons, six of which it is sponsoring.

Newtonville clubwomen, and, in fact, all clubwomen, are reminded of the great work done through the Christmas Seals, and of their opportunity to serve by assisting therein.

Before the next issue of the GRAPHIC the Health Christmas Seals will be received through the mail. Everyone is asked to read carefully the accompanying letter and to contribute as generously as possible for this very necessary work. If it is impossible to purchase a whole sheet of seals, the committee will welcome gladly any sum. Coins wrapped in paper and enclosed in the envelope and mailed in the postal district where it is to be delivered will, the Newtonville chairman feels, travel safely to her address. Club members are asked to please consider seriously the appeal for this fund, practically all of which is spent for Newton people.

Creche Contest Is Announced

The Art division of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will hold a Creche Exhibition and Contest on Sunday, December 16th, at 3 p. m. This Contest will be open to All Newton Children under 16 years of age, in two Groups, Group 1 being for those 12 years of age and under; and Group 2 for those 12 to 16 years of age. A prize will be presented to the maker of the best Creche in each group. The Rules are as follows: Size of foundation is not to exceed 24x24 inches. A background is permissible. Exhibits must be accompanied by a card bearing exhibitor's name and age. Exhibits will be received at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House on Saturday, December 15th, from 2 to 5 p. m. For further information those interested may telephone to Mrs. Frederick C. Rising, Centre Newton 0256.

Newton Highlands Woman's Club

By request, Dr. Miriam Franc Skirball will choose for her third Book Review talk a review of the play "Within the Gates," by Sean O'Casey. This is the first O'Casey play without an Irish setting and is described by Manhattan reviewers as a dynamic drama. Born fifty years ago in Dublin, Sean O'Casey did not learn to read until he was twelve. He earned bread selling newspapers, grew up to be a brick-layer's helper, a stone-breaker, and a dock hand. He said every one was getting tired of Abbey plays, and so he decided to write one for them. One by one several plays were offered and turned down until world fame came to him through "Juno and the Paycock" and "The Plough and the Stars." AMONG RECENT EVENTS

Newton Community Club

On November 8th, the Music committee of the Newton Community Club presented as soloist Miss Mildred Jenkins, who first gave a group of English songs, then the reading of a prayer similar to those intoned before the preaching of the sermon, in some of the Southern Colored churches, and resembling in cadence the negro spirituals which she next sang. Among these were "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child," and "I Know that God Has Laid His Hands on Me." For encore she gave a reading "Go Down Devil." Miss Jenkins singing, which has a weird and mystic quality, was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Bertha Ashley Searle gave a very interesting illustrated lecture on "Russia and Russian Icons." In introducing her subject, she said that the spirituals just sung resembled the icons with their painted versions of the Old and New Testaments; both being symbols of a religion of the spirit. The icon covers One Thousand years of Russian history, and copies of pictures made hundreds of years ago, and on up through the Nineteenth Century, were shown on the screen, portraying the changes in form and outline that took place during this time. Mrs. Searle's slides are rare, being the only ones of their kind in this country; and some of them, especially that of St. Michael, are marvelous in their coloring.

The tea table hostesses were Mrs. John Alden, a Club director; Mrs. Alfred H. Handley, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. A. Thomas Sundborg, recording secretary.

During the recess the penny collection was taken for the Milk Fund, sponsored by the Public Health committee, Mrs. Harold L. Higgins, chairman.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Daniel M. Goodridge that the Rummage Sale would be held on the 23rd and 24th of November.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

The West Newton Women's Educational Club, on Friday, November 9th, gave an opportunity to members and guests to see what is being done for the physically-handicapped, both children and adults, in Boston, and also in Newton. Mrs. Edgar P. Hay, president of the Club, introduced Mrs. John F. Capron, Twelfth District director, who presented Mrs. Earl J. Smith, chairman of the division of the Physically-Handicapped, of the State Federation. Mrs. Smith spoke briefly of the work of her committee, and of the so-called "Extension Scouting," which has to do with groups or "troops" of the physically-handicapped children in the various schools, such as the Horace Mann School and Perkins Institute.

Two talented young musicians, Miss Dorothy Kovitz, Pianist, and Miss Aida Pucciarelli, Violinist, played some very beautiful selections.

Mrs. Frederick A. Cole, who had charge of the afternoon's program, presented the speaker of the day, Miss Mabel E. Adams, principal of the Horace Mann School for the Deaf in Boston. Miss Adams spoke on the education and the teaching of the deaf, tracing it from its beginning with the American Asylum at Hartford in 1817, its development along various lines, telling of the Horace Mann School founded in 1869, the first day-school for the deaf in the world, and describing the most outstanding points in the education of the deaf and their difficulties encountered in obtaining higher education.

To give an idea of the methods used in teaching the very young child, a class of little deaf children, brought by Miss Adams, were put through some exercises by their teacher, Miss Edith Richards, these girls being Janet Bellman, Judith Bellman, Gloria Green, Sybil Levine, Joyce Small, and Patricia Waters.

An opportunity also was given to see some practice in lip-reading as it is taught to hard-of-hearing pupils in the Newton Public Schools, by Miss Ena G. Macnutt, who explained some phases of her work.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Tea was served by the Hospitality committee, of which Mrs. Carl Thomas is chairman. Those presiding at the tea tables were Mrs. Elroy F. Davis and Mrs. Edwin M. Wolley.

Newton Federation

The Woman's Club of Newton Centre opened its Club House to the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs for their fall meeting on Thursday, November 15th. It was a chairmen's morning, as very interesting and instructive Round Tables had been arranged, and prominent speakers obtained for the committee chairmen groups of th respective clubs.

The Motion Picture chairman, Mrs. Ernest Cobb, had for her Round Table Mrs. Horace M. Clarke and Mrs. Charles Z. Atwood from the Arlington Motion Picture Council; W. Leslie Bendslev of the Community Theatre, Wellesley, who presented the situation as it applies to the independent theatre; Mrs. Florence G. Morse, Motion Picture chairman of the Twelfth District; and C. E. Churchill, principal of the Emerson School, Newton Upper Falls. Mr. Churchill told about the moving picture machine which his school has purchased for educational purposes, and which is also used Saturday afternoons to give pleasure to the community. Mrs. Harold W. Drew, of the Newton Motion Picture Council, conducted a fifteen-minute discussion on the work of the Contact committee. Through the efforts of Mrs. Louis A. Myers sixty essays were written by pupils of Miss Smith's English class in the Newton High School, giving their reaction to motion pictures, and two of these essays were read. Mr. Bendslev suggested that these essays be sent to Hollywood at once.

Another large and interesting Round Table was that of Public Health, Mrs. A. H. Shannon, chairman. Dr. Luise Diez, of the State Board of Health; Miss Harriet Parsons, of the Newton Welfare Bureau; and Miss Nelson, of the Newton District Nursing Association, spoke on general health topics.

A 12:30 o'clock a delicious luncheon was served under the direction of Mrs. Benjamin D. Miller, assisted by members from the affiliated Newton clubs.

The hall was artistically decorated with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums, and every seat was taken. The president of the Newton Federation, Mrs. Charles C. Willson, extended greetings, and introduced Miss Helen Sandstrom, social worker of the Stearns School Centre. Miss Sandstrom described the character-building activities of their Centre, including dramatic classes for boys and girls; sewing classes; first aid, under a Red Cross nurse; talks on food by a dietitian; mothers' club, composed of forty-five mothers; supper club for mentally-deficient girls; and supervised games for children, teaching them to participate, and offering comradeship, with a view to recreation as the best preventive of crime. Miss Sandstrom showed the necessity of a larger building for these activities, as the present school building used is entirely inadequate for all of this work.

Mrs. Victor P. Ratzburg, Program chairman, was everywhere present, keeping things moving quickly and smoothly.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock and Mrs. Willson thanked the Newton Centre Club for the use of their Club House and for their kind hospitality. Mrs. George J. Murphy, recording secretary, read the report of the Annual Meeting of the Newton Federation held last spring. Mrs. Howard O. Winslow, first vice-president of the Newton Centre Club, in the absence of the president, extended the welcome to the Federation.

Mrs. John F. Capron, Twelfth District director, announced a Concert which Mrs. M. H. Gulesian is giving in honor of the State Federation president, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, to be held at the Hotel Statler, Sunday afternoon, November 25th, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Club members with their families are invited. From 4 to 5 the ERA Chorus will be heard, from 5 to 6 William Dodge's Symphonic Orchestra with soloists.

Mrs. Willson read a telegram from Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of Motor Vehicles, advising that on account of a fatal accident hearing he could not fill his engagement to speak before the Federation. Miss Harriet Parsons, of the Newton Welfare Bureau, stepped into the gap, comparing some of her work with that of the Motor Vehicles Registrar, and explaining the difference between public and private relief work. Miss Parsons stressed the fact that at the present time the clothing situation has reached a critical point. Resources have been drained and the clothing being given now is very much worn. Many men here in Newton working on civic projects need shoes and underwear.

Mary Pumphrey Tower, well-known Piano soloist, very artistically rendered several numbers.

The final speaker of the day gave the principal address. Julius E. Warren, the new superintendent of schools in Newton, was escorted to the platform by Mrs. Ratzburg and introduced by Mrs. Willson. In a quiet, distinct manner, Mr. Warren gave plain facts and examples. He explained that the same feeling as has existed in all communities in which he has lived is present here in Newton; the standing of our schools is pre-eminent in the field of education; and according to Boston newspapers Massachusetts leads the country in civic righteousness. Whether Massachusetts, Ohio, or New York schools are the best is not important, but retaining the high quality of education, which has matched up with any other community over a period of years, by eliminating weaknesses and gather-

Mr. Edmund S. His previous radio, dramatic, and organization experience eminently fitted him for the task which was carried out with a professional smoothness which did credit to the city as well as proving of benefit to the Community Chest. Mr. Whitten, in interview, said however: "Without the perfect co-operation received on every hand the undertaking would have been impossible. No dress rehearsals, few individual rehearsals, but an abundance of talent of high quality and an earnestness which only a cause like this could evoke,—that is what enabled us to produce and send out over the air programs which have received high commendation from Seattle, Washington; from Texas, from Alberta in Canada, from Chicago, from Charlotte, North Carolina; and hundreds of other distant points. . . . As you know we were on the short wave station WIXAL as well as WMEX and I wish to say that the tireless care and attention given us by these stations and by station WBSO during the entire fifteen days naturally had much to do with the success of the venture."

Interesting Offering At Newtonville

The Newtonville Woman's Club offers several attractive opportunities this week to members and others.

The enrolment in the Class for Platform Art leaves one or two vacancies possible for the series. This Class meets for the first time today, November 23rd, and will be conducted by Hortense Creede Railsback at the home of Mrs. Percy E. Woodward, 125 Highland avenue, from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m., for ten consecutive Fridays, the next to be on November 30th. The course is open to others than Club members and is given under the direction of Mrs. Roger Wheeler, chairman of the Drama committee.

Those interested in Poetry will have the opportunity to spend a delightful afternoon on November 26th, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Richardson, of 17 Claflin place, when Mr. T. Jerome Cutting of the English department of the Newton High School, will talk on the various phases of that subject and will also read some original poems. The Education committee will welcome all Club members to these literary afternoons, six of which it is sponsoring.

Newtonville clubwomen, and, in fact, all clubwomen, are reminded of the great work done through the Christmas Seals, and of their opportunity to serve by assisting therein.

Before the next issue of the GRAPHIC the Health Christmas Seals will be received through the mail. Everyone is asked to read carefully the accompanying letter and to contribute as generously as possible for this very necessary work. If it is impossible to purchase a whole sheet of seals, the committee will welcome gladly any sum. Coins wrapped in paper and enclosed in the envelope and mailed in the postal district where it is to be delivered will, the Newtonville chairman feels, travel safely to her address. Club members are asked to please consider seriously the appeal for this fund, practically all of which is spent for Newton people.

Creche Contest Is Announced

The Art division of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will hold a Creche Exhibition and Contest on Sunday, December 16th, at 3 p. m. This Contest will be open to All Newton Children under 16 years of age, in two Groups, Group 1 being for those 12 years of age and under; and Group 2 for those 12 to 16 years of age. A prize will be presented to the maker of the best Creche in each group. The Rules are as follows: Size of foundation is not to exceed 24x24 inches. A background is permissible. Exhibits must be accompanied by a card bearing exhibitor's name and age. Exhibits will be received at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House on Saturday, December 15th, from 2 to 5 p. m. For further information those interested may telephone to Mrs. Frederick C. Rising, Centre Newton 0256.

OTHER EVENTS FOR THIS WEEK

Newton Federation

There will be an Executive Board Meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs on Monday, November 26th, at 10 o'clock, at the Newton Library.

Newton Highlands C. L. S. C.

On November 26th the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Miss Marian E. White of Manchester road. Mrs. Emery W. Clark will review Significant Books of non-fiction of the year, and Miss F. Maybelle Hurd and Miss Harriet M. Ward will present Current Events.

Newton Highlands Woman's Club

By request, Dr. Miriam Franc Skirball will choose for her third Book Review talk a review of the play "Within the Gates," by Sean O'Casey. This is the first O'Casey play without an Irish setting and is described by Manhattan reviewers as a dynamic drama. Born fifty years ago in Dublin, Sean O'Casey did not learn to read until he was twelve. He earned bread selling newspapers, grew up to be a brick-layer's helper, a stone-breaker, and a dock hand. He said every one was getting tired of Abbey plays, and so he decided to write one for them. One by one several plays were offered and turned down until world fame came to him through "Juno and the Paycock" and "The Plough and the Stars." Dr. Skirball will describe her own personal reaction to the new play. The meeting will be held in the Workshop on Tuesday, November 27th, at 10 a. m.

Auburndale Review Club

The next regular meeting of the Auburndale Review Club will be held on Tuesday, November 27th, at 10 a. m. Mrs. Eugene U. Ufford of 231 Central street, will be the hostess. The papers, which apply to the year's topic "Boston," will be "Bulfinch Buildings," by Mrs. William H. Medlicott; "Old Houses," by Miss Ellen C. Williams; and "Churches, Old and New," by Mrs. Charles A. Hutchinson.

State Federation

RADIO. Mrs. Edgar B. Richardson, State Federation Radio director, will present tomorrow morning, November 24th, over Station WBZ, at 11:30 o'clock, the following program: Speakers, Mrs. Edgar Tregoning, State chairman of Education; and Mrs. Herbert Stephens, State chairman of Art; and Music, Howard Harrington, Tenor, with Edwin Biltcliffe, Accompanist.

PRESS TALK. Miss Grace Des Champs, of the Worcester Telegram and Gazette, will give a Press talk on Monday, November 26th, at Headquarters, 115 Newbury street, Boston, at 2.30 p. m. Press chairmen and any interested clubwomen are invited to attend these talks.

AMONG RECENT EVENTS

Newton Community Club

On November 8th, the Music committee of the Newton Community Club presented as soloist Miss Mildred Jenkins, who first gave a group of English songs, then the reading of a prayer similar to those intoned before the preaching of the sermon, in some of the Southern Colored churches, and resembling in cadence the negro spirituals which she next sang. Among these were "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child," and "I Know that God Has Laid His Hands on Me." For encore she gave a reading "Go Down Devil." Miss Jenkins singing, which has a weird and mystic quality, was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Bertha Ashley Searle gave a very interesting illustrated lecture on "Russia and Russian Icons." In introducing her subject, she said that the spirituals just sung resembled the icons with their painted versions of the Old and New Testaments; both being symbols of a religion of the spirit. The icon covers One Thousand years of Russian history, and copies of pictures made hundreds of years ago, and on up through the Nineteenth Century, were shown on the screen, portraying the changes in form and outline that took place during this time. Mrs. Searle's slides are rare, being the only ones of their kind in this country; and some of them, especially that of St. Michael, are marvelous in their coloring.

The tea table hostesses were Mrs. John Alden, a Club director; Mrs. Alfred H. Handley, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. A. Thomas Sundborg, recording secretary.

During the recess the penny collection was taken for the Milk Fund, sponsored by the Public Health committee, Mrs. Harold L. Higgins, chairman.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Daniel M. Goodridge that the Rummage Sale would be held on the 23rd and 24th of November.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

The West Newton Women's Educational Club, on Friday, November 9th, gave an opportunity to members and guests to see what is being done for the physically-handicapped, both children and adults, in Boston, and also in Newton. Mrs. Edgar P. Hay, president of the Club, introduced Mrs. John F. Capron, Twelfth District director, who presented Mrs. Earl J. Smith, chairman of the division of the Physically-Handicapped, of the State Federation. Mrs. Smith spoke briefly of the work of her committee, and of the so-called "Extension Scouting," which has to do with groups or "troops" of the physically-handicapped children in the various schools, such as the Horace Mann School and Perkins Institute.

Two talented young musicians, Miss Dorothy Kovitz, Pianist, and Miss Aida Pucciarelli, Violinist, played some very beautiful selections.

Mrs. Frederick A. Cole, who had charge of the afternoon's program, presented the speaker of the day, Miss Mabel E. Adams, principal of the Horace Mann School for the Deaf in Boston. Miss Adams spoke on the education and the teaching of the deaf, tracing it from its beginning with the American Asylum at Hartford in 1817, its development along various lines, telling of the Horace Mann School founded in 1869, the first day-school for the deaf in the world, and describing the most outstanding points in the education of the deaf and their difficulties encountered in obtaining higher education.

To give an idea of the methods used in teaching the very young child, a class of little deaf children, brought by Miss Adams, were put through some exercises by their teacher, Miss Edith Richards, these girls being Janet Bellman, Judith Bellman, Gloria Green, Sybil Levine, Joyce Small, and Patricia Waters.

An opportunity also was given to see some practice in lip-reading as it is taught to hard-of-hearing pupils in the Newton Public Schools, by Miss Ena G. Macnutt, who explained some phases of her work.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Tea was served by the Hospitality committee, of which Mrs. Carl Thomas is chairman. Those presiding at the tea tables were Mrs. Elroy F. Davis and Mrs. Edwin M. Wolley.

Newton Federation

The Woman's Club of Newton Centre opened its Club House to the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs for their fall meeting on Thursday, November 15th. It was a chairmen's morning, as very interesting and instructive Round Tables had been arranged, and prominent speakers obtained for the committee chairmen groups of th respective clubs.

The Motion Picture chairman, Mrs. Ernest Cobb, had for her Round Table Mrs. Horace M. Clarke and Mrs. Charles Z. Atwood from the Arlington Motion Picture Council; W. Leslie Bendslev of the Community Theatre, Wellesley, who presented the situation as it applies to the independent theatre; Mrs. Florence G. Morse, Motion Picture chairman of the Twelfth District; and C. E. Churchill, principal of the Emerson School, Newton Upper Falls. Mr. Churchill told about the moving picture machine which his school has purchased for educational purposes, and which is also used Saturday afternoons to give pleasure to the community. Mrs. Harold W. Drew, of the Newton Motion Picture Council, conducted a fifteen-minute discussion on the work of the Contact committee. Through the efforts of Mrs. Louis A. Myers sixty essays were written by pupils of Miss Smith's English class in the Newton High School, giving their reaction to motion pictures, and two of these essays were read. Mr. Bendslev suggested that these essays be sent to Hollywood at once.

Another large and interesting Round Table was that of Public Health, Mrs. A. H. Shannon, chairman. Dr. Luise Diez, of the State Board of Health; Miss Harriet Parsons, of the Newton Welfare Bureau; and Miss Nelson, of the Newton District Nursing Association, spoke on general health topics.

A 12:30 o'clock a delicious luncheon was served under the direction of Mrs. Benjamin D. Miller, assisted by members from the affiliated Newton clubs.

The hall was artistically decorated with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums, and every seat was taken. The president of the Newton Federation, Mrs. Charles C. Willson, extended greetings, and introduced Miss Helen Sandstrom, social worker of the Stearns School Centre. Miss Sandstrom described the character-building activities of their Centre, including dramatic classes for boys and girls; sewing classes; first aid, under a Red Cross nurse; talks on food by a dietitian; mothers' club, composed of forty-five mothers; supper club for mentally-deficient girls; and supervised games for children, teaching them to participate, and offering comradeship, with a view to recreation as the best preventive of crime. Miss Sandstrom showed the necessity of a larger building for these activities, as the present school building used is entirely inadequate for all of this work.

Mrs. Victor P. Ratzburg, Program chairman, was everywhere present, keeping things moving quickly and smoothly.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock and Mrs. Willson thanked the Newton Centre Club for the use of their Club House and for their kind hospitality. Mrs. George J. Murphy, recording secretary, read the report of the Annual Meeting of the Newton Federation held last spring. Mrs. Howard O. Winslow, first vice-president of the Newton Centre Club, in the absence of the president, extended the welcome to the Federation.

Mrs. John F. Capron, Twelfth District director, announced a Concert which Mrs. M. H. Gulesian is giving in honor of the State Federation president, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, to be held at the Hotel Statler, Sunday afternoon, November 25th, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Club members with their families are invited. From 4 to 5 the ERA Chorus will be heard, from 5 to 6 William Dodge's Symphonic Orchestra with soloists.

Mrs. Willson read a telegram from Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of Motor Vehicles, advising that on account of a fatal accident hearing he could not fill his engagement to speak before the Federation. Miss Harriet Parsons, of the Newton Welfare Bureau, stepped into the gap, comparing some of her work with that of the Motor Vehicles Registrar, and explaining the difference between public and private relief work. Miss Parsons stressed the fact that at the present time the clothing situation has reached a critical point. Resources have been drained and the clothing being given now is very much worn. Many men here in Newton working on civic projects need shoes and underwear.

Mary Pumphrey Tower, well-known Piano soloist, very artistically rendered several numbers.

The final speaker of the day gave the principal address. Julius E. Warren, the new superintendent of schools in Newton, was escorted to the platform by Mrs. Ratzburg and introduced by Mrs. Willson. In a quiet, distinct manner, Mr. Warren gave plain facts and examples. He explained that the same feeling as has existed in all communities in which he has lived is present here in Newton; the standing of our schools is pre-eminent in the field of education; and according to Boston newspapers Massachusetts leads the country in civic righteousness. Whether Massachusetts, Ohio, or New York schools are the best is not important, but retaining the high quality of education, which has matched up with any other community over a period of years, by eliminating weaknesses and gather-

Community Chest Campaign Enters Final Stretch

Spaulding, Newton Hospital; Mrs. John C. Jones, West Newton Community Centre; Mrs. Clinton C. Brown, Newton Circle; Mrs. Maynard Hutchinson, Girl Scouts, Mrs. E. Graham Bates, and Mrs. Edgar Swail.

On Tuesday, November 20th, the music by the choir of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Waban, under the direction of Mr. Karl Switzer, and with solos by Ermond Lewis, tenor and Ernest Scheicher, baritone; Janet Raser, piano.

The speakers of the evening included: Mr. Frederic B. Eastman, Y. M. C. A.; Mrs. Steven Wilson, Girl Scouts; Mrs. D. Morley Lodge, Newton Circle; Mrs. D. Morley Lodge, Newton Hospital Aid; Miss Marguerite Flanders, Newton Hospital; Mr. Mark V. Croker, Newton Catholic Welfare; Mr. Lyscom Bruce, Boy Scouts; Miss Hilga S. Nelson, Newton District Nursing; Mr. George W. Pratt, Mayor's Relief; Mr. Albert P. Carter, Stone Institute; Mr. Fred M. Blanchard; and Mrs. John F. Holmes.

The final evening radio program, Wednesday, November 21st, was opened by Director McKay, and the closing address was by Pres. Leon B. Rogers. The music was furnished by Miss Doris Forte, 'cellist; Miss Francesca Barker, pianist. The speakers included: Mr. Fred Hawkins, Y. M. C. A.; Mayor's Relief, Mr. Harold F. Young; Mrs. Cecil Clark, Newton District Nursing; Mrs. Percy Woodward, Newton Welfare; Mr. Herbert Cole, Newton Hospital; Mrs. Ernest Cobb, All-Newton Music School; Mrs. Maynard Hutchinson, Girl Scouts.

Mr. Edmund S. Whitten of Waban deserves special mention, for he has chartered, arranged, produced, written the script for, and acted as announcer and stage director for the entire series of radio programs, commencing with Newton on Parade, November 7th to 13th on the High School Stage and continuing from remote control studios in the High School through the 21st. His previous radio, dramatic, and organization experience eminently fitted him for the task which was carried out with a professional smoothness which did credit to the city as well as proving of benefit to the Community Chest. Mr. Whitten, in interview, said however: "Without the perfect co-operation received on every hand the undertaking would have been impossible. No dress rehearsals, few individual rehearsals, but an abundance of talent of high quality and an earnestness which only a cause like this could evoke,—that is what enabled us to produce and send out over the air programs which have received high commendation from Seattle, Washington; from Texas, from Alberta in Canada, from Chicago, from Charlotte, North Carolina; and hundreds of other distant points. . . . As you know we were on the short wave station WIXAL as well as WMEX and I wish to say that the tireless care and attention given us by these stations and by station WBSO during the entire fifteen days naturally had much to do with the success of the venture."

Community Chest Entertains Nonantum Boys

On Saturday morning, November 17th, at the Nonantum Athletic Association the Community Chest entertained 70 boys of Nonantum at a radio party. The program was broadcast over WBSO. Mr. L. A. Bruce, Jr., Scout Executive in Newton ran off the party in his splendid way that he has with boys.

Mr. E. S. Whitten, radio director, had written a special story addressed to the boys of Nonantum; Lanny Ross and a galaxy of radio and screen stars entertained on especially prepared transcriptions for boys; and the whole party wound up with the ever welcome ice cream and light refreshments.

THE COMING CITY ELECTION

Five o'clock this afternoon is the time limit for filing nomination papers of candidates for aldermanic and school committee positions to be voted for at the city election early next month. Although it is an "off" year in that there is no mayoralty campaign there is every indication of an election with more than the usual interest. One of the reasons for this interest is due to the necessity of electing three aldermen in Wards 1 and 7. This condition was brought about through the necessity of electing one of the three members from each of the wards to the Board to fill vacancies occurring since the last election. In Ward 1 the appointment of former Alderman Murray as Water Commissioner created a vacancy which the Board filled by naming George E. Rawson. The vacancy in Ward 7 caused by the death of Alderman Howlett was filled through the selection of former Alderman Mansfield. In both instances the selection could only be until the next city election—candidates for these seats will now run for the duration of the original term. Thus, instead of there being fourteen positions on the Board of Aldermen to be voted for there are now sixteen.

Another factor which has created widespread interest is due to the fact that seven of the present members of the Board will retire and nine will run for re-election. From present indications there will be a contest except in two of the sixteen places on the ballot. These two are in the cases of Alderman Charles B. Floyd of Auburndale and Mr. Henderson Inches, a candidate from Chestnut Hill to succeed Alderman CoCrdingley who is retiring.

Still a third factor creating interest in the city election is the probability in the change in the mayor's office at the end of 1935. Mayor Weeks stated in the last campaign that he would not be a candidate for a fourth term of office and thus there already is talk of potential candidates. Such an indication of interest in the city election is gratifying from the point of view of good government. A full expression of the opinion of voters is always desirable whether it be on national, state or local election.

THE CHANGE IN WARD LINES

The hearing at City Hall on Wednesday evening indicates there is considerable opposition to the proposed changes in the ward lines of the city. The problem is one which has engaged the minds of city officials for some time and early in the year a special committee of Aldermen was appointed to study the situation and report its recommendations. It was obvious from the beginning that the task was a difficult one and that regardless of what changes were proposed there would be dissatisfaction in various sections. It is our opinion that the committee should have recognized this fact and given residents of every section of the city an opportunity to express their individual views at public hearings. This was done at the time of the zoning of the city and also before the location of the city hall was determined. Certainly a change in ward lines is fully as important as the zoning and more important than the site of the city hall.

It is granted that it is rather late to adopt the procedure of having public hearings in the seven wards of the city if the changes are to be made this year. We see no necessity for making the changes immediately although the statutes of the Commonwealth provide the opportunity to do so in 1934 without the necessity of special legislation. The entire matter is of sufficient importance that we believe it is advisable to conduct these hearings and then seek the necessary special legislation.

INCREASE THE NUMBER OF WARDS

There are two major objections to the proposed changes in the ward lines. The first is that the new wards, being of approximately equal voting strength, do not adequately provide for the future growth of the south side of the city. It is believed that the north side wards have about reached their limits as regards voting strength. This contention is borne out through the fact that it is the older part of the city and is practically built up to the point where any large increase in population would only be brought about by the development of apartment house areas. This, it seems, is unlikely for some years to come. On the other hand there is considerable room for growth in the south side wards, particularly in the vicinity of the Worcester turnpike and in the Oak Hill section. The other major objection is the destruction of village identity, particularly in the Newton Corner and Waban sections.

The desirability of the change in ward lines is based upon the need for truer representation from all parts of the city. As things now stand the south side, with a larger number of voters in the two wards there, has less representation than the north side. There is only one way, as we see it, that the desired end can be accomplished. That is through the creation of additional wards. We recognize the undesirability of enlarging the legislative branch of municipal government and the contention that more efficiency is obtained from an unwieldy governmental body. A plan to create additional wards must have as one of its qualifications no more than the present number of aldermen. This can be accomplished through the creation of two more wards, making a total of nine.

The geographical, numerical, and political make-up of the city lends itself admirably to the nine-ward plan. Three of the wards, as represented by Wards 1, 2 and 7, constitute the northerly section of the city with slightly more than one-third of the total registered vote. Wards 3, 4 and the Waban and Upper Falls section constitute the westerly section and also a little more than one-third of the registered vote. The southerly section, comprised of Ward 6 and the Newton Highlands and Oak Hill sections have a total vote somewhat less than a third of the entire number of registered voters but it is in this section that allowance must be made for growth. Under this plan a few minor changes would be necessary in the north section of the city and Wards 5 and 6 would be split into four wards, each containing about 3200 voters.

As to representation from each ward we believe it would be a slight difficulty to make the necessary changes in the city charter to provide for one ward alderman and one alderman-at-large from each of the nine wards. This would provide eighteen members of the Board. The three remaining members could be elected, one each from the north, west and south sections of three wards each. We have given this plan some study recently and believe it to be logical, sound and practical.

THANKSGIVING DAY

During the past few years it has been difficult to induce people to consider the things they have for which to be thankful. On the other hand many have dwelt upon their own difficulties and failed to realize that others were far less fortunate. By and large the people of Newton have much to be thankful for. As a city conditions are considerably better than in most cities of the state and certainly we are much better off than many cities in the west and middle west. The greatest thing to be thankful for is the opportunity to help others. That is the purpose for which the Newton Community Chest was formed. If you have done your part in the campaign now drawing to a close you can be thankful on Thanksgiving Day.

About Town

By Edward H. Powers

It is about time that determined measures be taken in Newton to curb reckless driving of automobiles by irresponsible youths. Too many serious accidents have occurred in this city, involving automobiles operated by boys of school age. Just because doting fathers and mothers can't resist the pleadings of a son or daughter, and provide their offspring with a car, or an apology for a car, as soon as the boy or girl reaches the age of 16, is no reason why the lives and safety of the public should be jeopardized. The protection of the public, and this includes little children, is more important than the pampering of spoiled darlings.

If anyone in this State murders another person by means of a fire arm, or stabs one to death, or wantonly kills by similar violent methods, the guilty party is supposed to be severely punished. It is expected, even though his crime was not premeditated, that he is guilty of manslaughter and that he (or she) will be sent to jail for a long term of years. But, reckless or drunken autoists, driving cars with utter disregard for the lives and safety of the public, either (and this is usually the case) do not receive any jail sentence, or in a very small percentage of cases are sent to jail for a few months. Recently in this State a man was found guilty of driving to endanger. This fellow had several times failed to obtain a license to drive an automobile. Despite this he operated cars on our highways. Last July on a State highway near Worcester the car he was driving hit another car and killed a man riding in it. The collision caused two other cars to become involved in a general crash. Fifteen persons were injured. The man who was driving illegally and recklessly, who caused one death and injuries to 15 persons, was not even found guilty of manslaughter. On the reckless driving conviction he was sentenced to serve 9 months in jail. And we are having 25 and more persons a week killed on highways in Massachusetts. Such slaughter will continue, and will increase until the people of this State display sufficient brains and moral courage to insist that police, district attorneys and judges who are paid to properly enforce our laws, will do their duty in regard to automobile drivers who murder and maim.

Congratulations to Major General Needham.

By Edward H. Powers

In recent years as a result of fatal automobile accidents it has been proposed from time to time that a law be passed prohibiting sharp or projecting radiator ornaments on automobiles. Similar to the apathy shown on other attempts to lessen slaughter of persons by motor vehicles, the use of these dangerous ornaments has not been stopped. Certainly the odds are tremendously against a person hit by an automobile without having them further increased by bayonet-like ornaments projecting out from the front of cars. The horrible mutilation of the head of an aged victim in this city last week is further proof why such senseless and menacing radiator ornaments should be prohibited.

The people of Waban deserve praise for the militant civic pride they displayed in coming 250 strong to Newton City Hall on Wednesday night to protest against the scheme of the Board of Aldermen to divide that village by splitting it at Chestnut st. Waban residents, like those in other parts of the city, had not been informed by the secretive Board of Aldermen about this plan until the close of last week. But, they started a telephone campaign at once and aroused the united opposition of the village to the impractical and unnecessary plan to separate that section by placing part of it in one Ward and part in another. Other districts of Newton might well emulate the spirit shown by residents of Waban.

Citizens of Newton have supposed they were living in a community under a representative form of government, but the manner in which the Newton Board of Aldermen has gone about the matter of the proposed new Ward lines would cause one to conclude that the Aldermen believe they constitute an oligarchy. Confronted with one of the most important problems in the 61 years' history of the city of Newton, a matter vitally affecting the future of this city and the welfare of its residents, did the present Board of Aldermen give the citizens of Newton proper opportunities to express their views, to offer suggestions? Opportunities which our citizens and taxpayers are entitled to and which were recognized by former Boards of Aldermen in 1922 when the zoning ordinance was created, and a few years later when the city hall site was being considered. No! Although the present Board of Aldermen was told by Mayor Weeks on January 1st that it should take action on the matter of changing the Ward lines, and although a special committee was appointed early this year to study this subject, the people of Newton were kept in the dark about the plans until a week ago. No public hearings were held in the various villages. No suggestions or information were asked from former Aldermen. Newton members of the Legislature were not asked for their views. Whatever discussion the Aldermen had on this matter was in the secrecy of a committee room. And the plan which finally was revealed to the Newton citizens would divide several villages of the city, including the oldest village at Newton Corner, Newtonville and Waban. It would join in revised Wards sections with distinct community affiliations. It would end to a large degree the village entirety which has made Newton the delightful residential city it is. There is nothing impossible or even difficult in dividing Newton into Wards which will retain the villages of the city as units, which will give equal voting strength to the Wards and which will allow for future development. If such a plan has not occurred to our Aldermen or cannot be devised by them, Newton has many citizens possessing sufficient resourcefulness to give information as to satisfactory Ward planning.

There is nothing sacrosanct in seven Wards. There is no good reason why the number cannot be increased to eight, nine or even ten, if such an increase will retain Newton's villages as units and preserve our community life. The numbers of Wards can be increased without increasing the number of Aldermen. The increase in the number of Wards can easily be authorized by the Massachusetts Legislature. And if the Board of Aldermen persists in passing the present impractical, undesirable plan, it is a certainty that citizens of Newton will quickly introduce a bill to the coming Legislature to bring about the revocation of such action and permit the division of Newton into Wards in a manner satisfactory to the great majority of our residents. And any Alderman who would vote to foist the present plan upon the city, would find he would have a real battle for re-election, should he seek it.

Another bill that will probably be presented to the incoming Legislature is one that will ask for the changing of the city charter so that each Ward in this city will vote as a Ward for two Aldermen. A large percentage of Newton citizens resent voters in other Wards determining the election of two of the Aldermen from each Ward. Especially since it has become the custom in late years for party politics to be injected into supposedly non-partisan city elections.

At the hearing before the Aldermen on Wednesday night on the matter of new Ward lines certain citizens of Ward 2, Newtonville, registered by voice and letters objections to being transferred to the proposed Ward 1. One of their objections was—that their community interests are in Newtonville and they desire to continue their political affiliation with that village. This is a reasonable objection. Another objection was—that Ward 1 is a mercantile and manufacturing Ward and the affiliation with such a Ward and the representation it would have in the Board of Aldermen would be quite undesirable to residents of Precinct 1 of Ward 2. The real purport of this objection was obvious. It really meant that those objecting consider themselves in a different social class from residents of Nonantum. For Nonantum is the only section of the proposed Ward 1 which is zoned for manufacturing purposes. And factories don't vote. Moreover, the owners of the factories in Nonantum are not residents or voters of Ward 1. And most of the manufacturing activities in Nonantum are now located in Ward 2 and have been since Newton became a city.

As to the objection of the Ward 2 residents against the type of Aldermen who would be elected from Ward 1, we list the men who were chosen as Aldermen by Ward 1 and Nonantum in past years. William J. Doherty, an executive of the Armstrong Transfer Company and for years a member of the Board of Registrars of Voters of Newton. John W. Murphy, Chairman of the Board of Assessors of Newton; appointed to this Board by Mayor Childs and regarded by Mayor Weeks as one of the city's most competent officials. John C. Madden, now a member of the Newton Board of Health and one of Newton's most highly respected citizens. A lawyer by profession. William S. Ball of Waban st. A member of one of Newton's oldest families. Dr. Thomas M. Gallagher, medical examiner for Newton, Waltham, Weston and Watertown. William A. Sproat, for over 30 years a valued employee of the Walworth Manufacturing Company and a man of high character. These men compare favorably with those who have been elected from Ward 2 or any other Ward in the city. They are either natives of Newton or have resided here 40 years and more; much longer than the residents of Ward 2 who are apprehensive of the type of representation characteristic of Ward 1. The writer also has been an Alderman from Ward 1.

A rather crude individual, limited in education and of quite ordinary ability, he is the only exception to the succession of high type Aldermen who have represented Ward 1, including Nonantum. The other past and present Aldermen from the Ward certainly measure up to the social and cultural stratum of those residents of Ward 2 who voice apprehensions of the type of representation they might get if placed in Ward 1.

Raid Crap Game At Nonantum

Sunday afternoon a squad of police under Sergeants Meehan, King and Burke raided the house at 99 West street, Nonantum, occupied by Frank Pupa who recently moved to that address. In the basement of the house a crap game had been in progress and the police seized dice and other articles used in the game, as well as about $10 in cash. They also arrested twenty young men, mostly residents of Nonantum. In the Newton court on Monday Judge Brown fined Pupa $3 for gaming and twenty others $3 each for being present while gambling was going on. One of the twenty, Anthony Patuto appealed. He was not arrested in the house, but the police arrested him later on a warrant, claiming he had been in the house just before they made the raid. Patuto denied this claim.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 25.

The Golden Text is: "The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Hebrews 4:12).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on. The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment. . . . But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Luke 12:22, 23, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Look away from the body into Truth and Love, the Principle of all happiness, harmony, and immortality. Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts" (p. 261).

Two Girls Found Guilty—Pulled False Alarm

Two girls were arraigned in the Newton court last Friday for pulling a false alarm from Box 41 in Auburndale on the night of November 7. They were Olive Buckley, 17, of 102 Orange st., Waltham, and Elizabeth Halfrey, 14, of Charles street, Auburndale. Judge Weston, who presided at the session, ordered the Buckley girl to pay 50 cents each week until February 16 to reimburse the city for the expense incurred in having fire apparatus answer the false alarm. The Halfrey girl was placed on probation until May 25, 1935. Judge Weston instructed Patrolman Regan, who was the complainant in the case, to obtain a summons against a third girl who also was involved in the pulling of the alarm. The judge stated that each time a false alarm is pulled the expense to the city is about $50. He commented on the number of fatal accidents which have occurred when fire apparatus was speeding to false alarms. In court the same day William M. Barber, Jr., 13, of Quinobequin road, Waban, was found guilty of pulling a false alarm from Box 56 on Hallowe'en Night. He was placed on probation for six months.

GLOW WORM GROTTO A STRANGE SIGHT

"I think," reminisced Captain George Gibbons, who takes the Franconia around the world every winter, "that the New Zealand Glow Worm Grotto is one of the strangest sights I ever saw. On the ceilings of the vast, gloomy underground caverns twinkle millions of little lights. Their illumination was sufficient to light up the interior, making the place almost as bright as a ball room."

STATUES WEAR REAL CLOTHING

The statues in the cathedral in Malaga, Spain, wear real clothing and jewelry. Here stands the mascot of Spain's Catholic kings, "Our Lady of the Victories," an old carved wooden image of the Virgin. The carving is very human in appearance and it is exaggerated by being robed in actual clothing. It is the custom in Malaga to put clothing on all religious statues.

Gala Holiday Week at Paramount Theatre

The Paramount Theatre at Newton will stage a gala week for the holiday—Thanksgiving Week. Perhaps the most unusual comedy to reach the screen since the inception of talkies is "The Last Gentleman," George Arliss' starring vehicle, which begins a four-day run starting Sunday.

The story, which depicts the amusing and eventful efforts of an eccentric but lovable old millionaire to choose a worthy heir among his various and colorful relatives, offers Arliss another great role and the brilliant artist achieves another characterization as rich and complete as, if in a lighter vein than, his recent triumph as Nathan Rothschild in "The House of Rothschild."

"The Last Gentleman" which Leonard Praskins adapted from a play by Katharine Clugston, employs the talking screen in a unique manner resulting in a tremendously effective and surprising ending.

Edna May Oliver, Janet Beecher, Charlotte Henry and Ralph Morgan head the imposing supporting cast which includes Donald Meek, Frank Albertson, Edward Ellis and Joseph Cawthorn.

On the same program will be seen a new type of murder mystery drama, "The Case of the Howling Dog," with Warren William and Mary Astor in the stellar roles.

For the last half of the week beginning Thanksgiving day will be seen "Death on the Diamond." This picture is filmed with the co-operation of the St. Louis Cardinals, who are seen in action in the picture.

Robert Young and Madge Evans play the romantic leads, and C. Henry Gordon, David Landau, De Witt Jennings, Nat Pendleton, Edward Brophy, Pat O'Malley, Ralph Bushman, Mickey Rooney, Willard Robertson, James Ellison, Robert Livingston, Ray Mayer, Joe Sauers, and others of note are in an elaborate cast.

The co-feature will be Lee Tracy and Helen Mack in "The Lemon Drop Kid." The performance will be continuous on Thanksgiving Day.

yards but slipped as he tried to sidestep a tackler and get into free territory. Sav muffed Myers' pass down the middle when the Waltham secondary hit him before he had a sure grip on the ball. Sav's punt went outside at the Waltham 21. McMullen gained five yards and almost swept into the clear as Swig brought him down with a crashing tackle. After another one yard gain Connolly punted to Sav who fumbled and recovered at the Newton 30. He made a pretty runback to the Waltham 42. Failing to gain Myers tossed a pass which was clutched and dropped by a Newton ineligible receiver and the officials tucked on a 15-yard penalty. Sav gained 14 yards on a jaunt through right tackle as the period ended.

Third Period

Treannie ran back Gaziano's kickoff from the 25 to the Newton 30. Reardon gained 5 around left end and Thompson five more but a Newton back was ir motion illegally and a 5 yard penalty resulted. On a double reverse Reardon was tossed for a 3 yd. loss and Sav kicked to Lando on the Waltham 31. Miller brought him down with a jarring tackle at the Waltham 36. Castoldi got through to nail McMullen for a loss of 3 yards. McGowan muffed Connolly's pass for a 15 yard gain and Connolly kicked to McLeod on the Newton 32 with a 5 yard runback resulting. Newton marched 27 yards in eight plays for two first downs with Treannie accounting for more than half of the yardage. At the Waltham 33 Thompson fumbled and Melody recovered for the Watch City. After one line play Connolly tossed to Melody for a 13 yard gain and once more Swig was on the receiver before he could take a step. Barry dropped Connolly's next toss and Thompson knocked down the third. Another long pass fell incomplete and Connolly punted to the Newton 10 where Sav got back only 2 yards. It was the first time in the game that Newton had been on the defensive deep in its own territory. Sav gained 15 yards in two plays for a first down on the Newton 27 as the period ended.

Fourth Period

Two plays gained but 4 yards and Sav punted to the Waltham 34. Connolly picked up 3 yards. Schwotzer came back out of the line as the ball was snapped and tried to make a long pass. Castoldi knocked the ball out of his hands, scooped it up and ran for the goal. The ball was brought back and given to Waltham at the point it had been put in play on the ruling that it was an incomplete pass. Sav intercepted Schwotzer's long toss on the next play at the Newton 45 and ran it back 10 yards. A Myers to Castoldi pass was grounded and after Sav and Bosworth had picked up 6 yards Sav dropped back to kick. Schwotzer crashed through to block the kick. Barry, who was at his side, picked up the ball as it bounded almost straight into his arms and with plenty of interference set sail for the Newton goal and a touchdown. Grow broke through to block the try for the point. Gaziano kicked off to Thompson who ran the ball back from the Newton 15 to the 33. Savignano on two plays and Myers on one were two inches shy of a first down. Treannie made it by two yards. Thompson was nailed by Schwotzer for a 2 yd. loss. A backward pass and a long forward from Myers was incompleted with Lando almost turning it into an interception. Fitzgerald nailed Sav for a yard loss and the Newton quarterback kicked outside on the Newton 48. Collins gained 2 yards for Waltham and Connolly one before he punted to Sav on the 8 yard line where the Newton back fumbled and Melody recovered. Krol and Connolly, on two plays each made a net gain of nothing and Newton took the ball on downs. Treannie hit left guard for 4 and Sav lost 1 yard. Trying to pass Sav was smothered by Gaziano on the one foot line. Kicking from behind his goal Sav booted to the Newton 35 where McMullen fumbled and Swig recovered for the orange and black. Myers long pass to Wittens in the middle of a group of four Waltham players was grounded. Another pass fell incomplete. A third brought a 5 yard penalty when Myers ran up to the line of scrimmage before throwing the ball. A fourth, to Wittens, was incomplete. Sav then tossed a basketball pass to Moore for a 5 yard gain on the final play of the game.

Legal Status Of Women Is Discussed

"The Legal Status of Women" is the subject chosen by the first study group of the Newton Branch of the Boston League of Women Voters. There are still some discriminations which preclude women from sharing an equal opportunity and a full equality with men. It is the object of this study to discover these discriminations with a view to their eventual removal.

The initial meeting, presided over by Mrs. Walter W. Hartstone and attended by Mrs. DeNormandie of the Boston League, was held on Monday morning, Nov. 19, at the house of Mr. Waldron H. Rand, Jr., 139 Gibbs st., Newton Centre. Miss Katherine Rand, LL.B., was the director of the study.

The introductory lecture was largely historical and in this brief outline only occasional interesting points can be mentioned. For example, as far back as early Roman times a wife was entirely dissociated from her father's house and became a member of her husband's, while her dowry or any other property which she might have had passed as a matter of course to him. On her husband's death she had no greater share in his property than one of her own daughters even though that property may originally have been largely hers.

The Danish-English king Canute, or Cnut, familiar from the legend of his rebuke by the seashore to his obsequious courtiers, promulgated probably the most comprehensive statutes that were issued in the Europe of the 11th century. It is interesting to find among them the provision that no woman should be forced into marriage.

Many elements of our own legal system are inherited from that founded after the Norman conquest when England was parcelled out in grants to leading nobles and through them to their subordinates. William's determination that the administration of law should be unified led to the establishment of King's Courts and the recorded decisions made there by their itinerant justices and by their successors both in England and in this country make up the common as distinct from statute law.

To the common law we owe the doctrine of Merger of Identity. "Husband and wife are one and that one is the husband." From this came some peculiar situations, e.g., husband and wife could not be convicted of conspiring together. Two persons at least are needed for conspiracy and husband and wife are one. So a woman could not be convicted of arson for burning down her husband's house. Arson is burning the house of another and a husband is not "Another." Larceny from her husband was stealing from herself. A woman had no right to her own wages; they were due to the One who is her husband and if paid to her could be demanded again from the employer by her husband.

The husband's rights under common law are now largely of historic interest alone since statute law has at least in most states modified or abolished them.

He had the right to determine the location of the family home; he could dispose of the children sending them from home and even at his death could appoint for them a guardian other than their mother; he could insist upon cohabitation; he could beat his wife "with a stick not larger than his thumb"—this since he was responsible for her behavior and must therefore have the right to restrain her. By marriage he came into possession of all her real property and could mortgage or sell it or even upon his death could bequeath it as he chose. He owned also her personal property except "paraphernalia," i.e., clothing and jewels.

On the other hand the wife had some rights under common law. She could claim support and if this were refused she was justified in ordering for herself "necessaries," which were sometimes, at least, interpreted to include not only food, shelter and clothing but also medical attendance and legal advice for all of which her husband must pay. She had also the right of "Dower," the life use after his death of one third of his real estate.

Should she leave her husband for just cause she had the right to order necessities, if not provided by her husband, for which he must pay. Such notices as, "My wife having left my bed and board, I hereby give notice that I am not responsible for her debts" are of importance only as warning a tradesman to assure himself that the separation is for "just cause" and that the supplies ordered are necessities.

The next meeting of the group will be on Monday, November 26, at 10.15 at the house of Mr. Rand, 135 Gibbs street, Newton Centre. The subject will be Property Rights of Women. All League members are welcome. Inquiries regarding League membership may be made of Mrs. Walter W. Hartstone.

Barefoot Fishwives

Although the language of the fishwives of Lisbon will not be understood by the casual visitor, one thing about them that will be noticed is that they go barefooted.

ing strength is very important, he stated. Newton in some way has been able through the years to attract to its teaching staff persons of rare ability, who have a devotion and sense of consecration to the task of school teaching.

Groups of people, such as the women of the Federation can in their demands see that the school program is of the highest possible use to the children. The desirable education, said Mr. Warren, is the education which permits the individual to grow aright, and the most significant agent in the education of the child is not the church, library, radio, movies, or street, but the mother in the home. People are likely to think in terms of the school being the sole agency of education, but it is not so. There has been a constant shifting of the home responsibility, and the difficulty in many cases is not with the child at all but a lack of responsibility within the home. The schools can not assume this responsibility without a tremendous increase in cost, psychopathist service, equipment, etc. All over the country today the school system is based on the query, "how much does it cost"; therefore, it is a privilege to be one of the professional workers in a community such as Newton, in which there seems to be the feeling that the schools must be so maintained as to help the child toward a better way of living.

The meeting adjourned at 3:30 o'clock.

Newton Junior Community Club

The November meeting of the Newton Junior Community Club was held at the Hunnewell Club on November 13th, at 3 p. m., with an attendance of approximately thirty. The business meeting consisted of announcements of various committee chairmen. The president, Miss Marjorie T. Clapp, presided. Mrs. Arthur J. Mansfield, the Club's adviser, spoke on different projects to be undertaken by the Club this year. Then Miss Elinor Babbitt gave a most interesting talk on wooden novelties and their construction. She described the articles she makes, and told how she happened to enter this particular field of work. Some of the novelties were on display. After questions were asked, cider and doughnuts were served, completing a most enjoyable meeting.

Juniors interested in dramatics are having a "try out" for the play to be offered in the competition sponsored by the Senior Women's Clubs, at 48 Eldridge street, Newton, today, November 23rd.

Waban Woman's Club

At the meeting of the Waban Woman's Club held on Monday afternoon, November 19th, the president, Mrs. B. Alden Thresher, presiding, introduced Mr. M. Hustin Lillard, headmaster of Tabor Academy, and Mr. Robert D. Leigh, president of Bennington College, who spoke on "Changes in College Education."

Mr. Lillard presented his subject from the point of view of the changes taking place in the educational principles for young men. He stressed character building, clear thinking, the development of the imagination, and co-operative effort.

Mr. Leigh gave a most interesting talk on modern trends in women's education. He emphasized the importance of allowing a girl to choose her own subjects, for she does her best work in the things that interest her most.

The hostesses for the Tea which followed were Mrs. R. G. Hoskins and Mrs. Robert W. Adams.

Newtonville Woman's Club

On Tuesday evening, November 13th, the Drama committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roger Wheeler, presented a Play Reading to the members of the Newtonville Woman's Club and their friends. It was splendidly read and received with great enthusiasm. The cast included Mrs. W. S. Railsback, Mrs. E. P. McGill, Mrs. Hinman, Mrs. Taugus, Mrs. G. H. Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Dines, Mr. H. L. Pierce, Mr. F. M. Blanchard, Mr. Donald Berry, Mr. Francis Rogers, Mr. Douglas Sloane, and Mr. Edgar Swail. Following the Reading, refreshments were served in the Gallery and an opportunity was given to view a collection of paintings by Mr. Warren Berry.

The American Home committee of the Club, with Mrs. James Stewart, chairman, opened the Club House on the afternoon of Nov. 14th, for a delightful and instructive entertainment. The first part of the program consisted of a Moving and Talking picture showing "The Romance of Canning." This was operated and described by Mr. William Carver who represented the Del Monte canned products. The second part was a talk on the subject of Vitamin D Milk by Dr. Kimball, a milk specialist associated with the H. P. Hood and Sons, Inc. Following these features, ice cream was served through the courtesy of the Hood Company.

On the afternoon of November 16th, a Lucky Number Bridge was held in Social Hall of the Club House with an enthusiastic group making up twenty tables. This Bridge was held by the Christmas Community Singing committee, with Mrs. Percy Woodward, Chairman, for the purpose of financing their Christmas Pageant plans. After refreshments were served a beautiful glass dish was won by Mrs. H. M. Weidner, who held the lucky number.

The second regular meeting of the Club was held on Tuesday, November 20th. After the short business meeting, the meeting was turned over first to Mrs. Ernest Nichols, who presented the Concert Pianist, Mrs. Mary Barr Snyder, a resident of this city. She played a group of four numbers and was received with much appreciation. Mrs. Irving O. Palmer then introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Robert Lincoln O'Brien, for many years editor of the Boston Herald and now chairman of the United States Tariff Commission. Mrs. Palmer is a member of the Woman's Advisory committee of the Newton Trust Company through whose courtesy the program was given to the Woman's club. Several members of the personnel of the Trust Company were present. Mr. O'Brien's subject was "The Nation's Outlook" and his remarks were indicative of the sense of humor and personality of the man.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the Hospitality committee under the direction of Mrs. H. M. Weidner. The hostesses were D. T. Gallison, Mrs. Dudley, and Mrs. Theodore Reed assisted by Mrs. Austin H. Decatur, Mrs. Albert D. Auryansen, and Mrs. Herbert F. Blair, past presidents, at the tea table.

This meeting was also in aid of the Newton Hospital, and many contributions were received of jellies, cotton and old linens of which they are so much in need.

Rotary Club

Ladies' Day was observed at the Newton Rotary Club Monday, Nov. 9, in the dining room of the Braeburn. After an excellent luncheon, Carl Switzer, a member of the Club, fascinated his audience with two piano solos, "The Liebestraum" by Liszt, and "Romance" by Sibilius. Mrs. Paul Elicker, wife of one of the members, amused the Club and its guests with three character sketches excellently done in the fashion of Cornelia Skinner and Ruth Draper. The first was "In the Time of the Gay Nineties," when a girl was getting her first drive in a gasoline buggy. The second was an impression of a "Lady Off for Europe Shouting Her Last Goodbyes to Her Friends on the Dock," and finally a sketch entitled "Junior and His Problem." The table decorations were Talisman roses given by Matthew Ruane, which were presented to the ladies at the close of the meeting. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Rupert C. Thompson, Jr. Mr. Thompson is the new president-elect of the Newton Kiwanis Club.

Parent-Teacher Association Meets at Newton Centre

The first open meeting of the Newton Centre Parent-Teacher Association was held Wednesday afternoon, November 14th, in the Mason School hall with the president, Mrs. Harry Friedman, presiding.

After the business meeting there were two short plays given by sixth grade children. Mr. Paul spoke briefly, urging parents to support the membership campaign of the School association.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Gladys Beckett Jones, director of the Garland School of Home-making, who spoke on the value of a happy home in the growth and development of the child as a social individual, stressing the importance of making the home a co-operative concern where the child has a share of responsibility and privilege. Mrs. Jones' talk was full of interest and new ideas.

Waban Garden Club Holds Successful Meeting

The Waban Community Garden Club held a very successful meeting on Monday evening last, Nov. 19th, in the Library basement.

Mrs. Theron Damon showed wonderful pictures which included the vast gardens of which the Queen of Roumania had personally supervised.

Mrs. Clifford Smith spoke graphically of gardens of the different classes of people in Italy, featuring the potted plants gardens.

Many Protest Proposed Ward Line Changes

being discussed in 1922, hearings were advertised and held in all the villages of the city, and like opportunities were given the citizens of Newton a few years later when the site for a new city hall was being considered. He stated that despite the fact that the matter of changing Ward lines was considered by the Aldermen in 1930, and then postponed, and that it was again taken up by Mayor Weeks in his inaugural address on January 1st of this year, the special committee which was appointed early last Spring did not advertise a public hearing until the middle of this month; six weeks before the Aldermen say they must take definite action on the matter.

Referring to Alderman Bowen's statement that the matter had been discussed with citizens in every village, Powers said that he had asked several former Aldermen of Wards 1 and 7 if their views had been sought by the committee, and they replied "No." Neither had suggestions been asked from members of the Legislature, nor had the Ward 1 Improvement Association been acquainted by the committee of its plans or consulted with. Powers said: "I wonder just what citizens in the various Wards were consulted by the committee?" He asserted that the big majority of Newton citizens knew little or nothing about the plan to change the Ward lines. He said that Ward 1, according to the committee's plan, would start at the Faneuil line and follow along the North side of the Boston & Albany railroad tracks through Newton, then extend through Nonantum and Newtonville to the West Newton line at Albemarle rd., thus bringing parts of four villages into this Ward. Powers said that the committee is not "playing the game" in waiting until this late date to acquaint the voters with the plan, and then manifesting a determination to railroad it through without giving proper publicity to it, and having village hearings to allow citizens in all parts of the city to have sufficient opportunity to present their views.

David Greer of 109 Brackett rd., Newton, speaking as a resident of Ward 7, said it is quite apparent that adequate opportunity has not been given citizens to become cognizant of the proposed changes in the Wards, or to discuss it. He said that the majority of citizens he had talked with believe in increasing the number of Wards. Letters of protest were read from a number of Ward 7 residents who object to having their neighborhood on Hunnewell Hill become a part of Ward 1. These include Ex-Alderman Howard North and Frank M. Ferrin of Hunnewell ave., Sidney R. Smith of Hunnewell ave., Mrs. Clement Colburn, Selden Hardy of Grasmere st., and C. E. Barba of Willard st.

Carl F. Schipper, Jr., of Trowbridge ave. read a letter from Charles B. Breed, president of the Newtonville Improvement Association protesting against the inclusion of part of Precinct 1 of Ward 2 in the proposed Ward 1. Mr. Breed was unable to be present and asked Mr. Schipper to read his protest. The letter stated that the South side Wards will increase much more in population during the next 10 years than those on the North side and provision should be made for this by alloting more voters to Wards 2 and 3. Mr. Breed contended that Ward 1 is a manufacturing and mercantile district, while Precinct 1 of Ward 2 is residential. It would not be right to place them under the protection of a Ward 1 alderman whose natural representation would be concerned with a manufacturing district. He wrote that the community interests of people in Precinct 1 of Ward 2 are in Newtonville and they should be allowed to remain in Ward 2.

F. C. Alexander of 87 Fair Oaks ave., secretary of the Newtonville Improvement Association objected also to the inclusion of any of Precinct 1 of Ward 2 in Ward 1. His objections were along the line of those stated in Breed's letter. He said to have residents of Ward 2, a residential Ward, joined with Ward 1, which he termed a mercantile Ward, would not be conducive to the type of representation the people of Precinct 1 of Ward 2 want. He also argued that if, voters in his section had to go to a polling place distant from Newtonville square, the votes would not be cast. Leon White of Wyoming rd. presented a petition signed by 56 voters against having that part of Ward 2 included in Ward 1.

J. Edward Theriault of 46 Bridge st., Nonantum, said the voters in Alexander's neighborhood would not have to travel any farther than he and his neighbors now have to travel to vote in Newtonville square. He took exception to the aspersions apparently cast by Breed and Alexander on the type of men who have represented Ward 1 in the Board of Aldermen, and he alluded to former Aldermen Doherty and Murphy as men who have been a credit to this city. The former is a member of the Registrars of Voters and Mr. Murphy is chairman of the Board of Assessors. Theriault said he believes now is the time to make changes in Ward lines.

Charles E. Bailey of 21 Lake ave., Newton Centre asked Alderman Bowen "What is back of this movement to change the Ward lines? Where did it start?" Bowen replied that he thought he had explained the reasons for the proposed changes. He added that there has been no demand by the people as a whole or by any one Ward. Mr. Bailey said that at a meeting of Ward 6 residents the sentiment was against any change at present. Dr. Edward A. Andrews of 1298 Centre st. said there is no need at the present for the change. John B. Hickey of Beecher place agreed with Dr. Andrews.

Albert T. Stuart of Institution ave. said it would be better to create a new Ward at the South side of the city than to disturb the old established Wards on the North side. Robert A. Vachon of Union st. expressed the same opinion.

Alderman Bowen said he would ask for the opinions of those opposed to the planned changes in the present Ward lines. Immediately most of those in the hall shouted "No."

Lewis Estes of 45 Alban road, Waban, president of the Waban Improvement Society registered a protest from this society against Waban being divided so that parts of this village will be in two Wards. He told Alderman Bowen that no meeting had been held in Waban to discuss the matter, such as the alderman had referred to. Mr. Estes said he would call on representative citizens of Waban to voice their protests. Herbert Stetson of Pine Ridge road said he has lived in Waban 36 years, had always voted there and he and his family had taken their part in its community life. He objected to his part of Waban being joined to Newton Highlands. He commented—"Waban is Waban! People moved there to live in Waban; not in No Man's Land."

Kenneth McCutcheon, President of the Waban Neighborhood Club said it would be a great detriment to divide Waban at Chestnut street, and 400 voters east of Chestnut street object to such a division. Mrs. Earle Parker of Metacomet road, speaking for the Waban's Woman's Club said Waban appears to be envied by people in other parts of Newton. She said that the people of Waban have a pleasant community life, attend to their own affairs and do not attempt to mind the business of other Wards in the city. She opposed the division of Waban. Mrs. Jerome Shauman of 296 Woodward street, speaking as a new resident of Waban, said she chose to live in Waban and in no other part of Newton. She said there is civic pride in Waban and she does not want to be transported to another village.

Rev. Joseph C. McDonald of the Waban Union Church said his church has 400 members, that there is a strong community spirit in the village, and the proposed split in the Ward line would be the entering wedge for further changes. He said the strength of Newton is in its individual villages and it would be a great mistake to break them up.

J. Earle Parker, former alderman, said that Waban is sympathetic in any matter redounding to the city's benefit and willing to co-operate. But, it objects to dismenberment and against the division at Chestnut street which would separate many of the older residents from the rest of the village. He advised the Aldermen to go slowly in making any changes that will diminish village interest. Asked by Alderman Bowen if Waban would object to being changed from one Ward to another if it were all in the same Ward, Mr. Parker replied that personally he would not object.

This could happen any time now. BUT it can be avoided if you let us check your battery, and change your oil now to

Mr. Estes again called attention to the fact that because citizens have not been acquainted with the plan for the proposed changes, they have had no time to hold meetings. He asked for a show of hands of those from Waban who object to the division of that village. About 200 persons raised their hands. Horace W. Shepard of 115 Upland road said that many persons were unable to get into the hearing because of the large attendance. He said he did not know of the proposed changes until Monday night. He telephoned 15 persons regarding the matter and only 2 had heard of it. He suggested that another Ward be created in Waban.

Carlton Blanchard of Saxon terrace, Newton Highlands, said that 28 out of 29 families in his section object to being shifted from Ward 5 to Ward 6. Robert Quint of 1589 Centre street said that many had come to the hearing on a moment's notice and that more opportunity should be given to Ward 5 residents to consider the matter. Alden Bellman of 64 Plainfield street, Waban said the proposed Ward changes will not only cause political problems, but also economic and social ramifications. He said that despite the statement made to the contrary, it will probably affect the school situation. He said it would also affect real estate values in that part of Waban affected by the split. He asserted it is a very serious matter and should be postponed for further consideration.

John F. Brocklesby of Murray rd., Ward 4, read a petition protesting against that part of the Ward being shifted to Ward 3. He said many of the residents there are lifelong members of the Auburndale community and have no interests in West Newton. They feel towards Auburndale as the Waban people do towards that village. The petition was signed by 150 voters. George Brophy of 14 Rowe st., Auburndale, also objected to his street being shifted to Ward 3. He said he and his family have been associated with Auburndale for 20 years, and their family, church and community interests are there. He favored the creation of another Ward.

Alfred Guzzi of Mague place introduced himself as the unofficial Alderman of Ward 3. He said some residents of Ward 3 who live East of Waltham st. object to being changed to Ward 2, while others living along River st. and Auburndale ave. would be tickled to be transferred from Ward 4 to Ward 3, as they actually are residents of West Newton. He chided the Aldermen for delaying their work on the matter of the Ward changes from last January and then planning to railroad the matter through the last of November. He said they can go to the Legislature and have the number of Wards increased.

Alderman Bowen thanked all who had spoken on the subject and commented that it was quite remarkable that so many stated their case in such a brief time, the clock then pointing to 10:07. He said the committee would consider all the objections offered.

Ancient Stocks in England

Visitors to England passing through the village of Albury, Hertfordshire, a few miles from London, may see the old village stocks where vagrants, trespassers, poachers and ne'er-do-wells had their ankles pinioned in a pair of notched planks. Several could be dealt this cruel type of justice at one time.

$3000 Damage To Auburndale House Monday

A two-apartment house at 289 Auburndale ave., Auburndale, was damaged by fire to the extent of about $3000 on Monday afternoon. The fire started in the cellar of the house and was believed to have been caused by a wooden barrel near a furnace igniting. It was discovered about 3 o'clock by Mrs. Frances Bell, who lives on the second floor apartment. She received a cut on her right wrist when she broke a pane of glass in the rear door trying to obtain a garden hose to fight the fire. Mrs. James Bell and her small child were forced to flee from their apartment on the first floor. Two dogs owned by Mrs. Bell were rescued by Hoseman Charles Kramp of Engine 5, who donned a gas mask and entered the smoke-filled apartment to get the spaniels.

Library Workers Want Pay Cut Restored

All of the employees of the Newton Free Library, both the regular staff on full time, the janitor force and driver, have sent in a petition to Mayor Weeks and the Board of Aldermen, asking for restoration of their salaries as they were before the 7½ per cent cut two years ago. The petition cites the fact that living expenses have gone up since the cut went into effect, and that library salaries have always been very low,—lower than those of other departments of the City.

Cong. Luce Talks On Government At Rotary Club

Deploring the tendency towards the concentration of governmental powers which will result in the breaking down of the Federal system with eventual destruction of the Constitution of the United States unless curbed, Congressman Robert Luce gave a most interesting speech at the meeting of the Newton Rotary Club on Monday noon. An audience of nearly one hundred and fifty business and professional men, representing the Newton, Waltham, Needham and Concord Rotary Clubs was present in a joint meeting sponsored by the local service organization at the Brae Burn Country Club. Congressman Luce, who was recently defeated for re-election, was introduced by ex-Mayor Edwin O. Childs of Newton. Mr. Childs, who was a candidate for Congress against Mr. Luce in 1918, referred to his friendship for the veteran legislator, a friendship which began in the campaign of that year and closed his remarks saying, "he has walked the heights of public service where the lights beat fiercest without a dent in his armor or a stain upon his shield—Congressman Robert Luce."

Referring to the recent campaign Congressman Luce told of his defeat in 1912, attributing it to Roosevelt the First, and in 1934 because of the activities of Roosevelt the Second. The defeat, he added, was not without its compensations and he indicated that he would resume intensive study of politics in its highest sense—the science of government. In this field Congressman Luce has always been a keen student. In the first of his address Mr. Luce outlined the progress, decline, and reappearance of democracy from the days of Aristotle to the present. Democracy—the foundation of which is representative government—was one of the motives for the establishment of the colonies and the desire to escape the domination of one-power authority the reasons for the American Revolution. Christmas Seal Sale Starts Today

All Returns From Sale of Seals In Newton Used Locally

The 28th annual Christmas Seal Sale to raise the only money available for prevention work and anti-tuberculosis care in Newton, starts today.

The sale will be conducted, as for many years, under direction of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs. It is a wonderful contribution of the Federation, to the welfare of the city.

Three facts concerning the sale, insure confidence:

First, the sale is conducted in a dignified and business like manner by many volunteers, who are members of the federated Women's Clubs of Newton.

The appeal is made entirely by mail.

Second, the receipts of the sale are entrusted to the Newton Welfare Bureau, which is well organized to care for the use of the Seal Sale Health Fund.

Third, decision concerning all expenditure of the Health Fund is most carefully adjusted under advice of the Health Committee of the Welfare Bureau, which includes representatives of the Newton Board of Health, the School Department, and the city.

The appeal letter which is being issued should be read carefully in order to understand the great need of the income from sale of seals, and the details of its use. Between eleven and twelve thousand appeal letters have been mailed to Newton citizens.

The seal sale is not included in the Community Chest because of its association with State and National Tuberculosis Leagues. Give promptly—buy generously.

The Seal Committee of the Newton Federation, for all Newton are: Miss Elizabeth Bartlett, chairman; Mrs. Charles A. Riley, co-chairman; Mrs. B. E. Taylor, publicity chairman.

Following is the list of chairmen in various sections of Newton:

Gets Permit to Keep Horse Despite Protest

Carmelo Gringeri of 46 Farwell st., Newtonville received a permit from the Board of Health this week to keep a horse in a small stable at that address despite the protests made by Mrs. Delia McDonald of 50 Farwell st. Gringeri formerly had a permit to keep another horse at the place but when that horse died, Mrs. McDonald renewed her protests.

Will Place More Lights on Webster St.

Four additional electric lights were placed on Webster st., West Newton, this week by order of Street Commissioner Mahoney. The lights will illuminate the dark section near the coal yard. This improvement resulted from a petition started by Alfred Guzzi and signed by 38 residents of the neighborhood.

Public Inspection Of Bigelow School Tues. Eve., Dec. 4

The Bigelow Junior High School at Park and Arlington sts., will be open for public inspection on Tuesday evening, December 4th, at 8 p. m.

The alteration and enlargement of this school building has recently been finished at a cost of about $135,000. This work was done as a P. W. A. project and provides much needed facilities to have the school properly function as a junior high unit. The Bigelow School was erected as a grade school nearly 40 years ago and the building has not had the requisite size or equipment to meet the needs of junior high work. Several years ago a wing was added to it which provided a gymnasium. The new wing, recently completed, provides six additional class rooms, a room for instruction in cooking, and an extra room.

The alterations in the older part of the building give a room for instruction in sewing and turned the old auditorium into a cafeteria. A stage was built in the gymnasium and this will be used also as an auditorium. The building and its wings now contain all the features of a modern junior high school.

Among the speakers at the public inspection on Tuesday night will be Mayor Weeks, Walter R. Amesbury, chairman of the Newton School Committee, and Frank W. Chase of Newtonville, who retired as principal of the school last June after having served in that capacity for 29 years.

Those who will attend the inspection of the school on Tuesday evening will be greeted by the new principal, Hadyn S. Pearson, and the teaching staff. Mr. Pearson, who is the youngest school principal in Newton, was born at Farmington, N. H., 33 years ago. He graduated from New Hampshire University in 1926 and received a master's degree in education from Harvard in 1930. He taught at the Utica, N. Y., Country Day School, Meadowbrook School in Weston and Lexington High School before coming to the Weeks Junior High School at Newton Centre two years ago. Mr. Pearson is married and resides on Allerton rd., Newton Highlands.

The Bigelow School holds a unique place in the affections of the older residents of Newton. Mr. Chase served as its principal for 29 years, and his predecessor, Henry Chapin Sawin, was principal for 35 years.

Republican City Committee OK's Candidates

The Republican City Committee held a meeting on Tuesday night and endorsed the following list of candidates for Aldermen and the School Committee:

Aldermen-at-Large

Ward 1—John E. Barwise.
Ward 1 (to fill vacancy)—Richard H. Lee.
Ward 2—Albert M. Lyon.
Ward 3—Maynard Hutchinson. (Unopposed.)
Ward 4—Charles B. Floyd. (Unopposed.)
Ward 5—Donald D. McKay. (Unopposed.)
Ward 6—Henderson Inches. (Unopposed.)

School Committee

Ward 3—George H. Fernald Jr.
Ward 5—Mrs. Margaret H. Woods.
Ward 6—Kirtley F. Mather.

These endorsements will be broadcast to voters of Newton by means of printed cards.

Much discussion ensued over the endorsement of Richard H. Lee for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 1 to fill the unexpired term. The majority of the Ward 1 Committee favored Major Frank T. McCabe, and Mayor Weeks also favors Major McCabe.

Newton Elks Hold Memorial Service

Newton Lodge, No. 1327, B. P. O. Elks, will hold a Memorial Service for the departed members of the Lodge on Sunday next, Dec. 2nd, 1934, at eight p. m. The service will be held in the lodge quarters, 429 Centre st., Newton, Mass.

One of the principal tenets of the Order of Elks is reverence for the memory of its departed brothers, and the first Sunday in December in each year is dedicated to them.

A violin soloist will render Handel's "Largo" and incidental music will be furnished by George King, the lodge organist. Vocal selections will be rendered by a mixed quartette consisting of Joan Ruth, soprano; Margaret Burkard, contralto; Anthony Guarino, tenor; Henry Kelly, baritone, accompanied by Gertrude Dennis at the piano. A reading will be rendered by Miss Burkard, and Mr. Ralph Gentile will sound Taps.

The memorial ritual will be exemplified by the officers of the lodge and the principal address will be delivered by the Hon. Horace T. Cahill of Braintree.

Many well known citizens are numbered among the departed members of this lodge and it is expected that there will be a large attendance as the general public is invited. A collation will be served to the members and their friends at the conclusion of the exercises.

License Board Refuses Five Applications

The Newton License Commission held a meeting on Tuesday night and refused five applications for licenses. These included applications for package store from Walter C. Dennison at 2112 Commonwealth ave., Auburndale; Arthur L. Walker of Eliot st., Upper Falls, who asked for a license at 1201 Chestnut st. in that village; Francis D. Duggan of School st., Newton, who asked for a license at 1066 Chestnut st.; and Robert L. Cunningham of Newton, who asked for a license at 847 Washington st., Newtonville. The other application turned down was that from James J. Collins of Boylston st., Newton Highlands, who asked for a license to sell all alcoholic beverages at 41 Needham st., Newton Highlands. Collins has a license to dispense wine and beer at this locus. He applied a few months ago for a license to sell all alcoholic beverages and was refused at that time.

Sec. Dempsey's Son Hit By Automobile

Robert Dempsey, 14, son of James Dempsey, secretary to Mayor Weeks, was hit Tuesday morning while riding a bicycle on Centre st. near Allerton rd. by a car driven by Mrs. Mildred Manchester of 273 Homer st., Newton Centre. The boy was on his way to the Weeks School. He received cuts and bruises on his arms and legs.

Nearly Three Fourths of Chest Funds Raised

One-Third of Returns Still To Be Reported

With several hundred reports still to be returned and subscriptions filed and recorded no accurate final report of the current Community Chest campaign can be announced yet. It is very encouraging however to show approximately 72% of the quota of $192,000 raised with nearly 33% of the cards still to come in. With these reports still to be made it is believed that the quota will be practically 100% raised. This will be the more surely so if the plan of Mr. Donald McKay, Campaign Director is put into effect; namely, to arrange that all citizens, many of whom it was impossible for various reasons to see during the drive, shall have an opportunity to subscribe. This will be done before December 15th, the date when a formal report must be given to the Board of Directors in order to permit them to make their allotment to the fourteen agencies of the Chest before January 1st.

The Board of Directors and officers of the Newton Community Chest wish to thank most deeply all those who have pledged in any way. Nearby 2500 workers participated in the campaign. The committee chairmen, majors and captains of each village are as follows:

Operator No. 27 To Speak To Newton K. of C.

Newton Council, No. 167, Knights of Columbus, will sponsor, on Tuesday, December 4, 1934, at 8:30 p. m., in the Newton Catholic Club, West Newton, Mass., a lecture by Operator 27, a German Spy in the World War.

The veteran organizations of Newton have been invited to attend, and it is expected that many former participants of the World War will attend in uniform. The general public is also invited to attend.

Operator 27, or Lt. Mueller, was born on the Rhine, and was educated in France. He was a professional musician previous to the War. He was called to the colors in 1913, and became a member of the "Empress' Life Guards." At the outbreak of the War he was in the vanguard of the invading army which finally stopped at the Marne. After two years in the trenches, he became a spy. Dropped from a plane into a French camp in the uniform of a French officer he began his thrilling adventures in behalf of the Fatherland. Three times his life hung in the balance as the prospect of facing a firing squad seemed imminent, all of which he relates in his gripping story. He tells of his meeting with Mata Hari, that glamorous female spy, and recounts in detail the events that brought on her downfall.

Lt. Mueller is now a citizen of the United States.

Newton Council, Knights of Columbus, as a unit of that great organization that tried to make as humane as possible the rigors of war to the "Doughboys", takes pride in presenting a former enemy as a living proof that the hatreds of the World War were never directed against the people of the Central Powers.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

BROOKLINE PASSES BRING FIRST WIN OVER NEWTON, SINCE '30

An air-minded Brookline high school eleven pinned a 13 to 7 defeat on the Newton high football team yesterday morning at the Dickinson stadium, Newtonville. Completing ten out of nineteen forward passes for a total gain of 140 yards, the Wealthy Towners showed a clear margin of superiority over the orange and black. Both teams showed a rugged defensive game, the only sustained offensive by a running attack being shown by Newton in the third period when a march of half the length of the field resulted in the Newton touchdown. The initial score came in the second period a few minutes after quarterback Hoye of Brookline had set Newton back with a well-directed kick into the coffin-corner. Savignano's kick from behind his goal line gave the visitors the ball 35 yards from the Newton goal. Six plays later Brookline scored when a 20-yard pass by halfback Canner was completed by Hoye on the 5-yard line without a Newton player at hand to prevent the Brookline quarterback from going over the line. Callanan, Newton fullback, leaped for the ball, attempting to ground it, but missed by inches.

Newton evened things up in the third period, receiving a kick at the Newton 40 and returning it to the Brookline 42, from which point a march began. It took nine running plays to produce the tying touchdown with a 14-yard jaunt by Savignano the longest individual advance. With the ball on the 5-yard line it took but two plays more, with Swig plunging through centre for the score.

Captain Gus Castoldi kicked the tying point and the two elevens went at it again. As the final period was drawing to a close Brookline produced its winning tally. Getting the ball on a poor kick which went but ten yards beyond the line of scrimmage to the Newton 42-yard line, the red and blue took to the air again. Three successive forward passes with Walsh on the throwing end were brilliantly executed and the ball brought to the Newton 6-yard line. Walsh hammered at the Newton line and on the third attempt went over.

With but less than three minutes to play Newton retaliated with a forward passing attack which carried them thirty yards to the Brookline 34 yard line but time expired.

With the exception of the Brookline passes there was little thrilling action. The outstanding incident was an apparent touchdown run of 85 yards on the opening kickoff of the game when Joe Walsh ran through the entire Newton eleven. The run was illegal, however, as Brookline linemen ran back into the restricted area as the kickoff was made. Newton was permitted to kickoff a second time with the ball being put down 5 yards nearer the Brookline goal.

Brookline had a 9 to 8 margin in first downs with seven of the nine as the result of passes. On the other hand but two of Newton's were through the air and the remainder by a ground attack. The Brookline victory was the first over a Newton team since 1930 when the Dickinson stadium was dedicated. It was also the first time Brookline has scored against Newton since that year and the first victory or score against teams coached by Ralph Sanborn of Newton.

Brookline defeated B. C. High a few weeks ago 6 to 0 but prior to that game had not won since the middle of the season of 1931.

SPORT NOTES

Win Freshman Numerals

Two local youths have won numerals as members of the Northeastern University freshman football team which recently ended its season undefeated. William L. Gibson of Bellevue st., Newton, and Arnold B. Davis of Pulsifer st., Newtonville, were among those receiving this award. Maynard Captain at Wesleyan

HOCKEY SEASON TO OPEN DECEMBER 15TH

The scholastic ice hockey season this year will get off to an earlier start than usual as the result of a change in plans to permit the entire fourteen-game schedule indoors. The Interscholastic Ice Hockey League has previously played half of its games on an indoor surface and the remaining half out-of-doors when ice was available. Weather conditions have made it impossible to complete these out-door games. This winter both rounds will be played indoors. The merging of the Boston Garden and the Arena made it possible to arrange games on both surfaces. Each of the eight teams in the league, Newton, Arlington, Medford, Belmont, Cambridge Latin, Rindge Tech, Stoneham and Melrose, will play two games with every other member of the league—fourteen games for each sextet.

The season opens at the Boston Arena on Saturday, Dec. 15th, and four games will be played on succeeding Saturdays either at the Arena or at the Boston Garden. Four games will also be staged on the Wednesday after Christmas and on New Year's Day to complete the first half of the season cn Jan. 12th. The second half of the season will run from that date until the latter part of February.

The Newton schedule for the first half of the season follows:

Dec. 15, Sat., at Arena. Rindge Tech.
Dec. 22, Sat., at Garden. Arlington.
Dec. 26, Wed., at Garden. Melrose.
Dec. 29, Sat., at Arena. Stoneham.
Jan. 1, Tues., at Garden. Belmont.
Jan. 5, Sat., at Arena. Medford.
Jan. 12, Sat., at Arena. Medford.

CANDIDATES FOR BASKETBALL TEAM START PRACTICE

Coach Frank Simmons of the Newton High school basketball team called out candidates for the coming season recently. A large number of candidates reported although a number of last year's players who have been participating in football will not report until after a short rest from athletics. Present indications point to a light but speedy team with a number of veterans available.

Bill Spillman, Al Smith and Joe Byrne are among the veteran forward candidates available. Colletti, Simpson and Ted Laffie are others with some experience who are seeking regular berths. Captain-elect Ellis Donovan leads the guard candidates. Other veteran backs are Ernie Savignano and Pete Morrison now participating in football.

PLAY BY PLAY STORY OF GAME

Capt. Castoldi of Newton kicked off to the Brookline 15-yd. line where halfback Joe Walsh gathered it in and raced down the centre of the field. through the entire Newton eleven for an apparent touchdown. The officials, however, ruled otherwise and Newton was given a second opportunity to kick off after the ball had been placed five yards nearer the Brookline goal. The rule which prohibits linemen on the receiving team from turning back down the field after the kickoff had been violated by three Brookline linemen. Castoldi kicked off again to the Brookline 10-yd. stripe where fullback Landry caught and returned the ball to the Brookline 32 where Treannie brought him down. After Sullivan had gained a yard through left guard, Savignano intercepted a long Brookline pass to give Newton the ball on the Brookline 42. Reardon was spilled for a loss of two yards on an end sweep. Savignano lost another yard when the Newton line failed to hold. A pass from Savignano to Swig and a two-yd. plunge by Treannie gave Newton a first down on the Brookline 32. Hammering at the line, Savignano picked up two yards, Swig four, Savignano three and Treannie four more brought another first down on the Brookline 18. Reardon made three yards at right tackle before Brookline stiffened and tossed Savignano for a yard loss. A behind-the-line pass from Savignano to Swig lost four yards more. Savignano's next pass was batted to the ground by the Brookline secondary and the Red and Blue took the ball on their own 20-yd. stripe. Sullivan hit the line for a yard gain, a reverse play with Landry carrying lost three yards and Sullivan kicked to Savignano at the Newton 47. The Newton quarterback ran it back nine yards. Swig and Savignano piled up eight yards in two smashes at the tackles. This gain was offset by a five-yd. penalty when Reardon crawled after being downed on the next play. Savignano kicked outside at the Brookline 27-yard line. Packard, Newton's centre, spilled Sullivan for a yard loss on an end sweep. Hoye sprung a quick kick which Swig took on the Newton 43 and ran back to midfield only to have Newton penalized 15 yards to their 36-yard line. Walsh came in fast to nail Reardon four yards back of the line of scrimmage and after Savignano had gained back three yards he kicked to Hoye who stepped outside as he caught the ball on the Brookline 37. Three line plays with Walsh carrying netted eight yards and Sullivan kicked outside at the Newton 29. Treannie went through left guard for five yards as the period ended.

Second Period

On a spinner Treannie gained 3 yards which was more than offset by a 5 yard offside penalty against Newton. Reardon gained a yard and Savignano then kicked to the Brookline 35. Sullivan was stopped without a gain and Wittens held Walsh to a 2 yard advance. Sullivan went back to kicking position but instead threw a pass. Newton was guilty of interference at the Newton 47 and Brookline given the ball there for its initial first down of the game. Another long pass from Sullivan nestled in Landry's arms on the Newton 21 for another first down. Sullivan gained nearly 8 yards through left tackle. Wittens smashed Walsh down for a yard loss on an end run and Swig came in fast to nail Sullivan seven yards further back on the next play. Sullivan's pass to Landry on fourth down was incomplete and Newton took the ball on downs on their own 22. Bob Mawhinney stopped Savignano at the line of scrimmage, Moore fumbled and Bob Mawhinney recovered for Brookline on the Newton 23. The first play failing to gain Brookline dug into its bag of tricks and pulled out a lateral pass play from Landry to Sullivan with Packard making a nice tackle to hold Sullivan to a 3 yard gain. On the next play Packard leaped into the air to bat down a Brookline pass that was almost complete. The lateral was tried again and Sullivan held to a 2 yard gain to give Newton the ball on downs again on the Newton 17. Harding, Brookline tackle, smothered Moore for a 5 yard loss which Treannie regained on a plunge through right tackle. Savignano kicked to Hoye on the Newton 48 and Wittens brought him down on the Newton 44. Treannie spilled Canners for a loss of 3 yards. A Canners to Harris pass was completed for 13 yards and a first down on the Newton 34. Treannie again tossed Canners for a 3 yard loss and a Canners to Hoye pass fell incompleted. A behind-the-line lateral to Canners and a long forward from Canners was batted by Packard into a Brookline player's arms. The latter dropped the ball and it was ruled an incomplete pass. Hoye then hoisted a long kick into the coffin corner, the ball going outside at the Newton 5 yard stripe. A plunge by Treannie gained 2 yards before Savignano punted, the ball hitting the sideline at the 34 yard mark.

A Canners to Landry short pass was good for 5 yards. Canners fumbled on the next play but recovered for only a slight loss. A pass down the middle was intercepted by Packard but the interception went for naught as Newton was offside on the play, the ball was brought back and the 5 yards penalty imposed. It was fourth down and less than two yards to go. Hoye made it first down on the Newton 24, plugging through centre. A long pass by Canners was grounded by Savignano. Another pass to the other side was true to its mark, Hoye taking the ball on the 5 yard line and going over standing up for Brookline's first touchdown against Newton since 1930. Callanan failed to reach the ball by inches for a clean interception. A Walsh to Landry pass was good for the point. Brookline kicked with Savignano running the ball back from his 15 to his 37. Savignano threw a long pass to Castoldi which Mawhinney batted to the ground and seizing it on the rebound headed for the Newton goal. Castoldi set out after him and brought him down on the Newton 15. The play was ruled an incomplete pass and the ball brought back. Another long pass from Savignano to Castoldi was incompleted to end the half.

Third Period

Castoldi's kickoff was run back from the 33 to the 42. Two line plays and an incompleted pass and Sullivan's kick to Moore on the Newton 24 returned the ball to Newton's possession. Savignano hit the line for two yards, Moore for one, and Treannie for six more. Savignano then kicked to Hoye on the Brookline 33, where Castoldi nailed the Brookline back in his tracks. A 15-yard penalty was imposed upon Brookline for illegal use of their hands and they were set back to their 18-yard line. McPhee gained a yard but a lateral went wrong and Brookline was back on the 14-yard line. Sullivan kicked to the Newton 40 where Moore tried to catch a badly bounding ball. It bounced off his chest into Treannie's arms, and the latter ran it back to the Brookline 42. Savignano failed to gain through centre but Swig hit centre for nine yards and Treannie picked up seven more for a first down on the Brookline 26. Three plays brought about seven yards more as Newton steadily advanced. Savignano took a backward pass and swept around left end for 14 yards to the Brookline five-yard stripe. Treannie took it to within four feet of the goal and Swig plunged through centre for the touchdown. Castoldi's placement goal with Savignano holding the ball was good to tie the score at seven all. The kickoff was run back from the Brookline 14 to the Brookline 30 by Walsh. Sullivan gained five yards. Landry fumbled and recovered at the line of scrimmage. Sullivan kicked to the Newton 32 where Capt. Aronson nailed Moore in his tracks. Savignano and Swig made 11 yards in two plays for a first down. Treannie found a big hole at left guard and raced 30 yards to the Brookline 25 where two Brookline secondaries cut him down. Moore picked up a yard. Savignano fumbled and recovered for a two-yard loss. Two passes, Swig to Savignano and Swig to Moore, were incompleted and Brookline took the ball on down on their 24-yard line. Clevenger smeared Landry for a yard loss. An offside penalty set Brookline back five yards more. On the next play Brookline was offside again and they were penalized to their 14-yard line with 20 yards to go. Sullivan ran right end with Treannie slowing him up to allow Packard and Wisbach to bring him down for a three-yard gain as the period ended.

Fourth Period

Newton was penalized 15 yards on the previous play and Brookline had a first down on their 33 yard line. Cannon gained 5 yards in two line plays. A long pass from Canners to Aronson was incomplete and Hoye kicked to Moore on the Newton 20. The Newton fullback raced back to his 31 before being downed. Savignano picked up 2 yards but on the next play a back was in motion before the ball was snapped and Newton suffered a 5 yard penalty. Treannie hit the line for a slight gain and Savignano kicked to Hoye on the Brookline 35. Brookline was clipping and drew a penalty to their 27. Treannie held Canners to a yard on an end run. Hoye gained 12 yards on a fake lateral pass play in which the Newton secondary covered the probable receiver closely. An offside penalty set Brookline back 5 yards. Canners and Hoye netted 6 yards in two tries at the Newton line. A Canners to Aronson pass was incomplete and Hoye kicked to Moore on the Newton 25. A 12 yard runback helped offset a 15 yard penalty which was imposed upon Newton putting them back to the Newton 22. Two plays by Savignano and Moore gained but 6 yards and Savignano kicked to Hoye on the Brookline 40. The visitors' quarterback was run outside at the Newton 47. A line play gained but little and Brookline took to the air again. A Walsh to Fallon pass was good for 20 yards with Savignano coming up fast to drop Fallon before he could get away. A lateral to Canners was fumbled and Newton recovered at their own 25 to stop Brookline for the moment. Three line plays netted seven yards and Savignano had to kick. The kick was poor, going outside at the Newton 42, only 10 yards from the line of scrimmage and Brookline had another opportunity which they proceeded to capitalize. Taking to the air the visitors scored in six plays. A Walsh to Lynch pass was good for 16 yards. A Walsh to Hoye toss netted 11 more and another with Aronson taking the ball from Walsh brought the ball 8 yards nearer to the goal. Walsh drove through the line for 2 yards and a first down on the 4 yard line. Again Walsh hit the line to within a foot of the goal and on the sixth consecutive play in which he handled the ball he dove through centre for the touchdown. Lipson's try to placekick the point was low and Brookline led 13 to 7. Castoldi received the Brookline kickoff, running it back from his 25 to the Newton 38. With but two minutes remaining Newton took to the air. A Myers to Moore pass was good for 15 yards and a first down in Brookline territory. Savignano gained 3 yards around the end. Two long passes were incompleted. A lateral from Castoldi to Savignano sent the Newton quarterback off on a 15 yard jaunt and a first down on the Brookline 34. An offside penalty on the next play set Newton back 5 yards and a long pass from Myers to Castoldi on the final play of the game was incompleted, giving Brookline its first victory over Newton since the memorable 38 to 7 game of 1930 at the dedication of the Dickinson stadium.

Waban Girl Scout Mothers Have Conference

Mothers of Waban Girl Scouts met at the Union Church on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 20th, to confer together about the Girl Scout and Brownie programs. The meeting was opened by a short welcome from Mrs. E. Ward Bartram on behalf of the Waban Girl Scout Committee. Mrs. Bartram introduced Mrs. James Warren, Senior Girl Scout Captain in Waban and Miss Margaret Adams, the Newton Field Captain, who were in charge of the conference.

Mrs. Warren spoke briefly about the history of Girl Scouting in the village, emphasizing the growth in community backing and interest which has taken place since she started the first troop ten years ago. Miss Adams spoke of opportunities for mothers in Girl Scouting, the importance of the program as a constructive factor in "helping girls grow up," and ways in which mothers may cooperate with the Girl Scout leaders to make the program effective.

The mothers were divided into three discussion groups: one on "Leadership," led by Mrs. Bartram; one on "Brownies," led by Mrs. Harold Jenks of Newton, chairman of the city-wide committee on Brownies, and one on "The Education of a Girl Scout" led by Mrs. Theron B. Walker of Newton Highlands, who is chairman of the Newton committee on Badges and Awards.

The three groups reported their findings to the whole group and there was open discussion of several vital points. Mrs. Bartram introduced Mrs. Walton S. Redfield, Newton Girl Scout Commissioner, who spoke briefly on the work of the Newton Council of Girl Scouts and on the National and international scope of the organization. Refreshments were served by members of Troop 4 of Waban.

Laundry, life-saving and dandelions are but a few of the widely diverse topics which Mrs. F. Civille Pray of Amherst wove into her talk on the Girl Scout Nature program before 75 Newton leaders and council members, at the Iris Garden House on Wednesday evening, November 21st. Mrs. Pray spoke of the relation of nature to all other Girl Scout activities, and cited many amusing and colorful incidents to illustrate her point. Mrs. Pray's own troop of Girl Scouts have learned the Latin names of the trees in their village.

Newton Laundresses should look to their washings—for, inspired by Mrs. Pray, Newton Girl Scout leaders are sure to conduct laundry hikes for their troops. Such hikes are tours of inspection of backyards, to see whether father's shirts are hung by the tails or collar, whether mother's stockings blow out toe downwards, and whether the color scheme of the clothesline arrangement is artistic and in good taste.

Mrs. Pray made a plea for the coordination of all Girl Scout activities into a harmonious whole. She described a Dandelion Festival, where the exaltation of this common weed combines the work of dancers, singers, minstrels, cooks, gardeners, woodcrafters, and naturalists.

Mrs. Pray's talk was the feature of the second meeting of the Newton Girl Scout Officers' Association at which the council members were the guests of the Association both at the meeting and at the dinner party which preceded it. Miss Adelaide Ball of Newton is the chairman of this organization.

Newton Home Celebrates Eighty-Third Birthday of Mrs. Connick

Tuesday, November 27th, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connick kept open house from four o'clock to seven o'clock celebrating the eighty-third birthday of Mr. Connick's mother.

Mr. Connick is the celebrated window craftsman, whose beautiful glass windows are said to be the finest art in window making in the world today. His windows are in St. John's the Divine in New York City, the Mellon Church in Pittsburg, the Cathedral in San Francisco, the American Church in Paris; and in nearly every state in the Union.

Mrs. Connick herself, the mother of this famous artist, is a remarkable woman in her own right, hearty and alert at eighty-three; known to artists, writers and other distinguished persons all over the nation. Mr. Auslander, one of the nation's well known poets, recently wrote a beautiful poem entitled "Mother Connick's Hands." She has been written up by feature writers; and all through Mr. Connick's own life and professional career has been a constant source of inspiration to him; always having been close to his side in all of his artistic ventures; always attending the first showing of his windows in his Harcourt place studio, Boston. Bright, and smiling, this friendly mother received her guests and greeted them with a cheery smile on Tuesday evening.

More than eighty friends gathered to greet her on her birthday, including many relatives from Pittsburg and out of town; the artists from Mr. Connick's Studio, and Governor-Elect Curley, who came to greet her with a huge bouquet of roses attended by his daughter Mary and Miss Loretta Bremner, the young lady who was engaged to marry Mr. Curley's recently deceased son. "Father" Powell of St. John the Evangelist, and "Mother" Elizabeth, were among the guests who greeted her. Mrs. Connick received many presents and beautiful tributes of flowers. Messages came from Pittsburg friends and from the official board of the Springboro Pennsylvania Methodist Church where she has been a life-long member. Many of what Mrs. Connick calls "My boys," came from long distances to pay their devotion to this motherly person; for all of her days it has been Mrs. Connick's habit to take homeless boys under her wings and give them a mother's care.

A delightful tea was served by Mrs. Mabel Connick the charming wife of the window artist and it was through her gracious role as hostess that the affair took on such charm and joy.

Central Club to Entertain Sons and Daughters

Members of Central Club of the Central Congregational Church of Newtonville will entertain their sons and daughters at the regular meeting of the club on next Monday night in the social rooms of the church on Walnut street. In past years the club has observed Boys' Night on this date but the committee has enlarged the scope of its interest and is including in its plans all the juvenile members of the family.

A special dinner will be served by a caterer and immediately following the meal there will be a series of stunts by the whole crowd and by some visiting artists. One of the members has written popular parodies which will be rendered by the entire gathering. There will be movies of general interest to old and young alike and the big part of the show will be put on by Frank Lane of Boston. Mr. Lane is a most popular magician and entertainer and will come to this affair direct from entertaining the Boston College football team prior to their annual battle tomorrow with Holy Cross. He has a number of clever stunts and makes wide use of members of his young audience as assistants in his acts.

The committee which is at work on the program is headed by Chauncey Waldron. About two hundred fathers and their children are expected.

Newtonville Scouts Plan Show To Raise Building Fund

Next Saturday evening, Dec. 8, at the Newtonville Woman's Club the Sixth Norumbega Group, Boy Scouts of America, will present an entertainment featuring "Curly Joe, the Yodeling Cowboy," and other feature radio artists on the N. B. C. Network, including Peg Norton, pianist, Lane and Lee, comedy sketch, and George Watts, dancing humorist. In addition Val Evans, magician extraordinary, formerly with the Ringling Bros. shows, will perform mystifying tricks and the Burroughs' Newsboys' Foundation Harmonica Band, under the leadership of Harvey Campbell, will play their latest numbers. From this band the famous Borah Minivitch drew two of his own "Radio Rascals."

The Sixth Norumbega Group, made up of Troop Six, Boy Scouts, and Pack Six, Cubs, is presenting this entertainment to raise funds for a meeting place for Scouts and cubs in Newtonville. In order to do this they need two hundred dollars and the committee, consisting of Edgar Burkhardt, chairman, Frederic B. Eastman, treasurer, Charles Paige, and George Brainard, principal of the grammar schools in Newtonville, are confident that Newtonville people will support this project.

Such a meeting place will not only allow the leaders of these groups, William Bradford Gove, Scoutmaster, and Everett J. Boulter, Cubmaster, to provide a better program for the boys, but will enable them to make the Scout and Cub programs available to more of the eight hundred boys in Newtonville.

She has spent the last summer among these people and has many interesting reactions. The worship session preceding the speaker will be in charge of Miss Janet Merrill.

We're here to tell you
What's "Watt"
in
Electric Lamp Bulbs

Thousands of people who have been using electric lamp bulbs for years and years are still in the dark about "watts." Yet, it's important and practical to know your watts when you are buying lamp bulbs.

What's "watt," anyhow? Well, sir, we could go scientific on you, but you'll probably understand us better if we tell you that the number of watts indicate the quantity of light given by the lamp.

For all around purposes, the 60-watt lamp is probably the most useful. But, it is hard to make rules. So, when you are buying lamps at your Edison Shop, or from any reliable dealer, why not explain where—and for what purpose—you plan to use the lamps. The man who takes your order will be glad to help select the size you need—with the correct number of watts.

Remember—you can buy American-made lamp bulbs of guaranteed quality at all Edison Shops

THE "UNCONSCIOUS" TAXPAYER

Representative Albert Bigelow, Chairman of the Mass. House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee, made a valuable suggestion in a recent speech in which he urged the waking up of the "unconscious" taxpayer. There are, he said, "direct and indirect taxpayers. The former are awake to what is going on because they are directly affected. The indirect taxpayer, or as I should like to call him, the unconscious taxpayer, needs to be revived into tax consciousness." Rep. Bigelow advocated the handling of this work similarly to any selling campaign with a trained body of tax salesmen who could talk to groups of people and bring home to them the part taxes play in everyday life. Such a campaign could well be augmented by use of newspapers, radio, cartoons, posters, circulars and other forms of advertising, the Brookline legislator declared. He further suggested that all civic groups and special interests who are now actively aroused to the tax problem should meet together on common ground and pool their activities. They would thus be able to settle their practical differences and be in a position to take effective action. With the present trend toward steadily increasing costs of government such a doctrine is indispensable counsel if we are to find our way out of the whirlpool which seemingly surrounds us.

A MASSACHUSETTS "BRAIN TRUST"

Governor-Elect Curley declares that what Massachusetts needs is a "brain trust" composed of men of character and ability to study and solve the problems of the Commonwealth. We rise to the defence of that honorable body in which we are privileged to represent the citizens of Newton—The Great and General Court of Massachusetts. The Massachusetts Legislature as a whole is capable of meeting the problems of the State. It has done so for over three hundred years. During that time Massachusetts has always held a position in the front rank of the entire United States. Today the Commonwealth is financially sound, it is far advanced over many other states in respect to much legislation adopted. To be sure there is much criticism of the Massachusetts Legislature. This it not true here alone, however, as Congressman Luce intimated in his address this week when he said that one of the puzzling questions of today is why legislative bodies all over the globe have fallen into disrepute. What Massachusetts needs more than a State "brain trust" is protection by the Federal government from the inroads made upon us by states in other parts of the Union. Many states are pressing legislation to obtain for themselves far greater return for the revenues a smaller number of taxpayers turn over as Federal taxes than does Massachusetts.

A FAITHFUL SERVANT

In the death this week of Andrew J. Cahill the Newton Graphic has lost a faithful servant. For thirty years he had been connected with this newspaper as an advertising agent and during that time had made hundreds of friends in a business way. His amiable disposition and his depth of character were his greatest assets. Always a gentleman in the highest sense of the word he will be missed by all who knew him.

Moving Picture Council Approves Family Pictures

A representative group of Newton women have recently held many committee meetings, round table conferences, interviews with managers of moving picture houses, and with directors of some of the leading production companies of America. One of the results of these activities is a decision to publish monthly the list of pictures to appear at the Newton Paramount Theatres, starring the ones which they sponsor as family pictures.

A similar list will appear in the GRAPHIC every month.

William Lyon Phelps says, "It is better to see good movies than not to see any movies." The moving picture council and the Federation of Women's Clubs of Newton express the same opinion urging the public to patronize the family pictures and advertise them widely to their friends.

Following is the list for December up to the 22nd:

Dec. 2-5—Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.* What Every Woman Knows.*

Dec. 6-8—The Outcast Lady. Servants' Entrance.*

Dec. 9-12—Gay Divorcee. Six Day Bicycle Race.*

Dec. 9-12. Judge Priest.* Caravan.*

Dec. 16-19—Happiness Ahead.* Transatlantic.

Dec. 20-22—Marie Galante. Richest Girl in the World.

Newtonville, Nov. 22, 1934.

Dear Ezra,

We sartin sure air hevin rucktions here to Newton sense yew left. It 'pears thet our beluved city tuk sick some four years back but nobody heerd of it till the saw-bones was all ready ter commit vivisection on her without delay. Soon's the story leaked out a lot of us folks up and put fer that there clinic which was held at the city hall last nite. Doctor Bowen give out what he called the diag-nosis and explained the operation which was to be nuthin more nor less than a cuttin' of chunks outer one part of the patient and a graftin' of 'em onter some place else and astretchin' of one end of her from Boston clear to Waltham. True's I live, Ezra, they hed poor old Newton propped up where everybody could look at her and they hed marked on her the places where the amputations and the graftin' and the stretchin' et cetry was ter be committed. Doc Bowen told how these here aldermanic saw-bones hed ben in consultation on the case fer six months and hed decided the operation was plum necessary if Newton was ter travel the strait and narrer road in future. And I'm a tellin' yew, Ezra, them there doctors would of done this here operation 'cept fer one thing. There was tew many anti-vivisectionists in that there audience. They was so soft hearted they couldn't stand the idee. Doc Bowen tried ter explain how the operation wouldn't be speshully painful after the first few years but it wan't no use. The objectors got away to a good start when ex-alderman Powers up and said he didn't want ward one twisted all outer shape and drug out so fur that the sun would rise in one end and set in tother. I chipped right in with him on that seein' as how I'd be livin' in what would be the e-longated section. But land sakes, Ezra, we needn't of worried none cause the minnit Ward five got iter action everybody realized that the sun rose and set right in Waban and didn't really shine no place else anyhow.

Yew never heerd nothin' like it, Ezra! Waban hed gathered there her beauty and her chivalry, ez the poet sez, and they was het up some how now I tell yew! We listened to her oldest inhabitant and her latest arrival. We heerd all about her religious and social organisms. We learned about her schools and her civic pride, et cetry. Nuthin was concealed. Everythin' free and above board. They was enuf oratory oncorked to hev convinced a dozen doctors that Waban was willin' to shed her last drop of blud and spend her last scent afore she'd submit to havin' any part of herself amputated off and grafted onter the Highlands or anywhere else. Well, Ezra, it got to be ten o'clock and so fur we hedn't heerd from her local fire department nor her boy scout troop and nuthin hedn't ben said yet about her climate so I cal'lated 'twould be sun up in Californy afore they was done and I up and put fer home. After I got to bed I thought it over a spell and I came to the conclushun that Waban hed the right idee. Fact, Ezra, I reckon every village in Newton feels about the same even tho' they don't all rate the same blud pressure. Yew see, Ezra, East is East and West is West, as that Kiplinger feller sez, and what's more, Waban is Waban which he plum fergot ter include in his poetry. The more I think about it the more sartin I am that Newtonville is Newtonville and by heck I figger ter see she stays that away. Fact is, Ezra, I kinder reckon Newton is a goin' to recover and be with us a spell longer in her familiar form. If there's any operation performed at all it's likely ter to be done on them there saw-bones, so if yew hear any squawkin' yew'll know who's hurt. Hopin' yew git home in time to vote, I am yours truly,

UPSON DOWNS.

By Edward H. Powers

Many years ago leading citizens of Newton realizing the foolishness of confusing national political issues with local government had legislation passed which caused city elections in Newton to be placed on a non-partisan basis. The purpose was to obtain the service in our city government of the best qualified men regardless of their party affiliations in national politics. The intent of this commendable desire was practiced until several years ago. Then, certain Republican politicians in Newton started to inject partisan politics into our city elections by having the Republican City Committee enforce a slate of candidates. Unfortunately, many voters of Newton, either because they do not take the trouble to investigate the different candidates' qualifications themselves, or because they are comparative newcomers to the city, have been influenced by the Republican City Committee's slates and have voted for the endorsed candidates, although some of these candidates were much inferior to the candidates not endorsed. In other words, the purpose of non-partisan elections in Newton has been largely nullified by the injection of partisan politics.

Recently the Republican City Committee held a meeting and it was argued and agreed upon by most present that no candidates for Aldermen would be endorsed at the coming election. This decision was cast aside at a meeting of the Republican City Committee on Tuesday night. We urge you to disregard the slate you will receive from the Republican City Committee and make your own inquiries as to the merits of the various candidates.

A bill will be presented to the Legislature at the coming session by a number of Newton citizens. This bill will seek to change the charter of the City of Newton and the principal reason for the change is to procure home government and just representation for the various sections of Newton. Under the present charter each Ward votes as a Ward for only one of its three Aldermen. The other two are voted for all over the city. Obviously this method is quite unfair. Its purpose is to prevent any one Ward from selecting a majority of its Aldermen. Here is an illustration: In Ward 1 there are two candidates for the unexpired term of Alderman-at-Large. They are Major Frank T. McCabe of Lewis st., and Richard H. Lee of Weldon rd. Major McCabe has been a resident of Ward 1 for 11 years. He retired from the regular army last year after 33 years of excellent service. He enlisted as a private and rose to the rank of major. He is a graduate of Suffolk Law School and is a man of unusual character, combining initiative and aggressiveness. He was responsible for the building of the tennis courts at Cabot Park and the general improvement of that park and playground several years ago. He has given freely of his time in civic affairs, and among his other activities he served as instructor of the Girl Scouts. He has the endorsement and support of Mayor Weeks and most of the former Aldermen of Ward 1. If the election were confined to Ward 1, Major McCabe would easily be elected.

Opposing him is Richard H. Lee, a young lawyer who has been a resident of Newton for only four years. We understand he is a young man of high character, but it stands to reason that because of his limited residence in the Ward he has little knowledge of its people or of the city. Yet, Mr. Lee is to be on the endorsed slate of the Republican City Committee. And he will be on it despite the fact that a majority of the members of the Ward 1 Republican Committee favored Major McCabe. Why is Mr. Lee endorsed? Because certain residents of Ward 7 fostered his candidacy and the Republican City Committee was swayed the other night by a woman member of the Ward 7 Republican Committee. It is the unwarranted interference of this lady and other Ward 7 residents in the affairs of Ward 1 which has determined residents of Ward 1, in conjunction with residents of other Wards of Newton, to seek relief from the manifestly unfair method now in operation whereby citizens of Newton Wards are unfairly interfered with in the selection of their representatives in our city government.

Andrew J. Cahill, for over 30 years a member of the GRAPHIC staff passed from this life last Monday after a valiant battle of ten months against the affliction which caused his death. We were associated with "Andy" for nine years and during that time we never heard him utter an angry or unkind word to anyone. He was a gentleman in appearance and demeanor; a gentle philosopher who entertained no delusions about this world, or the selfish inconsistencies of men and their affairs. But, he regarded life with consistent good humor and played the game squarely and above board. We shall miss his genial smile and friendly greeting. Hail and farewell "Andy."

World War democratic government has disappeared on the face of Continental Europe and a return to one-power authority been manifested, particularly in Russia with Stalin, in Germany with Hitler, and in Italy with Mussolini. Fascism and Bolshevism, however, are as far apart as the two poles — Stalin's program includes the abolition of private property while Mussolini believes in the extreme of capitalism. They have one thing in common, however, in the desire to abolish universal suffrage. Mussolini has taken steps toward this goal through the setting up of 22 occupational groups which makes laws for itself after they are submitted to the National Council with a power of veto by Mussolini. The United States has a similar program in the NRA and the administration of codes.

Recognition, however, must be taken of the "sub-merged tenth" of the population of America. One million of these are under restraint, another million ready to act at any time in ways which would make confinement necessary, and several millions of others of "unstable judgment." This latter group includes those subject to bribes and other forms of venality. This tenth often holds the balance of power in elections. Mussolini has disenfranchised the jobless and confined.

One of the most perplexing of the questions of today is that of why law making bodies everywhere on the face of the globe have fallen into disrepute. There is not one that satisfies the people. This fact is one reason why citizens of the United States have watched with little display of interest the transfer of powers from Congress to the president within the past eighteen months. The critical question at hand is as to whether or not this delegation of powers is to continue. Congressman Luce reiterated his belief that some delegation has been necessary but gave his opinion that we have gone far beyond a desirable limit. He stressed his belief that Congress should have retained more control over policies while transferring much of the detail to the executive branch of government. In this connection he mentioned the coinage powers and the processing tax powers transferred by the last Congress to the President. The power to tax is a distinct duty of the legislative branch under the Constitution of the United States. Mr. Luce queried as to whether or not we were going to "follow Continental Europe and see the disappearance of representative government here."

With a population of 125 millions a concentration of power is not proper and a system of checks and balances, for the concentration of power always precedes the destruction of liberty." as provided by the executive, legislative and judicial branches of our government, of great value. This system is a heritage of our forefathers and should be preserved. Under it, whether in Republican or Democratic administrations, the United States have prospered. Both parties, when out of power, have denounced the increase in commissions and bureaus. When in power, however, both parties have diametrically opposed their contention and bureaus and commissions have been created. In the 1932 campaign this was one of the outstanding points of contention and yet in the last year and a half 75 new commissions and bureaus have been created. Increased public pay rolls have resulted until there are now 9% or one person in every 11 working for the government. The time is coming when public employees will control elections and votes will be given solely to get jobs and turn out those who have them. The basis of government will be public employment instead of by the States.

Thirty years ago the Workmen's Compensation bill was defeated and today it would be impossible to kill it. This is an instance of the speed of reforms. Today the vital question seems to be Old Age Pension with the country looking to the National government to solve the problem instead of to each state. This fact is illustrated in many ways with the west and south designing legislation to squeeze the "plutocratic East." In the last allotment of money for road purposes Nevada (smaller in population than the city of Cambridge and about one and a half times that of Newton) received more money than Massachusetts. In a recent allotment of relief funds North Dakota received $220 for each resident and Massachusetts but $2.59.

Today, as throughout the history of the United States, we are in better condition than Continental Europe, and possibly England. Canada alone is a possible exception. This is due, Mr. Luce stated, in a large part to our system of government. "I dread seeing this Federal system broken down and I fear for the safety of our country. I believe we are getting the right perspective. Woodrow Wilson was a great president and an intellectual genius." Quoting from Pres. Wilso's works, Congressman Luce said, "The story of liberty is the history of the concentration of power. We who resist the concentration of power resist the processes of death

Anecdote Week

The fair young woman who is the subject of this brief sketch had demonstrated her success as a cook in many ways. Her loyal husband was proud to announce that in their brief matrimonial experience his wife had prepared for him numerous marvelous dishes. He admitted, however, that she had never baked a pot of beans. This, he explained, was due perhaps to the fact that she was neither born nor raised in New England.

Seeking to please "hubby," the cooperative matron procured a cook book and studied the prescribed method of baking beans. When she found that the beans must first be parboiled she paused until assured that one could learn if beans were parboiled when one saw the skins loosened. All doubt would be removed, the cook book said, if one were to blow on the beans and thereby cause the skins to fall away.

A conference with her husband led to his proffer of assistance. The instructions as printed were obeyed. When the beans were parboiled the young woman spooned out a saucerful and held them up for husband's inspection. "Now I'll blow and see if the skins drop off" said she, and, without giving him a chance to fall back, she blew a quantity of steaming hot beans in his face.

Now if you will kindly step behind the scenes of an amateur dramatic production I will tell of an ambitious youth who sought to be asked to take part but somehow never received the coveted invitation. His patience was about exhausted when he was requested to be one of a group of villagers. Moreover, he had one line to speak. Delighted almost beyond words the would-be actor rehearsed his line and was letter perfect. However, before the night of the show he contracted a head cold, with the inevitable sniffles. He told no one for fear he would lose the chance to play. Therefore, when the scene was played our hero, unable to employ a handkerchief for fear of destroying the dramatic effect, recited, "Welcome home, Mrs. Smith (sniff, sniff) Glad to see (sniff, sniff) you're back again."

Pretty Soft For Daddy

Those who write humorously of Christmas gifts—and their annual effusions are about due—seldom fail to make playful allusion to neckties, cigars and slippers intended for Daddy. They would have us believe the man of the house receives only such articles as tokens of remembrance. Now any man who has his cigars and neckties selected for him is not in my opinion a butt of jest but rather the lucky recipient of good fortune. For fear, however, that I may be spoiling the honorable sport of "spoofing the old man" and also to avoid argument I venture no further on this line.

I would like to pay my respects, nevertheless, to men's slippers. To receive a comfortably fitting pair among one's Yuletide presents is not only evidence of family affection but a gift directly from the hands of the gods. Their owner accepts them with visions of the hours when his weary feet will not be in constant motion; when he need do no plodding except the few steps between the easy chair or davenport and the dining table and later in trotting upstairs to bed.

Daddy will picture himself at complete ease—world at peace, etc.—and it will make no difference to him what sort of slippers have been selected for him as long as they are not too ill-fitting to impede ordinary progress. Let those who will make merry about this kind of footwear. No man of certain or uncertain age will ask anything better. If only he may be assured of ample opportunity to use them. To come home from a fatiguing day at the office, and, after dinner, slide into his lounging rig and slippers is true happiness! If slippers are to be Dad's Christmas present he should have assurance that no one will begrudge him frequent use of them.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

It is customary on Thanksgiving Day for Christian Science churches and societies throughout the United States to hold a service appropriate to the occasion, at which time a Lesson-Sermon especially prepared at the headquarters of the Church in Boston is read.

In accordance with this custom, First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Newton held its service on Thursday last. The service included the reading of the Thanksgiving Proclamation written by the President of the United States, the singing by the congregation of several well-chosen hymns from the revised Christian Science Hymnal, and a solo entitled "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord" by MacDermott.

The Golden Text of the Lesson-Sermon on "Thanksgiving" was as follows: "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift" (II Corinthians 9:15).

One of the Scriptural passages contained in the Lesson-Sermon was from the seventh chapter of Revelation: "After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; . . . Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen." The readings from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following citation: "Truth's immortal idea is sweeping down the centuries, gathering beneath its wings the sick and sinning. My weary hope tries to realize that happy day, when man shall recognize the Science of Christ and love his neighbor as himself, — when he shall realize God's omnipotence and the healing power of the divine Love in what it has done and is doing for mankind" (p. 55).

Towards the close of the service a brief opportunity was given to those of the congregation who wished to express gratitude for healings received through Christian Science.

The service closed with the benediction from Psalms 68:65 which read: "Blessed be the Lord, who daily loadeth us with benefits, even the God of our salvation." "Thou crownest the year with thy goodness."

To Present "Wizard of Oz" At Newton Centre

"The Wizard of Oz" will be the play to be presented by the Children's Theatre of Newton in its first series of plays for children which are proving so very popular with children, parents, and with educators. It will be given in the Newton Centre Woman's Club House Saturday, December 1, at 2 p. m.

Nothing has been spared to make this a production to enchant the imagination of all, old and young, who know and love this story of The Wizard, the tin woodsman, the crazy old scarecrow, Dorothy, Toto, and all their friends.

The three Munchkins with their round, bulbous mask-faces, their rotund, orange bodies are in themselves, a delight and a laugh. When the scarecrow, again a mask face, takes off his head to fill it with tacks and bran, a kind of dramatic miracle occurs. Another miracle is the mysterious disappearance of The Witch of the North into the big black bat screen. Every set is a delight. The scenery especially designed by Miss Betty Mohr has been executed by Miss Barbara Lippincott. This means fourteen slats have been sawed, nailed covered with 600 yards of cotton sized and painted. Moreover Miss Lippincott created the seven masks used and designed all the costumes which are most distinguished and aptly fit the stylized backgrounds.

The committee assisting with the costumes consist of Mrs. George Waterman, Mrs. Lawson Williams, Mrs. C. H. Lippincott and Mrs. Franklyn Trube; chairman of all committees, Mrs. A. Harry Hutchinson. The play is produced by Mrs. E. W. Varney, coached by Mrs. Spencer Crossley. Dancing directed by Hazel Sands Welch, accompanist, Mrs. Vernon Mattson; stage manager, Bolton Wilder.

Recent Weddings

BRUCE—TROWBRIDGE

Miss Louise White Trowbridge, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Trowbridge of 117 Beaumont ave., Newtonville, was married at a candlelight service yesterday afternoon at four o'clock in the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville, to Mr. Philip Lester Bruce, the son of Prof. Robert E. Bruce and Mrs. Bruce of 44 Churchill st., Newtonville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Horace W. Briggs, pastor of the church, who used the impressive ring service. He was assisted by the Rev. Randolph S. Merrill of Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Among the musical numbers played by Mr. R. Lawrence Capon, the church organist, before the ceremony, were: "To the Evening Star" (Tannhauser) by Wagner; "Evensong," Martin; "Liebestraume," Liszt; and "Cavatina" by Raff. He also played the traditional wedding marches, Wagner's for the entry of the wedding party and Mendelssohn's for the exit. The church was decorated with green shrubs and yellow roses.

The bride wore her mother's wedding dress of embroidered crepe with a short veil and cap of real lace, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Ruth J. Trowbridge, who wore a gown of pansy blue velvet with hat to match and silver slippers. Her flowers were yellow chrysanthemums. Jean Atkinson, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Atkinson of Craft st., in a ruffled frock of pale pink chiffon, carried a 'basket of pink flowers which she scattered in the path of the bride.

Prof. Bruce was his son's best man and the ushers were: Messrs. George S. Maynard, Jr., of Newtonville; Homan Leach of Boston, Malcolm Davis of Harwichport and Elmer Stotz of Brookline.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of the Newton High School and of the Katharine Gibbs School. Mr. Bruce is also a graduate of the Newton High School and of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he received his B.S. degree in 1932 and his M.S. degree in 1933. He is doing research work for the Simplex Wire & Cable Co. in Cambridge.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce will establish their new home in Brookline, at 160 Strathmore road.

BURKE—McMULLEN

Miss Grace Monica McMullen, daughter of Mrs. Anna M. McMullen of 108 Adams st., Newton, was married to William Joseph Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Burke of Watertown on Wednesday evening, November 28th, in the Church of Our Lady, Newton, at eight o'clock. Rev. Daniel F. Riordan performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of olive green chiffon velvet with hat to match and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Anne D. McMullen, sister of the bride, was gowned in rust velvet and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Walter L. Burke of Watertown, brother of the groom was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception for the bridal party was held at the Hotel Copley.

GOLDEN WEDDING

West Newton was indeed a village when on Nov. 25th, 1884, neighbors and friends gathered to witness the marriage of A. Stuart Pratt to Josephine A. Stewart, at the old Unitarian Church, which, in later years, was to be known as Players' Hall. Rev. Francis Tiffany performed the ceremony, and a reception followed at the home of the bride's father, William H. Stewart on Mt. Vernon st.

On Sunday, Nov. 25th, 1934, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stuart Pratt celebrated very informally their Golden Wedding at their residence, 73 Highland st., known as the "Homestead," because six generations of the Pratt family lived there.

They were assisted in welcoming their family and friends by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Davis M. DeBard (Eleanor Pratt), Mr. and Mrs. Lucius G. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Trull (Mabel Pratt) and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stuart Pratt, Jr., and seven grandchildren. Also assisting them were four of their bridesmaids, Mrs. Arthur G. Hosmer, sister of Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Francis Newhall, Miss Gertrude Elder, and Miss Caroline A. Lovett.

Mr. and Mrs. Pratt have spent most of their lives in West Newton. Mr. Pratt was connected with the firm of Stone and Webster, until their removal to New York, when he retired from active business. He served the city of Newton at one time as Alderman and was always deeply interested in the Newton Hospital, where he and Mrs. Pratt worked many years to further the improvement of that institution. Both have been life long members of the First Unitarian Church of West Newton and are still actively engaged in the interests of that society.

Recent Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Irving F. Marshall of 394 Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Irving Marshall, to George Hall Waterman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Nelson Hartstone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hartstone, of Newton Centre, and Duxbury. Miss Davis was graduated from Mount Ida School and Junior College, 1930, and 1932. Mr. H. Nelson Hartstone is a graduate of Dartmouth, 1929, and Harvard Law, 1932. He is a member of the University Club.

District Nursing Assn. Elects Officers for Year

On Monday, Nov. 19th, the annual meeting of The Newton District Nursing Association was held in the parlors of the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville. In the absence of the President, Mrs. Geo. M. Angier, the First Vice-President, Mrs. Harold A. Marvin, presided. The annual reports of the officers and chairmen of committees were read and accepted, all of which showed the splendid work and increased demands that are continually being made upon the organization during the present times. Following the business a demonstration of an afternoon at one of the Well Baby Clinics was most realistically enacted by the nursing force, Dr. Blair and some eight of the actual patients at these clinics, the latter varying in age from five months to two years and in most instances were accompanied by their mothers. The tea table, most appetizingly arranged by Mrs. Mervin Allen and Mrs. Lester Hunter, and presided over by Mrs. Lewis W. Arnold and Mrs. Albert S. Hutchinson, consummated a very instructive and helpful afternoon.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Lewis W. Arnold of Waban; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Harold A. Marvin of Chestnut Hill; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill; Treasurer, Mrs. Cecil W. Clark of Newtonville; Assistant Treasurer, Miss Gretchen Clifford of Newton Centre; Secretary, Miss Marion H. Dorr of Newton Highlands.

Clubwomen Tired Of Telephone Annoyance

Must Auburndale housekeepers suffer the annoyance of being called again and again to the telephone by firms soliciting trade, was a subject brought to the attention of the president, Mrs. Ernest F. Drew, during the business meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club, which preceded the program on Tuesday, November 20th. The question thus raised brought forth a showing of hands, which indicated that the majority were of the same opinion. At the coming meeting of the Board of Directors and the Executive Board on Friday, December 7th, the matter will be taken up.

A program made up entirely of Home Talent was given on this afternoon, with Mrs. Bernard Malaney in charge. The opening numbers were by Marjorie Winslow, Violin, and Eleanor Lord, 'Cello, with Mrs. Lowell D. MacNutt at the piano. Songs by Dorothy Fowler, Edna May White, and Blackey and Edith Black Packard ac-Suzanne Hector, followed, with Ethel companying the artists. Florence Krueger read some of her own plays, also reading from Edgar Guest's works.

In the Lounge, under the direction of Mrs. Earl Comer, was an Exhibition of works of art contributed by Club members, including water-colors, paintings, needlework, and two specimens of Mrs. Comer's modeling.

Tea was served by members of the Hospitality committee, headed by Mrs. Ralph A. Balch.

"Cross Europe" is the title of a lecture to be given at the meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon, December 4th. Carolyn Smiley, who has recently returned from Europe, presents this new Travel Talk, illustrating it with both still and motion pictures. As Russia will be the country to which most of the time will be given, the afternoon's program will also include a group of Folk Songs from that country, sung by Virginia Kinsley, well-known Soprano, and Russian Dances by a Club daughter, Miss Jean Budding, who is a pupil of Lilla Viles Wyman, and who, at a very early age, danced her way into the hearts of Auburndale people.

A group of guests from the Walker Missionary Home in Auburndale have accepted an invitation to attend this meeting, the Club wishing to share at each meeting their pleasures with non-club members. Acting as joint hostesses for the day, will be Mrs. Guy M. Winslow and Mrs. Amos R. Wells, and Mrs. Balch and her Hospitality committee will serve Russian Tea in the Lounge at the close of the program.

Kris Kringle Carnival and Bazaar

The Kris Kringle Karnival planned by the Bazaar committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will be held at the Club House on December 7th and 8th from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., with Mrs. Howard O. Winslow as chairman. It is an opportunity for young and old to make merry while doing their Christmas shopping. Santa Claus, Jack Frost, and a magician, will be there. Music, Christmas decorations and good cheer will prevail. On Friday at noon there will be a Sandwich Bar, and at 6:30 p. m., a Home-cooked Supper will be served, with a limited number of tickets available. The evening entertainment will be Ed Payne, who will present his famous lecture on Dickens, illustrated with rapid character sketches. On Saturday, a luncheon will be served. At 2:30 and 4 p. m., Jake Stafford, the magical detective, will entertain the children.

The following women are in charge of the various activities and tables, which give some idea of the attractions offered: Admissions, Mrs. Thomas B. Booth; Afternoon Tea, Mrs. E. Farnham Rockwood; Books (new and second-hand), Mrs. J. M. Densmore; Cafeteria Luncheon (Saturday), Mrs. J. F. Blake; Home-cooked Supper (Friday), Mrs. Joseph T. Bishop and Mrs. Annie Eastman; Carol Singing, Mrs. John W. Merrill; Chafing-dish Candy, Mrs. A. Henry Hutchinson; Cool Drinks, Miss Dorothy Taylor; Decorations, Mrs. Edward A. Andrews and Mrs. William C. Noetzel; Entertainments, Mrs. Austin C. Benton; Flower Table, Mrs. Frederick D. Robinson; Food Table, Mrs. Henry J. Ide; Grabs, Mrs. W. Radcliffe Waldo; Gifts, Mrs. Vincent Maloney; Hall Management, Mrs. S. Hardy Mitchell; Household Table, Mrs. Almon Foster; North Pole—Ice Cream Cones, Mrs. William H. McCabe and Mrs. John Gale; Sandwich Bar, Mrs. Edward T. Richardson; Ten-Cent Table (Christmas Wrappings), Mrs. Walter Hartstone; Tickets and Printing, Mrs. Alden H. Speare; Distribution of tickets, Mrs. Sherman Smith; Togs and Toys, Mrs. George Holmes; and White Elephant Table, Mrs. Harry P. Bradford.

On Monday, December 3rd, at 6:30 p. m., there will be an International Dinner held at the Club House. The lecture and discussion subject will be "Japan Challenges the World."

On Tuesday, December 4th, at 10 p. m., at the Club House Dr. Miriam Franc Skirball will review "Within the Gate," by Sean O'Casey, the well-known Irish playwright. The play is now enjoying a successful run in New York and is receiving much attention from critics and others who follow the modern drama.

Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor will give her second lecture on Current Events on Thursday, December 6th, at 10 p. m., at the Club House.

Russian Princess To Lecture

"Russia As a Russian Sees It," is the subject which will be presented on Tuesday, December 4th, at 2:30 p. m., to the members of the Newtonville Woman's Club, when Princess Sophie Toumanoff, a member of the past Russian nobility, will be the speaker. Boris Berestneff, Balalaika, soloist, and Mme. Nathalie Berestneff, pianist, exponents of Russian folk songs and dances, will also appear on the same afternoon, bringing the music and costumes of their native Russia.

This is also the date chosen by Mrs. Anton A. Wild, Community Service chairman, for Bundle Day, when members are urged to consider seriously the needs of the less fortunate, and to contribute as generously as possible to the Clothes Room at City Hall. All kinds of clothing are needed desperately, also bedding. If the contributors are unable to get the bundles to the Club House, Mrs. Wild will be glad to arrange for their collection. Miss Harriet L. Parsons, the new executive secretary of the Newton Welfare Bureau, will speak for a few minutes at this meeting, and those who have heard Miss Parsons know that her subject will be presented in a concise as well as in an interesting and appealing manner.

Also, in the rear of the Auditorium a member of the Red Cross will be present with yarn which she will distribute, with instructions for knitting, to those who are willing to help with this necessary work. The annual collection to help defray the expenses of the Christmas Party will be asked for during the afternoon.

At the close of the program, Tea will be served in Social Hall, with the following members pourers: Mrs. Walter P. Marsh, Mrs. Raymond Tucker, and Mrs. Robert Whitehill. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. John R. Clark, Mrs. Georgedna M. Harlow, and Mrs. George I. Whitehead.

The Christmas Party committee will have on display, in the Board Room and on the stage, garments which have been completed for gifts for the Annual Party.

Story of Stained Glass Is Topic

Over eighty hand-colored slides, luminous in color and bold in design, will illustrate the lecture "The Story of Stained Glass Told in Color", by Joseph G. Reynolds, Jr., at the meeting of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon, December 4th, at which meeting Mrs. John F. Capron, Twelfth District director, will be a guest.

Mr. Reynolds is a graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design, a master-craftsman, medallist, and a life member of the Boston Society of Arts and Crafts. His lecture illustrates not only how a stained glass window is made but the difference between good and bad windows.

A basket collection will be taken at this meeting, to assist the Community Service committee in their local distribution of Christmas Baskets.

Attractive Program Of Tableaux

At the next meeting of the Community Service Club of West Newton to be held December 5th in the Parish House of the Second Church, a program of "Book Portraits" will be presented. These colorful and picturesque tableaux, posed by local talent, will cover various types and periods of literature. Added interest will be given by readings by Mrs. W. S. Railsback and incidental music arranged by Mrs. Frank S. Tower. In addition to these members the committee arranging for the meeting consists of Mrs. Davis M. deBard, Miss Barbara Lippincott, Mrs. Francis Newhall, Mrs. Warner V. Taylor, Mrs. Quincy W. Wales, and Mrs. Harold B. Cranshaw, chairman.

Other Events, Past and To Come

Newton Community Club

Adele Hoes Lee's attractive presentation of the play "Paris Bound" was received with great appreciation by her audience, at the meeting of the Newton Community Club on November 22nd. Mrs. Lee's interpretation of each character was excellent, as she portrayed both the folly and the wisdom shown in meeting and solving some of the difficult problems that confront married life. Philip Barry, the author, has dedicated this play to his most recently married friends.

Entr'acte music was furnished by a trio of talented young Newton musicians, Dorothy and Anna Kovitz, and Norma Olson.

Mrs. William Somerby, Mrs. Alvah Cummings and Mrs. E. P. Leonard, Jr., presided at the tea table.

A Food Sale, in charge of Mrs. Joseph N. Palmer, was held at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Edward O. Loring, of the Conservation committee, announced the following meetings: On December 10th, at 69 Farlow road, at 10:30 a. m., Mrs. Hollis Webster will talk on "Christmas Decorations." On January 25th, at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House, at 10 a. m., Mrs. Walter R. Hine will talk on "Floral Arrangements." On February 11th, at 31 Claremont street, at 10:30 a. m., Prof. H. Linwood White, will talk on "Home-ground Designing." And on March 11th, at 170 Sargent street, at 10:30 a. m., Mrs. C. I. Farrington will talk on "What is New in the Garden." Tickets are reasonably priced and may be obtained for the entire course or for each meeting.

It has been necessary to change the dates for the Rummage Sale sponsored by the Newton Community Club to December 7th and 8th. The building formerly occupied by Kane's Furniture Company will be used, if proper heating facilities can be obtained.

Miss Florence C. Bacon, chairman of Art, announces that the next Trip to the Boston Art Museum will be on December 6th, when the subject to be considered will be the "English Period Rooms." Club members desiring to join in this Trip may secure complete information regarding it from Miss Bacon, by telephoning Newton North 0798-M.

ton Women's Educational Club held on Friday, November 23rd. Mrs. G. Howard Frost, chairman of the Program committee, introduced the speaker. Miss O'Connor, who holds the position of supervisor of Social Service for the Division of Immigration and Americanization of the State Department of Education, has had many years of experience in handling the numerous and varied problems of the foreign-born and their American-born children. The greatest problem of the foreign-born is that of becoming an American in every sense of the word, and it is this difficult problem that is being worked upon by this State Department. After the immigrant succeeds in entering the country, the difficulties of getting his first papers for his naturalization have to be met, and Miss O'Connor explained how the immigrant and his American-born children may be assisted in becoming Americanized.

The Garden Club of the West Newton Women's Educational Club held its November meeting on Monday, the 19th, at the home of Mrs. D. Earle Brackett, in West Newton. One of the most interesting features of the afternoon's program was an Exhibition of Miniature Bouquets. There was a great variety of unusual and artistic combinations of tiny flowers in small containers, and in order to qualify for a prize the flowers with the container could not be more than six inches in height. The first prize was awarded to Mrs. Sidney P. Sargent for a delightful miniature of two small, pale yellow containers holding appropriate flowers and foliage, combined with a tiny ball set in a stand and resembling the decorative glass or metal balls placed in gardens.

There will be no meeting of the Garden Club during December.

Newtonville Garden Club

The Newtonville Garden Club held their regular meeting Thursday morning, November 22nd, at the home of Mrs. James Patterson, of 20 Trowbridge ave. Mrs. C. J. Dunham gave an interesting and timely paper on "Putting the Garden to Bed," and Mrs. Herbert Slade's paper on "Potted Primroses" was also appreciated for its valuable information by the group. The Club voted to join the National Horticultural Society.

Social Science Club

The regular business meeting of the Social Science Club will be held on December 5th, at 10 o'clock, in the Channing Church Parlor. The Conservation committee will present, as speaker, Mr. George B. Rogers, City forester.

Mrs. William G. Lenox and Mrs. O. Hartman will be hostesses.

Newtonville Woman's Club

A new project of the Education committee, of the Newtonville Woman's Club, the series of Conferences being held at the home of Mrs. Cecil W. Clark, is proving of interest to teachers and parents in Newtonville. The chairman of Education, Mrs. Paul E. Elicker, has arranged her programs so that there will be meetings featuring the work of the High, Junior, and Grade Schools. At the first Conference, the group was addressed by Mr. Elicker, principal of the High School, who spoke on "Our Schools of Today," in which he outlined some of the important changes in the system during the past decade, with the reasons therefore. At the Conference held on November 22nd, Miss Charlotte M. Simon spoke on "The Health and Hygiene Program for Girls in the Newton High School," giving a general account of the work which comes under her supervision. Other members of the physical training staff of the faculty also attended, presenting an opportunity for the parents to become acquainted with the teachers and also to gain information through questions regarding this branch of the school's program.

For the next two afternoons, the committee plans programs which will treat with the work of the Junior High grades. Attendance is not restricted to Club members, nor is it restricted only to parents. Any women interested in the Newton Schools are invited. Tea is served at the close of the question period. There is no admission fee.

West Newton Community Service Club

The Community Service Club of West Newton has had two delightful meetings recently. On Monday afternoon, November 19th, one of these social events which mean so much in furthering acquaintance and friendliness took form in a group of six card parties which gave great pleasure to those who attended. The Club members who graciously opened their homes for these parties were Mrs. Harry S. Baldwin, Mrs. Paul F. Nauder, Mrs. Holcombe J. Brown, Mrs. George F. Earnshaw, Mrs. George W. Eddy and Mrs. William M. Morgan. Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the play, and tiny plants, so much in vogue just now, were given as favors. The afternoon was arranged by a committee headed by Mrs. William I. Butcher.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Club held on Wednesday, November 21st, the members and guests were privileged to hear Cornelia James Cannon speak on "Creative Writing." Mrs. Cannon divided the process of writing into four periods; preparation, in which period the ideas and ideals and mental pictures are roughly assembled; incubation, when the mental processes gather these materials into a definite plan; illumination, which brings the fruition and expression; and verification, which is the final check up. The necessity and the results of each of these distinct periods were explained, and the methods, by which various ones of our best known and best loved writers have approached their tasks, were brought out with such intimate personal anecdotes that these personalities, as reflected in their writings, achieved a new reality. Mrs. Cannon gave many humorous stories of her own writing experiences and charmed her audience by the delightful informality of her talk.

Mrs. William P. Helms and her able committee served coffee in the social hour which followed the meeting and Mrs. Edward W. Whorf directed a Food Sale.

Auburndale Junior Woman's Club

The Auburndale Juniors are having a most enjoyable time this year. They began their season with a meeting at the home of Shirley and Betty Ferguson, 12 Prairie avenue, at which Mrs. A. Chesley York, vice-chairman of the Junior Membership committee of the State Federation, spoke on "The Land of the Cherry Blossoms." Their next meeting, a very informal one, was held at 96 Hawthorne avenue, with Cora May Farrier, Junior Club president, entertaining. This was a business meeting at which plans were made for their Hallowe'en Scavenger Hunt. Jean Budding, of Commonwealth avenue, was hostess that evening and the hunt caused much hilarity. The Junior adviser, Mrs. McCarron, of 85 Islington road, opened her home for the next meeting when plans were discussed for bowling and swimming parties and for the Christmas Dance, to be held December 5th, after which Mrs. Robert Parmenter, adviser to the State Junior department, told about her trip to Labrador. This address was accompanied by moving pictures and many beautiful lantern slides.

Mrs. Henry Hildreth, second vice-president of the State Federation, also will speak.

Massachusetts is to have the honor and pleasure of having the National Club president, their own Grace Morrison Poole as guest speaker at the Club Institute on December 6th, at 10:30 a. m., in the Auditorium of the Boston Y. W. C. A. She will take for her subject, "The Last Six Months." Mrs. Thomas J. Walker will introduce her. Mrs. John H. Kimball, first vice-president of the State Federation, and Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, director of the Citizens' Bureau of Woman's Home Companion, will give greetings. Others to be heard from are Club presidents who will speak on such topics as "What Can Clubs Expect from the Federation?" "The Club and the Community"; "Activities of My Club"; "The Value of Well-Conducted Publicity"; and "Courtesies Due Club Members From Club Members." Mrs. George A. Mellen, chairman of Club Institutes, will open and close the program. A lesson in Parliamentary Procedure will be given by Mrs. Emerson Whitman, of Everett.

Waban Woman's Club

At the regular meeting of the Waban Woman's Club to be held on December 3rd, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Neighborhood Club House, Dr. Bruno Roselli will speak on "Danger Zones in Europe." Dr. Roselli received the rank of Officer of the Crown of Italy for his services during the World War and has since been made a Knight Commander. He came to Vassar College as head of the Italian Department twelve years ago. He has returned to Europe each summer and comes back this year especially prepared to talk about the present situations. The Tea which will be the social hour will be in charge of Mrs. John M. Powell.

The Music committee of the Waban Woman's Club, Mrs. Ernest A. Hale, chairman, arranged a morning Musicale for club members on Friday, November 23rd, at the home of Mrs. James D. Dow, of Chestnut street. Dean Marshall, of the College of Music of Boston University, spoke on "Music Appreciation," and Miss Stearns, a pupil at the College of Music, played two piano solos.

Under the auspices of the Education committee, Mrs. Carl F. Danner, chairman, Bertram E. Adams gave an hour of magic Saturday afternoon, November 24th, at the Angier School Auditorium.

Newton Federation

The monthly meeting of the Executive Board of the Newton Federation was held Monday morning, November 26th, at 10 o'clock, in the Newton Library, with Mrs. Charles C. Willson, president, presiding. Among reports from the various committee chairmen on the Round Tables at the Fall Meeting, November 15th, Mrs. Joseph C. McCarron, vice-chairman of the Community Service committee, spoke principally of the desperate need of clothing that cannot be made by the women who are sewing, especially of outer clothing for men and children.

The Conservation committee chairman, Mrs. Edwin H. Dyer, reported that the subject of a Garden Visiting day in the spring will be taken up in each affiliated club.

Mrs. Raymond Green, chairman of the Educational committee, stated that she still has some free tickets available for the Kiwanis and Rotary meeting at the High School. Mrs. Green also told how the Federation is co-operating with Mr Elicker for an Open Night at the High School, the date for which has been set back from April to January 9th. It was finally decided to ask each club president to have fifteen members from her club serve as hostesses.

Mrs. Alexander I. Peckham, chairman of the Legislative committee, reported a very successful Round Table, with all but two affiliated clubs represented, and also reported all of the club presidents very much interested in legislative matters. Mrs. Peckham advised that, in order to interest club members as a whole, it was necessary for club presidents to give their legislative chairmen more time to speak to inform them on legislative matters.

Mrs. Benjamin D. Miller, chairman of the Luncheon committee at the Fall Meeting, and Mrs. Victor P. Ratzburg, Program chairman, thanked the Federation chairmen for their cooperation and kindness.

Mrs. George R. Loud reported very worthwhile discussions on the different methods of publicity and of press requirements.

The Board was much interested in the Public Health Round Table held at the State Federation meeting in Framingham, attended by Mrs. A. H. Shannon and two members of her committee; also in the survey, copies of which are being made and which includes one for the Newton Federation. Mrs. Shannon reported that twenty-five women were present, and seemed very much interested in her Round Table at the fall meeting of November 15th, and that Dr. Diez, the speaker, qualified one hundred per cent.

In the absence of Mrs. Ernest Cobb, chairman of Motion Pictures, Mrs. David Black gave the high spots of the Motion Picture Round Table, such as: The problem of mothers using the motion picture houses, even Newton mothers, as an afternoon nursery, was discussed. Mr. Leslie Bendslev, of the Wellesley Community Theatre, described the block system and the difficulties in satisfying his audience. The question of different localities was touched upon, as one picture recently shown in Newton and Needham to crowded houses was a considerable loss the theatres in Chelsea. Mr. C. E. Churchill, principal of the Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls, told of the very successful use of the moving picture to the children in the study of geography, and other school subjects.

The International Relations committee Chairman, Mrs. J. Porter Russell, also reported a very interesting and well attended Round Table.

Miss Elizabeth P. Bartlett, chairman of Christmas Seals, advised that all club members would receive the Christas Health Seals in the first mail Friday morning. This is the largest piece of health work that the Federation does and all club members are asked to help as much as possible by taking the whole or at least a part, of the sheet of stamps.

Bridge Tea To Benefit Student Aid

Friends and alumnae of Wellesley College are looking forward to an interesting afternoon on Wednesday, when they will gather at a Bridge Tea, sponsored by the Boston Wellesley College Club to Benefit the Students' Aid Society, to be given at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Leslie D. Hawkridge of 230 Dudley road, Newton Centre.

Mrs. George N. Ricker, of Marblehead, General chairman of the Bridge Teas, is assisted in the Newton district by Mrs. Theron B. Walker, Mrs. P. W. Dalrymple, Mrs. A. H. Elder, and Mrs. Ernest Fisher, all of Newton Centre; Mrs. Richard Collins, of Newton Highlands; Mrs. Roger Weeks, of Newton, and Mrs. William Carroll Hill, of Auburndale.

Other Bridge Teas are being held in other suburbs of Boston.

For the convenience of business and professional women who are busy during the week, and for others who find Saturday a more convenient day, a Saturday afternoon Bridge Tea has been arranged at 204 Prospect street, Belmont, with Miss Barbara Hall as hostess. Miss Elizabeth Wetherbee, of Newton Highlands, is assisting with this Tea.

The profits from these functions will go to the Wellesley Students' Aid Society. Last year the Alumnae contributed $19,500.00 and loans were repaid to the extent of $8215.00. These funds were stretched with great ingenuity to cover the financial needs of 141 girls, in gifts and loans of various sizes. Advice is given as to summer jobs and other means of self-help, and gifts of text books, laboratory equipment, and clothes, helped to keep many in college.

Fire at City Stables in West Newton

The plant of the Street Department at Auburndale ave., West Newton, was the scene of fire early Tuesday morning which caused damage estimated at about $1000. The blaze was discovered in the blacksmith shop at 4:20 by John McGough, night watchman at the stables. This shop is located in a large wooden shed at the rear of the brick stable where a bad fire occurred several years ago. An alarm was pulled from Box 315 at 4:21 A. M. and a second alarm was ordered at 4:27 when the blaze spread rapidly. The cause of the fire is not known, but Chief Randlett expressed the opinion that it might have started from an overheated stove or it might be incendiary. While the firemen were at this fire someone pulled a false alarm from Box 48 on Auburndale ave., about half a mile from the city stables.

Christmas Seal Sale Starts Today

sociation's history a commemorative Christmas Seal has been published for the 1934 sale to mark the 50th anniversary of the founding at Saranac Lake by Dr. Trudeau of his now world-famous Sanatorium. The little cottage which Dr. Trudeau built to accommodate his first two patients is still standing. It is reproduced on the 1934 Christmas Seal. From this small beginning has grown the Nation-wide movement for the control of tuberculosis with more than 600 Sanatoria in the United States and 2,000 Tuberculosis Associations.

What Washington's Birthday is to us as citizens, Dr. Trudeau's birthday is to us as tuberculosis workers. Edward Livingston Trudeau is the father of tuberculosis prevention work in cur country.

Dr. Trudeau was a young man living in New York City just beginning his medical career when he became ill and his ailment was diagnosed as tuberculosis. Dr. Trudeau went to the Adirondack Mountains to live in the open, wishing to end his days in the pursuits most pleasant to him, hunting and fishing. But he got better. He noticed that often after exercise he became worse, and that after resting he improved. He lived, in his own life, a demonstration, and not altogether an accidental demonstration, of the way to fight tuberculosis. Had he not been a trained observer, competent to interpret his own symptoms, and entitled to a hearing by his fellow doctors and the public because of his professional training, his experience might never have been recognized by himself, or accorded acceptance by the world.
